GOVERNMENT OF INDIA

ARCHÆOLOGICAL SURVEY OF INDIA

ARCHÆOLOGICAL LIBRARY

ACCESSION NO. 13376

CALL No. 937.06/Gib

D.G.A. 79

HISTORY

OF THE

DECLINE AND FALL

CIGRAS W

OF THE

ROMAN EMPIRE.

By EDWARD GIRBON, Esq.

IN TWELVE VOLUMES.

VOL. XII.

937:06 Gib A NEW EDITION.

GA 16 SO

EDINBURGH:

PRINTED FOR BILL AND BRADEWIT, SEVER BILL, SIATESTER BOVE

1511.

CONTENTS

" me wat "

TWELFTH VOLUME.

CHAP. LXV.

Elevation of Timour or Tamerlane to the throne of Samarcand—His conquests in Persia, Georgia, Taviary, Russia, India, Syria, and Anatolia.—His Turkish war.—Defeat and explicitly of Rojacet.—Death of Timour.—Civil wars of the sons of Bojacet.—Restriction of the Turkish monarchy by Muhamet the first.—Siege of Constantinople by Americal the second.

A.D.	Page
Histories of Timoun, or Tamerlane, _ 1361-1370. His first alcentures.
1370 He ascends the throne of Zagatai, -	-
1370-1400. His conquests,	7
1380-1391. I: Of Persia,	ib.
1370-1383, 11. Of Turkestan,	ib.
TUTALISM OF V. L. D.	- 9
15 0-1300. Of Kipzak, Rustia, &c	- 10
1398, 1 her. III. Of Hindown,	13
1400 His war against Sultan Bajaret,	16
Tin.our jurades Syria,	20
Sacks Aleppo,	-,21
1401 Damescus,	23
And Bagdarl,	24
1402 Invades Anatolia,	25
Battle of Augora,	200
Defeat and captivity of Bajaret,	26
The story of his resument district to the	28
The story of his trop cage dispressed by the Pu
- The constraint of A lineary	30

A12

N. C.	Paper.
A.D. Attested, I. by the French,	32
2. by the Italians,	33
3. by the Arabs,	34
, 4. by the Greeks,	35
- the the Porks	ib.
, 5. by the Turks, -	ъ.
Probable conclusion.	36
1403 Death of Bajazet,	ib.
Term of the conquests of Timour,	40
1404, 1405. His triumph at Samarcand, -	42
1405 His death on the road to China, -	ib.
Character and merita of Timour,	47
1403-1431. Civil wars of the sous of Bajazet,	Ъ.
t. Mustapha,
2. Im, -	48
1403-1410. 3. Solimus,	49
1410 4. Monta	ib.
1413-1421, 5. Maliomet I,	80
149 (41 IS), Reign of Amurath II,	51
1421 Resumon of the Ottoman empire,	ib.
1 103 - 1 125. State of the Greek empire, -	63
1392 Siere of Constantinople by Amurati 11,	50
The emporer John Paigologiu 41,	57
Hereditary succession and morit of the Ottomans	, ilı,
Education and discipline of the Turks,	58
Invention and use of gaupowder,	.62
THE CHARLES WHO WHEN BOTH TO THE TANK T

CHAP, LXVL

Application of the Eastern emperors to the poper. While to the West, of John the first, Manuel, and John the second, Palandogue. Union of the Greek and Latin churches, promoted by the council of Basil, and concluded at Ference and Planence. State of literature at Constantinople. Its vertical in Italy by the Greek fagitives. Cariosity and emulation of the Latins.

Page

A. D. 1339 Embusy of the younger Andronicus to pope Benedict XII, CONTENTS:

U.D.	Pig
The arguments for a crusade and union,	66
13-18 Negotiation of Cantacurene with Clement VI,	60
1355 Treaty of John Palmologus I, with Innocent VI	72
1369 Visit of John Palzologus to Urbin V, at Rome	, 74
1370 His return to Constantmople,	77
Visit of the emperor Manuel,	ili,
1400 To the court of France,	28
Of England,	80
1402 His return to Greece,	81
Greek knowledge and descriptions, -	ib.
Of Germany,	82
Of France,	8.8
Of England,	84
1402-1417. Indifference of Mannel towards the Latin	4 B6
1417-1425. His negotiations,	67
His private motives,	86
Hii death,	80
1425-1437. Zeal of John Paleologus II.	00
Corruption of the Latin church,	91
1377-1429. Schim,	02
1409. Council of Pisa,	ib.
1414-1419. Of Constance,	ib.
1431-1443, Of Baill,	133
Their opposition to Eugenius IV	ib.
1434-1437. Negotiations with the Greeks.	04
1437 John Palgologus embarks in the pone's gallies.	05
1438 His triumphal entry at Venice, -	100
into Ferrara,	101
1438-1430 Council of the Greeks and Latins at Ferrara and Florence,	103
Negotistions with the Greeks, -	108
1438 Engenno deposed at Bank,	111
Re-inion of the Greeks at Florence, -	ib
1440 Their return to Constantinuple, -	113
1419 Final peace of the church,	111
1300-1453. State of the Greek language at Constanimople.	ib.
Comparison of the Greeks and Latins, -	116
Revival of the Greek learning in Italy	110
1339 Leasure of Burkam, -	120

4.75

	Page
6. D. 1330-1374. Studies of Perrarch,	121
ship Of Bionese	123
1960-1965. Leo Pilatus, hest Greek professor at Ple-	1 weeks, and in the Wells	124
secretation of the Greek language in	77.
Italy by Manuel Chryseloras, -	125
1400-1500. The Greeks in Italy,	1118
Cardinal Bestarion, &c *	129
Their faults and merits,	130
The Platonic philosophy,	732
Emulation and progress of the Latins, -	134
*APPARASS: Nicholm V	ıb.
1428-1402. Comm and Lorenzo of Medicis, +	135
Use and abuse of ancient learning,	138
CHAP. LXVII.
Schinn of the Greeks and Latins Reign and ch	aravter of American the recond - Crurade of Ladistan	E THE
The second of the Laborate Code He	N. P. S. L. V. B. S. S.
of Hangark. His defical and delicas some say	minutes of Hangary. His defeat and death, John Ha Scanderbeg - Constanting Palarlogue, last e	minuter mperu
-Scanderbeg - Constantine Palariogue, tast e	mperu
Scandering Constantine Palaringus, tast e of the East-	mperu
Scandering Constantine Palaringur, tast e of the East.	Pag
Scandering - Constanting Palacingus, that e of the East. A. D. Comparison of Rome and Constantinople,	Pag 14
Scandering — Constanting Palaringus, that e of the East. A.D. Comparison of Rome and Constantinople, 1440-1448. The Greek schiam after the council s	Pag 14
Scandering — Constanting Palaringus, that e of the East. A.D. Comparison of Rome and Constantinople, 1440-1448. The Greek scham after the council of Florroce.	Pag 14
Scandering — Constanting Palaringus, that e of the East. A.D. Comparison of Rome and Constantinople, 1440-1448. The Greek schiam after the council of Florroce. Zeal of the Orientals and Russims,	Pag 14 14
Scandering — Constanting Palaringus, that e of the East. A.D. Comparison of Rome and Constantinople, 1440-1448. The Greek scham after the council of Florence. Zeal of the Orientals and Russims, 1421-1451. Reign and character of Amurath II,	Fag 14.0f 14.15
Scandering — Constanting Palaringus, that e of the East. A.D. Comparison of Rome and Constantinople, 1440-1448. The Greek scham after the council of Florence. Zeal of the Orientals and Russians, 1421-1431. Reign and character of Amurath II, 1442-1444. His double abdication,	Fog 14
Scandering — Constanting Palacringus, that e of the East. A. D. Comparison of Rome and Constantinople, 1440-1448. The Greek scheme after the council of Florence. Zeal of the Orientals and Russims, 1421-1451. Reign and character of America II, 1442-1444. His double abdication, 1453 Eugenina forms a league against the Torks,	Fag 14. of 14. 15. 15.
Scandering — Constantine Palacriegus, that e of the East. A. D. Comparison of Rome and Constantinople, 1440-1448. The Greek schoon after the council of Florocce. Zeal of the Orientals and Russims, 1421-1451. Reign and character of Amurath II, 1442-1444. His double abdication, 1433 Engesins forms a league against the Torks, Ladislans, king of Poland and Hungary, mark	Fag 14. of 14. 15. 15.
Scandering — Constantine Palacringus, that e of the East. A. D. Comparison of Rome and Constantinople, 1440-1448. The Greek schoon after the council of Florocce. Zeal of the Crientals and Russims, 1421-1451. Reign and character of Amurath II, 1442-1444. His double abdication, 1433 Engesins forms a league against the Torks, Ladislans, king of Poland and Hungary, mark against them,	Fog 14. of 14. 15. 15. 15. hes.
Scandering — Constantine Palacriegar, that e of the East. A. D. Comparison of Rome and Constantinople, 1440-1448. The Greek schoon after the council of Florocce. Zeal of the Crientals and Russims, 1421-1451. Reign and character of Amurath II, 1442-1444. His double abdication, 1433 Engesins forms a league against the Torks, Ladislans, king of Poland and Hungary, mare against them, The Turkish prace,	Fag 14. of 14. 15. 15. 15.
Scandering — Constantine Palacriegar, that e of the East. A. D. Comparison of Rome and Constantinople, 1440-1448. The Greek school after the council of Florence. Zeal of the Orientals and Russims, 1421-1451. Reign and character of Amurath II, 1442-1444. His double abdication, 1448 Engesims forms a league against the Torks, Ladislans, king of Poland and Hungary, mark against them, The Turkish prace, 1444 Violation of the peace,	Pag 14 of 14 15 15 15 15 hes 35
Scandering — Constantine Palacriegar, that e of the East. A. D. Comparison of Rome and Constantinople, 1440-1448. The Greek schoon after the council of Florence. Zeal of the Orientals and Russims, 1421-1451. Reign and character of Amurath II, 1442-1444. His double abdication, 1448 Engesims forms a league against the Torks, Ladislans, king of Poland and Hungary, mark against them, The Turkish prace, 1444 Violation of the peace, Buttle of Warns,	Pag 14 of 14 15 15 15 hes 15 15
Scandering — Constantine Palacriegar, that e of the East. A. D. Comparison of Rome and Constantinople, 1440-1448. The Greek school after the consoil of Florence. Zeal of the Orientals and Russians, 1421-1451. Reign and character of Amurath II, 1442-1444. His double abdication, 1448 Eugenius forms a league against the Torks, Ladislans, king of Poland and Hungary, mark against them, The Turkish prace, 1444 Violation of the peace, Buttle of Warns, Death of Lamislans,	Fag 14 of 14 14 15 15 15 15 15 11
Scandering — Constantine Palacriegar, that e of the East. A. D. Comparison of Rome and Constantinople, 1440-1448. The Greek school after the consoil of Florence. Zeal of the Orientals and Russians, 1421-1451. Reign and character of Amurath II, 1442-1444. His double abdication, 1448 Eugenius forms a league against the Torks, Ladislans, king of Poland and Hungary, mare against them, The Turkish prace, 1444 Violation of the peace, Buttle of Warns, Death of Ladislans, The cardinal Julian,	Fag 14 of 14 14 15 15 15 15 16 11 10
Scandering — Constantine Palacriegar, that e of the East. A. D. Comparison of Rome and Constantinople, 1440-1448. The Greek school after the consoil of Florence. Zeal of the Orientals and Russians, 1421-1451. Reign and character of Amurath II, 1442-1444. His double abdication, 1448 Eugenius forms a league against the Torks, Ladislans, king of Poland and Hungary, mark against them, The Turkish prace, 1444 Violation of the peace, Buttle of Warns, Death of Lamislans,	Fag 14 of 14 14 15 15 15 15 16 11 10 10

COMMENTS.	144
A D.	Page
1404-1413. Birth and education of Scanderbeg, prince of Albania,	166
1443 His revolt from the Turks, -	171
His valout,	172
1467 And death,	174
1448-1458. Constantine, the last of the Roman or Greek emperors	173
1450-1452. Embassies of Phranes,	177
State of the Byzantine court,	180
CHAP. LXVIII.
Reign and character of Mahamet the second Siege sault, and final compared of Constantinopie by the T	3000
-Death of Constructive Polatologue - Servitude v	CAR.
Greaks Extinction of the Roman empire in the) the
-Consternation of Burape, -Gonquests and done	SHEET.
Mahamet the Second.	A of
Character of Malsomet II.	Page
Land Long The State of Maliomet II,	182
1491-1481. His reign,	184
1451 Flostile intentions of Mahomet,	167
1452 He builds a fortress on the Bosphorus, -	191
The Turkish war,	193
1452, 1452. Preparations for the siege of Constantinople,
The great cannon of Mahamet,	197
1423 Malmmet II forms the sarge of Constantinople,	200
Foress of the Turks,	203
Gurle,	2003
452 False union of this two churches	200
Obstinacy and familician of the Greeks,	206
453 Siege of Constantinople by Mahomet II,	200
Attack and dalence,	313
Succour and victory of four ships, -	214
Mahomet transports his may over land,	219:
Districts of the city,	221
Preparations of the Turks for the general small,	225
Last farewell of the emperor and the Greeks,	224
The general annult,	225

	Page.
A. D. Death of the emperor Constantine Palsologus,	231
Loss of the city and empire,	iliv
The Turks enter and pillage Constantinople,	232
Captivity of the Greeks,	233
Amount of the spoil,	236
Mahomet II suits the city, St. Suphia, the 239
pulace, &c. His behaviour to the Greeks,	241
He repeoples and adorne Constantinople;	243 Extinction of the imperial families of Comnenus and Palmologus,	246
1400 Lass of the Mores,	248
1461 — of Trefricand,	249
1453 Grief and turror of Europes	251
1481 Death of Mahomet II,	231
1401 Death of Manney
CHAP, LXIX.
Chartenan
State of Rome from the twelfth century Tempur	al do-minimum of the paters Southern of the city Po	CLEANING.
acres of Armeld of Pressure Restoration of the	reputti-
1 The sentitors - Printe of the Romans - These	WHITE.
They are depriced of the election and presence	of the towns, who retire to Avignon. The jubilee. No	hec sumilles of Rame Frud of the Colonna and Urtini	171
	Page
a. D. 1100-1500 State and revolutions of Rome, -	250 800-1100. The French and German emperors of Rome	259
Ambority of the poper in Home,	200
From affection,	lib.
— right, — — —	261
wirtue,	ib.
Leonifity -	201
Inconstancy of superstition,	263
Sections of Rome against the popes, -	264
1086-1803. Successors of Gregory VII.	206
1000-1118. Paschal II	167
1118-1119. Gelasius II,	ib
1774 1745 Taoin II	200

200	100	_	_	85	85	-
	ua		ж.	з.	æ	-

A. D.	Tage
1181-1185, Lucius III,	200
1119-1124: Calistus II,	ib.
1130-1143. Imagent II,	ib.
Character of the Romans by St. Bernard,	270
1140 Political heresy of Arnold of Brescia, -	271
1144-1154. He exhorts the Romans to restore the republic,	274
1155 His execution,	376
1144 Restoration of the senate	277
The capitol,	280
The cuie,	281
The prefect of the city,	282
Number and choice of the senate, -	983
The office of senator,	285
1252-1258 Brancaleune,	286
1265-1278 Charles of Anjun,	285
1281 Pope Martin IV.	289
1928 The emperor Lewis of Bavaria,	ib.
Addresses of Rome to the emperors,	290
1144 Contrad III,	Th.
1755 Frederic I	291
Wars of the Romans against the neighbouring cities, -	206
1167 Battle of Timeulum, -	298
1234 of Viterbo,	200
The election of the popes,	sb.
1179 Right of the cardinals established by Alexander
III.	200
1274 Institution of the conclave by Gregory X.	3001
Absence of the popes from Rome, -	304
1294-1303: Bomface VIII	303
2309 Translation of the body see to Avignou,	307
1300 Institution of the jubilee, or holy year, -	310
1350 The second jubilee,	212
The nobles or barons of Rome, -	312
Family of Leo the Jew,	515
The Colonia,	316
And Urami,	320
Their hereditary feeds,	222

CHAP. LXX.

hurmeter underconntion of Petrarch.—Restoration of the freedom and government of Rome by the criticus Ringis.

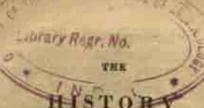

—1711 virtues and virts, his expulsion and doubt,—Resturn of the popes from Avignon.—Freed schim of the West.—Resumon of the Latin charch.—Lant stringgles of Roman liberty.—Statutes of Roma.—Fraul settlement of the ecclerisatival state.

A. D.	Page
1504-1374. Petrarch,	324
1341 His poetic coronation at Rome, -	328
Birth, character, and patriotic designs of R	ienni, 331
1347 He assumes the government of Rome,	- 334
With the title and office of without,	330
Laws of the good estate,	16.
Freedom and prosperity of the Roman rep	ubbe, 339
The tribuse is respected in Italy, &c.	- 342
And celebrated by Petrarch, -	343
His view and fallies,	344
The pemp of his knighthood, -	340
And coronation,	349
Fear and hatred of the nobles of Rome,	340
They oppose Rienzi in arms,	951
Defrat and death of the Colonna, -	35%
Fall and flight of the tribune Rienzi,	- 354
1347-1334. Revolutions of Rome	936
Adventures of Rimei, +	357
1351 A prisoner at Asignan, -	- 355
Table Riennia senttor of Rome, -	359
His death,	302
$355 Ferrarchisvites and uplicated the emperor Ch	schoolV, ib-
He solicits the puper of Avignos to fix 1
shlence at Rome.	363
1367-1370. Return of Urban V	365
1377 Final cetum of Gregory XI, -	ib
auge His demle,	307
Election of Urhan VI, -	865

CONTENTS.	19
A D	Yap
Election of Clement VII,	308
1378-1419. Great schism of the West, -	371
Calamities of Rums,	ib
1393-1407. Negotiations for peace and union,	375
1409 Conneil of Pisa,	371
1414-1418. Council of Constance	ib
Election of Martin V, -	377
#417 Martin V.	378
1431 Engenius IV.	ih
1442 Nicholas V,	ib
1434 Last revolt of Rome,	ib
1452 Last coronation of a German emperor, Frederic
III,	379
The statutes and government of Rome,	380
1453 Conspiracy of Porcaro, -	383
Last disorders of the nobles of Rome,	380
1500 The poper acquire the absolute dominion of Rom
The ecclesiastical guvernment, -	591
1575-1590. Sixtus V	1103
	-
CHAP, LXXI,
Prospect of the rains of Rome in the fifteenh centu	FU
Four causes of decay and destruction Example	of the Collegum - Renovation of the city Conclusion .	f the whole mark.
A. D.	Pigs
1430 View and discourse of Poggius from the Capitolina
hill,	293
His description of the ruins,	397
Gradual decay of Rome.	309
Four causes of destruction, -	:400
I. The injuries of nature,	īb.
Hurricanes and earthquakes,	401
Fires.	B.
Inundations,	400
II. The hourile attacks of the Barburians and	1
Christians, -	403

CONTENTS-

				- Winner
Av.D.				Rags
HE T	he use and above	of the matern	Lidei	405
	be domestic quar			433
The co	dimum or amphit	hentre of Titt	Ha.	410
	of Romes		-	420
	feast in the colis	munt,	W	421
Lujuris		-		423
- And co	meccration of the	colinma	-	425
Limora	nce and hurbarism	of the Rom	nns,	ih.
	stion and omane			425
	ouclmim,	-	-	433

OF THE

DECLINE AND FALL

OF THE

ROMAN EMPIRE.

CHAP. LXV.

Elevation of Timour, or Tamerlane, to the throne of Samarcand,—His conquests in Persia, Georgia, Tartary, Russia, India, Syria, and Anatolia.—His Turkish war,—Defeat and capticity of Bajaset.—Death of Timour.—Civil war of the sons of Bajaset.—Restoration of the Turkish monarchy by Mahomet the first.—Siege of Constantinople by Anniath the second.

The conquest and monarchy of the world CHAP.

was the first object of the ambition of Timour.

To live in the memory and esteem of future manages ages was the second wish of his magnanimous of Timour, spirit. All the civil and military transactions of his reign were diligently recorded in the jour-

VOL. XII.

W

unis of his secretaries? the authentic narrative was revised by the persons best informed of each particular transaction; and it is believed in the empire and family of 'Fimour, that the monarch himself composed the commentaries' of his life, and the institutions of his government." But these cares were ineffectual for the preservation of his fame, and these precious memorials in the Mogul or Persian language were concealed from the world, or at least from the knowledge of Eu-

* These jengeds were comparationed to Specifician, or Chemicaldia All, 2 desire of Year, who composed in the Preside language a history of Tunor Birg, which has been unrelated tota French by M. Petis de la Geoia (Paris, 1772, in 4 and, 17mo), and has always been my falthful galde. Here, 1995, and shounded are wenderfully accuste; and he may be trioted for galdic facts, though he servibily problem the victus and fortune of the time. Thouse's internion to provure intelligence from his even and foreign countries may be seen in the Institutions, p. 215, 217, 319, 351.

These commentaries are per undersoon in Energies but Mr. White gives some tops that they may be imported and remodered by his friend Major Dary, who and mad in the fact this "minimum and frithms, for currentlys of an intercetting and evaluating period."

"Y am ignormal relation the original and introduction, in the Turklish or Maguil language, the still estant. The Persis version, with an Hag leb translation and a most estantic index, were published (Oxford, 1783), in they by the joint inhours of Major Dayy, and Mr. Writte, the Arable processor. This work has been strice translated from the Persix into Francia (Peris, 1787) by M. Langles, a featural Oxionalist, who has added the life of Thomas, and many animis pours.

"Since Afford, the present Magni, remis, rature, but came titulence, the indistribute of his great measure. The English translation selection (the first measure) are superior obsculd are of front management, they will not be indistrible by Major Dray's latter. The Chieffeld bare were width and the art of criticisms also partrayage of a prices, less happarently perhaps, is not has increasive than that of a books lart; over sea it has deemed increallish, that a Presing, the part nother, should emount the credit, its concentration of the species.

212 25

rope. The nations which he vanquished exercised CHAP. a luse and impotent recenged and ignorance bas long repeated the tales of calumny," which had disfigured the hirth and character, the person, and even the name, of Tamerlane, Yet his real merit would be enhanced, rather than debased; by the elevation of a peasant to the throne of Asia; nor can his lameness be a theme of reprouch, unless he had the weakness to blash at a natural, or perhaps an honourable, infirmity.

In the eyes of the Mogals, who held the indefeasible succession of the house of Zingis, he was doubtless a rebel subject; yet he sprang from the noble tribe of Berlass: his fifth ancestor, Carashar Neviau, had been the vizir of Zagatai, in his new realm of Transortann; and in the ascent of some generations, the branch of Timour is confounded, at least by the females," with the [&]quot; The original of the fale is found in the following work, which is turn's estamosal for the flored elegence of styles Abuselo Ambonder (Alimed Ebn Arabidistip Fire of Horses gustaress Timeria, Ambios et Lattice Edicit Research Heaviers Mangers: Principarine, 1707, 2 tems is quarte. This Syrim surface is over a malletons, and often an ignocorout, entroy of the every chiles of his chapters are imperious? as how the michod, as new the implicate, as how the other, doc. The explores article of Timer, is Bibliotempte Octopide, is of a mixed nature, as d'(ferieget indifferentty draws tils mitterials qu. 877-888) from Khondentity Line Selections, and the Labourthia.

f Please of Four supplies, in the Tunkish Requests, Iron 1 and Roy is the apperliables of a lord or power. By the change of a lexist or accent, it is changed into Lenc or Lenn ; and w Rampeau description continueds the two words in the sums of Tameriana.

^{*} After relating some fides and facility rates of Timour Law, Arrivshots to summedied to speck truth, and to corn him the a kineman of Mouse, see ambieres (as his previously saids) flagment Symme (pare't, 6.1 p. 25). The restlinery of Alargeri Khan game 5, p v. s. s, 4) as there unquestionable, and decisive, imperial stem. He was born forty miles to the south of Samarcand, in the village of Sebzar, in the fruitful territory of Cash, of which his fathers were the hereditary chiefs, as well as of a toman of ten thousand horse. His hirth was cast on one of those periods of anarchy which announce the fall of the Asiatic dynasties, and open a new field to adventurous ambition. The khans of Zagatai were extinct; the emirs aspired to independence; and their domestic feuds could only be suspended by the conquest and tyranny of the khans of Kashgar, who, with an army of Getes or Caltrescut of mucks, invaded the Transoxian kingdom. From ventures, a. b. 1361, the twelfth year of his age, Timour had entered the field of action; in the twenty-fifth, he stood forth as the deliverer of his country; and the eyes and

According to our of the policies, the hunth correspond of Zingle, and the which of Timour, were fouthers; and they agreed, that the posterity of the sider chemid succeed to the dignity of them, and that the descendants of the younger absolubility the office of their minister and erroral. This resulting was at least convenient to justify the first steps of Timour's ambition (Institutions, p. 24, 25, from the section attention of Timour's History).

See the preface of Sharefeddin, and Abulfeda's Congruphy (Choresonia, &c. Descriptio, p. 60, 61), in the third sature of Hudson's Minor Greek Geographers.

^{*} See his mailedly in Dr. Ryde (Syntamia Dissertar, torn to p-666), as it was reaf by the autohogors of his grandom Uliudi Beg. He was born, a. a. 135a, April 9, 11° 57° c. a. let. 36. I know not stirrther they can prove the grant conjunction of the planers, from whereas, take other recognized and prophets. Thereas derived the carainne of Saludi Kerna, or teacher of the conjunctions (Bibliot. Grant, p. 570).

In the Institutions of Tomour, these subjects of the home of Kushper are must unproperly styled Ourbegs, in Urbeas, a same schick belongs to conflict beams and country of Tortare (Abelghani, p. v.
c. 5, p. vii. c. 3a. Could I be sum that this word is in the Tueblah original. I would bubbly pressoned that the institutions were demons a contary after the death of Tumour, since the combinious of the Urbeks in Transactions.

wishes of the people were turned towards an hero char. who suffered in their cause. The chiefs of the law and of the army had pledged their salvation to support him with their lives and fortunes; but in the hour of danger they were silent and afraid; and, after waiting seven days on the hills of Samarcand, he retreated to the desert with only sixty horsemen. The fugitives were overtaken by a thousand Getes, whom he repulsed with incredible slaughter, and his enemies were forced to exclaim, " Timour is a wonderful man; fortune and the " divine favour are with him." But in this bloody action his own followers were reduced to ten, a number which was soon diminished by the desertion of three Carizmians. He wandered in the desert with his wife, seven companions, and four horses; and sixty-two days was he plunged in a loathsome dangeon, from whence he escaped by his own courage, and the remorse of the oppressor. After swimming the broad and rapid stream of the Jihoon, or Oxus, he led, during some months, the life of a vagrant and outlaw on the borders of the adjacent states. But his fame shone brighter in adversity; he learned to distinguish the friends of his person, the associates of his fortune, and to apply the various characters of men for their advantage, and, above all, for his own. On his return to his native country, Timour wassuccessively joined by the parties of his confederates, who anxiously sought him in the desert; nor can I refuse to describe, in his pathetic simplicity, one of their fortunate encounters. He presented himself as a guide to three chiefs, who were at the head of seventy borse, " When their eyes fell " upon me," says Timour, " they were ever-" whelmed with joy; and they alighted from " their horses; and they came and kneeled; and they kissed my stirrup. I also came down from " my horse, and took each of them in my arms. " And I put my turban on the head of the first "chief; and my girdle, rich in jewels and " wrought with gold, I bound on the loins of " the second; and the third I clothed in my " own coat. And they wept, and I wept also; and " the hour of prayer was arrived, and we prayed. " And we mounted our horses, and came to my " dwelling; and I collected my people, and made " a feast." His trusty hands were soon increased by the bravest of the tribes; he led them ugainst a superior for; and after some vicisaltudes of war, the Getes were family driven from the kingdom of Transaxiana. He had done much for his own glory; but much remained to be done, much art to be exerted, and some blood to be spilt, before he could teach his equals to obey him as their master. The birth and power of emir Houssein compelled him to accept a vicious and unworthy colleague, whose sister was the best beloved of his wives. Their union was abort and jenious; but the policy of Timour, in their frequent quarrels, exposed his rival to the reproach of injustice and perfidy; and, after a small defeat, Houssein was slain by some sagacious friends, who presumed, for the last time, to disober the commands of their lord. At the age of thirty-four," and in a general diet or conroulted, he was invested with on avimperial command, but he affected to revere the house of Zingis; and while the emir Timour IIs seems reigned over Zagatai and the East, a nominal of Zagata, khan served as a private officer in the armies of - 1310, his servant. A fertile kingdom, five hundred miles in length and in breadth, might have satisfied the ambition of a subject; but Timour aspired to the dominion of the world; and before his death, the crown of Zightni was one of the twenty-seven crowns which he had placed on his head. Without expatiating on the victories of thirty-five companying; without describing the lines of march which he repeatedly traced over the continent of Asia; I shall briefly represent his conquests in, t. Persia; II. Tartury; and, ref. India; and from thence proceed to the more interesting narrative of his Ottoman war.

^{*}The first hook of Shorefoldin as employed on the private life of the here; and he himself, or his secretary (Institutions, p. 3-17), subseque

of honour or zeal, of right or convenience, may be intoreadily found in the jurisprudence of conquerors two.

No somer had Timour re-united to the patrimony to a 1880of Zagatai the dependent countries of Carizme and Candahar, than he turned his eyes towards the kingdoms of Iran or Persia. From the Oxus to the Tigris, that extensive country was left without a lawful sovereign since the death of Abousaid, the last of the descendants of the great enlarges, with pleasure, on the thirteen designs and enterprises which ment truly constituted his personal mirro. It even shows through the dark solvening of Arababah, p. 5, c. 7-32.

The compacts of Persia, Tariniy, and India, are approximated in the second and third books of Sherefeldin, and by Arabshah, c. 13-55. Countly the excellent indexes to the Institutions.

Houlacou. Peace and justice had been banished from the land above forty years; and the Mogul invader might seem to listen to the cries of an oppressed people. Their petty tyrants might have opposed him with confederate arms; they separately stood, and successively fell; and the difference of their fate was only marked by the promptitude of submission, or the obstinacy of resistance. Ibrahim, prince of Shirwan or Albania, kissed the footstool of the imperial throne. His pence-offerings of silks, borses, and jewels; were composed, according to the Tartar fashion, each article of nine pieces; but a critical spectator observed, that there were only eight slaves. " I " myself am the ninth," replied Brahim, who was prepared for the remark; and his flattery was rewarded by the smile of Timour. Mansour, prince of Fars, or the proper Persia, was one of the least powerful, but most dangerous, of his enemies. In a battle under the walls of Shiraz, be broke, with three or four thousand soldiers, the coul, or main body, of thirty thousand horse, where the emperor fought in person. No more than fourteen or fifteen guards remained pear the standard of Timour: he stood firm as a rock, and received on his helmet two weighty strokes of a scymetar;" the Moguls rallied; the head of Mansour was thrown at his feet, and he declared his esteem of the cuar. valour of a foc, by extirpating all the males of so intrepid a race. From Shiraz, his troops advanced to the Persian gulf; and the richness and weakness of Orning were displayed in an annual tribute of six hundred thousand dinars of gold. Bagdad was no longer the city of pence, the seat of the caliphs; but the noblest conquest of Houlacon could not be overlooked by his ambitious successor. The whole course of the Tigris and Euphrates, from the mouth to the sources of those rivers, was reduced to his obedience; he entered Edessa; and the Turkmans of the black sheep were chastised for the sacrilegious pillage of a caravan of Mecen. In the mountains of Georgia, the mative christians still braved the law and the sword of Mahomet; by three expeditions, he obtained the merit of the gazie, or holy war; and the prince of Tellis became his proselyte and friend.

The revenues of the Tartate for the explication number of rand is declared by Abulghani Klims, who, for that remain, divides his Genealogical History into nine parts.

^{*} According to Arababah up 1, c. 28, p. 163), the entered Tiponar ran away to his tent, and hid himself from the paramir of Shah Manmir indee the women's garments. Perhaps Sharefoldin (I, iii, r. 25) has magnified bis courage.

n. A just retaliation might be urged for the more invasion of Turkestan, or the eastern Tartary, a through The dignity of Timour could not embre the last

WE DESH

The blottery of Ormins is not antike that of Tyre. The old sity, no the continuous, was descripted by the Tarines, and these on the grant extensions that the same is a militalization bound, without tends easily or regulation. The kings of Ormins, such is the finding trade and the part indexity, no and at large two interests both in Ferria and Archiva; but they was at first the tributations of the similar of Erroma, and at last wave delite of the relativistic of the similar of Erroma, and at last wave delite of the relativistic of the similar of Erroma, and the two delites of the countries (Marce Polo, L. L., 12, 10, and 7, m. Almifora, Groupen, tohing of Marce Polo, L. L., a. 13, 10, and 7, m. Almifora, Groupen, tohing of Erroma, in Taring, or History of Polo, 202, and the dimension in careful in the first climing or Hamilton, of Landerley Bushbone (1201), ist, 167, or Ambres Cornals (1317), fish 202, 202, and of Orleando Burbbone on 1410, and 313–3181.

cuar, impanity of the Getes; he passed the Silicon, subdued the kingdom of Caslight, and marched seven times into the heart of their country. His most distant camp was two months journey, or four bundred and eighty leagues, to the north-cost of Samarcand; and his emirs, who traversed the river Irtish, engraved in the forests of Siberia a rods memorial of their exploits. The conquest of Kipenk, or the western Tartary, was founded on the double motive of siding the distressed, and chastising the ungrateful. Tootamish, a fugitive prince, was entertained and protected in his court; the ambassadors of Auross Khan were dismissed with an haughty denial, and followed on the same day by the armies of Zagatai; and their success established Toctamish in the Mogul empire of the north. But, after a reign of ten years, the new khan forgot the merits and the strength of his benefactor, the base usurper, as he deemed him, of the sacred rights of the house of Zingis. Through the gates of Derbend, he entered Persia at the head of ninety thousand horse : with the imumerable forces of Kipzak, Bulgaria, Circassia, and Russia, he passed the Sihoon, burnt the palaces of Timour, and compelled him, amidst the winter snows, to contend for Samarcand and organi, his life. After a mild expostulation and a Runia, ac. glorious victory, the emperor resolved on revenge; and by the east and the west of the 1396. Caspian, and the Volga, he twice invaded Kipzak with such mighty powers, that thirteen miles were measured from his right to his left wing. In a march of five months, they rarely beheld the footsteps of man; and their daily subsistence was often trusted to the fortune of the chace. At length the armies encountered each other; but the treachery of the standard-bearer, who, in the heat of action; revened the imperial standard of Kipzak, determined the victory of the Zagataly; and Toctamish () speak the language of the Institutional gave the tribe of Tousbi to the wind of desolution." He fled to the christian duke of Lithuania; again returned to the banks of the Volga; und, after fifteen buttles with a domestic rival, at last perished in the wilds of Siberia. The pursuit of a flying enemy carried Timour, into the tributary provinces of Russia: a duke of the reigning family was made prisoner amidst the ruins of his empital; and Yeletz, by the pride and ignorance of the Orientals, might easily be confounded with the genuine metropolis of the mation. Moscow trembled at the approach of the Tartar, and the resistance would have been finble, since the hopes of the Russians were placed in a miraculous image of the virgin, to whose protection they ascribed the casual and voluntary netrent of the conqueror. Ambition and prudence recalled him to the south; the desolate country was exhausted, and the Mogul soldiers were enriched with an immense spoil of precious ^{*} formulations of Thurses, p. 123, 123, Mr. White, the editor, between a some animal version on the superficial because of Shareledden O. St. v. 12, 13, 14), who was ignorant of the designs of Tumor, and the true springs of action.

^{*} Ausbabah and cravilled tent Klyrak, and sequired a singular knowledge of the geography, cities, and exceptions, of that configura region (p.), c. 45-39).

CHAR.

furs, of linen of Antioch,' and of ingots of gold and silver." On the banks of the Don, or Tannis, he received an humble deputation from the consuls and merchants of Egypt, Venice, Genoa, Catalonia, and Biscay, who occupied the commerce and city of Tana, or Azoph, at the mouth of the river. They offered their gifts, admired his magnificence, and trusted to his royal word. But the peaceful visits of an emir, who explored the state of the magazines and harbour, was speedily followed by the destructive presence of the Tartars. The city was reduced to ashes; the Moslems were pillaged and dismissed; but all the christians, who had not fled to their ships, were condemned either to death or slavery.4 Revenge prompted him to burn the cities of Serni and Astrachan, the monuments of rising civilization:

^{*} The bay of Resolvana many credible than the Bugsts. But the form of Antisch has never been famous; and Antisch was in rains. I suspent that it was some manufacture of Europe, which the Hame merchants had imported by the way of Novogorod.

^{*} M. Lavelagus (111st, de Rassie, tem. H., p. 247. Vir de Trimor, p. 61-67, before the Prench version of the Institute? has corrected the error of Shorefoldin, and marked the true limit of Trimour's conqueste. His arguments are superflower, and a simple appeal to the Rossian amounts is sufficient to prove that Moscow, which six years before that [250] the arms of a more furnishing layers.

^{*} An Egyption count from Grand Cairo is manifested in Backero's toping in Tona in 1435, after the city had been tabulit (Ramoto, tons ii, iid, 82).

This was of Amph is described by Secretarian (t. iii. v. 5.5), and much more particularly by the author of m. Italian chronicis (Andrews de Badmille de Quero, in Chron. Traylations, in Munutari Script-Remm Italian man, tem. six, p. 802-805). He had conversed with the Minner, two Venetian brachers, one of whom had been sent a decrity to the samp of Timmer, and the other had lost at Araph three notes and 19,000 durats.

and his vanity proclaimed, that he had penc. CHAP. trated to the region of perpetual daylight, a strange phenomenon, which authorised his mahametan doctors to dispense with the obligation of evening prayer."

III. When Timour first proposed to his princes in or maand emirs the invasion of India or Hindostan, a deman, a 1388, he was answered by a murmur of discontent; 1390. " The rivers! and the mountains and deserts! s and the soldiers clad in armour! and the " elephants, destroyers of men!" But the displeasure of the emperor was more dreadful than all these terrors; and his superior reason was convinced, that an enterprise of such tremendous aspect was safe and easy in the execution. He was informed by his spies of the weakness and anarchy of Hindostan: the soulahs of the provinces had erected the standard of rebellion; and the perpetual infancy of sultan Mahmoud was despised, even in the haram of Delhi. The Mogul army moved in three great divisions: and Timour observes, with pleasure, that the ninety-two squadrons of a thousand horse most fortunately corresponded with the ninety-two names or epithets of the prophet Mahomet. Between the Sihoon and the Indus they crossed Shoreholdin only mys G. iii, c. 13), that the raps of the setting, and those of the rates sim, were sensely separated by any interval; a problem which may be solved in the latitude of Moscow (the fity-shift degree), with the aid of the autom bevealts, and a long number twilight. But a day of facty days (Khandantr appul a Hermann, p. 880) would rigorously confine on within the polar circle.

For the Indian war, see the Institutions (p. 123-130), the fourth book of Sheroferidia, and the history of Vertahra to flow, yel, it, p. 1-20), which throws a general light on the affairs of Himberton.

LXV.

CUAP, one of the ridges of mountains, which ere styled by the Arabian geographers, the stony girdles of the earth. The highland robbers were subdued or extirpated; but great numbers of men and horses perished in the anow; the emperor himself was let down a precipice on a portable scaffold; the ropes were one hundred and fifty cubits in length; and, before he could reach the bottom, this dangerous operation was five times repeated. Timour crossed the Indus at the ordinary passage of Attok; and successively traversed, in the footness of Alexander, the Punjab, or five rivers, that fall into the master-stream. From Attak to Dellai, the high road measures no more than six hundred miles; but the two conquemrs deviated to the south-east; and the mative of Timour was to join his grandson, who had achieved, by his communal, the conquest of Moultant. On the eastern bank of the Hyphasis, on the edge of the desert, the Macedonian hero halted and wept ; the Mogul entered the desert, reduced the fortress of Batuir, and stood in arms before the gates of Delki, a great and flourishing city. which had subsisted three centuries under the dominion of the mahometan kings. The siege, more especially of the castle, might have been a work of time; but be tempted, by the appearance of weakness, the sultan Mahmoud and his vizir

A ST TO STATE OF THE PARTY OF T

^{*} The rivers of the Pougith, the dee gustime branches of the India, have been laid down, for the first time, with truth and breakey, in Major Rennel's intemperalds may of Historian. Ju the Contest Meaning to dimetrales, with judgment had locating, the nurcles of Abstantag and Timene.

to descend into the plain, with ten thousand owar, culrassiers, forty thousand of his foot guards, and LXV. one hundred and twenty elephants, whose tusks are said to have been atmed with sharp and poisoned daggers. Against these monsters, or rather, against the imagination of his troops, he condescended to use some extraordinary precautions of fire and a ditch, of iron spiles and a rampart of bucklers; but the event taught the Mogula to smile at their own fenes; and, as soon as these unwickly animals were routed, the inferior species (the men of India) disappeared from the field. Timour made his triumphal entry into the capital of Hindostan; and admired, with a view to imitate, the architecture of the stately mosch; but the order and licence of a general pillage and massage polinted the festival of his victory. He resolved to purify his soldiers in the blood of the idolaters, or Gentoos, who still surpass, in the proportion of ten to one, the numhers of the Moslems. In this mous design, he advanced one hundred miles to the north-cast of Delhi, passed the Ganges, fought several hattles by land and water, and penetrated to the famous rock of Coupele, the statue of the cow, that are mr to discharge the mighty river, whose source is far distant among the mountains of Thibet. His

The two great eivers, the Gangie and Bernung-ever, rise in Thines, from the appearse stages of the same fulls, sparses from the aster to the distance of 1900 units, and after a sample course of 2000 units, and after a sample course of 2000 units, and after a sample course of 2000 units, the same point near the galf of Bennet. Yet so aspectates is fame, that the Baryangootey is a bate of severy, while has been of angers has been the thems of an and and an even on ar return was along the skirts of the northern hills; nor could this rapid campaign of one year justify the strange foresight of his emirs, that their children, in a warm climate, would degenerate into a race of Hindoos.

LXV.

Mile was against. sultan Rejazuf. A P. 1400. Bept. L.

It was on the banks of the Ganges that Timour was informed, by his speedy messengers, of the disturbances which had arisen on the confines of Georgia and Anatolia, of the revolt of the christions, and the ambitious designs of the sultan Bajazet. His vigour of mind and body was not impaired by sixty-three years, and innumerable fatigues; and, afterenjoying some tranquil months in the palace of Samarcand, be proclaimed a new expedition of seven years into the western countries of Asia. To the soldiers who had served in the Indian war, he granted the choice of remaining at home, or following their prince; but the troops of all the provinces and kingdoms of Persia. were commanded to assemble at Ispahan, and wait the arrival of the imperial standard. It was first directed against the christians of Georgia, who were strong only in their rocks, their castles, and the winter season; but these obstacles were overcome by the zeal and perseverance of Timour: the rebels submitted to the tribute or the koran; and if both religions boasted of their martyrs, that name is more justly due to the christian story. Coupele, the same of Timour's had victory, must be situate sour Loldong, 1100 miles from Calcutta a and, in 1774, a British sump! (Rennal's Mamour, p. 7, 58, 60, $1, 20).

[&]quot; See the Institutions, p. 141, to the end of the first book, and Sherefuldin the . r. 1.46) to the entrance of Timear me Syria.

prisoners, who were offered the choice of sis- cuar. juration or death. On his descent from the hills, the emperor gave audience to the first ambassadors of Bajazet, and opened the hostile correspondence of complaints and menuces; which fermented two years before the final explosion. Between two jealous and haughty neighbours, the motives of quarrel will schlom be wanting. The Moguland Ottoman conquests now touched each other in the neighbourhood of Erzeroum, and the Euphrates; nor had the doubtful limit been ascertained by time and treaty. Each of these ambitious monarchs might accuse his rival of violating his territory; of threatening his vassals; and protecting his rebels; and, by the name of rebels, each understood the fugitive princes, whose kingdoms he had usurped, and whose life or liberty he implacably pursued. The resembiance of character was still more dangerous than the opposition of interest; and in their victorious career, Timour was impatient of an equal, and Bajazet was ignorant of a superior. The first enistie' of the Mogul emperor must have provoked, instead of reconciling the Turkish soltan; whose family and nation he affected to despise."

VOL. XII.

C

We have three copies of these bertile epicinas in the Districtions (p. 187), in Physiological (t. s. c. 18), and is Architect from th. c. 19, p. 183-201); which agrees with each other in the post and enhancement then in the style. In is probable, that him have been income better, the first him have been income better, from the Turk of nighted two the Architecture and Problem integries.

The Menut some distinguishes himself and his countrymes by the same of Turks, and eigensties the time and section of Rejiver with the lass homography spithet of Turksons. Yet I do not mide stand how

" Dost thou not know, that the greatest part of " Asia is subject to our arms and our laws? that " our invincible forces extend from one sea to " the other? that the potentates of the earth " form a line before our gate? and that we have " compelled fortune herself to watch over the " prosperity of our empire? What is the founda-" tion of thy insolence and folly? Thou hast " fought some buttles in the woods of Anatolin; " contemptible trophies! Thou hast obtained " some victories over the christians of Europe; " thy sword was blessed by the apostle of God; " and thy obedience to the precept of the koran, " in waging war against the infidels, is the sole a consideration that prevents us from destroying " thy country, the frontier and bulwark of the " Moslem world. Be wise in time; reflect; " repent; and avert the thunder of our vengeance, " which is yet suspended over thy head. Thou " art no more than a pismire; why wilt thou seek " to provoke the elephants? Alas, they will " trample thee under their feet." In his replies, Bajazet poured forth the indignation of a soul which was deeply stung by such unusual contempt-After retorting the basest reproaches on the thief and rebel of the desert, the Ottoman recapitulates his boasted victories in Iran, Touran, and the Indies; and labours to prove, that Timour had never triumphed unless by his own perfidy and the vices of his foes. "Thy armies are innomer-" able; be they so; but what are the arrows of the Ottomens could be descended from a Turkman entire; those inland shephends were so remote from the sea, and all markines affilia-

" the flying Tartar against the seymetars and CHAP. " battle-axes of my firm and invincible janizaries? " I will guard the princes who have implored my " protection : seek them in my tents. The cities 6 of Arzingan and Erzeroum are mine, and un-" less the tribute be duly paid, I will demand " the arrears under the walls of Tauris and Sul-" tania." The ungovernable rage of the sultan at length betrayed him to an insult of a more domestic kind. " If I fly from my arms," said he, " may my wives be thrice divorced from my " bed : but if thou hast not courage to meet me " in the field, mayest thou again receive thywives " after they have thrice endured the embraces of " a stranger," Any violation by word or deed of the secrecy of the huram is an unpardomable offence among the Turkish nations;" and the political quarrel of the two monarchs was embittered by private and personal resentment. Yet in his first expedition, Timour was satisfied with the siege and destruction of Siwas or Schaste, a strong city on the borders of Anatolia; and he revenged the indiscretion of the Ottoman on a

According to the bounce, it, p. 27, and take's Dissuments, p. 134), a non-atomic who. End their allowed his wife ratio had their expended the women of a discrete could our rate her again, till after the had been married as and expuditated by, another historial; an ignomicant transaction, which it is position to aggreened by applying that the first husband more we her emproyed by a record before his face (Hycant's State of the Ottoman Empire, Lill, c. 21).

^b The common delicacy of the Orientals, he never speaking of chairwomen, is morthed in a much higher degree by Arababah as the Turk-tab entimes; and it is remarkable enough that Chairmorphia it. it, p. 538 had some knowledge of the prejudice and the inests.

valles Sy-Hilly some

1400.

ctrap, garrison of four thousand Armenians, who were buried alive for the brave and faithful discharge of their duty. As a unaschman he seemed to respect the pious occupation of Bajazet, who was still engaged in the blockade of Constantinople: and after this salutary lessanthe Magal conqueror checked in purnit, and turned uside to the invasion of Syria and Egypt. In these transactions, Timene itthe Ottoman prince, by the Orientals, and even by Timbur, is tryled the Russur of Roum, the Cassar of the Romans : a title which, by a small anticipation, might be given to a monarch who presented the provinces, and threatened the city, > of the successors of Constanting? The military tepublic of the Mamalukes still reigned in Egypt and Syria ; but the dynasty of the Turks was overthrown by that of the Circustines, and their favourity Burkok, from a slave and a prisoner, was raised and restored to the throne. In the midst of rebellion and discord, he braved the menaces, corresponded with the enemies, and detained the ambassadors, of the Mogul, who patiently expected his decease, to revenge the crimes of the father on the feeble reign of his son Farage. The Syrian emirs'

[·] For the style of the Month, am the Instructions to 131, 1471, and the the Purslands the Bibliotheque Orientale (p. 892); but I do war find that the title of Come has been applied by the Arabians, or assumed by the Ottomasa Discourses.

t See the reigns of Burkok and Phurudge, in M. de Gaigner from It. t. 2277), who, from the Arabe texts of Absolutations, film Schouseho and Aterated, has a tilled wrong facts to our counties stock of arminerally

I For those escent and demostic transactions, Arabshab, though a partial, is a credible witness (turn 1, a 64-88, turn 1, c. 1-14). Ti mimi were assembled at Aleppo to repel the invasion: CHAP. they confided in the fame and discipline of the Manualukes, in the temper of their swords and lances of the purest steel of Damascus, in the strength of their walled cities, and in the populousness of sixty thousand villages; and instead of anothining a siege, they threw open their gates and arrayed their forces in the plain. But these forces were not comented by virtue and union; and some powerful emirs had been seduced to desert or betray their more legal companions. Timour's front was covered with a line of Indian elephants, whose turrets were filled with archers and Greek five: the rapid evolutions of his enrally completed the dismay and disorder; the Syring crowds fell back on each other; many thousands were stilled or daughter of in the entrance of the great street; the Mogats entered with the foritives; and, after a short defence, the citable. the impregnable chadel of Aleppo, was surrendered by cownrdies or treachery. Among the base suppliants and captives, Timour distinguished the . - 100. dectors of the law, whom he invited to the Nov. Ha dangerous honour of a personal conference."-The Mogul prince was a realism mussidman; but his Persian schools had taught him to revere the memory of Ali and Hosein; and he had imbibed

Tensour most have been admiss to a Syriant but the absorbery of faces would have stalled him, in some measure, to respect his among and himself. His litters may correct the fouriers quests of Sharefaldis CLT-17-72-

[&]quot;These interesting conversations appear to have here depend by Arababah (semi la c. 68, p. 625-543) from the cutted and bloosens Plus Scholembi, a principal actor. Yet have emid be be mine accomphre years offerwants (d'Herbelet, p. 200) !

CHAP. a deep prejudice against the Syrians, as the enemies of the son of the daughter of the apostle of God. To these doctors he proposed a captions question, which the casuists of Bochara, Samarcand, and Herat, were incapable of resolving. " are the true martyrs, of those who are slain on " my side, or on that of my enemies?" But he was silenced, or satisfied, by the dexterity of one of the cadhis of Aleppo, who replied, in the words of Mahomet himself, that the motive, not the ensign, constitutes the martyr; and that the Moslems of either party, who fight only for the glory of God, may deserve that sacred appellation. The true succession of the caliphs was a controversy of a still more delicate nature, and the frankness of a doctor, too honest for his situation, provoked the emperor to exclaim, " Ye are as false a as these of Damascus; Moawiyah was an " usurper, Yezid a tyrant, and Ali alone is the " lawful successor of the prophet." A prudent explanation restored his tranquillity; and he passed to a more familiar topic of conversation. "What is your age?" said he to the cadhi-" Fifty years."-" It would be the age of my " eldest son : you see me here (continued Ti-" mour) a poor, lame, decrepit mortal. Yet by " my arm has the Almighty been pleased to " subdue the kingdoms of Iran, Touran, and " the Indies. I am not a man of blood; and " God is my witness, that in all my wars I have " never been the aggressor, and that my enemies " have always been the authors of their own ca-" lamity." During this peaceful conversation, the streets of Aleppo streamed with blood, and CHAP. re-echoed with the cries of mothers and children, LXV. with the shricks of violated virgins. The rich plunder that was ahandoned to his soldiers might stimulate their avarice; but their cruelty was enforced by the peremptory command of producing an adequate number of heads, which, according to his custom, were curiously piled in columns and pyramids: the Mogals celebrated the feast of victory, while the surviving Moslems passed the night in tears and in chains. I shall not dwell on the march of the destroyer from Aleppo to Damascus, where he was rudely encountered, and almost overthrown, by the armies of Egypt. A retrograde motion was imputed to his distress and despair : one of his nephews deserted to the enemy; and Syria rejolced in the tale of his defeat, when the sultan was driven by the revolt of the Mamalukes to escape with precipitation and shame to his palace of Cairo. Abandoned by their prince, the inhabitants of Damascus still defended their walls; and Timour consented to raise the siege, if they would adorn his retreat with a gift or ransom; each article of nine pieces. But no sooner had be introduced himself into the city, under colour of a truce, than he perfidiously violated the trenty; imposed a contribu-Damanna, tion of ten millions of gold; and animated his 1 an 131 troops to chastise the posterity of those Syrians who had executed, or approved, the murder of the grandson of Mahomet. A family which had given honourable burial to the head of Hosein,

ESIT OF THE PERSON OF THE PERS

CHAP and a colony of artificers whom he sent to labour at Samaceaud, were alone reserved in the general massacre; and, after a period of seven centuries, Damascus was reduced to ashes, because a Tartar was moved by religious zent to avenge the blood of an Arab. The losses and fatigues of the campaign obliged 'Fimour to renounce the conquest of Palestine and Egypt; but in his return to the Euphrates, he delivered Aloppo to the flames; and justified his plans motive by the pardon and reward of two thousand secturies of All, who were desirous to visit the tomb of his son. I have expatiated on the personal ancedotes which mark the character of the Mogul hero; but I shall briefly mention," that he creeted on the rains . - 1401. of Bagdad a pyramid of ninety thousand heads; again visited Georgia; encamped on the banks of Araxes; and proclaimed his resolution of marching against the Ottoman emperar. Conscious of the importance of the war, he collected his forces from every province : eight hundred thousand men were enrolled on his military list;*

sout Baydad. July 15.

^{*} The marches and occupations of Thomas between the System and Ottonico surs, are represented by chorefuldin II v. c. 28-43) and Argument (Normall, et 15-16)

f. This amober of $100,000 was extracted by Acalebata, or eather by The Scientific, or entirerie Court, on the faint of a Continues of Lors from L v. 68, p. 417; a and it is amortished in sight, that a Greek Shearing Phranas, I. I. e. 29; adde no mare than 29,000 met. Paggive received 1,000,000; quality Lattle successporary (Closel, Tarsinfamma, agail Marstorff from sis, p. 800) 1,100,0004 and the & normous runs of $,600,000, is attented by a German widow, who was present at the number of Arguna (Limiteday), ad Chalcomigh, Unit, p. 824. Timmer, in his frestitutions, has not engined to extrust this troops, his majorn, or his revenues.

that the splendid commands of five and ten char, thousand horse, may be rather expressive of the LXX. rank and pension of the chiefs, than of the genuine number of effective soldiers. In the pillage of Syria, the Mogals had acquired immense riches: but the delivery of their pay and arrears for seven years, more firmly attached them to the imperial standard.

During this diversion of the Mogul arms, taxable Bajazet had two years to collect his forces for a 1405. a more serious encounter. They consisted of four hundred thousand horse and foot," whose merit and fidelity were of an unequal complexion. We may discriminate the janizaries, who have been gradually raised to an establishment of forty thousand men; a national cavalry, the spalis of modern times; twenty thousand enironiers of Europe, clad in black and impenetrable armour : the troops of Auntolia, whose princes and taken refuge in the camp of Timour, and a colony of Tartars, whom he had driven from Kipzak, and to whom Bajazut had assigned a settlement in the plains of Adrianople. The fearless confidence of the sultan origed him to meet his antagonist; and, as if he had chosen that spot for revenge, he displayed his banners near the ruins of the unfortu-

P. A, wide latitude of non-affectives was allowed by the great Mond. for his own problem the benefit of the effects. He north patrice was Panes. Harary, commander of 6000 flores and which he maintained an owner than 500 (Versigns, 1988), 988.

^{*} Theore himself axes at 400,000 ency the Ottomor stroy (best, turtions, ps 253), which is reduced to 150,000 by Phrama it I, v. 200, and swellet by the German solder to 1,000,000. It, it evident that the Morald were the source assessment.

CHAP. LXV.

Battle of July 28.

nate Savas. In the meanwhile, Timour moved from the Araxes through the countries of Armenia and Anatolia: his boldness was secured by the wisest precautions; his speed was guided by order and discipline; and the woods, the mountains, and the rivers, were diligently explored by the flying squadrons, who marked his road and preceded his standard. Firm in his plant of fighting in the heart of the Ottoman kingdom, he avoided their camp; dextrously inclined to the feft; occupied Casaren; traversed the salt desert and the river badys; and invested Augora; while the sultan, immoveable and ignorant in his post, compared the Tartar swiftness to the crawling of a smail? be returned on the wings of indignation to the relief of Angora; and as both Angula, generals were alike impatient for action, the plains round that city were the scene of a memorable fattle, which has immortalized the glory of Timour and the shame of Bajazet. For this signal victory, the Mogul emperor was indebted to himself, to the genius of the moment, and the discipline of thirty years. He had improved the tactics, without violating the manners, of his nation, whose force still consisted in the missile weapons, and rapid evolutions, of a numerous edition have Branngers with claborate parts (to $73-407).

· Now the Systems of Tottim is the Lantitudiess, which the English

[.] It easy not be under to mark the distances between Angora and the mightoning may, by the journey of the exception, such of twenty or twenty-live miles; to Severin 20, to Kintalije 10, to Horesa 10, m Cumerez S, to Siliopo 10, in Necomella 9, se Constantinople 12 or III. One Tournalist, Voyage as Levent, man, il, force axis.

eavalry. From a single troop to a great army, cuar. the mode of attack was the same; a foremost line first advanced to the charge, and was supported in a just order by the squadrons of the great vanguard. The general's eve watched over the field, and at his command the front and rear of the right and left wings successively moved forwards in their several divisions, and in a direct or oblique line: the enemy was pressed by eighteen or twenty attacks; and each attack afforded a chance of victory. If they all proved fruitless, or unsuccessful, the occasion was worthy of the emperorhimself, who gave the signal of advancing to the standard and main body, which he led in person.4 But in the buttle of Angora, the main body itself was supported, on the flanks, and in the rear, by the bravest squadrons of the reserve, commanded by the sons and grandsons of Timour. The conqueror of Hindostan ostentationsly showed a line of elephants, the trophies, rather than the instruments of victory: the use of the Greek fire was familiar to the Moguls and Ottomans; but had they borrowed from Europe the recent invention of gunpowder and cannon, the artificial thunder, in the hunds of either nation, must have turned the fortune of the day? In that day,

^{*} The milion himself tears Timoor) sound then just the first of concease into the stirrup of patience. A Terrir metapher, which is lost fit the Kaglish, but preserved in the French, results of the Institution on Los, 137.

^{*} The Greak fire, on Timour's side, is articulably Shortholdie (I. v. c. $7); but Voltaire's stronge corpleton, that some content, insertined with stronge characters, must have been untilly that comments to Dukli, is inflated by the universal allower of contemporaries.

CHAR. Bajazet displayed the qualities of a soldier and a chief: but his genius sunk under a stronger uscendant; and from various motives, the greatest part of his troops failed him in the decisive moment. His rigour and avarice had provoked a mutiny among the Turks; and even his son Soliman too hastily withdrew from the field. The forces of Anatolia, loyal in their revolt, were drawn away to the banners of their lawful princes. His Tartar allies had been tempted by the letters and emissaries of Timour;" who reproached their ignoble servitude under the slaves of their fathers; and offered to their hopes the dominion of their new, or the liberty of their ancient, country. In the right wing of Bajazet, the cuirassiers of Europe charged, with faithful hearts and irresistible arms; but these men of iron were soon broken by an artful flight and headlong pursuit : and the lanizaries alone, without cavalry or missile weapons, were encompassed by the circle of the Mogal hunters. Their valour was at length oppressed by heat, thirst, and the weight of numbers; and the unfortunate sultan, afflicted with the good in hishands and feet, was transported from the field on the fleetest of his horses. He below software pursued and taken by the titular khan of applicity of Zagatai; and after his capture, and the defeat of the Ottoman powers, the kingdom of Anatolia

^{*} Throat his Simenabled this more and important negatiation with the Terrors, which is indisjuntily proved by the John wildows of the Amilian (tom. 1, c. 47, p. 291). Turkish (Annal. Longian, p. 271). and Person binesiana (Khondeniy, agod d'Harbitic, p. 1897).

submitted to the compaeror, who planted his char. standard at Kiotahia, and dispersed on all sides. the ministers of rapine and destruction. Mirza Mehemmed Sultan, the eldest and best beloved of his grandsons, was dispatched to Boursa, with thirty thousand horse; and such was his youthful ardone, that he arrived with only four thousand at the gates of the capital, after performing in five days a march of two hundred and thirty miles. Yet fear is still more rapid in its course; and Soliman, the son of Bajanet, had already passed over to Europe with the royal treasure. The spoil, however, of the palace and city was immense; the inhabitants had escaped; but the buildings, for themost part of wood, were reduced. to ashes. From Boursa, the grandson of Timour advanced to Nice, even yet a thir and flourishing city; and the Mogal squadrons were only stopped by the waves of the Proportia. The same success attended the other mirzus and emirs in their excursions: and Smyrna, defended by the zeal and courage of the Rhodian knights, alone deserved the presence of the emperor himself. After an obstimate defence, the place was taken by storm; all that breathed was put to the sword; and the heads of the christian before were faunched from the engines, on board of two carracks, or great ships of Europe, that rode at anchor in the harbour. The Moslems of Asia rejoiced in their deliverance from a dangerous and domestic foc. and a parallel was drawn between the two rivals, by observing that Timour, in fourteen days, had

CHAP, restained in fortress which had sustained seven years the siege, or at least the blockade of Bajazet/

ex of his Trus ongs

The blass The iron cage in which Bajazet was imprisoned by Tumerlane, so long and so often repeated as a moral lesson, is now rejected as a fable by the modern writers, who smile at the vulgar credulity. They appeal with confidence to the Persian history of Sherefeddin Ali, which has been given to our curiosity in a French version, and from which I shall collect and alwidge a more specious narrative of this memorable transaction. No sooner was Timour informed that the captive by the Co-Ostoman was at the door of his tent, than he disproved sian histoamon Ti-BERNITT L

gracionaly stept forwards to receive him, seuted him by his side, and mingled with just reproaches a soothing pity for his rank and misfortune. " Alas " said the emperor, " the decree of fate is now accomplished by your own fault: it is " the web which you have woven, the thorns " of the tree which yourself have planted. I " wished to spare, and even to assist, the cham-" pion of the Moslems; you braved our threats; " you despised our friendship; you forced us to [&]quot; enter your kingdom with our inviocible armies. " Behold the event. Had you vanquished, I am [&]quot; For the war of Ametalla or Bloom, I add some blints in the Inetientions to the cooling mergricos of Sherricaldin (), v. c. 94-660 and Arabanah (mm. ii, e. 20-35). On this part only of Timour's history, t is leaded to quais the Torks (Cantemir, p. 33, A& Annal, Louis, clay, p. 330-371) and the Greets (Phonon, L.i. c. 29, Decar, c. 15-17. Chalconfyles, Little-

The couplings of Voltaber (Resa) our l'Histoire Generale, c. 88) le ready on this, as on every ourmiter, to reject a popular tale, and to diminish the magnitude of view and virtue; and on most occasions his incredibility is reasonable.

a not ignorant of the fate which you reserved for entars " myself and my troops. But I disdain to re-" taliate; your life and honour are secure; and " I shall express my gratitude to God by my " clemency to mun." The royal captive shewed some signs of repentance, accepted the humiliation of a robe of honour, and embraced with tears his son Mousa, who, at his request, was sought and found among the captives of the field. The Ottoman princes were lodged in a splendid pavilion; and the respect of the guards could be surpassed only by their vigilance. On the arrival of the haram from Boursa, Timour restored the queen Despins and her daughter to their father and husband; but he piously required that the Servian princess, who had hitherto been indulged in the profession of christianity, should embrace without delay the religion of the prophet. In the feast of victory, to which Bajazet was invited. the Mogul emperor placed a crown on his head and a sceptre in his hand, with a solemn assurance of restoring him with an increase of glary to the throne of his ancestors. But the effect of this promise was disappointed by the sultan's untimely death; amidst the care of the most skilful physicians, he expired of an apoplexy at Akshehr, the Antioch of Pisidia, about nine months after his defeat. The victor dropped a tear over his grave: his body, with royal pump, was conveyed to the mausoleum which he had erected at Boursa; and his son Mousa, after receiving a rich present of gold and jewels, of horses and arms, was inCHAP, vested by a patent in red ink with the kingdom LXV. of Anatolia Such is the portrait of a generous conqueror, which has been extracted from his own memorials, and dedicated to his son and grandson, nineteen years after his decease," and, at a time when the truth was remembered by thousands, a manifest falsehood would have implied a satire on his real conduct. Weighty indeed is this evidence, adopted by all the Persian histories; by et flattery, more especially in the East, is base and audacious; and the harsh and ignominious treatment of Bajazet is attested by a chain of witnesses, some of whom shall be produced in the order of mostel, I their time and country. 1. The reader has not forgot the garrison of French, whom the marshal Boucleault left behind him for the defence of Coastantinople. They were on the spot to receive the earliest and most faithful lutelligence of the overthrow of their great iniversity; and it is more than probable that some of them accompanied the Greek embassy to the camp of Tamerlane. From their account, the hardships of the prison and death of Bajaret are affirmed by the nursbal's servant and historian, within the

by the Pressent t

^{*} New the Bistory of Storyfoldin, G. v. c. 10, 52, 53, 50, 60). This work was finished at Science. In the year 1426, and definated to antitan Beables, the not of Sheroth, the use of Timour, who reigned in Partietan in his father's lifetime-

^{*} After the permit of Khandemir, Han Schemak, &c. the learned d'Herbelot Bibliot. Originale, p. 883; may affirm, that this fabin is not mentioned in the most nutherater betterious but his dential of the visible restimony of Arababab, leaves some rotes to surpose his acres-PROF.

distance of seven years, 2. The name of Poppins CHAP. the Italian,4 is deservedly famous among the revivers of learning in the fifteenth century. Hisz, by the elegant dialogue on the vicissitudes of fortune trainer was composed in his fiftieth year, twenty-eight years after the Turkish victory of Tamerlane; whom he celebrates as not inferior to the illustrious barbarians of antiquity. Of his exploits and discipline, Poggius was informed by several ocular witnesses; nor does he forget an example so apposite to his theme as the Ottoman monarch, whom the Scythian confined like a wild beast in an iron cage, and exhibited a spectacle to Asia. I might add the authority of two Italian chronicles, perhaps of an earlier date, which would prove at least that the same story, whether false or true, was imported into Europe ^{*} Et fur lui mems (Hajarer) pris, et mené en prison, en luquellmanurat de chre most? Memoires de Bourismult, p. 1, c. 37. These moundes were amposed while the marshal was still geverner of Gaons, from whence he was expelled in the year 150%, by a popular insurrestion (Murmori, Annali d'Italia, tom. sile p. 473, 478).

^{*}The reader will find a satisfactory scottend of the life and writings of Pengliss in the Ponglama, an entertaining work of M. Landaria and in the Wolfockers Lutina media at leafans Aliatia of February (Sum. v. p. 202-208). Pengliss was form in the year 1380, and died in 1459.

The dialogue de Vacuetate Fortiem (of which a complete and elegant edition has been published at Paris in 1783, in 8to) was conspensed a short time bisfers the death of page Martin c (p. 5), and consequently about the end of the year 1430.

It, by the Archer

CHAP, with the first tidings of the revolution." S. A. the time when Poggius flourished at Rome, Alimed Ehn Arabshah composed at Damascus the florid and malevolent history of Timour, for which he had collected materials in his journies over Turkey and Tartary. Without any possible correspondence between the Latin and the Arabinn writer, they agree in the fact of the iron ruge; and their agreement is a striking proof of their common veracity. Ahmed Arabshub likewise relates unother outrage, which Bajazet endured, of a more domestic and tender nature, His indiscreet mention of women and divorces was deeply resented by the jealous Tartar; in the feast of victory, the wine was served by female cupbearers, and the sultan beheld his own concubines and wives confounded among the slaves, and exposed without a veil to the eyes of intemperance. To escape a similar indignity, it is said that his successors, except in a single instance, have abstained from legitimate auptials; and the Ottoman practice and belief, at least in the sixteenth century, is attested by the observing Busbequiss, ambassador from the court of Vienna

J. The Commission Territorium (in Murana), Script. Berryn Italianvers, term with to $000 and the Armeles Kenness (tomo aven, p. 074). The two nutbors, Andrea de Budmins de Quero, and James de Delevio, were both commenced by, and both chargefliers, the one of Teethel, the other of Persua. The voltages of the foreign is the time positive. " In Arabetch, mm. h, c. 25, 34. He travelled in regimes Rumater, - a. 120 (a. p. 1401, July 27), 10m; (i. c. 7, p. 13.

I Burberpiles in Lepsiume Turrich, spect. 1, p. 52. Yet his sespeciable buttomy is a mobit while by the althought marriages of America o with a Service, and of Mahamet re with an America oclimus (Cantomir, p. 85, 99).

to the great Soliman. 4. Such is the separation CHAS. of language, that the testimony of a Greek is not less independent than that of a Latin or an Arab. 4, by the I suppress the names of Chalcondyles and Ducas, Guerr; who flourished in a later period, and who speak in a less positive tone; but more attention is due to George Phranza, protovestiare of the best emperors, and who was born a year before the battle of Angora. Twenty-two years after that event, he was sent ambassador to Amurath the second; and the historian might converse with some veteran janizaries, who had been made prisoners with the sultan, and had themselves seen him in his iron cage. 5. The last evidence, 5, by the in every sense, is that of the Turkish annals, which have been consulted or transcribed by Leunclavius, Pocock, and Cautemir, They unanimously deplore the captivity of the tron eage; and some credit may be allowed to national historians, who cannot stigmatize the Tartar without uncovering the shame of their king and country.

From these opposite premises, a fair and mode-fromate rate conclusion may be deduced. I am satisfied contains that Sherefoldin Ali has faithfully described the first ostentations interview, in which the conqueror, whose spirits were harmonized by success, affected the character of generosity. But his mind was insensibly alienated by the unseasonable arrogance of Bajazet: the complaints of his one-

^{*} See the testimony of George Phranza G. 5, c. 29), and his life in Hanckins (de Script, Byzant, p. 1, c. 40). Challencyles and Ducts speak in general terms of Bajanet's charge.

Annabe Lemetar, p. 52L. Focock, Probagomen, ad Abulpharag-Dynami, Cantemir, p. 55.

OH AP. LXV.

Death of Baptret.

March S.

mies, the Anatolian princes, were just and whement; and Timour betrayed a design of leading his royal captive in triumph to Samarcand. An attempt to facilitate his escape, by digging a mine under the tent, provoked the Mogul emperor to impose a barsher restraint; and in his perpetual marches, an iron cage on a waggon might be invented, not as a wanton insult, but as a rigorone precantion. Timour had read in some fabulous history a similar treatment of one of his predecessors, a king of Persia; and Bajazet was condemned to represent the person, and explate the guilt of the Roman Casar." But the strength of his mind and body fainted under the trial, and his premature death might, without injustice, he 4- D. 14115. ascribed to the severity of Timour. He warred not with the dead; a tear and a sepulcine were all that he could bestow on a captive who was delivered from his power; and if Mousa, the son of Bajazet, was permitted to reign over the rains of Beursa, the greatest part of the province of Anatolia had been restored by the conqueror to their lawful sovereigns.

Term of the conquarter of Timout; A D. 140 L

From the Irtish and Volga to the Persian gulf, and from the Ganges to Danuscus and the Archipelago, Asia was in the hands of Timour; his armies were invincible, his ambition was bound-[&]quot; A Super, a king of Persia, and bern smale process, and budewed to the figure of a cow's hide, by Maximilan or Colorbus Chosen. Such to the faids related by Entychine (Annal, butt, kep, 421, von. Possely-The recollection of the tree hotsey (Berline and Fall, &c. vol. ils p 144-156) will teach as no signosciets the knowledge of the Othertale of the ages which purceds the hugers.

less, and his zeal might aspire to conquer and ruar. convert the christian kingdoms of the West, which already trembled at his name. He touched the utmost verge of the land; that an insuperable, though narrow, sea rolled between the two continents of Europe and Asia;" and the lord of so many tomans, or myrinds; of horse, was not master of a single galley. The two passages of the Bosphorus and Hellespont, of Constantinople and Gullipoli, were possessed, the one by the christians, the other by the Turks. On this great occusion, they forgot the difference of religion, to not with union and firmness in the common cause: the double straits were guarded with ships and fortifications; and they separately withheld the transports which Timour demanded of either nation, under the pretence of attacking their enemy. At the same time, they soothed his pride with tributary gifts and suppliant embassies, and prudently tempted him to retreat with the honours of victory. Soliman, the son of Bajazet, implored his elemency for his father and himself; accepted, by a red patent, the investiture of the kingdom of Romania, which he already held by the sword; and reiterated his ardent wish, of easting himself in person at the feet of the king of the world. The Greek Armbolah (tem. 8, c. 85) describes, like a curious traveller, the strains or Gallipeli and Communication. To sequite a just served the security, I have compared the mentative and prejudies of the Megule, Turks, Greeks, and Arabians. The Spenish unbounder contons this health motor of the shrinkers and the security (Ver de Timour, p. 86).

LXV. information.

CHAP. emperor' (either John or Manuel) submitted to pay the same tribute which he had stipulated with the Turkish sultan, and ratified the treaty by an oath of allegiance, from which he could absolve his conscience as soon as the Mogul arms had retired from Anatolia. But the fears and fancy of nations ascribed to the ambitious Tamerlane a new design of vest and romantic compass; a design of subduing Egypt and Africa, marching from the Nile to the Atlantic ocean, entering Europe by the straits of Gibraltar, and after imposing his yoke on the kingdoms of Christendom, of returning home by the deserts of Russia and Tartary. This remote, and perhaps imaginary, danger was averted by the submission of the sultan of Egypt; the honours of the prayer and the coin attested at Cairo the supremacy of Timour; and a care gut of a giraffe, or camelopard, and nine ortricks, represented at Samurcand the tribute of the African world. Our imagination is not less astonished by the portrait of a Mogul, who, in his camp before Smyrna, meditates, and almost necomplishes, the invasion of the Chinese empire." Timour was arged to this enterprise by national honour and religious zeal. The torrents which he had shed of mussulman blood could be expiated only by an equal destruction of the in-

^{*} Slows the name of Court had been transferred to the sultant of House, the Greek princes of Contantinople (littereledding h. v. c. 44) were confounded with the shruitlest hole of Gattipes, Themselmin, Ac. under the title of Politar, which is derived by exercition from the genitive ov aspe (Cantemir, p. 51).

^{*} See Simpoloudin, l. v. v. 4, who make, is a just timetary, the land to China, which Arababah (torn. 1), c. 33) paints in regne and theirrical collectrafidels; and as he now stood at the gates of enge. paradise, he might best accure his glorious entrance, by demotishing the idols of China, founding muschs in every city, and establishing the profession of faith in one God, and his prophet Mahomet. The recent expulsion of the house of Zingis was an insult on the Mogul name; and the disorders of the empire afforded the fairest opportunity for revenge. The illustrious Hongvou, founder of the dynasty of Ming, died four years before the buttle of Angora; and his grandson, a weak and entactanate youth, was burnt in his palace, after a million of Chinese had perished in the civil war,4 Before he evacuated Anatolia, Timour dispatched beyond the Silmon a numerous army, or rather colony, of his old and new subjects, to open the road, to subdue the pagun Calmucks and Mungals, and to found cities and magazines in the desert; and, by the diffgence of his lieutenant, he soon received a perfeet map and description of the unknown regions, from the source of the Irtish to the wall of China. During these preparations, the emperor achieved the final conquest of Georgia; passed the winter on the banks of the Araxes; appeased the troubles of Persin; and slowly returned to his capital, after a campaign of four years and nine months.

[&]quot; Sympals Hits. Show, it 75-75 for the harry pure of the Relations de Thereum), Dunaide, Hist. de la Chies come 1, p. 107, 205, folio contacts and for the chromings of the Chimes employees 40 Galgerit, Hirt, der Hunn, term i. p. 71, 72.

On the throne of Samarcand, he displayed, CHAP LXV. Mig tebreaccand. July-January S.

in a short repose, his magnificence and power; listened to the complaints of the people; distriamphass buted a just measure of rewards and punish-= 1406, ments; employed his riches in the architecture 2 = 1405, of palaces and temples; and gave audience to the ambassadora of Egypt, Arabia, India, Tartary, Russia, and Spain, the last of whom presented a suit of tapestry which eclipsed the pencil of the Oriental artists. The marriage of six of the emperor's grandsons was esteemed an act of religion as well as of paternal tenderness; and the pomp of the ancient caliphs was revived in their nuptials. They were celebrated in the gardens of Canighul, decorated with innumerable tents and pavilions, which displayed the luxury of a great city and the spoils of a victorious camp. Whole forests were cut down to supply fuel for the kitchens; the pinin was spread with pyramids of meat, and vases of every liquor, to which thousands of guests were courteously invited: the orders of the state, and the nations of the earth, were marshalled at the royal banquet; nor were the ambassadors of Europe (says the haughty Persian) excluded from the feast; since even the casses, the smallest of fish, find their place in the ocean.' The public

For the ceture, triumph, and deuth, of Timour, we Sharefeeldia thesi, o 4-307 and Arabetah tame Fr c. 35-47).

Shorefoodin (L. r.), r. 28) mantions the authorities of one of the most potent overreigns of Europe. We know that it was lienty me king of Cartile ; and the corious relation of his two contrastics is said estant.

joy was testified by illuminations and masquer- CHAP. ades; the trades of Samarcand passed in review; and every trade was emulous to execute some quaint devise, some marvelous pageant, with the materials of their peculiar art. After the marriage-contracts had been ratified by the eadlis, the bridegrooms and their brides retired to the auptial chambers; nine times, according to the Asiatic fashion, they were dressed and undressed; and at each change of apparel, pearls and rubles were showered on their heads, and contemptyously abandoned to their attendants. A general indulgence was proclaimed : every law was relaxed, every pleasure was allowed, the people was free, the sovereign was idle; and the histovian of Timour may remark, that, after devoting fifty years to the attrinment of empire, the only happy period of his life were the two months in which he ceased to exercise his power. But he was soon awakened to the cares of government and war. The standard was unfurled for the invasion of China; the emirs made their report of two hundred thousand, the select and veteran soldiers of Iran and Touran; their baggage and provisions were transported by five hundred great waggons, and an immense train of horses and camels; and the troops might prepare for a long absence, since more than six months were em-extant (Mariors, Hist. Hispan, I. vix. c. 11, tent. ii. p. 329, 232. Avertisement 4 l'Hist, de Timur Ber. p. 28-33). There appears likewise to have been some correspondence between the Megal coups. cor and the court of Charles vit, king of France diliamire de France, par Vally of Villaret, toon, sit, p. 336).

LXV.

to China.

April L.

CHAP. played in the tranquil journey of a caravan from Samureand to Pekin. Neither age, nor the severity of the winter, could retard the impatience of Timour; he mounted on horseback, passed the Siboon on the ice, marched seventy-six parasangs, three hundred miles, from his capital, and pitched his last camp in the neighbourhood of Otrar, where he was expected by the angel of the death death. Patigue, and the indiscreet use of iced water accelerated the progress of his fever; and 4 a 1405, the conqueror of Asia expired in the seventieth year of his age, thirty-five years after he had ascended the throne of Zagatai. His designs friendship and commerce to the court of Pekins The fame of Timour has pervaded the East and and nervite West; his posterity is still invested with the imnermi title; and the admiration of his subjects, who revered him almost as a delty, may be justihed, in some degree, by the praise or confession of his hitterest enemies." Although he was large of an hand and foot, his form and stature were not unworthy of his rank; and his vigorous health, so essential to himself and to the world, were lost; his armies were dishunded; China was saved; and fourteen years after his decease, the most powerful of his children sent an embassy of

Chamerer

[.] See the translation of the Pentian seconds of their artifactly, a surface and original parts (in the fourth part of the Rabelina de They cours. They personted the emperie of China with an old horse which There's half formerly note. It was in the year 1119 that they departed from the same of Herar, in which place they returned in 1422 from Pelin.

[.] Prom Arabituh, toot, il, c. 19. The tright or soften colours are berraved from Shereledain, d'Herbelet, and the Institutions.

was corroborated by temperance and exercise, char. In his familiar discourse he was grave and modest, and if he was ignorant of the Arabic language, he spoke, with fluency and elegance, the Persian and Turkish idioms. It was his delight to converse with the learned on topics of history and science; and the amusement of his leisure hours was the game of chess, which he improved, or corrupted, with new refinements." In his religion, he was a zealous, though not perhaps an orthodox, mussulman; but his sound understanding may tempt us to believe, that a superstitious reverence for omens and prophesies, for saints and astrologers, was only affected as an instrument of policy. In the government of a vast empire, he stood alone and absolute, without a rebel to oppose his power, a favourite to seduce his affections, or a minister to mislend his judgment. It was his firmest maxim, that whatever might be the consequence, the word of the prince should never be disputed or recalled; but his face have amliciously observed, that the commands of anger and destruction were more strictly executed their those of honeheaver and favour, His sons and grandsons, of whom Timour left. six-and-thirty at his decease, were his first and

^{*} His new system was untilipfied from 32 pieces and 64 squares, to 26 plane and 110 or 130 squares. Thus, except in his court, the sidgome has been changin sufficiently elaborate. The Hogal emission was nother placed thus burn, with the victory of a sulparty a character player will fine the value of this encounter !

[&]quot; See Cherofeshin, L. S. e. 15, 23. Arabitah (1995, No. 2, Sfe ps. 201, 2011 reported the impley of Timour and the Magnin, who alsmot performs to the known, the years, or kew of flingle and Dates amplituding the will be believe that discount had about our and patherity of time popum date.

CHAP, most submissive subjects; and whenever they deviated from their duty, they were corrected, necording to the laws of Zingis, with the bastonade, and afterwards restored to honour and command. Perhaps his heart was not devoid of the social virtues; perhaps he was not incapable of loving his friends, and pardoning his enemies; but the rules of morality are founded on the public interest; and it may be sufficient to applaud the wisdom of a monarch, for the liberality by which he is not impoverished, and for the justice by which he is strengthened and enriched. To maintain the harmony of authority and obedience, to chastise the proud, to protect the weak, to reward the deserving, to banish vice and idleness from his dominious, to secure the traveller and merchant, to restrain the depredations of the soldier, to cherish the labours of the husbandman, to encourage industry and learning, and, by an equal and moderate assessment, to increase the revenue, without increasing the taxes, are indeed the duties of a prince; but, in the discharge of these duties, he finds an ample and immediate recompense. Timour might boast, that, at his accession to the throne, Asia was the prey of anarchy and rapine, whilst under his prosperous monarchy a child, fearless and unburt, might carry a purse of gold from the cast to the west. Such was his confidence of merit, that from this reformation he derived excuse for his victories, and a title to universal dominion. The four following observations will serve to appreciate his claim to the public gratitude; and perhaps we shall conclude, that the Mogul emperor was rather the scourge than the benefactor of man- cwar. kind. I. If some partial disorders, some local LXV oppressions, were heafed by the sword of Timour, the remedy was far more pernicious than the disease. By their rapine, cruelty, and discord, the petty tyrants of Persia might afflict their subjects; but whole nations were crushed under the footsteps of the reformer. The ground which had been occupied by flourishing cities was often marked by his abominable trophies, by columns, or pyramids, of human heads. Astracan, Carizme, Delhi, Ispahan, Bagdad, Aleppe, Damuscus, Boursa, Smyrna, and a thousand others, were sacked, or burnt, or utterly destroyed, in his presence, and by his troops; and perhaps his conscience would have been startled, if a priest or philosopher had dared to number the millions of . victims whom he had sacrificed to the establishment of peace and order." 2. His most destructive wars were rather inroads than conquests: He invaded Turkestan, Kipzak, Russia, Hindostan, Syria, Anatolia, Armenia, and Georgia, without a hope or a desire of preserving those distunt provinces. From thence he departed, laden with spoil; but he left behind him neither troops to awe the contumucious, nor magistrates to protect the obedient, natives. When he had broken ^{*} Buildes the bloody paragraph of this marrailles. I must refer to an appreciation to the seath volume of the Dectars and Path, which, is a single more (y. 56, unto $5), accommission mer 200,000 heads of the minuminents of his study. Except to Rosse's play on the 200 of November, I and not expect to man of Transm's amisble sufficient (White's perfect, p. 7). Yet I am almost a generous automatem is the reader, and still more in the editor, of the farmeries.

LXV.

quar, the fabric of their ancient government, he abandoned them to the evils which his invasion had aggravated or caused; nor were these evils compensated by any present or possible benefits. 3. The kingdoms of Transoxiana and Persia were the proper field which he laboured to cultivate and adorne as the perpetual inheritance of his family. But his peaceful labours were often interrupted, and sometimes blasted, by the absence of the conqueror. While he triumphed on the Volga or the Ganges, his servants, and even his sons, forgot their muster and their duty. The public and private injuries were poorly redressed by the tardy rigour of enquiry and punishment; and we must be content to praise the Institutions of Timour as the specious idea of a · perfect monarchy. 4. Whatsoever might be the blessings of his administration, they evaporated with his life. 'Po reign, rather than to govern, was the ambition of his children and grandchildren," the enemies of each other and of the people. A fragment of the empire was upheld with some glory by Sharokh his youngest son; but after his decease, the scene was again involved in darkness and blood; and before the end of a century, Transoxiana and Persia were trampled by the Uzbeks from the north, and the Turkmans of the black and white sheep. The race of Timour would have been extinct, if an hero, his descendant in the fifth degree, had not findestan. His successors (the great Moguls) by extended their sway from the mountains of Cashmir to Cape Comorin, and from Candahar to the gulf of Bengal. Since the reign of Aurungzele, their captire has been dissolved; their treasures of Delhi have been rifled by a Persian robber, and the richest of their kingdoms is now possessed by a company of christian merchants, of a remote island in the Northern ocean.

[&]quot; Consolt the fast shaperes of Sherelphilir and Arabshah, and Ma de Guignes (Hist. des Hons, tom. le, 1. xs.), France's History of Nasdie Shah, p. 1-d2. The story of Timom's descendants is imperfectly rold, and the second and third parts of Sherefeldin are unknown.

Far different was the fate of the Ottoman cool ware monarchy. The many trunk was bent to the of the sen ground, but no sooner did the hurricane pass - 1 miaway, than it again rose with fresh vigour and 1411. more lively vegetation. When Timour, in every sense, had evacuated Anatolia, he left the cities without a palace, a treasure, or a king. The open country was overspread with bordes of shepherds and robbers of Tartar or Turkman origin; the recent conquests of Bajazet were restored to the emirs, one of whom, in base revenge, demolished his sepulchre; and his five sons were eager, by civil discord, to consume the remnant of their patrimony. I shall commerate their names in the order of their age and actions." 1. It is doubt- 1. Monaful, whether I relate the story of the true Musica-part pha, or of an impostor, who personated that lost

Shah Allum, the powerd Mogal, is in the fourteenth degree from Tomour, by Miran Shah, bit third and, first the second volume of Dow's History of Historya.

The civil case, from the death of Hajaser to ther of Mentagons, are related according to the Torial, b. Domerries Communic by 18-82. Of the Greene, Chakemayire it is individually in the 6, 20-32), and Discuss to 18-27), the say is the treat explaint and man proformed.

GHAP.

W. Lane.

prince. He fought by his father's side in the battle of Angura; but when the captive sultan was permitted to inquire for his children, Mousa alone could be found; and the Turkish historians, the slaves of the triumphant faction, are persuaded that his brother was confounded among the slain; If Mestapha escaped from that disastrous field, he was concealed twelve years from his friends and enemies, till be emerged in Thessaly, and was imiled by a numerous party, as the son and successor of Bajazet. His first defeat would have been his last, had not the true, or false, Mustapha been saved by the Greeks, and restored, after the decease of his brother Mahomet, to liberty and empire. A degenerate mind seemed to argue his spurious birth; and if, on the throne of Adrianople, he was adored as the Ottoman sultan, his flight, his fetters, and an ignominous gibbet, delivered the impostor to popular contempt. A simillar character and claim was asserted by several rival pretenders; thirty persons are said to have suffered under the name of Mustuphn; and these frequent executions may perhaps insimuate, that the Turkish court was not perfectly secure of the death of the lawful prince. 2. After his father's captivity, Isa' reigned for some time in the neighbourhood of Angora, Sinope, and the Black sea a and his umbassadors were dismissed from the presence of Timour with fair promises and honourable gifts. But their master was soon deprived of his province and life, by a jealous brother, the sovereign of Amasia; and the final event CHAR. suggested a pious allusion, that the law of Moses and Jesus, of Isa and Mousa had been abrogated by the greater Afahomet. 3. Solimun is not num-3. Salimin, bered in the list of the Turkish emperors: yet he 1403checked the victorious progress of the Moguls; and after their departure, united for a while the thrones of Adrianople and Boursa. In war he was brave, active, and unfortunate; his courage was softened by elemency; but it was likewise inflamed by presumption, and corrupted by intemperance and idleness. He relaxed the nerves of discipline, in a government where either the subject or the sovereign must continually tremble: his vices alienated the chiefs of the army and the law; and his daily drunkenness, so contemptible in a prince and a man, was doubly officus in a disciple of the prophet. In the slumber of intoxication he was surprised by his brother Mousa ; and as he fled from Adrianople towards the Byzantine capital, Soliman was overtaken and slain in a bath, after a reign of seven years and ten months. 4. The investiture of Mousa degraded a Mousa, him as the slave of the Moguis: his tributary a said. kingdom of Anatolia was confined within a marrow limit, nor could his broken militia and empty treasury contend with the hardy and veteran bands of the savereign of Romania. Mousa fied in disguise from the palace of Boursa; traversed the Propontis in an open hoat; wandered over the Wallachian and Servian hills; and after some vain attempts, ascended the throne of Adrianople, so recently stained with the blood of Sofiman. vot. XII.

^{*} Amenicals, turn is, v. 124, whose testimony on this occasion is society and educate. The existence of Las tenthown to the Turkey (a likewise confirmed by therefording (1 v. v. 57).

CHAP. In a reign of three years and a half, his troops
LXV.
were victorious against the christians of Hungary and the Morea; but Mousa was ruined by his timerous disposition and unseasonable elemency.

timorous disposition and unseasonable elemency.
After resigning the sovereignty of Anatolia, he fell a victim to the perfidy of his ministers, and the superior ascendant of his brother Mahomet.

5 Maho- 5. The final victory of Mahomet was the just has 1813 recompense of his prudence and moderation.
1421. Refere his father's captivity, the royal youth had

Before his father's captivity, the royal youth had been entrusted with the government of Amasia, thirty days journey from Constantinople, and the Turkish frontier against the christians of Trehizond and Georgia. The castle, in Asiatic warfare, was esteemed impregnable; and the city of Amasia," which is equally divided by the river Iris, rises on either side in the form of an amphitheatre, and represents on a smaller scale the image of Bagdad. In his rapid career, Timour appears to have overlooked this obscure and contunnelous angle of Anatolia; and Mahamet, without provoking the conqueror, maintained his silent independence, and chased from the province the last stragglers of the Tartar host. He relieved himself from the dangerous neighbourhood of Isa; but in the centests of their more powerful brethren, his firm neutrality was respected; till, after the triumph of Mousa, he stood forth the heir and avenger of the unfortunate Soliman, Mahomet obtained Anatolia by treaty, and Romania by arms; and the soldier who presented him with the head of Monsa, was rewarded as the Catar. benefactor of his king and country. The eight years of his sole and peaceful reign were usefully employed in banishing the vices of civil discord, and restoring on a firmer basis the fabric of the Ottoman monarchy. His last care was the choice of two vizirs. Bajazet and Harshim," who might beins of guide the youth of his son Amurath; and such a tegwas their union and prudence, that they concend-1451, ed above forty days the emperor's death, till the arrival of his successor in the palace of Hoursa, A new war was kindled in Europe by the prince, or impostor, Mustapha; the first vizir lost his army and his head; but the more fortunate Ibrahim, whose name and family are still revered, extinguished the last pretender to the throne of Bajazet, and closed the scene of domestic bestility.

^{*} Anniahah, i.e., eintt. Almifieda, Geograph, tab. 27ti, p. 302.
Boshequine, spirt, I, p. 96, 97, in Itinere C. P. et Americae.

In these conflicts, the wisest Turks, and indeed assume the body of the nation, were strongly attached to the stream the unity of the empire; and Romania and Ann-empire, tolia, so often torn asunder by private ambition, were unimated by a strong and invincible tendency of cohesion. Their efforts might have instructed the christian powers; and had they occupied with a confederate theet the straits of Gallipoli, the Ottomans, at least in Europe, must have been speedily annihilated. But the schism of the West, and the factions and wars of France and England, diverted the Latins from this generous enterprise:

13376

The street of Healton are present by a communicary Greek (Docas, c. 25). His descendants are the sale nobles in Turkey: Only content themselves with the administration of his pions foundations, are current from public offices, and receive two agrees with from the quiten (Cantemir, p. 76).

CHAP.

they enjoyed the present respite, without a thought of futurity; and were often tempted by a momentary interest to serve the common enemy of their religion. A colony of Genoese, which had been planted at Phocaca on the Ionian coast, was enriched by the lucrative monopoly of alum; and their tranquillity under the Turkish empire was secured by the annual payment of tribute. In the last civil war of the Ottomans, the Genoese governor, Adorno, a bold and ambitions youth, embraced the party of Amurath; and undertook, with seven stout gallies, to transport him from Asia to Europe. The sultan and five bundred guards embarked on hoard the admiral's ship, which was manned by eight hundred of the bravest Franks. His life and liberty were in their hands; nor can we, without reluctance, appland the fidelity of Adorno, who, in the midst of the passage, knelt before kim, and gratefully accepted a discharge of his arrears of tribute.

The Tunnymer (b. v. v. 19), Numbers Georges (b. 1), c. 7), Storrefoldin (b. v. v. 53), and Dines (c. 43). The decision of these, a curious and superal elegency, is smitted, from his lacts and station, to particular credit to all that sinceres total and the stands. Among the nations that coursed to New Physics, he mentions the English [Aggress); an early venture of Mediterranean trade.

^{*} For the spirit of environment Receion of auction Phoenic, or rather of the Phoenical, septemblished from book of Herndenica, and the Geographical index of his last and learned Freezik translator, Mo-Larcher tions, vil. p. 299).

Phones is not commutated by Phoy (Hist. Not. XXXX, 52) among the places positivity of alarm a he sections flying as the first, and for the second the late of Molos, where alone mines are described by Tour-nesfor from. . Sixtre or, a fravent and a naturalist. After the lass of Phones, the General in 1459, format that useful mineral in the life of Israhi (Islands), Bendinand, ad Durant, c. $5).

They landed in sight of Mustapha and Gallipoll; CHAT, two thousand Italians, armed with lances and battle-axes, attended Amurath to the conquest of Adrianople; and this venal service was soon repaid by the rain of the commerce and colony of Phocau.

If Timour had generously marched at the request and to the relief of the Greek emperor, he might be entitled to the praise and gratitude of the christians.1 But a mussulman, who carried into Georgia the sword of persecution, and respected the holy warfare of Bajazet, was not disposed to pity or succour the idolaters of Liurope. The Tartar followed the impulse of ambition; and the deliverance of Constantinople was the accidental consequence. When Manuel abdicated the government, it was his prayer, rather than his hope, that the ruin of the church and state might be delayed beyond his unhappy days; and after his return from a western pilgrimage, he expected every hour the news of the sad catastrophe. On a sudden, he was astonished and rejoiced by the intelligence of the retreat, the overthrow, and the captivity of the Ottoman. Manuel immediately sailed from Modon in the Morea ascended the throne of Constantinople; and dismissed his blind competitor to an easy exile in the isle of Lesbos. The umbassadors of the son of Bajazet were soon introduced to his presence ; but their pride was fallen, their tone was modest; they were awed by the just apprehension, lest the Greeks should open to the Mogula the gates of Europe. Soliman saluted the emperor by the name of father; solicited at his hands the government or gift of Romania; and promised to deserve histavour by inviolable friendship, and the restitution of Thessalonica, with the most important places along the Strymon, the Propontis, and the Black sea. The alliance of Soliman exposed the emperor to the enmity and revenge of Moursa; the Turks appeared in arms before the gates of Constuntinopie; but they were repulsed by sea and land; and unless the city was guarded by some foreign mercenaries, the Greeks must have wondered at their own triumph. But, instead of prolonging the division of the Ottoman powers, the policy or passion of Manuel was tempted to assist the most formidable of the sons of Bajazet. He concluded a treaty with Malicanet, whose progress was checked by the insuperable barrier of Gallipoli: the sultan and his troops were transported over the Bosphorus; he was hospitably entertained in the capital; and his successful sally was the first step to the conquest of Romania. The ruin was suspended by the prudence and moderation of the conqueror; he faithfully discharged his own obligations and those of Soliman, respected the CHAP. laws of gratitude and peace; and left the emperor guardian of his two younger sons, in the vain hope of saving them from the jealous crucky of their brother Amurath. But the execution of his last testament would have offended the mational honour and religion; and the divan unanimously pronounced, that the royal youths should never be abandoned to the custody and education of a christian dog. On this refusal, the Byzantine councils were divided; but the age and caution of Manuel yielded to the presumption of his son John; and they unsheathed a dangerous wenpon of revenge, by dismissing the true or false Mustapha, who had long been detained as a captive and hostage, and for whose maintenance they received an annual pension of three hundred thousand aspers." At the door of his prison, Mustapha subscribed to every proposal; and the keys of Gallipoli, or rather of Europe, were stipulated as the price of his deliverance. But no sooner was he seated on the throne of Romania, than he dismissed the Greek ambassadors with a smile of contempt, declaring, in a pious tone, that, at the day of judgment, he would rather answer for the violation of an oath, than for the surrender of a mussulman city into the hands of the infidels. The emperor was at once the enemy of the two rivals; from whom he had sustained,

^{*} The writer who has most aloned this falmious generoity is our fogunants. Sir William Temple this works, vol. iii, p. 349, 320, estate addition), that loves of easile virtue. After the compact of Rinals, &c. and the promps of the Dannber, his Tarses here releaves, virtue, admires, and refuses, the city of Constantios. His fluttering punit declares in every line from the truth of history; yet his pleasing feations are more excussible than the gross errors of Contention.

⁾ For the reigns of Manual and John, of Matesanti i, and Approach is, see the Otheran history of Containing tp. 70-70, and the three Greeks, Chalemodyres, Phrancia, and Ducas, who is still acceviar to his rivale.

CHAP.

The Turkish aspectfrom the Greek accepts in, or war, a place of white or office manay, at present much deband, but which was functively equivalent to the city-faunth part, at least, of a Vermilla dural or expelled and the 200,000 aspert, a princely allowance or ray if tolera, may be compared at 2500% exerting (Lengthey, Pandon, Part, p. 406-408).

CHAP.

and to whom he had offered, an injury; and the victory of Amurath was followed, in the ensuing spring, by the siege of Constantinople."

Sage of Constantinepte by Amurath to a. s. 1422. June 10-August 24

The religious merit of subduing the city of the Caesars attracted from Asia a crowd of volunteers, who aspired to the crown of martyrdom: their military andour was inflamed by the promise of rich spoils and beautiful females; and the sultan's ambition was consecrated by the presence and prediction of Seid Bechar, a descendant of the prophet," who arrived in the camp, on a mule, with a venerable train of five hundred disciples. But he might blush, if a fanatic could blush, at the failure of his assurances. The strength of the walls resisted an army of two hundred thousand Turks: their assaults were repelled by the sallies of the Greeks and their foreign. mercenaries; the old resources of defence were opposed to the new engines of attack; and the enthusiasm of the dervish, who was snatched to heaven in visionary converse with Mahomet was answered by the credulity of the christians, who beheld the virgin Mary, in a violet garment, walking on the rampart and animating their courage. After a siege of two months, Amurath was recalled to Boursa by a domestic revolt, [&]quot; For the mage of Constantinople in 1822, see the particular and contemporary marrative of John Constant, published by Lee Affathus, at the end of his colline of Acropoliticity, 148-1995.

^{*} Cartemir, p. 80. Commun. Who describes Sold Bechar without naming him, supposes that the friend of Mahomer assumed in his amounts the privilege of a propher, and that the fariest of the Grock nime wave promised to the saint and his disciples.

^{*} For this mirrardians apparition, Cananus appeals to the emesulthan solut a but who will bear scatiment for Sciel Becker 2 which had been kindled by Greek treachery, and CHAP, was soon extinguished by the death of a guiltless brother. While he led his janizaries to new the conquests in Europe and Asia, the Byzantine Palsons empire was indulged in a servile and precarious the state respite of thirty years. Manuel sunk into the subject grave, and John Palsologus was permitted to occorrain reign, for an annual tribute of three hundred thousand aspers, and the dereliction of almost all that he held beyond the suburbs of Constantinuple.

In the establishment and restoration of the mountary Turkish empire, the first merit must doubtless be were used assigned to the personal qualities of the sultans; will on since, in human life, the most important scenes will depend on the character of a single actor. By some shades of wisdom and virtue, they may be discriminated from each other; but, except in a single instance, a period of nine reigns and two hundred and sixty-five years is occupied, from the elevation of Othman to the death of Soliman, by a rare series of warlike and active princes, who impressed their subjects with obedience and their enemies with terror. Instead of the dothful luxury of the scruglio, the heirs of royalty were educated in the council and the field; from early youth they were entrusted by their fathers with the command of provinces and armies; and this manly institution, which was often productive of civil war, must have essentially contributed to the discipline and vigour of the monarchy. The Ottomans cannot style themselves, like the Arabian caliphs, the descendants or successors of the apostle of God; and the cnar, kindred which they claim with the Tarter khans of the house of Zingis appears to be founded in finitery, rather than in trath." Their origin is obscure; but their sucred and indefeasible right, which no time can cruse and no violence can infringe, was soon and unalterably implanted in the minds of their subjects. A weak or victous sultan may be deposed and strangled; but his inheritance devolves to an infant or an idiot; nor has the most during rebel presumed to escend the throne of his lawful savornign. While the transient dynasties of Asia have been continually subverted by a crafty vizir in the palace, or a victorious general in the camp, the Ottoman succession has been confirmed by the practice of five centuries, and is now incorporated with the vital principle of the Turkish nation.

To the spirit and constitution of that nation, a sent deal strong and singular influence may however be ascribed. The primitive subjects of Othman were the four hundred families of wandering Turkmans, who had followed his ancestors from the Oxus to the Sangar; and the plains of Anatolia are still covered with the white and black tents of their rustic brethren. But this original drop was

 See Record G. L. c. 13a. The Turkish advance assume the title of kines. Yes Abulahari is agreement of his Ottomas consten.

The third grand state of the same of Kingarit, who was shin is the hertie of Salani-amondin 1991 (Cantender, p. 292), president to say, that all the anexages of Salanian had been fools or tylents, and that if was time to abolich the rare obtained parts Military, e.c. p. 28). This political involves a good wide, and justified a pinal the French and south the revolution of England (Mignat, Hist. Ottomass, tamelie p. 434). His presumption condemns the singular exception of controlling offices in the same family.

dissolved in the mass of voluntary and vanquished curary subjects, who, under the name of Turks, are LXV. united by the common ties of religion, language, and manners. In the cities, from Erzeroum to Belgrade, that national appellation is common to all the Moslems, the first and most honourable inhabitants; but they have abandoned, at least in Romania, the villages and the cultivation of the land to the christian peasants. In the vigorous age of the Ottoman government, the Turks were themselves excluded from all civil and military honours; and a servile class, an artificial people, was raised by the discipline of education to obey, to conquer, and to command. From the time of Orchan and the first Amurath, the sultans were persuaded that a government of the sword must be renewed in each generation with new soldiers; and that such soldiers must be sought, not in effeminate Asia, but among the hardy and warlike natives of Europe. The provinces of Thrace, Macedonia, Albania, Bulgaria, and Servia, became the perpetual seminary of the Turkish army; and when the royal fifth of the captives was diminished by conquest, an inhuman tax of the fifth child, or of every fifth year, was rigorously levied on the christian families. At the age of twelve or fourteen years, the most robust youths were torn from their parents; their names were enrolled in a book; and from that moment they were clothed, taught, and maintained, for the public service. According to the promise of their appearance, they were selected for the royal schools of Boursa, Pera, and Adrianuple, entrusted to the care of the bashaws, or dispersed in the houses of the Anatolian peasantry. It was the first care of their masters to instruct them in the Turkish language: their bodies were exercised by every labour that could fortify their strength: they learned to wrestle, to leap, to run, to shoot with the bow, and afterwards with the musket; till they were drafted into the chambers and companies of the janizaries, and severely trained in the military or monastic discipline of The youths most conspicuous for the order. birth, talents, and beauty, were admitted into the inferior class of agiamoglans, or the more liberal rank of ichoglans, of whom the former were attached to the palace, and the latter to the person of the prince. In four successive schools, under the rod of the white cunuchs, the arts of horsemanship and of darting the javelm were their daily exercise, while those of a more studious cast applied themselves to the study of the korae, and the knowledge of the Arabic and Persian tongues. As they advanced in seniority and merit, they were gradually dismissed to military, civil, and even occlesiastical employments: the longer their stay, the higher was their expectation; till, at a mature period, they were admitted into the mimher of the forty agus, who stood before the sultan, and were promoted by his choice to the government of provinces and the first honours of the empire. Such a mode of institution was admi- DHAP. rably adapted to the form and spirit of a despotic monarchy. The ministers and generals were, in the strictest sense, the slaves of the emperor, to whose bounty they were indebted for their instruction and support. When they left the seraglio, and suffered their heards to grow as the symbol of enfranchisement, they found themselves in an important office, without faction or friendship, without parents and without heirs, dependent on the hand which had raised them from the dust, and which, on the slightest displeasure, could break in pieces these statues of glass, as they are aptly termed by the Turkish proverb.* In the slow and painful steps of educution, their character and talents were unfolded to a discerning eye: the man, naked and alone, was reduced to the standard of his personal merit; and, if the sovereign had wisdom to chuse, he possessed a pure and boundless liberty of choice. The Ottoman candidates were trained by the virtues of abstinence to those of action; by the habits of submission to those of command. A similar spirit was diffused among the troops; and their silence and saleriety, their patience and modesty, have extorted the reluc-

^{*} Chalematyles (i. v) and Dimes (c. 12) calabit the rule linearistics of the Ottoman policy, and the transmitation of christian chalence into Turkish solution.

CHAP.

This sketch of the Turkish education and dacipline is chiefly herrewed from Birate's State of the Ottoman ampire, the State Millians dell'Imperio Ottomanno of Count Marsigh to Hays, 1732, or color, and a Description of the Sanados, approved by Mr. Greates himself, a crabbin servation, and appeared in the second beautic of the works.

[&]quot; Promethe series of 115 viries till the corps of Vomma (Massigli, p. 15) their place may be valued at these years and a half partition.

CHAP, tant praise of their christian enemies." Nor can the victory appear doubtful, if we compare the discipline and exercise of the janicaries with the pride of birth, the independence of chivalry, the ignorance of the new levies, the mutinous temper of the veterans, and the vices of intemperance and disorder, which so long contaminated the armies of Europeformulas. and this of gumgarrisher.

The only hope of salvation for the Greek empire and the adjacent kingdoms, would have been some more powerful weapon, some discovery in the art of war, that should give them a decisive superiority over their Turkish foes. Such a weapon was in their hands; such a discovery had been made in the critical moment of their fate. The chemists of China or Europe had found, by casual or elaborate experiments, that a mixture of saltpetre, sulphur, and charcoal, produces, with a spark of fire, a tremendous explosion. It was soon observed, that if the expansive force were compressed in a strong tube, a ball of stone or iron might be expelled with irresistible and destructive velocity. The precise era of the invention and application of gunpowder' is involved in doubtful traditions and equivocal language; yet we may clearly discorn, that it was known before the middle of the fourteenth century; and that before the end of the same, the use of artillery in battles and sieges, by sea and land, was familiar to the states of Germany, Italy, Spain, France, and England. CHAP. The priority of nations is of small account; none could durive any exchaive benefit from their previous or superior knowledge; and in the common improvement they stood on the same level of relative power and military science. Nor was it possible to circumscribe the secret within the pale of the church; it was disclosed to the Turks by the trenchery of apostates and the selfish policy of rivals; and the sultans had sense to indopt, and wealth to reward, the tatents of a christian engineer. The Genoese, who transported Amurath into Europe, must be accused as his preceptors; and it was probably by their hands that his cannon was cast and directed at the siege of Constantinople.* The first attempt was indeed unsuccessful; but in the general warfare of the age, the advantage was on their side, who were most commonly the assallants: for a while the proportion of the attack and defence was suspended; and this thundering

[.] See the entertaining and judicious letters of Husbrequius.

⁷ The first and second volumes of Dr. Watson's Chemical Essays contain two valuable discourses on the discovery and composition of gunpawder.

^{*} On this subject, made in testimanus cannot be fracted. The original process are reduced by Darman (Ches. Latin. 1888), p. 675.

Restands. But in the early designal reslight, the same, so and, fire, and effect, that some to express our artillary, may be tainly compressed of the old suppless and the Greek from The the Ragital parameter of the old suppless and the Greek from The the Ragital parameter weighted against the attence of France Ver. Murains (Antiquit, Italian modil 28s), tons, it, Blasset, taxis, p. 514, 515) has produced a familiar passage from Paramete (in Ramadile utrinsque Farture Design, who, hence the year 1344, exercises this terresistal theretay, approximate the original state of the process.

The Turkish common, which Domes (c. 30) first immediate Belgrachi (a. a. 1636) is margined by Chalemaryles (i. s. p. 123) in 1422, at the single of Constantinopie.

LXV.

ers which had been erected only to resist the less potent engines of antiquity. By the Venetians, the use of gunpowder was communicated without reproach to the sultans of Egypt and Persia, their allies against the Ottoman power; the secret was soon propagated to the extremities of Asia; and the advantage of the European was confined to his easy victories over the savages of the new world. If we contrast the rapid progress of this mischievous discovery with the slow and laborious advances of reason, science, and the arts of peace, a philosopher, according to his temper, will laugh or weep at the folly of mankind.

CHAP, LXVI.

Applications of the eastern emperors to the poper.— Visits to the West, of John the first, Manuel, and John the second, Palarologus.—Union of the Greek end Latin churches, promoted by the council of Basil, and concluded at Ferrara and Florence.—State of literature at Constantinople.—Its revival in Haly by the Greek Juguines.—Curiosity and emulation of the Leints.

Is the four last centuries of the Greek emperors, CHAP. their friendly or hostile aspect towards the pope LXVL and the Latins may be observed as the thermo-Industrial meter of their prosperity or distress, as the scale of the youngtherise and fall of the barbarian dynasties. When cas in one the Turks of the house of Schiuk pervaded Asia, xu. and threatened Constantinople, we have seen, at a 1200. the council of Placentia, the suppliant ambassadors of Alexius imploring the protection of the common father of the christians. No sooner had the arms of the French pilgrims removed the sultan from Nice to Iconium, than the Greek princes resumed, or avowed, their genuine hatred and contempt for the schismatics of the West, which preeinifated the first downfall of their empire. The date of the Mogul invasion is marked in the soft and charitable language of John Vataces. After the recovery of Constantinople, the throne of the first Paleologus was encompassed by foreign and domestic enemies; as long as the sword of Charles was suspended over his head he basely courted the favour of the Roman pontist, and sacrificed to the present danger his faith, his virtue, and the affection of his subjects. On the decease of Michael, the prince and people asserted the independence of the church and the parity of their creed; the elder Andronicus neither feared nor loved the Latins: in his last distress pride was the safeguard of superstition; nor could be decently retract in his age the firm and orthodox declarations of his youth. His grandson, the younger Andronicus, was less a slave in his temper and situation; and the conquest of Bithynia by the Turks admonished him to seek a temporal and spiritual alliance with the Western princes. After a separation and silence of fifty years, a secret erent, the monk Barham, was disputched to pope Benedict the twelfth; and his artful instructions appear to have been drawn by the master-hand of the great domestic." " Most holy father," was be commissioned to say, " the emperor is not less and amon- se desirous than yourself of an union between the " two churches: but in this delicate transaction, " he is obliged to respect his own dignity and "the prejudices of his subjects. The ways of

VOL. XII.

CHAP-LEWI

The argumouris file a ventado

^{*} This cortion instruction was transcribed (I believe) from the Vatime stubless, by Odorieus Raynaldies, in his Communition of the Annais of Baronina (Rome, 1646-1677, in ter volumes in futio). 1 have commuted moself with the able Fleury (Hist, Ecclesiastique, term ux, p. 1-8), whose shatrants I have always found to be clear, on, evente, and importial.

"union are two-fold; force and persuasion. Of CHAR. "force, the inefficacy has been already tried; LXVI, " since the Lutinshave subdued the empire, with-" out subduing the minds, of the Greeks. The " method of personsion, though slow, is sure and er permanent. A deputation of thirty or forty of " our doctors would probably agree with those of " the Vatican, in the love of truth and the unity " of belief, but on their return, what would be the " use, the recompense of such agreement? the " scorn of their brethren, and the reproaches of a " blind and obstinate nation. Yet that nation is " accustomed to reverence the general councils, " which have fixed the articles of our faith; and " if they reprobate the decrees of Lyons, it is be-" cause the Eastern churches were neither heard " nor represented in that arbitrary meeting. For " this salutary end, it will be expedient, and even " necessary, that a well-chosen legate should be " sent into Greece, to convene the patriarchs of " Constantinople, Alexandria, Antioch, and Je-" rusalent; and, with their aid, to prepare a free " and universal senod. But at this moment," continued the subtleagent, "the empire is assended and endangered by the Turks, who have " occupied four of the greatest cities in Anatolia. "The christian inhabitants have expressed a wish " of returning to their allegiance and religion; " but the forces and revenues of the emperor are " insufficient for their deliverance; and the Ro-" man legate must be accompanied, or preceded, " by an army of Franks, to expel the infidels, and " open a way to the holy sepalchre." If the suspicious Latins should require some pleilge, CHAP, some previous effect of the sincerity of the Greeks, the answers of Barlaam were perspicuous and rational. " I. A general synod can a-"Ione consummate the union of the churches; " nor can such a synod be held till the three " Oriental patriarchs, and a great number of " bishops, are enfranchised from the mahometan " yoke. 2. The Greeks are alienated by a long " series of oppression and injury : they must be " re-outiled by some act of brotherly love, some " effectual succour, which may fortify the au-" thority and arguments of the emperor, and the " friends of the union. 3. If some difference of " faith or ceremonies should be found incurable, " the Greeks however are the disciples of Christ; " and the Turks are the common enemies of the "christian name. The Armenians, Cyprians, " and Rhodians, are equally attacked; and it will become the piety of the French princes to " draw their swords in the general defence of religion. 4. Should the subjects of Androni-" cus be treated as the worst of schismatics, of " hereties, of pagans, a judicious policy may yet " instruct the powers of the West to embrace " an useful ally, to uphold a sinking empire, to " guard the confines of Europe; and rather to " join the Greeks against the Turks, than to ex-" pect the union of the Turkish arms with the troops and treasures of captive Greece," The reasons, the offers, and the demands, of Andronicus, were cluded with cold and stately indifference. The kings of France and Naples declined the dangers and glory of a crusade : the pope refused to call a new synod to determine old articles of cuar. faith; and his regard for the obsolete claims of EXVIthe Latin emperor and clergy engaged him to use an offensive superscription; " To the mode-" rator" of the Greeks, and the persons who " style themselves the patriarchs of the Eastern " churches." For such an embassy, a time and character less propitious could not easily have been found. Benedict the twelfth was a dull pensant, perplexed with scruples, and immersed in sloth and wine; his pride might enrich with a third crown the panal tiara, but he was alike unfit for the regal and the pastoral office.

After the decease of Andronicus, while the Newson-Greeks were distracted by intestine war, they time of Concould not presume to agitate a general union of "the Cathe christians. But as soon as Cantacuzene had . . . Dis. subdued and pardoned his enemies, he was anxious to justify, or at least to extenuate, the introduction of the Turks into Europe, and the nuntials of his daughter with a mussulman prince.

* The embiguity of this title is happy reingenious; and somewher, at 15 orthymnas its rooter, galeranies, in a wind of absorbit, and even Coccoman, Lathuny, which may be found, not in the Glassey of Davcoope, but in the Tomorrow of Botart Stephana.

[.] The next speaks relay titudes of Patrach exposes the danger of the Anch; and the incorpacity of the polot. Harr letter, then embling myp. gravis ar soportiem to re perfusas, jampun muttat, damutat, jam source perserve, stepse cottinum seleny rolt Here quanto tobales. partito terrant sulcasset aratto, quam acalmum piaratarium accentiaet, This arrive emptyon his hierorphic to mainly the virtues and simulations Benndler an, which have been exaggregated by Guelphs and Ohibilions. le projeta and protestanti (etc. Mematres ant la Vie de Petrarque, term is p. 259, its not. up, p. 13-105. He gare examine to the say: rog, Bilianne paraliter.

LXVI.

Two officers of state, with a Latin interpreter, were sent in his name to the Roman court, which was transplanted to Avignon, on the banks of the Rhone, during a period of seventy years; they represented the hard necessity which had urged him to embrace the alliance of the miscreants, and pronounced by his command the specious and odifying sounds of union and crusade. Pupe Clement the distin," the successor of Benedies, received them with hospitality and honour, ac nowledged the innovence of their sovereign, excused his distress, applicated his magnatimity, and displayed a clear knowledge of the state and revolutions of the Greek empire, which he had imbibed from the honest accounts of a Savoyard lady, an attendant of the empress Anne." If Clement was ill endowed with the virtues of a priest, he passessed however the spirit and magnificence of a prince, whose liberal hand distributed benefices and kingdoms with equal facility. Under his reign Avignon was the sent of pomp and pleasure; in his youth he had surpassed the licentiousness of a baron; and the palace, nay, the bed-chamber of the pope, was adorned, or pol-

Her same (most probably corrupted) was Zampen. She had accomputated, and alone remained with her micross at Constantinople, where her produce, crudinon, and publishess, descreed the probable.

of the Greeks them olves (Continuenten, le 1, c. 12).

^{*} See the original lives of Clement vi, in Maratori (Script, rarum Trallearum, non, ill, p. 1), p. 530, 280; i Marator (Stript, Clement, ill, c. 43, in Maratori, term siv, p. 186); who styles bire, melto cavallarence, pose orilgions; Flaury (Rict, Eccess, term a.e., p. 120); and the Vie de Petrarque Guen, il, p. 42-45. The abbs ile Sale treats him with the most indulgence; but he is a gentlement as well as a priest.

inted, by the visits of his female invourites. The CHARwars of France and England were adverse to the holy enterprise; but his vanity was amused by the splendid idea; and the Greek umbassadors returned with two Latin bishops, the ministers of the pontiff. On their arrival at Constantinople the emperor and the nancios admired each other's piety and eloquence; and their frequent conferences were filled with mutual praises and promises, by which both parties were amused, and neither could be deceived. " I am delighted," said the devout Cantacuzene, " with the project " of our hely war, which must redound to my " personal glory as well as to the public benefit of Christendom. My dominions will give a " free passage to the armies of Francer my troops, " my gallies, my treasures, shall be consecrated " to the common cause; and happy would be " my fate, could I deserve and obtain the crown "of martyrdom. Words are insufficient to exse press the ardour with which I sigh for the re-" union of the scattered members of Christ. If " my death could avail, I would gladly present " my sword and my neck; if the spiritual phornix " could arise from my ashes, I would creet the " pile, and kindle the flame with my own bands." Yet the Greek emperor presumed to observe, that the articles of faith which divided the two churches had been introduced by the pride and precipitation of the Latins; he disclaimed the servile and arbitrary steps of the first Paleologus; and firmly declared, that he would never submit his conscience, unless to the decrees of a free and

LXVL

GHAP, universal synod. "The situation of the times," continued he, " will not allow the pope and my-" self to meet either at Rome or Constantinople: " but some maritime city may be chosen on the " verge of the two empires, to unite the bishops, " and to instruct the faithful, of the East and "West." The nuncios seemed content with the proposition; and Cantacuzene affects to deplore the failure of his hopes, which were soon overthrown by the death of Clement, and the different temper of his successor. His own life was prolonged, but it was prolonged in a cloister: and, except by his prayers, the humble mank was incapable of directing the counsels of his pupil or the state."

Yet of all the Bezantine princes, that pupil, Treaty of John Palm-John Palasologus, was the best disposed to emofograss to win Inno brace, to believe, and to obey, the shapherd of the cetts, wen a. a. ram, West. His mother, Anne of Savoy, was buptized in the bosom of the Latin church; her marriage with Andronicus imposed a change of name, of apparel, and of worship, but her heart was still faithful to her country and religion : she had formed the infancy of her son, and she governed the emperor, after his mind, or at least his stature, was enlarged to the size of man. In the first year of his deliverance and restoration, the Turks were still masters of the Hellespont; the son of Cantacuzene was in arms at Adrianople; and Palæologus could depend neither on himself

See this whole negociation in Cantaguages (Liv, c. 9), who, amids the process and virtues which he bestows on himself, reveals the one bissions of a guilty committee.

nor on his people. By his mother's advice, and cuar. in the hope of foreign nid, he abjured the rights LXVI. both of the church and state; and the act of slavery, subscribed in purple ink, and scaled with the colden buil, was privately intrusted to an Italian agent. The first article of the treaty is no eath of fidelity and obedience to Innocent the the sixth and his successors, the supreme pontials of the Roman and catholic church. The emperor promises to entertain with due reverence their legates and numeios; to assign a palace for their residence, and a temple for their worship; and to deliver his second son Minmel as the hostage of his faith. For these condescensions he requires a prompt succour of fifteen gallies, with five hundred men at arms, and a thousand archers, to serve against his christian and mussulman enemies. Palacologus engages to impose ou his clergy and people the same spiritual yoke; but as the resistance of the Greeks might be jurtly forescen, he adopts the two effectual as thods of corruption and education. The legate was empowered to distribute the vacant benefices among the ecclesiastics who should subscribe the creed of the Vatican: three schools were instituted to instruct the youth of Constantinople in the language and doctrine of the Latins; and the name of Andronions, the heir of the empire, was enrolled as the first student. Should be full in the measures of persuasion or force, Paleologus declares himself

See this ignominious treaty is Flory (Hist, Richard, Little 1844). from Raymoldar, who depo it from the Voticess archives. It was not worth the treesle of a proon forgrey.

CHAP LXVI. * unworthy to reign; transferred to the pope all regal and paternal authority; and invests Innocent with full power to regulate the family, the government, and the marriage, of his son and successor. But this treaty was neither executed nor published: the Roman gullies were as vain and imaginary as the admission of the Greeks; and it was only by the secreey, that their sovereign escaped the dishonour, of this fruitless humiliation.

While of John Pa-Improgras at Hours. 260

The tempest of the Turkish arms soon burst on his head; and, after the loss of Adrianople and to Ortan v. Romania, he was inclosed in his capital, the vas-. . 1309, sal of the haughty Amurath, with the miserable October 13, hope of being the last devoured by the savage. In this abject state Paleologus embraced the resolution of embarking for Venice, and casting himself at the feet of the pope; he was the first of the Byzantine princes who had ever visited the onknown regions of the West; yet in them alone he could seek consolution or relief; and with less violation of his dignity he might appear in the sacred college than at the Ottoman Porte. After a long absence the Roman poutiffs were returning from Avignon to the banks of the Tyber: Urban the fifth, of a mild and virtuous character, encouraged or allowed the pilgrimage of the Greek prince; and, within the same year, ^{*} See the two first original lives of Urbert v On Munteri, Script, rerum Indicacum, tom. iil. p. ii, p. 623, 635), and the Recissionical Annals of Spondarus term i, p. 573, e, s. 1365, No. 7, and Raynuldue (Fleury, Hist, Ecclet. tont, xx, p. 223, 224). Yet, from some variations, I empect the papel writers of alightly magnifying the grewitherious of Palarslogue.

enjoyed the glory of receiving in the Vatican the CHAP. two imperial slandows, who represented the majesty of Constautine and Charlemagne. In this suppliant visit the emperor of Constantinople, whose vanity was lost in his distress, gave more than could be expected of empty sounds and formal submissions. A previous trial was imposed ; and in the presence of four cardinals, he arknowledged, as a true catholic, the supremacy of the pope, and the double procession of the Fiely Ghost. After this purification he was introduced to a public audience in the church of St. Peter; Urban, in the midst of the cardinals, was scated on his throne; the Greek monarch, after three genuflexions, devoutly kissed the feet, the hands, and at length the mouth, of the holy father, who celebrated high mass in his presence, allowed him to lead the bridle of his mule, and treated him with a samptuous banquet in the Vatican. The entertainment of Palacologus was friendly and henourable; yet some difference was observed between the emperors of the East and West; nor could the former be entitled to the rare privilege of chaunting the gospel in the rank of a deacon. In favour of his proselyte, Urhan

* Paulle mines quam at friesrt Imperator Remanarum. Yet his title of Imperator Grammum was no langer disputed (Vit. Urban v. p. 623).

^{*} It was combined to the successors of Christmagne, and to their mily on Christmas day. On all other festivals these imperial docume were content to serve the pape, as he said uses, with the book and the copound. Yet the able de Sade governody thinks, that the marks of Chirics is might have entitled hint, though not on the proper day (a. c. 1368, November 1), to the whole privilege. He seems to sale a just value on the privilege and the man (Vic de Petrorque, tests like p. 735).

CHAP:

and the other powers of the West; but he found them cold in the general cause, and active only in their domestic quarrels. The last hope of the emperor was in an English more enary, John Flawkwood, or Acuto, who with a band of adventurers, the white brotherhood, had ravaged

* Italy from the Alps to Calabria; sold his services to the hostile states; and incurred a just excommunication by shooting his arrows against the papal residence. A special licence was granted to negotiate with the outlaw, but the forces, or the spirit, of Hawkwood were unequal to the enterprize; and it was for the advantage, perhaps, of Paleologus to be disappointed of a succour, that must have been costly, that could not be effectual, and which might have been dangerous."
The disconsolate Greek* prepared for his return.

Through some Indian corruptions, the expandage of Poisses in love (Marco Villaid, L. 15, c. 16, to Minutert, tom. 21, p. 746), augment the English word Hawkwood, the true name of our adventurous countrymen. (Phoesis Walshegman, Hist Angliers, into Scriptore Cambridge, p. 184). After two and twenty virtories, and our defeat, is died, to 1594, general of the Phoesis, and was buried with such homours as the republic has not pull Dante or Petrarch (Marason), Annuli d'Italia, tom. 25, p. 212-371).

This torrent of finglish the barth or services overflowed from France into Italy after the powe of Bretigny in 1980. Yet the explanation of Minestell (Annata, num. xii, p. 197) is rather true than trulk.  Chammara agent quates, the dopo court calpointed Plantin da tante manadieri Toorieria sa Unglorei, ventuero sin dall' tripbilitere autoi cani a kuire di divoraria.

^{*} Chairconstyles, I. I. 35, 36. The Greek approximation journey to the king of France, which is commently refused by the since of the settlemal historians. Now and I much show inclined to believe that Paramategue deported from Italy, walds been completes at confidence (Vis. Urban v. c. 623.)

but even his return was impeded by a most case. ignominious obstacle. On his arrival at Venice EXVE he had borrowed large sums at exorbitant usury; but his coffers were empty, his creditors were impatient, and his person was detained as the best security for the payment. His eldest son Andronicus, the regent of Constantinople, was repeatedly. nrged to exhaust every resource; and, even by stripping the churches, to extricate his father from captivity and disgrace. But the unnatural youth was insensible of the disgrace, and secretly pleased with the captivity, of the emperor; the state was poor, the chergy were obstinate; nor could some religious scraple be wanting to excuse the guilt of his indifference and delay. Such undutiful neglect was severely reproved by the piety. of his brother Manuel, who instantly sold or mortgaged all that he possessed, embarked for Venice, relieved his father, and pledged his own freedom to be responsible for the debt. On his His return return to Constantinople the parent and king timple, distinguished his two sons with suitable rewards : " a 1370. but the faith and manners of the slothful Palæologus had not been improved by his Roman pilgrimage; and his apostacy or conversion, devoid of any spiritual or temporal effects, was speedily forgotten by the Greeks and Latins,*

Thirty years after the return of Palæologus, Visit of the his son and successor, Manuel, from a similar Manuel motive, but on a larger scale, again visited the

His return in 1370, and the recomming of Manuel, Sept. 25, 1373 (Durange, Fam. Byzant. p. 241), baccas seme intermediate are for the computery and pumphyment of Andreascon.

LEVL

Jime 3:

CHAP, countries of the West In a preceding chapter I have related his treaty with Bajazet, the violation of that treaty, the siege or blockade of Constantinople, and the French succour under the command of the gallant Boucicault. By his ambassadors. Manuel had solicited the Latin powers; but it was thought that the presence of a distressed monarch would draw tears and supplies from the hardest barbarians; and the marshal who adwined the journey, prepared the reception of the Byzantine prince. The land was occupied by the Turks; but the navigation of Venice was safe and open; Italy received him as the first, or, at least, as the second of the christian princes; Manuel was pitied as the champion and confessor of the faith; and the dignity of his behaviour prevented that pity from sinking into contempt. From Venice he proceeded to Padus and Pavia; and even the duke of Milan, a secret ally of Bajazet, gave him safe and honourable conduct to to the contine verge of his dominions.' On the confines of of Prince, France, the royal officers undertook the care Memoires de Bousteault, p. 1, c 35, 36.

* His journey into the west of Europe is slightly, and I believe re-Instantly, noticed by Chale mayles () it, c. 14-307 and Process c. 14);

of his person, journey, and expences; and two

^{*} Muraturi, Amusi d'Italia, tom att, p. 600. Julii Galingro was the first and must preserved dake of Milms. His connection with Bajanet is attented by Francisch ; and he santributed to save and delive the French enprises of Nicopolis-

^{*} For the reception of Manual at Pures, my Spondance (Annal Eq. cles, tom. 1, p. 676, 677, a. a. 1400, No. 5), who quotes Juvened dus Brains, and the munk of St. Drayer and Villaret (Hint de France, torn, vil., p. 331-334), who quares polesty, seconding to the last fushion of the French writers."

thousand of the richest citizens, in arms and on CHAP. horseback, came forth to meet him as far as Charenton, in the neighbourhood of the capital, At the gates of Paris, he was saluted by the chancellor and the parliament; and Charles the sixth, attended by his princes and nobles, welcomed his brother with a cordial embrace. The successor of Constantine was clothed in a robe of white silk, and mounted on a milk-white steed; a circumstance, in the French ceremonial, of singular importance: the white colour is considered as the symbol of sovereignity; and, in a late visit, the German emperor, after an haughty demand and a prevish refusal, had been reduced to content himself with a black courser. Mannet was lodged in the Louvre; a succession of feasts and balls, the pleasures of the banquet and the chace, were ingeniously varied by the politeness of the French, to display their magnificence and amuse his grief; he was indulged in the liberty of his chapel; and the doctors of the Sorbonne were astonished, and possibly scandalised, by the language, the rites, and the vestments, of his Greek clergy. But the slightest glance on the state of the kingdom must teach him to despair of any effectual assistance. The unfortunate Charles, though he enjoyed some lucid intervals, continually relapsed into furious or stupid insanity: the reins of government were alternately seized by his brother and uncle, the dukes of Orleans and Burgundy, whose factious competition prepared the miseries of civil war. The former was a gay youth, dissolved in luxury and love : the latter was the father of John count of Nevers, who had so lately been ransomed from Turkish captivity; and, if the fearless sm was ardent to revenge his defeat, the more prudent Burgundy was content with the cost and peril of the first experiment. When Manuel had satinted the curiosity, and perhaps fatigued the putience, of the French, he resolved on a visit to the adefEngland jacent island. In his progress from Dover he besider, was entertained at Canterbury withduereverence by the prior and monks of St. Austin; and, on Blackheath, king Henry the fourth, with the English court, saluted the Greek hero (I copy our old historian), who, during many days, was ladged and treated in London as emperor of the East.' But the state of England was still more adverse to the design of the holy war. In the same year the bereditary sovereign had been deposed and murdered; the reigning prince was a successful usurper, whose ambition was punished by jealousy and remorse; nor could Henry of Lancaster withdraw his person or forces from the defence of a throne incessantly shaken by conspiracy and rebellion. He pitied, he praised, he feasted, the emperor of Constantinople; but if the English monarch assumed the cross, it was only to appease his people, and perhaps his con- CHAP. science, by the merit or semblance of this pious LXVI. intention." Satisfied, however, with gifts and" honours, Manuel returned to Paris; and, after a me return residence of two years in the West, shaped his Gower course through Germany and Italy, embarked at Venice, and patiently expected, in the Mores, the moment of his ruin or deliverance. Yet ac had escaped the ignominious necessity of offering his religion to public or private sale. The Latin church was distracted by the great schism: the kings, the nations, the universities, of Europe, were divided in their obedience between the popes of Rome and Avignor; and the emperor, anxious to conciliate the friendship of both parties, abstained from any correspondence with the indigent and impopular rivals. His journey coincided with the year of the jubilee; but he passed through Italy without desiring, or deserving, the plenary indulgence which abolished the guilt or penance of the sins of the faithful. The Roman pope was offended by this neglect; accused him of irreverence to an image of Christ; and exhorted the princes of Italy to reject and abandon the obstinate schismatic,"

CHAP LXVII

A short note of Manuel, in England, is extracted by Dr. Hady from a say at Lambette (ils Grants Historibus, p. 14), c. v. Imperator, die surlisque et horrendis pagamorans insuffilms courtains, of pro cladem reststentium triamphalem peopliferet Anglarum regers viniture decrevit, &c. Rex (says Walsingfirm, p. 364) mobili apparents suscepit (ut deems) tunnem Heren, danitique Lendonies, et per millio dies schilest glories pre expensis bospitis sul sixeni, et eum respirieus tauto fastigio donativis. He repeate the same in luir Upodlyma Neastria op. 256%

During the period of the crusades, the Greeks crock beheld with astonishment and terror the perpetual and deemptuer

Shakespeere begins and saids the play of Heavy sr, with that printe's now of a crumde, and his belief that he should die in Jerusalem.

^{*} This fact is preserved in the Historic Pullium, a. c. 1891-1478, published by Martin Crusius (Turce Grains, p. 1-18). The image of Christ, which the Greek emperor reliated to worship, was probably a work of amignum.

CHAP LXVI

MY:

stream of emigration that flowed, and continued to flow, from the unknown climates of the West. The visits of their last emperors removed the veil of separation, and they disclosed to their eyes the powerful nations of Europe, whom they no longer presumed to brand with the name of barbarians, The observations of Manuel, and his more inquisitive followers, have been preserved by a Byzantime historian of the times : his scattered ideas I shall collect and abridge; and it may be amusing enough, perhaps instructive, to contemplate the rude nictures of Germany, France, and England, whose ancient and modern state are so familiar to 1. Germany (says the Greek Chalof Germs- our minds. condyles) is of ample latitude from Vienna to the ocean; and it stretches (a strange geography) from Prague in Bohemia to the river Tartessus, and the Pyrenæan mountains." The soil, except in figs and olives, is sufficiently fruitful; the air is salubrious; the bodies of the natives are

> * The Greek and Turklah history of Laustine Chalcondyles and with the winter of 1563, and the abrupt conclusion seems to more that he laid down his pen to the same year. We know that he was no Athenian, and that more contemporaries of the some name contribute ed to the revival of the Greek language in Italy. But in his numerroor digressions, the modest historian has rever mirrotored himself a and his editor, Lermelavian, as well as Febrician (Biblion, Grac. top., st, p. $73), steme ignorant of his life and character. For his sourceptions of Girmany, France, and Ragiand, see I. II, p. 36, 37, 44-50.

[&]quot;I shall not animadeers us the group had series of Chalcondy its. In this immants he perhaps followed, and anistock, Herodettes (t. 17, e. 333, whose text may be explained (Hernfort de Lurcher, tom, ii., p. 219, 219; er. whose ignorance may be extract. Hot these mefrom Greeks naver and Strabe, or any of the lesson prograthers !

robust and healthy; and those cold regions are CHAP. acidom visited with the calamities of pestilence or LXVL earthquakes. After the Scythians or Tartars, the Germans are the most numerous of nations; they are brave and patient, and were they united under a single head, their farce would be irresistible. By the gift of the pope, they have acquired the privilege of chusing the Roman emperor; nor is any people more devoutly attucked to the faith and obedience of the Latin patriarch. The greatest part of the country is divided among the princes and prelates; but Strasburgh, Cologne, Hamburgh, and more than two hundred free cities, are governed by sage and equal laws, according to the will, and for the advantage, of the whole community. The use of duels, or single combats on foot, prevalls among them in peace and war; their industry excels in all the mechanic arts, and the Germans may boast of the invention of gunpowder and cannon, which is now diffused over the greatest part of the world. 11. The kingdom of France is spremf of France; above fifteen or twenty days journey from Germany to Spain, and from the Alps to the British ocean; containing many flourishing cities, and among these Paris, the seat of the king, which surpasses the rest in riches and luxury. Many princes and lords alternately wait in his

A estimated and Rome, while now Home survived, would have someth to dignify the German Fell with the titles of favours or an express years that all poles was extinct in the boson of Chalcondyles t 202 he describes the Ryzantine poleses, and his surject, by the proper, though humble names of Kaleng, and herein 22 kmm.

CHAP. palace, and acknowledge him as their sovereign; LXVI. the most powerful are the dukes of Bretagne

the most powerful are the dukes of Bretagne and Burgundy, of whom the latter possesses the wealthy province of Flanders, whose harbours are frequented by the ships and merchants of our own and the more remote seas. The French are an ancient and opulent people; and their language and manners, though somewhat different, are not dissimilar from those of the Italians, Vain of the imperial dignity of Charlemagne, of their victories over the Saracens, and of the exploits of their heroes, Oliver and Rowland,5 they esteem themselves the first of the western nations; but this foolish arrogance has been recently humbled by the unfortunate events of their wars against the English, the inhabitants of the Bristreametish island. 111. Britain, in the ocean, and opposite to the shores of Flanders, may be cousidered either as one, or as three islands; but the whole is united by a common interest, by the same manners, and by a similar government. The measure of its circumference is five thousand studin; the land is overspread with towns and villages: though destitute of wine, and not abounding in fruit trees, it is fertile in wheat and barley, in honey and wool; and much cloth is manufactured by the inhabitants. In populous-

^{*} Most of the old commission wire translated in the fourteenth contrary into Francia proce, and some became the favourite announced of the languagement define the court of financia via if a Greek believed in the exploits of Rowland and Oliver, he may surely be excused, since the months of it. Decays, the matients biscorians, have inexted the tables of architectury Turyte in their Chymistes of France.

ness and power, in riches and luxury, London," CHAP. the metropolis of the isle, may claim a pre-eminance over all the cities of the West. It is situate on the Thames, a broad and rapid river, which, at the distance of thirty miles, falls into the Gallie sen; and the daily flow and ebb of the tide affords a safe entrance and departure to the vessels of commerce. The king is the head of a powerful and turbulent aristocracy; his principal vassals hold their estates by a free and unalterable temire: and the laws define the limits of his authority and their obedience. The kingdom has been often afflicted by foreign conquest and domestic sedition; but the natives are bold and hardy, renowned in arms, and victorious in war. The form of their shields or targets is derived from the Italians, that of their swords from the Greeks; the use of the long how is the peculiar and decisive advantage of the English. Their language bears no affinity to the idioms of the contment: in the labits of domestic life, they are not easily distinguished from their neighbours of France; but the most singular circumstance of their manners is their disregard of conjugal honour and of female chastity. In their mutual visits, us the first act of hospitality, the guest is welcomed in the embraces of their wives and daughters: among friends, they are lent and borrowed without Andreas... It is easily december of progress one to be only there were water, asks, to any other columns about the type of the subject to the first of Prostopion (the twelfth continey). London appears to have amintalized this pre-emacross of wellth and magnitude 1 and har gradual increase has, at hear, kept pure with the general improvement of Europe.

CHAP EXVE LINELLINE shame; nor are the islanders offended at this strange commerce, and its inevitable consenumeres. Informed as we are of the customs of old England, and assured of the virtue of our mothers, we may smile at the credulity, or resent the injustice, of the Greek, who must have confounded a modest salute with a criminal embrace. But his credulity and injustice may teach an important lesson; to distrust the accounts of foreign and remote nations, and to suspend our belief of every tale that deviates from the laws of nature and the character of man.

Tridifferwnor of Manuel rowards the Luties, 1417.

After his return, and the victory of Timour, Manuel reigned many years in prosperity and peace. As long as the soms of Bajazet solicited a = 1102- his friendship and spared his dominions, he was satisfied with the national religion; and his leisure was employed in composing twenty theological dialogues for its defence. The appearance of the Byzantine aminesadors at the council of Constances announces the restoration of the [&]quot; If the double same of the teels Kee (comior, and in store goes) he equivocal, the concert me plans herear of Chalcondyles one ferror no doubt of his meaning and mistake (p. 40%

^{*} Bramus (Epist. Panato Andrellino) has a pretty passage on the English rather of kinding stranger on their arrival and departmen from where, horsver, by draws no sundatons beforewer.

[&]quot; Perhaps we may apply this sense; to the community of wism names the old Britains, as it is supposed by Carter and Dico (Dica Cassins, I. latt, test, it, p. 1007), with Reitman's judicious minutation. The stormy of Otabutta, as certain at first, is become less cisible and soundations, in proportion as we have smalled the manners of that centle and amorous people.

⁸ See Loufmi, Hot du Conrile de Constance, tous il, p. 5764 and for the ecclesisatical history of the thorse, the Annals of Spendamus, the Edulationary of Cirpes, from all, and volumes and and axis; of the History, or rather the Continuation, of Figure.

Turkish power, as well as of the Latin church; char. the conquest of the sultans, Mahomet and Amurath, reconciled the emperor to the Vatican; and the siege of Constantinople almost tempted him to acquiesce in the double procession of the Holy Ghost. When Martin the fifth ascended, without a rival, the chair of St. Peter, a friendly intercourse of letters and embassies was revived between the East and West. Ambition on one His page. side, and distress on the other, dictated the same same taken decent language of charity and peace: the artful 1423. Greek expressed a desire of marrying his six sons to Italian prince ses; and the Roman, not less artful, dispatched the daughter of the marquis of Montferrat, with a company of noble virgins, to soften by their clarms the obstinacy of the schismatics. Yet under this mask of scal, a discorning eye will perceive that all was hollow and insincere in the court and church of Constantinople. According to the vicissitudes of danger and repose, the emperor advanced or retreated; alternately instructed and disavowed his ministers; and escaped from an importunate pressure by urging the duty of inquiry, the obligation of collecting the sense of his patriarchs and hishops, and the impossibility of convening them at a time when the Turkish arms were at the gates of his capital. From a review of the public transactions, it will appear that the Greeks insisted on three successive measures, a succour, a council, and a final re-union, while the Latins cluded the second, and only promised the first, as a consequential and voluntary reward of the third. But

LXVL

Stranives.

CHAP, we have un opportunity of unfolding the most secret intentions of Manuel, as he explained them Bis private in a private conversation, without artifice or disguiss. In his declining age, the emperor had associated John Palasologus, the second of the name, and the eldest of his sons, on whom he devolved the greatest part of the authority and weight of government. One day, in the presence only of the historian Phranza, his favourite chamberlain, he opened to his colleague and successor the true principle of his negociations with the pope." " Our last resource," said Manuel, " against the Turks is their fear of our " union with the Latins, of the warlike nations of the West, who may arm for our relief, and " for their destruction. As often as you are " threatened by the miscreants, present this dan-" ger before their eyes. Propose a council; con-" sult on the means; but ever delay and avoid the " convocation of an assembly, which cannot tend " either to our spiritual or temporal emolument.

⁸ From his early youth, Guorge Phonous, or Phranaus, was employed in the service of the state and palare; and Hanckins (de-Script. Byzani. p. i. c. 40) has collected his life from his own writings. He was no more than four-aud-termy years of age at the death of Manuel, who recommended him to the sergugaet terms to his ascensory furgetimes were home Phraness with communicity, qui ministeerit mile fidelines et diligenter (Phrenzen, L. i., c. I). Yet the emperor lake was rule, and he preferred the arrive of the despote of Pringenne in-

See Phranes, J. il, c. 13. While so many manuscripts of the Greek original are extent in the libraries of Rome, Milan, the Escarial, &c. it is a matter of chance and represely, that we should be reduced to the Latin version, or abstract, of James Photoma ad caleem Theophylact, Symocetta (Jugobstaff, 1604), so deficient in accursey and alegance (Fabric, Hibliet, Grac, tom. v), p. 618-620).

" The Latins are proud; the Greeks are ob- CHAP. " stinate; neither party will recede or retract; LXVL " and the attempt of a perfect union will confirm " the schism, alienate the churches, and leave " us, without hope or defence, at the mercy of " the barbarians." Imputient of this salutary. lesson, the royal youth arose from his sent, and departed in silence; and the wise monarch (continues Phranza), casting his eyes on me, thus resumed his discourse: " My son deems himself " a great and heroic prince; but, alas! our mi-" serable age does not afford scope for heroism " or greatness. His daring spirit might have " suited the happier times of our ancestors; but " the present state requires not an emperor, but " a cantious steward of the last relies of our " fortunes. Well do I remember the lofty ex-" pectations which he built on our alliance with " Mustapha; and much do I fear that his rash " courage will avge the ruin of our house, and " that even religion may precipitate our down-" fall." Yet the experience and authority of Manucl preserved the peace, and cluded the council, till, in the seventy-eightly year of his age, and the dark in the habit of a monk, by terminated his career, dividing his precious moveables among his children and the poor, his physicians and his favourite servants. Of his six sons, Andronicus, the second, was invested with the principality of Thessalonica, and died of a leprosy soon after the sale of that city to the Venetians, and its final conquest by the Turks. Some fortunate incidents

* See Ducargo, Fam. Byzant. p. 243-248.

CHAP. LEVL

had restored Pelaponnesus, or the Morea, to the empire; and in his more prosperous days, Manuel had fortified the marrow isthmus of six miles' with a stone wall and one hundred and fifty-three towers. The wall was overthrown by the first blast of the Ottomans; the fertile peninsula might have been sufficient for the four younger brothers, Theodore and Constantine, Demetrius and Thomas; but they wasted in domestic contests the remains of their strength; and the least successful of the rivals were reduced to a life of dependence in the Byzantine palace.

Zeal of 3527.

The eldest of the sons of Manuel, John Palace-John Paler logus the second, was acknowledged, after his firs a 1125-ther's death, as the sole emperor of the Greeks. He immediately proceeded to repudiate his wife, and to contract a new marriage with the princess of Trebizond; beauty was, in his eyes, the first qualification of an empress; and the clergy had yielded to his firm assurance, that unless he might be indulged in a divorce, he would retire to a cloister, and leave the throne to his brother Constantine. The first, and, in truth, the only, victory of Palasologus was over a Jew," whom, after a long and learned dispute, he converted to

The exact messure of the Hexamilion, from seats sea, was 3800 segretar, or solver, of our Great feet (Phranum, I. i. c. 38), which mucid pendeer a Greek mile, still smaller than that of 660 Preach driver, which is an igned by a Anville as still in one in Turkey. Five makes are community real-world for the branch of the lethmer. See the Textels of Spon, Wheeler, and Chandler.

[&]quot;The first objection of the Jews, is on the death of Christ: If it wars reductary, Cirist was a michie; which the emperor parties with a mystryy. They then dispute on the conception of the single, the sense of the propleming, &c. (Phranges, 1. il, c. 12, a while chapter).

the christian faith; and this momentous cun- CHAP. quest is carefully recorded in the history of the times. But be soon resumed the design of uniting the East and West; and regardless of his father's advice, listened, as it should seem, with sincerity, to the proposal of meeting the pope in a general council beyond the Adrintic. This dangerous project was encouraged by Martin the lifth, and coldly entertained by his successor Eugenius, till, after a tedious negociation, the emperor received a summons from the Latin assembly of a new character, the independent prelates of Basil, who styled themselves the representatives and judges of the catholic church.

The Roman pontiff had fought and conquered Correlates in the cause of ecclesiastical freedom; but the classes. victorious clergy were soon exposed to the tyranny of their deliverer; and his sacred character was invulnerable to those arms which they found so keen and effectual against the civil magistrate. Their great charter, the right of election, was annihilated by appeals, cyaded by trusts or commendans, disappointed by reversionary grants, and superseded by previous and arbitrary reservations." A public auction was instituted in the court of Rome: the cardinals and favourites were enriched with the spoils of nations; and every country might complain that the most important and valuable benefices were accumulated on the

^{*} In the trunion delle Mattrie Beneficiary of Pra-Pusto for the fourth volume of the last and best critical of his workly, the payed system is kieply studied and freely described. Should Rise and her ratigion to availablest, this poider volume may still survive, a phi-Iosophical history, and a valutary warning.

LXXI.

c u a v. heads of aliens and absentees. During their residence at Avignon, the ambition of the popes subsided in the meaner passions of avarice and luxury: they rigorously imposed on the clergy the tributes of first-fruits and tenths; but they freely tolerated the impunity of vice, disorder, and corruption. Those manifold scandals were

Silviem.

of Con-SERRICE.

1418;

as 1317- aggravated by the great schism of the West, which continued above fifty years. In the furious conflicts of Rome and Avignon, the vices of the rival were mutually exposed; and their precarious situation degraded their authority, relaxed their discipline, and multiplied their wants and Council or exactions. To heal the wounds, and restore Fig. 1400; the monarchy, of the church, the synods of Pisa and Constance were successively convened; La late but these great assemblies, conscious of their strength, resolved to vindicate the privileges of the christian aristocracy. From a personal sentence against two pontiffs, whom they rejected, and a third, their acknowledged sovereign, whom they deposed, the fathers of Constance proceeded. to examine the nature and limits of the Roman supremacy; nor did they separate till they had [.] Pope John van (in 1334) left labind him, at Avisson, sighteen millions of gold forting, and the suiter of seven millions more in plate and people. See the Chronicle of John Villant O. at, e. 20, in Muround's Callection, tom, alit, p. 763), whom brokhes received the account from the paper tressures. A treasure of six or eight millions theling in the Corteculo century is recorded, and almost incredible,

^{*} A lexited and liberal protestant, M. Lenfant, has given a fals Sistory of the conneils of Piez, Commence, and Stanil, in six sultaness In quarte ; but the last pure is the most hanty and imperfect, except in the account of the troubles of Bohemia.

established the authority, above the pope, of a CHAP. general council. It was enacted, that, for the LXVL government and reformation of the church, such assemblies should be held at regular intervals; and that each synod, before its dissolution, should appoint the time and place of the subsequent meeting. By the influence of the court of Rome, the next convocation at Sienna was easily eluded; but the bold and vigorous proceedings of the council of Basile had almost of Rest, been fatal to the reigning pontiff, Eugenius the 1431fourth. A just suspicion of his design prompted. the fathers to hasten the promulgation of their first decree, that the representatives of the church-militant on earth were invested with a divine and spiritual jurisdiction over all christians, without excepting the pope; and that a general council could not be dissolved, prorogued, or transferred, unless by their free deliberation and consent. On the notice that Eugenius had fulminated a bull for that purpose, they ventured to summon, to admonish, to threaten, to censure, the contumnations successor of St. Peter. After many delays, to allow time for repentance, Took upthey finally declared, that, unless he submitted position to within the term of sixty days, he was suspended"from the exercise of all temporal and ecclesia The original acts or minutes of the council of Buill are preserved to the public library, in twelve raturner in fidin. Buill are a frontily, conveniently situate on the Bhine, and guarded by the acros of the neighbouring and combidence Swint. In 1459, the university was founded by pape Plus is (Enem Sylvius), who had been serviary to the council. But what is a council, or an university, to the present of Froben and the studies of Erannie?

CHAP LXVL

astiral authority. And to mark their jurisdiction over the prince as well as the priest, they assumed the government of Avignon, annulled the alienation of the sacred patrimony, and protected Rome from the imposition of new taxes. Their holdness was justified, not only by the general opinion of the clergy, but by the support and power of the first mounrels of Christendom; the emperor Sigismend declared himself the servant and protector of the syund; Germany and France adhered to their causes the duke of Milan was the enemy of Eugenius; and be was driven from the Vatican by an insurrection of the Roman people, Rejected at the same time by his temporal and spiritual subjects, submission was his only choice: by a most humiliating bull, the pope repealed his own acts, and ratified those of the council; incorporated his legates and cardinals with that venerable body; and seemed to resign himself to the decrees of the supreme legislature. Their fame pervaded the countries of the East; and it was in their presence that Sigismond received the ambassadors of the Turkish sultan, who laid at his feet twelve large vases, tilled with robes of silk and pieces of gold. 'The fathers of Busil'

Negocia-1437.

the Greeks, aspared to the glory of reducing the Greeks, as to a 1434-well us the Bohemians, within the pale of the church; and their deputies invited the emperor and patriarch of Constantinople to unite with an assembly which possessed the confidence of the western nations. Palacologus was not averse to the proposal; and his ambassadors were intro- caar. duced with due honours into the catholic senate. LXVI. But the choice of the place appeared to be an insuperable obstable, since he refused to pass the Alps, or the sea of Sicily, and positively required that the synod should be adjourned to some convenient city in Italy, or at least on the Danube. The other articles of this treaty were more readily. stipulated: it was agreed to defray the travelling expences of the emperor, with a train of seven hundred persons," to remit an immediate sumof eight thousand duents' for the accommodation of the Greek clergy; and in his absence to grant! a samply of ten thousand ducats, with three hundeed arehers and some gallles, for the protection of Constantinople. The city of Avignon ails anned the funds for the preliminary expenses; and the embarkation was prepared at Marseilles with some difficulty and delay.

This Turklish emberry, attracted only by Cruntiline, is related, with some doubt, by the nonalist Spondames, a. s. 1183, No. 25. tum. L. p. 824.

In his distress, the friendship of Palmologus John Polawits disputed by the ecclesinatical powers of the solve and West; but the dexterous activity of a monarch power of a provailed over the slow debates and inflexible a 1437, temper of a republic. The decrees of Basil continually tended to circumscribe the despotism of

BLPH

A proposition p. 10. In this first, the Greeks appear to have succeeded the real anomalies of the stargy and latty which afterwards attended the computer and partiarch, but which are not electly specified by the great socialistic. The Ta,000 finites which they select in this negociation of the paper (p. 9) were more than they scaled large or want.

^{*}From todifferently the received and glove, which derive shell names, the fernier from the delter of Milion, the latter from the propability of Flowers. The guid posses, the first that was colored in tidy, possess to the Latte world, sample seement, in weather and water, to see third of the English prince.

LXVL

CHAP, the pops, and to erect a supreme and perpetual tribunal in the church. Eugenius was impatient of the voke; and the union of the Greeks might afford a decent pretence for translating a rebelfious synod from the Rhine to the Po. The independence of the fathers was lost if they passed the Alps; Savoy or Avignon, to which they acceded with reluctance, were described at Constantinople as situate far beyond the pillars of Hercules; the emperor and his ciergy were apprehensive of the dangers of a long navigation; they were offended by an haughty declaration, that after suppressing the new heresy of the Bobemians, the council would soon eradicate the old heresy of the Greeks." On the side of Eugenius, all was smooth, and yielding, and respeciful; and he invited the Byzantine monarch to heal by his presence the schism of the Latin, as well as of the Eastern, church. Ferrara, near the coast of the Adriatic, was proposed for their amicable interview; and with some indulgence of forgery and theft, a surreptitious decree was procured, which transferred the synod, with its own consent, to that Italian city. Nine gallies were equipped for this service at Venice, and in the

" Sympoles (p. 26-31) attents his own indignation, and that of his countrymen ; and the Besti deputies, who excused the main declaration, could number deny nor alter on act of the council.

[&]quot;At the cold of the Latin version of Photogram, we yould allow Greek spiritis or declamation of Gaucge of Trythount, who advises the onepoers to peeter Engence and Italy. He treats with contempt the actions tic assembly of Band, the harterians of Gaul and Gremmy, who had conspired to temport the chair of St. Peter beyond the Alpa : I allow (says he) as any one pure or receive (in our 'Headares' gelar an mps Carepas gelan. Was Caircuntinegle unprovided with isle of Candia; their diligence anticipated the CHAP. slower vessels of Basil: the Roman admiral was LXVL commissioned to burn, sink, and destroy? and these priestly squadrons might have encountered each other in the same seas where Athens and Sparta had formerly contended for the pre-eminence of glory. Assaulted by the importunity of the factions, who were ready to fight for the possession of his person, Palacologus hesitated before he left his palace and country on a perilous experiment. His father's advice still dwelt on his memory: and reason must suggest, that since the Latins were divided among themselves, they could never unite in a foreign cause. Sigismond disquaded the unseasonable adventure; his advice was impartial, since he adhered to the council; and it was enforced by the strange belief, that the German Cassar would nominate a Greek his heir and successor in the empire of the West." Even the Turkish sultan was a counsellor whom it might be unsafe to trust, but whom it was dangerous to offend. Amurath was unskilled in the disputes, but he was apprehensive of the union, of the christians. From his own treasures, he offered to relieve the wants of the Byzantine court; yethe declared with seeming magnanimity,

I Conditioners, the pope's nephers and admiral, expressly declared, by Jupon eye water or lines in matters in a range or a salgio see Table, an is least advers as a pressy. The moral unders of the spend were less perempting a and, till the hostile equadrons appearent, both parties reled to concent their sources from the Greeks.

Syromalis mentions the hopes of Paleologus (p. 38), and the list advice of Signemond (p. 57). At Cortis, the Greek imperor was informed of his friend's deather had he known it smarr, in would have returned home (p. 70).

LXVI.

CHAP. that Constantinople should be secure and inviolate in the absence of her sovereign." The resolution of Palseologus was decided by the most splendid gifts and the most specious promises the wished to escape for a while from a scene of danger and distress; and afterdismissing with an amhiguous answer the messengers of the council, he declared his intention of embarking in the Roman gullies. The age of the patriarch Joseph was more susceptible of fear than of hope; he trembled at the perils of the sea, and expressed his apprehension, that his feeble voice, with thirty perhaps of his orthodox brethren, would be oppressed in a foreign land by the power and numbers of a Latin synod. He yielded to the royal mandate, to the flattering assurance, that he would be heard as the oracle of nations, and to the secret wish of learning from his brother of the West, to deliver the church from the yoke of kings. The five crass-hearers, or dignituries of St. Sophia, were bound to uttend his person; and one of these, the great ecclesiarch or preacher, Sylvester Syropulus, has [·] Physics bineself, though from different mutives, was elithe allview of America it, it, v. 13). Utimate ne symples like propunit the paid, of render officenisms at detriments puriture cent. This Turklab and any is therein mentioned by Sympales up. 281; and Assemble tops his word. He might Oreston (p. 175, 210), but he serve attacked the city.

^{*} The mider will smile at the simplicity with which he imported these hopes to his favorether; consens manadame excess same, one he a Bown days; thinkpees was tachmen day not everyborg evil. Jenney were we decodery (p. 92). Yet it would have been difficult the film to have practised the lessons of Geograpy via.

^{*} The christma name of Sylventer is bayrowed from the Larla ex. ender. In modern Great, water, m a dissinutive, is added to the composed a free and curious history of the false CHAP. union. Of the chargy that reluctantly obeyed the sammons of the emperor and the patriarch, submission was thefirst duty, and patience the most useful virtue: In a chosen list of twenty hishops, wediscover the metropolitan titles of Heraclea and Cyziens, Nice and Nicomedia, Ephesus and Trebizond, and the personal merit of Markand Bessarion, who, in the confidence of their learning and eloquence, were promoted to the episcopal rank. Some monks and philosophers were named to display the science and sanctity of the Greek church; and the service of the choir was performed by a select band of singers and musicians. The patriarchs of Alexandria, Antioch, and Jerusalem, appeared by their genuine or fictitious deputies; the primate of Russia represented a national church, and the Greeks might contend with the Latins in the extent of their spiritual empire. The precious vases of St. Sophia were exposed to the winds and waves, that the patriarch might officiate with becoming splendone; whatever gold end of south a sor can say manning of Correction, the clime, exemp-Machinesias been Secreption Organic, Distance the Sympathic of his own immercipt, where some is sub-ripled with his way have in the arts of the connect of Physics. Why may it may the sullier to at Syclosicattoption ?

From the community of the history. I should be the date to the year I ktd., Some years after the ayrest, when the grow unlessmen had stafficated his office (aserie kil, p. 839-350). His pursions wave medof my time and community and, elthough Syropethic te offer partial, has be enough inhomogerates

" Kara listuria antimio non veca inter Gramo at Lutions (Hage Comile, 1000, in follow was first published with a lover and firmly was come by Bobert Crayghton, chaptane to Charles or, so his calls. The seal of the aditor has president a polemic title, for the begoining of the original is wanting. Syruputae may he ranked with the bure of the By smaller writers for the marit of his narration, and were of his style a but buls excluded from the orthodox collections of the countries.

LXVL

CHAP, the emperor could procure, was expended in the massy ornaments of his bed and charlot ; and while they affected to maintain the prosperity of their ancient fortune, they quarrelled for the division of fifteen thousand ducats, the first alms of the Roman pontiff. After the necessary preparations, John Palæologus, with a numerous train, accompanied by his brother Demetrius, and the most respectable persons of the church and state, embarked in eight vessels with sails and ones, which steered through the Turkish straits of Gallipoli to the Archipelago, the Morea, and the Adriatic gulf."

His trhuns. Mal mirr

After a tedious and troublesome navigation of or Vence, seventy-seven days, this religious squadron cast a s. 1438; anchor before Venice; and their reception proclaimed the joy and magnificence of that powerful republic. In the command of the world, the modest Augustus had never claimed such honours from his subjects, as were paid to his feelile successor by an independent state. Seated on the poop, on a lufty throne, he received the visit, or, in the Greek style, the adoration, of the doge and senutors." They sailed in the Bucentaur,

A Syropation (p. 65) simply supersors has infimited in the west was to Demand strike hereasts why amone operation and the Latin of Crayphton may affect a specimen of his firmit paragrames. By pumple circum. ducties nester Importates Ballies grantle alliquis descriptini Jupiter tredereter, aut Creeus en opalants Lytta.

[#] Although I commit stop to quote tyrogethe as every fact, I will olserve that the newlyntian of the Greeks from Constantinople to Venice and Venores is roots and for the fourth section up. 67-1009, and your the histories has the commerces talent of planing each arranges. stire the sunder's my

At the time of the synoi, Physicis was in Pelopositions ; that he remited from the despit Demotities a fairtiful account of the assessments.

which was accompanied by twelve stately gallies: CHAP. the seawas overspread with innumerable gondolas LXVL of pomp and pleasure; the mir resounded with music and acclamations; the nuriners, and even the vessels, were dressed in silk and gold; and in all the emblems and pageants, the Roman eagles were blended with the lions of St. Mark. The triumphal procession, ascending the great canal, passed under the bridge of the Rialto; and the eastern strangers guzed with admiration on the palaces, the churches, and the populousness of a city, that seems to float on the bosom of the waves. They sighed to behold the spoils and trophies with which It had been decorated after the sack of Constantinople. After an hospitable entertainment of fifteen days, Palacologus pursued his journey by land and water from Venice to Ferrara; and on this occasion, the pride of the Vatican was tempered by policy to indulge the ancient dignity of the emperor of the East. He made his entry on a black horse; but in Ferraa milk-white steed, whose trappings were em. For Pr. broidered with golden engles, was led before him; and the canopy was borne over his head by the princes of Este, the sons or kinsmen of Nicholas, marquis of the city, and a sovereign reception of the supercy and patriarch both at Venire and Ferrora (Dex ... addeduce imperaturem orders), which are more allabily means mad by the Latins it is, c. 14, 15, 16...

^{&#}x27;The assumitation of a Greek primer and a French ambiendor (Mennites in Pailippe de Continut, I. vill, at 18), at the eight of Vertile. Absolutely primer, that in the directile century, it was the direct and must episoid of the christian cities. For the resils of Ownsmanthough at Venice, our Sympulus (p. 87).

CHAP.

more powerful than himself. Paleologus did not alight till he reached the bottom of the staircase; the pope advanced to the door of the apartment; refused his proffered genuflection; and, after a paternal embrace, conducted the emperer to a seat on his left hand. Nor would the patriarch descend from his galley, till a ceremony, almost equal, had been stipulated between the historis of Rome and Constantinople. The latter was saluted by his brother with a kiss of union and charity; nor would any of the Greek ecclesiastles submit to kiss the fort of the western primate. On the opening of the synon, the place of honour in the course was claimed by the temporal and ecclesiastical chiefi; and it was only by alleging that his predecessors had not assisted in person at Nice or Chalcedon, that Eugenius could evade the ancient precedents of Constantine and Marcian. After much debute, it was agreed that the right and left sides of the church should be occupied by the two nations a that the solitary chair of St. Peter should be enised the first of the Latin. line; and that the throne of the Greek emperor, at the head of his clergy, should be equal and opposite to the second place, the vacant seat of the emperor of the West.

Nichelm in of Esta relgand for array-right years (4) to 1303-1443), and was led of Ferrara, Modern, Reggio, Parms, Rovigo, and Communitie. See his into in Murrhall (Antichità Estense, tons. P. p. 159-2015).

The Latin vulgar was provoked in length of their garments, their starces, and expectably the length of their garments, their starces, and their henris; nor was the emperor distinguished except by the purple colour, and his diadem or ilera with a jewel on the top Offset.

But as soon as festivity and form had given CHAP. place to a more serious treaty, the Greeks were dissatisfied with their journey, with themselves, Comet of and with the pope. The artful pencil of his emis-and Launs saries had painted him in a prosperous state; at a Fernica the head of the princes and prelates of Europe, rese, obedient, at his voice, to believe and to min out a The thin appearance of the universal synod of a 1489, Ferrara betrayed his weakness; and the Latins opened the first session with only five archbishons, eighteen bishops, and ten abbots, the greatest part of whom were the subjects or countrymen of the Italian pontiff. Except the duke of Burgundy, none of the potentates of the West condescended to appear in person, or by their ambassadors; nor was it possible to suppress the judicial acts of Basil against the dignity and person of Engenius, which were finally concluded by a new election. Under these circumstances, a truce or delay was usked and granted, till Palsologus could expect from the consent of the Latins some temporal reward for an unpopular union; and, after the first session, the public proceedings were adjourned above six months. The emperor, with a chosen band of his favourites and janizaries, fixed his summer residence at a pleasant spacious monastery, six miles from Ferrara ; forgot, in the pleasures of the chace, the distress of the church and state; and persisted in destroying the game, without listening to the just complaints of the marquis or the husbandman." In the meanwhile, his unfortunate Greeks were exposed to all the miseries of exile and poverty: for the support of each stranger, a monthly allowance was assigned of three or four gold florins; and although the entire sum did not amount to seven hundred florins, a long arrear was repeatedly incurred by the indigence or policy of the Roman court." They sighed for a speedy deliverance, but their escape was prevented by a triple chain; a passport from their superiors was required at the gates of Ferrara: the government of Venice had engaged to arrest and send back the fugitives; and inevitable punishment awaited them at Constantinople; excommunication, fines, and a sentences which did not respect the sacerdotal dignity, that they should be stripped naked and publicly whipped." It was only by the alternative of hunger or dispute that the Greeks could be persuaded to

(Hody de Graces Hinstellan, p. 31). Yet another specialist confiness, that the Grack (achiev was plus grare e plus degree than the Italian (Venpersono, in Vit. Engen. et., in Musicott, tone xxv., p. 261). CHAP.

The the emperor's fautton, we Excepting up. 143, 144, 101h. The pape had sent him eleves miterable fauts; but he bought a strong and swift form that with from Hamas. The same of preference may supplied; but the same, rather than the institution, had passed from the Ottoman to the Byzantine count, and is often med in the last age of the couples.

The Greak abdamed, with wouch difficulty, that trained provided, from the first persons of homographs and, and three finites to their servants, with an addition of theory more to the respect, twenty for to the patriacula, and theory to the prince of the first month to the patriacula, and theory to the prince of the first month amounted to $24 furine, a some which will not affect in the reckle above 200 Greeks of every condition (Syrepolus, p. 103, 165; On the 19th Gender 1258, there was an arrow of fine months; in April 1420, of there; and of five and a half in July, at the time of the onice (p. 172, 324, 371).

[&]quot; Syropatio op. 141, 182, 208, 22h deployer the improvement of the Greeks, and the dynamy of the emperor and participh.

open the first conference; and they yielded with char, extreme reluctance to attend from Ferrara to Florence the rear of a flying synod. This new translation was arged by inevitable necessity: the city was visited by the plague; the fidelity of the marquis might be suspected; the mercenary troops of the duke of Milan were at the gates; and as they occupied Romagna, it was not without difficulty and danger that the pope, the emperor, and the bishops, explored their way through the unfrequented paths of the Apennine.

Yet all these obstanles were surmounted by time and policy. The violence of the fathers of Basil rather promoted than injured the cause of Eugenius; the nations of Europe abhorred the schlim, and disnamed the election, of Felix the fifth, who was successively a duke of Savey, an hermit, and a pope; and the great princes were gradually reclaimed by his competitor to a favourable neutrality and a firm attachment. The legates, with some respectable members, described to the Roman army, which insensibly rose in numbers and reputation; the council of Basil was reduced to thirty-nine bishops, and three hundred of the inferior clergy? while the Latins of e The wars of finity are most closely supressented in the thirdworth volume of the Annals of Mounters. The actionate Greek, Symposius On $4.55, appears to here examples to five few and things on at the page in his sensest from Forence to Florence, which is proved by the serve to have been somewhat more document and doubterain.

Systematic to pleasant to reckets across business preliates in the coernell of Booth. The arrow is smallfest, and perhaps voluntary. That exceeds to present the second present and present the prese

LXXVI

CHAP. Florence could produce the subscriptions of the pope himself, eight cardinals, two patriarchs, eight archhishops, fifty-two bishops, and fortyfive alibots, or chiefs of religious orders. After the labour of nine months, and the debates of twenty-five sessions, they attained the advantage and glory of the re-union of the Greeks. Four principal questions had been agitated between the two churches : 1. The use of unleavened bread in the communion of Christ's body. 2. The nature of purgatory. 3. The supremacy of the pope. And, 4. The single or double procession of the Holy Ghest. The cause of either untion was managed by ten theological champions; the Latins were supported by the inexhaustible eloquence of cardinal Julian; and Mark of Ephesus and Bessarion of Nice were the bold and able leaders of the Greek forces. We may hestow some praise on the progress of human reason, by observing, that the first of these questions was now treated as an immaterial rite. which might innocently vary with the fashion of the age and country. With regard to the second, both parties were agreed in the belief of an intermediate state of purgation for the venial sins of the faithful; and whether their souls were purified by elemental fire was a doubtful point, which in a few years might be conveniently settled on the spot by the disputants, The claims of supremacy appeared of a more > raging number could not be smoothed by all the emissisting of every degree who were present at the connetl, me by sill the absent history. of the West, who, expressly or tatilly, might address to its decrees.

weighty and substantial kind; yet by the Orien- CHAP. tals the Roman bishop had ever been respected as the first of the five patriarche; nor did they scruple to admit, that his jurisdiction should be exercised agreeable to the holy canons; a vague . allowance, which might be defined or chiled by occasional convenience. The procession of the Holy Gheat from the Father alone, or from the Fother and the Son, was an article of faith which had sunk much deeper into the minds of men; and in the sessions of Ferram and Florence, the Latin edition of fllioque was subdivided into two questions, whether it were legal, and whether it were orthodox. Perhaps it may not be necessary to boast on this subject of my own impartial Indifference; but I must think that the Greeks were strongly supported by the prohibition of the council of Chalcedon, against adding my article whatsoever to the creed of Nice, or rather of Constantinople. In earthly affairs, it is not easy to conceive how an assembly of legislators can him their successors, invested with powers equal to their own. But the dictates of inspiration must be true and unchangeable; nor should a private histop, or a provincial synod, have presumed to innevate against the judgment of the extholic church. On the substance of the doctrine, the controversy was equal and endless: reason is confounded by the procession of a deity:

[&]quot; The ferrote, who didlied the union, were unwilling to stilly from this army distract to 178, 193, 195, 193, of Syropolish. The distract of the Laures was appropried by that producing an old six of the arconditioned of Nices with Alleger in the Nicese error. A pulpoble Sergery ! Up 1770

CHAP, the gospel which lay on the altar, was silent; the various texts of the fathers might be corrupted by frand or entangled by sophistry; and the Greeks were ignorant of the characters and writings of the Latin saints.' Of this at least we may be sure, that neither side could be convinced by the arguments of their opponents. Prejudice may be enlightened by reason, and a superficial glattee may he rectified by a clear and more perfect view of an object minuted to our faculties; but the bishops and monks had been taught from their infancy to repeat a form of mysterious words; their national and personal honour depended on the repetition of the same sounds; and their parrow minds were hardened and inflamed by the acrimony of a public dispute.

Negrain tions with

While they were lost in a cloud of dust and is Greek, darkness, the pope and emperor were desirous of a seeming union, which could alone accomplish the purposes of their interview; and the obstinacy of public dispute was softened by the arts of private and personal negociation. The patriarch Joseph hadsunk under the weight of age and infirmities; his dying voice breathed the counsels of charity. and concord, and his vacant benefice might tempt the hopes of the ambitious clergy. The ready and active obedience of the archbishops of Russia and Nice, of Isidore and Bessarion, was prompted and recompensed by their speedy promotion to the dignity of cardinals. Bessarion, in the first de-[&]quot; The 15 (wild me emission flowing for me not not be Allege & одиналь чим нее замер в учет, сто на учетов том (Бугорийна, р. 100). See the perplexity of the Greeks (p. 217, 218, 232, 253, 273).

hates, had stood forth the most strenuous and CHAP. eloquent champion of the Greek church; and if LXVI. the apostate, the bastard, was reprobated by his country,' he appears in ecclesiastical story a rare example of a patriot who was recommended to court-favour by loud opposition and well-timed compliance. With the aid of his two spiritual coadintors, the emperor applied his arguments to the general situation and personal characters of the hishops; and each was successively moved by authority and example. Their revenues were in the hands of the Turks, their persons in those of the Latins; an episcopal treasure, three robes and forty ducata, was soon exhausted: the hopes of their return still depended on the ships of Venice and the alms of Rome; and such was their indigence, that their arrears, the payment of a debt, would be accepted as a favour, and might operate as a bribe." The danger and relief of Constantinople might excuse some prudent and pious dissimulation; and it was insinuated, that the obstinate beretics who should resist the consent of the ¹⁹ See this puller alternation of Mark and Bernarian in Sympolius (p. 237), who recent disconnice the size of his sent party, that thirty produce the virtues of the Limits.

[.] For the powerty of the Grock hishops, see a remarkable pursupe of Duces (c. 31). One had possessed, for his whole property, three old germs, &c. By teaching one-and-twenty years is his immistary, Becoming himself had collected forty gold floring; but of there, the archhickop had expended memny-night in his copage from Policyana-v, and the remainder at Constantinople (Sympolist, p. 127).

Sympoles device that the Greeks received any mancy before they had enturribed the act of malow (p. $83); yet he content come suspiness rigametrizers; and their bribery and exemption are possitively affected by the blateries Duent.

TXVI.

East and West, would be abandaned in a hostile land to the revenge or justice of the Roman pontiff." In the first private assembly of the Greeks, the formulary of union was approved by twentyfour, and rejected by twelve, members; but the five cross-bearers of St. Sophia, who aspired to represent the patriarch, were disqualified by ancient discipline; and their right of voting was transferred to an elacquious train of monks, grammarians, and profine laymen. The will of the monarch produced a false and servile unanimity, and no more than two patriots had courage to speak their own sentiments and those of their country. Demetrius, the emperor's brother, retired to Venice, that he might not be witness of the union; and Mark of Epheson, mistaking perhaps his pride for his conscience, disclaimed all communion with the Latin heretics, and avowed himself the champion and confessor of the orthodox creed. In the trenty between the two nations, several forms of consent were proposed, such as might satisfy the Latius, without dishonouring the Greeks; and they weighed the scruples of words and syllables, till the theological balance trembled with a slight preponderance in favour of the Vatican. It was agreed (I must intreat the attention of the reader), that the Holy Ghost proceeds from the For oner. ther and the Son, as from one principle and one LXVI. substance; that he proceeds by the Son, being of the same nature and substance, and that be proceeds from the Father and the Son, by one spiration and production. It is less difficult to understand the articles of the preliminary treaty; that the pope should defray all the expences of the Greeks in their return home; that he should annually maintain two gallies and three lumined soldiers for the defence of Constantinople; that all the ships which transported pilgrims to Jerusalem should be obliged to touch at that port; that as often as they were required, the pope should furnish ten gallies for a year, or twenty for six months; and that he should powerfully solicit the princes of Europe, if the emperor had occasion for hand-forces.

The Greats must alternally repeats their over hims of white soid perpetual chivery (Syropule p. 196) a smill (him were strongly moved by the employer's threats op. 2000.

[&]quot;I had they I another popular and orthodox proveders a formalis bound, who moved by quiet on the independent of the emperor's three or one was part of many recoming while the act of union was recoming without being almost by the scothing or the bases of the engal at a part and account or young in 183, 766.

The same year, and almost the same day, were sugarant marked by the deposition of Eugenius at Basil; neal, and, at Florence, by his re-union of the Greeks and lates and Latins. In the former synod (which he styled indeed an assembly of damona), the pope was branded with the guilt of simony, perjury, tyranny, heresy, and schim; and declared to be incorrigible in his vices, unworthy of any title, and incapable of holding any occlesinstical office. In the Remarrof latter he was revered as the true and buly vicar a Farenas, of Christ, who, after a separation of six humbred at a 1138, years, had reconciled the catholics of the East and West, in one fold, and under one shepherd, The act of union was subscribed by the pope, the emperor, and the principal members of both churches; even by those who, like Syropulus,3 had been deprived of the right of voting. Two copies might have sufficed for the East and West; but Eugenius was not satisfied, unless four authentic and similar transcripts were signed and attested as the monuments of his victory. On a memorable day, the sixth of July, the successoraof St. Peter and Constantine ascended their thrones; the two nations assembled in the cathedral of Florence; their representatives, cardinal Julian and Bessarion archbishop of Nice, appeared in the pulpit, and after reading in their respective tongues the act of union, they mutually embraced, in the name and the presence of the applauding breth-The pope and his ministers then officiated according to the Roman liturgy; the creed was channted with the addition of filliogue; the acquiescence of the Greeks was poorly excused by their ignorance of the harmonious, but inarti-

[.] From the original Lives of the Popus, in Murature's Collection Quest, ill. 3. 2. hors. sizer, the manners of Engelson pringers to have hers decent, and even examplery. His situition, expected to the world and to his snemice, was a commiss, and is a picture.

LXVL

Syropolou, rather than unfocults, would have assisted, as the least cell, at the examination of the union. He was compelled to do both a and the great exclusions power examines to the superior (p. 250-207).

^{*} Name of these original sets of union cut at present be produced.

Of the new see, that are presented these at Harms, and the remainder at Plastones, Bed gaz, Venius, Perts, and Louden) this have been examined by an account rathe : M. de Bregoineys, who combines them for the tarinty and imperfections of the Great algebraic. Yet overall of these may be extensed an authentic capitae, which were subscribed at Florence, before 128th August 1420, the final expectation of the pape and emperor (Memoirus de l'Academia des Inscriptions, purchalle, p. 857-311).

culate, sounds;" and the more scrupulous Latins CHAP. refused any public celebration of the Byzantine rite. Yet the emperor and his clergy were not totally unmindful of national honour. The treaty was ratified by their consent: it was tacitly agreed that no innovation should be attempted in their creed or ceremonies; they spared, and secretly respected, the generous firmness of Mark of Ephes sas; and, on the decease of the patriarch, they refused to elect his successor, except in the cathedral or St. Sophia. In the distribution of public and private rewards, the liberal pontiff exceeded their hopes and his promises: the Greeks, with Thereteless pomp and pride, returned by the same road of ton to Forrara and Venice; and their reception at Con-nople, stantinople was such as will be described in the real following chapter." The success of the first trial encouraged Engenius to repeat the same edifying scenes; and the deputies of the Armenians, the Maronites, the Jacobites of Syria and Egypt, the Nestorians, and the Æthiopians, were successively introduced, to kiss the feet of the Roman pontiff, and to announce the obedience and the orthodoxy of the East. These Oriental embassics, unknown in the countries which they presumed to represent, diffused over the West the fame of Euge-

^{4 &#}x27;H per de de arran elesar paras (Syropole p. 297).

^{*} In these return, the Greeks conversed at Bologue with the automation of England; and after some question and aneress, those languistial strangers longited at the presented union of Ployence 15ye result-p. 307).

^{&#}x27;So magatory, or rather to debulous, are these remained of the Newtonians, Jacobies, Az. that I have included uyer, authors survey, the Ribliotheca Orientalis of Assembnous, a faithful slave of the Vatican-

CHAP LXVI.

nius; and a clamour was artfully propagated against the remnant of a schism in Switzerland and Savoy, which alone impeded the harmony of the christian world. The vigour of opposition was succeeded by the lassitude of despair: the council of Basil was silently dissolved; and Folix, renouncing the tiara, again withdrew to the devout or delicious hermitage of Ripaille.

Finites A general peace was secured by mutual nets of odi In oblivion and indemnity : all ideas of reformation chamble. as 1610, subsided; the popes continued to exercise and abuse their ecclesinstical despotism; nor has Rome been since disturbed by the mischiefs of a contested election."

State of the Greek language at . Canadanti-1421

The journies of three emperors were unavailing for their temporal, or perhaps their spiritual, salvation; but they were productive of a beneficial consex 1300 sequence; the revival of the Greek learning in Italy, from whence it was propagated to the last nutions of the west and north. In their lowest servitude and depression, the subjects of the Byzan-

² Riquille is situate cost Thomas in Spary, on the southern side of the take of General. It is new a Certification abbey a ned Mr. Addition (Travels into Italy, vol. 6, p. 147-148 of Backgraffle's edition of his works) has epistumied the place and the foundary. Aftern Sylvins, and the fathers of Built, applical the sustern life of the dural bermit : but the French and Ptaline products must and only after the popular opinion of the faculty.

In this second of the cornells of Bestly Forests, and Playence, I bury consulted the original acts, which all the arventeenth and eighfeasth tomes of the edition of Ventre, and are closed by the perspicus one, though partial, birthey of Acqueits Patrichia, 28 Italian of the Afterests century. They are digested and shridged by Dapin (Bildfotherms Recies land the undispersed Floory than, saing and the respect of the Gelliens church for the affects parties conanex their members to an away and maderation.

time throne were still possessed of a golden key CHAP. that could unlock the treasures of antiquity; of a musical and prolific language, that gives a soul to the objects of sense, and a body to the abstractions of philosophy. Since the barriers of the monarchy, and even of the capital, had been trampled under foot, the various barbarians had doubtless corrupted the form and substance of the national dialect; and ample glossaries have been composed, to interpret a multitude of words of Arabic, Turkish, Sclavonian, Latin, or French origin. But a purer idiom was spoken in the court, and taught in the college; and the flourishing state of the language is described, and perhaps embellished, by a learned Italian,4 who, by a long residence and noble marriage, was naturalized at Constantinople about thirty years before the Turkish conquest. " The vulgar speech," says Philel-

In the first attempt, Mourains collected 3000 Graco-barbarum words, to which, in a mount edition, he sobjoined 1900 more; yet what plearness glannings did he leave to Portine, Darringe, Paleotti, the Bollandists, &c. (Patric Budget, Gray, term v. p. 191, &c.). Some Persic words may be found in Kenophun, and some Latin once in Plactured I will come to the inevitable effect of was and completely but the form and enterance of the language were out affected by this slight wihit?

[&]quot; The life of Prancis Philispians, a sepalet, proud, rection, and raportour, has been diligently composed by Lancelet (Memnires 4el'Academia des faceriptions, tom x, p. 691-751) and Tirabentid Gateria della Latteratura Italiana, tum. via p. 282-294), for the most part from his own letters. His einborate writings, and show of his materoporaries, are forgotten; but their familiar epictics sails are write the men and the times.

He mercial, and had perhaps definicled, the daughter of John, and the grand-daughter of Manuel Chrysoliene. She was younge beautiful, and wealthy; and her noble family was ailled to the Dovise of Genou and the unpursors of Constantinopia.

LXVI.

phus," " has been depraved by the people, and " infected by the multitude of strangers and mer-" chants, who every day flock to the city, and " mingle with the inhabitants. It is from the " disciples of such a school that the Latin lan-" guage received the versions of Aristotle and " Plato, so obscure in sense, and in spirit so " poor. But the Greeks who have escaped the " contagion are those whom we follow; and they " alone are worthy of our imitation. In familiar " discourse, they still speak the tongue of Aristo-"phanes and Euripides, of the historians and " philosophers of Athens; and the style of their " writings is still more elaborate and correct. "The persons who, by their birth and offices, are " attached to the Byzantine court, are those who " maintain, with the least alloy, the ancient " standard of elegance and purity; and the na-" tive graces of language most conspicuously shine " among the noble matrons, who are excluded " from all intercourse with foreigners. With " foreigners, do I say? They live retired and se-" questered from the eyes of their fellow-citizens. " Seldom are they seen in the streets; and when " they leave their houses, it is in the dusk of Grant quiters impost deposents non sit In lequinitar valgo has estima impostate us Ariemphones comicus, ant Kuripidas tragicus, itt ordanes amass us historiographi at philosophi Otterori antem humines et doctius et cramballine . . Nam six milici veterem sermonda dignitatem atque elegantima retinchaist in primique ipas modules imiliaret; quibus cam mellum cont annium cam viria peregrinia commorcium, imiria ille se parus Gircorum errori servantur intamum (Philopha lipus, se ann. 1851, spud Hadtum, p. 186, 189). He abserves in amathar passars, cracilla men Throdem locations exat admodum modurată et sunti et maxime Article.

" evening, on visits to the churches and their CHAP.
" nearest kindred. On these occasions, they " are on horseback, covered with a veil, and " encompassed by their parents, their husbands.

" or their servants."

Among the Greeks, a numerous and opulent clergy was dedicated to the service of religion; their monks and bishops have ever been distinguished by the gravity and austerity of their manners; nor were they diverted, like the Latin priests, by the pursuits and pleasures of a secular, and even military, life. After a large deduction for the time and talents that were lost in the devotion, the laziness, and the discord, of the church and cloister, the more inquisitive and ambitious minds would explore the sacred and profane crudition of their native language. The ecclesiastics presided over the education of youth; the schools of philosophy and eloquence were perpetuated till the fall of the empire; and it may be affirmed, that more books and more knowledge were included within the walls of Constantinople, than could be dispersed over the extensive countries of the West. But an important distinction has been to apadalready noticed; the Greeks were stationary or Greeks and retrograde, while the Latins were advancing with Latins. a rapid and progressive motion. The nations were excited by the spirit of independence and emula-

^{*} Philippins, absurdly enough, derives this Greek as Oriental jenimary from the manners of ancient Rome.

See the state of learning in the thirteenth and fouriersth centuries, in the learnest and judicious Modern (Limitis, Hist. Ecolor, p. 435-440, 495-494).

CHAP.

tion; and even the little world of the Italian states contained more people and industry than the decreasing circle of the Byzantine empire. In Europe, the lower ranks of society were relieved from the yoke of feudal servitude; and freedom is the first step to curiosity and knowledge. The use, however rude and corrupt, of the Latin tongue had been preserved by superstition; the universities, from Bologna to Oxford, were peopled with thousands of scholars; and their misguided ardour might be directed to more liberal and manly studies. In the resurrection of science. Italy was the first that cast away her shroud; and the eloquent Petrurch, by his lessons and his example, may justly be applanded as the first harhinger of day. A purer style of composition, a more generous and rational strain of sentiment, flowed from the study and imitation of the writers of ancient Rome; and the disciples of Cicero and Virgil approached, with reverence and love, the sanctuary of their Grecian masters. In the sack of Constantinople, the French, and even the Venetians, had despised and destroyed the works of Lysippus and Homer; the monuments of art may be annihilated by a single blow; but the immortal mind is renewed and multiplied by the copies of the pen; and such copies it was the am-

FAI this end of the ditermity century, there existed in Europe about dity universities, and of these the farmations of error testles in proce to the year likely. They were exceeded in properties to their scarcity. Bologue executions 10,000 sealments, thinly of the enril how. In the year 1337, the number at Oxford had decreased from 30,000 to 0000 schedure (Harry's Hartery of Great Britain, vol. iv, p. 478). Yet even this decrease is much superior to the powerst list of the members of the university.

hition of Petrarch and his friends to possess and CHAP. understand. The arms of the Turks undoubtedly pressed the flight of the muses; yet we may tremble at the thought, that Greece might have been overwhelmed, with her schools and libraries, before Europe had emerged from the delage of burburism, that the seeds of science might have been scattered by the winds, before the Italian soil was prepared for their cultivation.

The most learned Italians of the fifteenth cen-necestal tury have confessed and applauded the restoration the town of Greek literature, after a long oblivion of many halv. hundred years.3 Yet in that country, and beyoul the Alps, some names are quoted; some profound scholars, who in the darker ages were honourably distinguished by their knowledge of the Greek tongue; and nutional vanity has been loud in the praise of such rare examples of erudition. Without scrutinizing the merit of individuals, truth must observe, that their science is without a cause, and without an effect; that it was easy for them to satisfy themselves and their more ignorant contemporaries; and that the nliom, which they had so marvellously acquired, was transcribed in few manuscripts, and was not taught in any university of the West. In a corner a Of those writers who professally irrat of the rento ation of the Greek hearing in Ituly, the two principal are Hedina, Dr. Hourshies Hody (de Geneis Blustribus, Lingua Genen Literaramque humaniment leateuratorième, Londont, 1742, to targe sameur, and Titahandle Chinara della Lavreratura Gallana, tom. 1, p. 361-317, non. 12, p. 1.05-1425. The Oxford professor is a literious scholar, but the libertian of Medica repose the imperiories of a medica and actional blatorism:

LXVL Lincoln

Bertantte.

of Italy, it faintly existed as the popular, or at least as the ecclesiastical, dialect. The first impression of the Doric and Ionic colonies has never been completely erazed: the Calabrian churches were long attached to the throne of Constantinople; and the monks of St. Basil pursued their studies in mount Athos and the schools of the East. Calabria was the native country of Barlaam, who has already appeared as a sectory Lamon of and an ambassador; and Barlaam was the first who revived, beyond the Alps, the memory, or at least the writings, of Homer.' He is described, by Petrarch and Boccace, as a man of a diminutive stature, though truly great in the measure of learning and genius; of a piercing discernment, though of a slow and painful elocution. For many ages (as they affirm) Greece had not produced his equal in the knowledge of history, grammar, and philosophy; and his merit. was celebrated in the attestations of the princes and doctors of Constantinople. One of these attestations is still extant; and the emperor Cantacuzene, the protector of his adversaries, is forced to allow, that Euclid, Aristotle, and Plato,

^{*} In Calabria quie clim magne Greccia dicabatur, colonite Greccia replicts, remarail quantum lingum veterls cognitio (Hudins, p. 2). If it were evaluated by the filtration, it was present and perpetrated by the munks of St. Buell, who presented seven consents at Measure slame (Giannane, Interio di Napelle, term 1; p. 120).

^{*} It Barbari carys Petrmeh, the Franch and Germany six, man distum Diens and tumen Homer's amilyeaust. Perhaps, in that respects the thirteenth century was less hoppy than the age of Charlemanne.

[&]quot; See the character of Bartaum, in Buccarr de Genealeg, Dusquet; 人工的大品 were familiar to that profound and subtle lo- CHAP. gician. In the court of Avignon, he formed LXVL an intimate connection with Petrarch,* the first of the Latin scholars; and the desire of mutual instruction was the principle of their literary commerce. The Tuscan applied himself with studies of cager curiosity and assiduous diligence to the perants. study of the Greek language; and in a laborious 1374, struggle with the dryness and difficulty of the first rudiments, he began to reach the sense, and to feel the spirit, of poets and philosophers, whose minds were congenial to his own. But he was soon deprived of the society and lessons of this useful assistant: Burlaum relinquished his fruitless embassy; and, on his return to Greece, he rashly provoked the swarms of fanatic monks, by attempting to substitute the light of reason to that of their navel. After a separation of three years, the two friends again met in the court of Naples; but the generous pupil renounced the fairest occasion of improvement; and by his recommendation Barlaam was finally settled in a small bishopric of his native Calabria.2 The manifold avocations of Petrarch, love and friendship, his [&]quot; Cantronname, I. II. c. 36.

^{*} For the commettee of Petrarch and Sariann, and the two interviews, at Avignon in 1339, and at Neples in 1347, see the excellent Memoirus sur la Vis de Petrarque, com t, p. 406-410, tom d, p. 73-77.

⁷ The bishopric to which flatinous restord was the old Least, in the infeldie ages Sancta Cyriaers, and by corruption. Historians. Germe Orient. Choregraphics Italias medii £vi, p. 31%. The draws spous of the Samusa times soon lapsed into potenty, once even the church was poort jui the cown still contains 2000 inhabitants (for inhurate, p. 340).

LXVL

various correspondence and frequent journles, the Roman laurel, and his elaborate compositions in prose and verse, in Latin and Italian, diverted him from a foreign idiom; and as he advanced in life, the attainment of the Greek language was the object of his wishes, rather than of his hopes. When he was about fifty years of age, a Byzantine ambassador, his friend, and a master of both tongues, presented him with a copy of Homer; and the answer of Petrarch is at once expressive of his eloquence, gratitude, and regret. After celebrating the generosity of the donor, and the value of a gift more precious in his estimation than gold or rubies, he thus proceeds: " Your present of the genuine and original text of the divine poet, the fountain of all invention, " is worthy of yourself and of me: you have " fulfilled your promise, and satisfied my desires. " Yet your liberality is still imperfect; with " Homer you should have given me yourself; a " guide, who could lead me into the fields of " light, and disclose to my wondering eyes the " spacious miracles of the Iliad and Odyssey. " But, alas! Homer is dumb, or I am deaf; nor is it in my power to enjoy the beauty which I possess. I have seated him by the side of Plato, " the prince of poets near the prince of philoso-" phers; and I glory in the night of my illustrious " guests. Of their immortal writings, whatever " had been translated into the Latin idlom, I had " already acquired; but if there he no profit, " there is some pleasure, in beholding these " venerable Greeks in their proper and national " habit. I am delighted with the aspect of

- " Homer; and as often as I embrace the silent CHAP.
- " volume, I exclaim, with a sigh, Illustrious LXVI.
- a bard! with what pleasure should I listen to " thy song, if my sense of hearing were not ob-
- " structed and lost by the death of one friend,
- " and in the much lamentable absence of an-
- " other! Nor do I yet despair; and the example
- " of Cato suggests some comfort and hope, since
- " it was in the last period of age that he at-
- " tained the knowledge of the Greek letters."s

The prize which cluded the efforts of Petrarchor Bosmer. was obtained by the fortune and industry of his him. 1380, friend Boccace," the father of the Tuscan prose. That popular writer, who derives his reputation from the Decameron, an hundred novels of pleasantry and love, may aspire to the more serious praise of restoring, in Italy, the study of the Greek language. In the year one thousand three hundred and sixty, a disciple of Barlaam, whose name was Leo, or Leontius Pilatus, was detained in his way to Avignon by the advice and hospitality of Boccace, who lodged the stranger in

^{*} I will transcribe a pumpe from this spirite of Petturch (Frant, iv. 2), Domail Homerum and in allertin strategies violente alves deriwatum, sed ex limit firmed choquil mentabelo, buquallo distas lile profits it. lagenio Sine tui voce Homerus tuna spud me matus, mano tero ego apad illim sandus sum. Gandes tamen vel adapartà cole, ar supe Illiam amplictus neque suspirans disc. O magne vir. &c.

[.] For the life and writings of Bocours, who was born in 1313, and died in 1975, Fabricias (Bibliot, Latin, mails Set, nam i, p. 218, Ar.) and Tarabaschi (tam. v. p. 83, 458-431; pasy he computed. The additions, burshoos, instintinue, of his north, are innomeration. Vot. he was assumed to communicate that tribing, and pethaps remobilities, work to Petragely, his respectable friend, in whose letters and measure ће самерісприм'у пррешта

CHAR, his house, prevailed on the republic of Florence to allow him on annual stipend, and devoted his that language in the western countries of Europe.

Lee Plintor, frot Senior III Planeter Work 1363.

leisure to the first Greek professor, who taught The appearance of Leo might disgust the most Great pro cager disciple; he was clothed in the mantle of a philosopher, or a mendicant; his countenance and in the was hideous; his face was overshadowed with * a 1960. black hair; his beard long and uncombed; his deportment rustic; his temper gloomy and inconstant; nor could be grace his discourse with the ornaments, or even the perspicuity, of Latin elocution. But his mind was stored with a treasure of Greek learning; history and fable, philosophy and grammar, were alike at his command; and he read the poems of Homer in the schools of Florence. It was from his explanation that Boccace composed and transcribed a literal prose version of the Hind and Odyssey, which satisfied the thirst of his friend Petrarch, and which perhaps, in the succeeding century, was claudestinely used by Laurentius Valla, the Latin interpreter. It was from his narratives that the same Boccace collected the materials for his treatise on the genealogy of the heathen gods, a work, in that age, of stupendous erudition, and which he ostentationaly sprinkled with Greek characters and passages, to excite the wonder and applause of his more ignorant readers." The first steps of learning are slow and laborious; no more than CHAY. ten votaries of Homer could be enumerated in all Italy; and neither Rome, nor Venice, nor Naples, could add a single name to this studious catalogue. But their numbers would have multiplied, their progress would have been accelerated, if the inconstant Leo, at the end of three years, had not relinquished an honourable and beneficial station. In his passage, Petrarch entertained him at Padua a short time; he enjoyed the scholar, but was justly offended with the gloomy and unsocial temper of the man. Discontented with the world and with himself, Leo depreciated his present enjoyments, while absent persons and objects were dear to his imagination. In Italy he was a Thessahan, in Greece a native of Calabria; in the company of the Latins he disdained their language, religion, and manner; no sooner was be lauded at Constantinople, than he again sighed for the wenlth of Venice and the elegance of Florence. His Italian friends were deaf to his importunity; be depended on their curiosity and imbulgence, and embarked on a second voyage; but on his entrance into the Adriatic, the ship was assailed by a tempest, and the unfortunate teacher, who, like Ulysses, had fastened himself to the mast, was struck dead by a flash of lightning. The humane Petrarch dropt a tear on his dienster; but he was most anxious to learn whether some copy of Euripides or Sophocies might not be saved from the hands of the mariners?

Bocone indulges on bonne earning Datastationic canal Green camples adoriged jute ofor men; means est hor done men glasta erillest inter Etruscoe Green utt exentiathers. Noren upe mit mit Leantinus Pilatum, Ac. ple Genealogie Boorum, Lav. c. 7, a work which, though now forgotten, has run through thirteen or fourteen edithenal.

^{*} Lending of Lim Prizers, is confidently made become by Histo-Fig. 2-11; and the Abbit the Softs (Ver de Petrospoy, 1971, 191, p. 972.

CHAP-LXVI

at the Grack language (0 Ittily by Mannal Chryma Biron, Betal.

But the faint codiments of Greek learning, which Petrarch had encouraged and Boccace had Foundation planted, soon withered and expired. The succeeding generation was content for a while with the improvement of Latin eloquence; nor was it before the end of the fourteenth century, that a new and perpetual flame was rekindled in Italy.d La 1800- Previous to his own journey, the emperor Manuel disputched his envoys and orators to implore the compassion of the western princes. Of these envoys, the most conspinuous, or the most learned, was Manuel Chrysoloras," of noble birth, and whose Roman ancestors are supposed to have migrated with the great Constantine. After visiting the courts of France and England, where he obtained some contributions, and more promises, the envoy was invited to assume the office of a professor; and Florence had again the honour of this second invitation. By his knowledge not only of the Greek, but of the Latin tongue. Chrysoloras deserved the stipend, and surpassed the expectation, of the republic. His school was frequented by a crowd of disciples of 634, 670-613), who has very happily cought the lively and demonite manner of his original.

[&]quot;Dr. Hody (p. 54) is augry with Lesmari Arctin, Guartuur, Paulus Justice, Am his affirming that the Greek letters were restored in Ituly port scattegrates mone, as it, says he, they had flourished fill the end of the second century. These testers most probably reckned from the last period of the courriers; and the process of the Greek magentrates and troops at Harrana and Home must have preserved, in press degree, the use of their sutive torquis-

[.] See the erticle of Emanuel, or Manuel Chrysoleran, in Body (p. 12-54) and Timbeschi ttom, vii, p. 113-118). The previns data of has arrived firsts between the years 1200 and 1400, and is suby our fixed by the reign of Boulface es.

every rank and age; and one of these, in a ge- cuar. neral history, has described his motives and his LXVL success. " At that time," says Leonard Arctin," " I was a student of the civil law; but my soul " was inflamed with the love of letters; and I " bestawed some application on the sciences of " logic and rhetoric. On the arrival of Manuel " I hesitated whether I should desert my legal " studies, or relinquish this golden opportunity; " and thus, in the ardour of youth, I communed " with my own mind-Will thou be wanting " to thyself and thy fortune? Will thou refuse " to be introduced to a familiar converse with " Homer, Plato, and Demosthenes? with those " poets, philosophers, and crators, of whom " such wonders are related, and who are cele-" limited by every age as the great masters of " human science? Of professors and scholars " in civil law, a sufficient supply will always be " found in our universities; but a teacher, and " such a teacher, of the Greek language, if he " once be suffered to escape, may never after-" wards be etrieved. Convinced by these reaa some, I gave myself to Chaysolorus; and so " strong was my presion, that the lessons which " I had imbibed in the day were the constant

The same of Jones has been as most by Av. or all natives of Joseph and the most inner and the most contains lived in the arrive in reside. The most inner and the most worthing lived in the arrive in reside. The most in the straight of Chrysdians, true e flagment, or exist, and in linearing the straight of Thermore, where he deals as in 1998, at the age of wearing-face (Valera, Mahlad, name Est, man, is p. 190, &c. Trubowski, name all, p. 331-389.

LXVL

" subject of my nightly dreams." At the same time and place, the Latin classics were explained by John of Ravenna, the domestic pupil of Petrarch: the Italians, who illustrated their age and country, were formed in this double school; and Florence became the fruitful seminary of Greek and Roman erudition. The presence of the emperor recalled Chrysolorus from the college to the court, but he afterwards taught at Pavis and Rome with equal industry and applause. The remainder of his life, about fifteen years, was divided between Italy and Constantinople, between embassies and lessons. In the noble office of enlightening a foreign nation, the grammarian was not unmindful of a more sacred duty to his prince and country; and Emanuel Chrysolorus died at Constance, on a public mission from the emperor to the council.

The Greek After his example, the restoration of the Greek to half, a 1400-letters in Italy was prosecuted by a series of 1500. emigrants, who were destitute of fortune, and endowed with learning, or at least with language.

^{*} See the passage in Arstin. Commentario Berum and Tumpure in Italia gestarum, apad Hadram, p. 25-30.

^{*} In this deposite discipline, Petrarch, who loved the youth, often complains of the engar entirely, restless temper, and proof fashings, which accessors the gentus and glory of a riper age (Messures not Petrarque, tem. 0), p. 100-109.

^{*} Him Graces Latineque schafe exerta sunt, Gontino Philatphe, Lemardo Arctino, Caroloque, es pierisque alla maquam ex equa Trojano produmniture, quertus smutatione scala imperia dianteja at tendeno caritare anni (Platine in Bombiros ex). Ameter Italian scalar add, the names of Panino Petrus Vingerius, Ortalismos Vintentius, Poggitus, Processous Barbarus, &c. But I question whether a right chromology sould allow Chrysolovat all these eminem arbeites (Hottine, p. 23-27, &c.).

From the terror or oppression of the Turkisharms, oner, the natives of Thessalonica and Constantinople escaped to aland of freedom, curiosity, and wealth, The synod introduced into Florence the lights of the Greek church and the oracles of the Platonic philosophy; and the fugitives who adhered to the union had the double merit of renouncing their country, not only for the christian, but for the catholic, cause. A patriot, who sacrifices his party and conscience to the allurements of favour, may be possessed, however, of the private and social virtues: he no longer hears the reproachful epithets of slave and apostate; and the consideration which he acquires among his new associates, will restore in his own eyes the dignity of his character. The predent conformity of Bessarion Cardinal was rewarded with the Roman purple : he fixed an his residence in Italy, and the Greek cardinal, the titular patriarch of Constantinople, was respected as the chief and protector of his nation." his abilities were exercised in the legations of Bologna, Venice, Germany, and France; and his election to the chair of St. Peter floated for a moment on the uncertain breath of a conclave.1 His ecclesiastical honours diffused a splendour and pre-eminence over his literary merit and service :

A See in Body the atticle of Beauties (p. 135-177). Theodore Gass, George of Trobinous, and the rest of the Grooks whom I have named or smitted, are imented in their proper chapters of his learned which. See Heaville Tigation his, he the first and accord parts of the significance.

The emilian's knocked at his door, but his conclayed refused to be tarrapt the smaller of Bosonium; " Narnales," said her, " they respect " has cost there an hat, and my the tiars."

LXVL

his palace was a school; as often as the cardinal visited the Vatican, he was attended by a learned train of both nations;" of men applauded by themselves and the public; and whose writings, now overspread with dust, were popular and useful in their own times. I shall not attempt to enumerate the restorers of Greeian literature in the fifteenth century; and it may be sufficient to mention with gratitude the unmes of Theodore Guza, of George of Trebizond, of John Argyropulus, and Demetrius Chalcocondyles, who taught their native language in the schools of Florence and Rome. Their labours were not inferior to those of Bessarion, whose purple they revered, and whose fortune was the secret object of their envy. But the lives of these grammarians were humble and obscure; they had declined the lucrative paths of the church; their dress and manners secluded them from the commerce of the world; and since they were confined to the merit, they might be content with the rewards, of learning. From this character, Janus Lascarist will desurve an exception. His elequence, politeness, and im-

Their faults and incrits-

Such as Goorge of Trabinous, Thursdore Gaza, Argyropains Antonology of Theoretianies, Philistolius, Poppins, Blandars, Norholas Percent, Valla, Companius, Plantas, &c., Victorys Hody with the phase and of a scholar graduate partners up, 1985.

^{} He was term before the taking of Countries ples, but his homouride life was stratched for little the statement country ( v. 1235). Less a and Francis a were his postern patrices, makes whose supplies he hounded the Greek relieges of Borne and Pizzis (Hody, jr. 247-278), He left posterity in France ; but the counts de Vintamilla, and their numerous branches, derive the same of Linearie from a doubtful morriege in the thirteenth country with the daughter of a Greek empare (Bucauge, Fam. Byzers, p. 274-730).

perial descent, recommended him to the French CHAP. monarchs; and in the same cities he was alter- LXVI. nately employed to teach and to negociate. Duty and interest prompted them to cultivate the study of the Latin language; and the most successful attained the faculty of writing and speaking with fluency and elegance in a foreign idiom. But they ever retained the inveterate vanity of their country: their praise, or at least their esteem, was reserved for the national writers, to whom they owed their fame and subsistence; and they sometimes betrayed their contempt in licentious criticism or satire on Virgil's poetry and the oratory of Tully." The superiority of these masters arose from the familiar use of a living language; and their first disciples were incamble of discerning how far they had degenerated from the knowledge, and even the practice, of their ancestors. A vicious pronunciation," which they introduc-

^{*} Two of his apprount against Virgit, and three against Yolly, are preserved and related by Francisco Floridis, who can stid so effect stained than Generalus impour of impudent (Hady, p. 274). It can sum times, my Employ certs has account the English of communing make the guide, pignoria, spoilth at majorith carminia begund defects a many such verses as he, the said Jeremini Maraland, would have been added of sweing (picture, at 2 and 3) from p. 21, 22).

^{*} Emanuel Chrysniams, and his callingers, are accorded by primer, envy, or avarier (Splings, &c. tens. II., p. 215). The modern Greaks promining that a sa a V emanment, and confined three vorces (a + s), and accorded plathones. Such was the sugger prominentials which the stress Gardiner maintained by penal entities in the normality of Cambridge 1 but the morroughlable as represented to an Attir our the Missing of about, and a believabler is henry college than a histophar a fatnessiam. The arranges of these sphelars, particularly knowns, who asserted a more classical prominentiam, are called in the Sylings of Harrowards. (Color in section, Lings, Bat. 1736, 1740) a but it is difficult.

CHAP, ed, was banished from the schools by the reason of the succeeding age. Of the power of the Greek accents they were ignorant, and those musimi notes, which, from an Attic tongue, and to an Attic car, must have been the secret soul of harmony, were to their eyes, as to our own, no more than minute and unmeaning marks, in prose superfluous, and trouble-some in verse. The art of grammur they truly possessed; the valuable fragments of Apollonius and Herodian were transfired into their lessons; and their treatises of syntax and etymology, though devoid of philosophic spirit, are still useful to the Greek student. In the shipwreck of the Byzantine libraries, each fugitive seized a fragment of treasure, a copy of some author, who, without his industry, might have perished: the transcripts were multiplied by an assidnous, and sometimes an elegant, pen; and the text was corrected and explained by their own comments, or those of the chier scholingts. The sense, though not the spirit, of the Greek classics, was interpreted to the Latin world: the beauties of style evaporate in a version; but the judgment of Theodore Gaza selected the more solid works of Aristotle and Theophrastus, and their natural histories of animals and plants opened a rich fund of genuine and experimental science-

The Pistundo phi-

Yet the fleeting shadows of metaphysics were pursued with more cariosity and ardour. After a difficult to pulse munds by scords, and in their sufceence to modern make they can be understood only by their suspective countrymen. We may observe, that our peculiar promunciation of the 4,7%, is appropriate Ernsmin (tom. II. p. 130).

long oblivion, Plato was revived in Italy by a cuar. venerable Greek, who taught in the house EXVL of Cosmo of Medicis. While the synod of Florence was involved in theological debate, some beneficial consequences might flow from the study of his elegant philosophy: his style is the purest standard of the Attic dialect; and his sublime thoughts are sometimes adapted to familiar conversation, and sometimes adorned with the richest colours of poetry and eloquence. The dialogues of Plato are a dramatic picture of the life and death of a sage; and as often as he descends from the clouds, his moral system inculcates the love of truth, of our country, and of mankind. The precept and example of Socrates recommended a modest doubt and liberal inquiry; and if the Platonists, with blind devotion, adored the visions and errors of their divine master, their enthusiasm might correct the dry dogmatic method of the Peripatetic school. So equal, yet so opposite, are the merits of Plato and Aristotle, that they may be balanced in endless controversy; but some spark of freedom may be produced by the collision of adverse servitude. The modern Greeks were divided between the two sects; with more fury than skill they fought under the hanner of their leaders; and the field of battle was removed in their flight from Constantinople to Rome. But this philosophical debate soon degenerated into an ^{*} Gentlys Gametus Pherbo, a various and adminisons writer, the master of Bosserma, and all the Platonists of the times. He visited fixty in late cld. age, and some externed to end his days in Pelopometers. See the nucleus distribe of Leo Allatius de Georgie, in Fairine (Bibliot, Green, Ione, p. 738-758).

CHAP LXVI.

angry and personal quarrel of grammarians; and Bessarion, though an advocate for Plato, protected the national honour, by interposing the advice and authority of a mediator. In the gardens of the Medici, the academical doctrine was enjoyed by the polite and learned: but their philosophic society was quickly dissolved; and if the writings of the Attic sage were perused in the closet, the more powerful Stagyrite continued to reign the oracle of the church and school."

Emulation mai pro-STEEN OF

I have fairly represented the literary merits of the Greeks; yet it must be confessed that they the Latine were seconded and surpassed by the ardour of the Latins. Italy was divided into many independent states; and at that time, it was the ambition of princes and republics to vie with each other in the encouragement and reward of literature.

National The fame of Nicholas the fifth has not been AUR. 1867. adequate to his merits. From a plebeian origin, $435 he raised himself by his virtue and learning; the character of the man prevailed over the interest of the pope; and he sharpened those weapons which were soon pointed against the Roman church."

> * The state of the Platunic philosophy in Italy is Illumented by Bursin | Mam. de l'Acad. des Inscriptions, tom. U. p. 713-729 | mid Tarabauchi tuma vi. p. i. p. 239-278

> * See the life of Nubidio v, by two contemperary mathers, James, too Menories (come in, p. ri, p. 903-002), and Vergersan of Vincence. tions, arr, p. 267-2961, in the collection of Munitary and consols Tirebeachi (nomi vii p. 5; p. 16-52, 109) and Hody or the articles of Throdore Gam, Groups of Techinood, &c.

^{*} Lord Relingbooks observes, with truth and spirit, that the pope, to this mixture were worse politicisms than the mafrix, and that the charms which has bound mention to so many open was broken to the magicians themselves thetters on the Study of Rictory, if wi, is, 165, 166, scrave edition, 1779;

He had been the friend of the most eminent cnarscholars of the age; he became their patron; and LXVI. such was the humility of his manners, that the change was scarcely discernible either to them or to himself. If he pressed the acceptance of a liberal gift, it was not as the measure of desert, but as the proof of benevolence; and when modest merit declined his bounty, " accept it," would be say with a consciousness of his own worth; " you will not always have a Nicholas " among ye." The influence of the holy see pervaded Christendom; and he exerted that influence in the search, not of benefices, but of books. From the ruins of the Byzantine libraries, from the darkest monasteries of Germany and Britnin, he collected the dusty manuscripts of the writers of antiquity; and wherever the original could not be removed, a faithful copy was transcribed and transmitted for his use. The Vatican, the old repository for bulls and legends, for superstition and forgery, was daily replenished with more precious furniture; and such was the industry of Nicholas, that in a reign of eight years, he formed a library of five thousand volumes. To his munificence the Latin world was indebted for the versions of Xenophon, Diodorus, Polybius, Thucydides, Herodotus, and Appian; of Strabo's Geography, of the Hiad, of the most valuable works of Plato and Aristotle, of Ptolemy and Theophrastus, and of the fathers of the Greek church. The example of the Roman pontiff was Commo and preceded or imitated by a Florentine merchant, Larance of who governed the republic without arms and a a ter-

CHAP, without a title. Cosmo of Medicis" was a father of a line of princes, whose name and age are almost synonymous with the restoration of learning: his credit was ennobled into fame; his riches were dedicated to the service of mankind; he corresponded at once with Cairo and London; and a cargo of Indian spices and Greek books was often imported in the same vessel. The genius and education of his grandson Lorenzo rendered him not only a patron, but a judge and candididate, in the literary race. In his palace, distress was entitled to relief, and merit to reward: his leisure hours were delightfully spent in the Platonic academy; he encouraged the emulation of Demctrius Chalcocondyles and Angelo Politian; and his active missionary Janus Lascaris returned from the East with a treasure of two hundred manuscripts, fourscore of which were as yet unknown in the libraries of Europe. The rost of Italy was animated by a similar spirit, and the progress of the mation repaid the liberality of her princes. The Latins held the exclusive property of their own literature; and these disciples of Greece were [&]quot; See the litterary blittery of Commo and Lorenge of Medicos, in Tisratioschi (tom, vi, p. i, l. i, c. 2), who becomes a due measure of punise on Alphanes of Arragon, king of Naples, the datas of Milan, Ferrato, Urbino, Ac. The regulate of Venny his deserved the least from the gratisma of erbotues.

^{*} Timberts from 97, p. 1, p. 194], from the proface of James Lesearls to the Greek Ambology, printed at Physics 1404. Latetont Ours Aldes in his profine to the Greek Orstors, spud Hodism, p. 249) in Athe Thracia; monte. Eas Laurante, in Italium reportante. Miseral union (pourer Laurentina life Medicus in Graeclassi ad inquirendos signal, et quantovio smandos pretis bones libros. Il is remarkable enough that the remarks was facilitated by sultan Bu-Junet 11.

tom capable of transmitting and improving the CHAP. lessons which they had imbibed. After a short succession of foreign teachers, the thie of emigration subsided; but the language of Constantinople was spread beyond the Alps; and the natives of France, Germany, and England, imparted to their country the sacred fire which they had kindled in the schools of Florence and Rome. In the productions of the mind, as in those of the soil, the gifts of nature are excelled by industry and skill: the Greek authors, forgotten on the banks of the Hissus, have been illustrated on those of the Elbe and the Thames; and Bessarion or Gaza might have envied the superior science of the burbarians; the accuracy of Busheus, the taste of Erasmus, the copiousness of Stephens, the ermfition of Scaliger, the discernment of Reinke, or of Bentley. On the side of the Latins, the discovery of printing was a casual advantage; but this useful art has been applied by Aldus, and his innumerable successors, to perpetuate and multiply

The Grack lenguage was introduced into the university of Canbrul in the last years of the filterath contagy, by Gracyo, Louisers, and Lathings who led all studied in Phromis mider Demetries Chalrocondyles, see Dr. Enight's cursous life of Pressure. Althingh a store explorated patrice, he is formed to acknowledge that Remains langed Greek at Oxford, and taught it at Cambridge.

^{*} The justime Hadden, were desired of keeping a most poly of Greak learning. When Alder was about to publish the Greak schotle acts on Expanden and Entropeles, Care tooy they, care her learn, to harden lette adjust dome manually of parameters in Hadden combined (Dr. Kiright, in his Life of Ermanns, p. 365, from Bearns Blassmans).

QUAP, the works of antiquity." A single manuscript imported from Greece is revived in ten thousand copies; and each copy is fairer than the original, In this form Homer and Plato would peruse with more satisfaction their own writings; and their scholiasts mest resign the prize to the labours of our western editors.

the and abasse of sucient. terrolists.

Before the revival of classic literature, the barbarians in Europe were immersed in ignorance; and their vulgar tongues were marked with the rudeness and poverty of their manners. The students of the more perfect idioms of Rome and Greece were introduced to a new world of light and science; to the society of the free and polished nations of antiquity; and to a familiar converse with those immortal men who spoke the sublime language of eloquence and reason. Such an intercourse must tend to refine the taste and to elevate the genius of the moderns; and yet, from the first experiments, it might appear that the atudy of the ancients had given fetters, rather than wings, to the human mind. However laudable, the spirit of imitation is of a servile cast; and the

A The press of Aldris Mannhoy, a Roman, was established at Venice about the year 1494; he printed above sixty considerable weeks of Greek literature, almost all for the first time a several containing different treaties and authors, and of several number two, there, or Cour adition (Fabric, Bibliot, Grav., turn, alli, p. 60% &c.). Yet his glary lamet not tumpt us to forget, that the first Greek book, the Grammar of Constantine Lawrence, was printed at Milan, in 1476; and that the Florence Homer of 1488 displays all the luxiny of the typographical art. See the Annalia Typographict of Manutre, and the Bibliographic Instructive of de Bure, a knowing backwiller of Paris.

first disciples of the Greeks and Romans were a CHAP. colony of strangers in the midst of their age and LXVI. country. The minute and laborious diligence which explored the antiquities of remote times might have improved or adorned the present state of society; the critic and metaphysician were the slaves of Aristotle; the poets, historians, and orators, were proud to repeat the thoughts and words of the Augustan age; the works of nature were observed with the eyes of Pliny and Theophrastus; and some pagan votaries professed a secret devotion to the gods of Homer and Plato. The Italians were oppressed by the strength and number of their ancient auxiliaries; the century after the deaths of Petrarch and Boccace was filled with a crowd of Latin imitators, who decently repose on our sholves; but in that era of learning, it will not be easy to discern a real discovery of science, a work of invention or eloquence, in the popular language of the country." But as I will seize three singular examples of this classic sufficients.

I. At the exact of Planeser, Germania Platha and, to combine massers then, to Google of Treblacoid, that he a short three kinelline containments by a manner the populated the terms for a reign a smiller in that of the printiple (Los Abarles, about Pakittisma, time a, p. 351).

2. Part is presented the Himman academy, which had been founded by Poupponius Lexius; and the principal incoders were accounted of himmy, implets, and progression (Tipaboschi, turn, vi., p. 1, p. 81, 82).

3. In the most contary, some english and pass in France calcimates the onecess of Joinfle's irracidy of Chromatry, by a Testival of Bucking, and, as it is said, by the succides of a goot chaple, Dictionairy, does delia. France colors in the posterior play of fancy unight often discent a autom importy to the spectra play of fancy and bearings.

^{*} The surviver of Bayese dust in the year 1373; and we examine before 1880 the composition of the Margarie Maggiors of Pulsi, and the Orlando Improved of Bayesia (Titribucki, tem. ci., p. ii. p. 174-177.

CHAP

soon as it had been deeply saturated with the celestial dew, the soil was quickened into vegetation and life; the modern idious were refined; the classics of Athens and Rome inspired a pure taste and a generous emulation; and in Italy, as afterwards in France and England, the pleasing reign of poetry and fiction was succeeded by the light of speculative and experimental philosophy. Genius may anticipate the senson of maturity; but in the education of a people, as in that of an individual, memory must be exercised, before the powers of reason and fancy can be expanded; nor may the artist hope to equal or surpass, till he has learned to imitate, the works of his predecessors.

CHAP, LXVII.

Schism of the Greeks and Latine.—Reign and character of Amurath the second.—Crumale of Ladislaus, hing of Hungary.—His defeat and death.—Jahu Hunjader.—Scamlerbeg.—Constantine Paleologus, last emperor of the East.

tinople are compared and celebrated by an eloquent Greek, the father of the Italian schools, compart-The view of the ancient capital, the sent of his and conancestors, surpassed the most sanguine expectations of Emanuel Chrysoloras; and he no longer blamed the exclamation of an old sophist, that Rome was the habitation, not of men, but of gods. Those gods, and those mon, had long since vanished; but, to the eye of liberal enthusiasm, the majesty of rain restored the image of her ancient prosperity. Them onuments of the consuls and Cassars, of the martyrs and aspostles, engaged on all sides the curiosity of the philosopher and the christian; and he conferred, that in every age the arms and the religion of Rome were destined to reign over the earth.

The Episte of Emmand Chrysolenes to the emperor John Palantegos with not offend the eye or one of a chronist endem and release. Collin sh. Antiquitatibus of a p. 107-125). The superscription suggests a disconsinglent remark, that John Palantogos of was are control in the supers to fore the year 1414, the date of Chrysolene's death, A will writte their, as least 1409, is deduced from the ege of his year of the control of the party of the year of the year.

LXVIL

While Chrysolorns admired the venerable beauties of the mother, he was not forgetful of his native country, herfairest daughter, her imperial colony; and the Byzantine patriot expatiates with zeal and truth on the eternal advantages of nature, and the more transitory glories of art and dominion, which adorned, or had adorned, the city of Constantine. Yet the perfection of the copy still redounds (as he modestly observes) to the honour of the original, and parents are delighted to be renewed, and even excelled, by the superior merit of their children: " Constantinople," says the orator, " is situate on a commanding " point, between Europe and Asia, between the " Archipelago and the Euxine. By her interpo-" sition, the two seas, and the two continents, " are united for the common benefit of nations; " and the gates of commerce may be shut or " opened at her command. The harbour, en-" compassed on all sides by the sen and the con-" tineut, is the most secure and capacious in the " world. The walls and gates of Constanti-" nople may be compared with those of Baby-" lon: the towers are many; each tower is a " solid and lofty structure; and the second wall, " the outer fortification, would be sufficient for " the defence and dignity of an ordinary capital. - A broad and rapid stream may be introduced " into the ditches; and the artificial island may " be encompassed like Athens' by land or water."

^{*} Semularly observed, that the city of Athens might be electromaigated (response on the rest African issuefus an engage him an engage and any or an engage and the start may be true in a restociant sense of Communication,

Two strong and natural causes are alleged for cwar. the perfection of the model of New Rome. The Lavis. royal founder reigned over the most illustrious nations of the globe; and in the accomplishment of his designs, the power of the Romans was combined with the art and science of the Greeks. Other cities have been reared to maturity by accident and time; their beauties are mingled with disorder and deformity; and the inhabitants, unwilling to move from their natal spot, are incapuble of correcting the errors of their ancestors, and the original vices of situation or climate. But the free idea of Constantinople was formed and executed by a single mind; and the primitive model was improved by the obedient zeal of the subjects and successors of the first monarch. The adjacent isles were stored with an inexhaustible supply of marble; but the various materials were transported from the most remote shores of Europe and Asia; and the public and private buildings, and palaces, churches, aqueducts, cisterns, porticoes, columns, baths, and hippodromes, were adapted to the greatness of the capital of the East-The superfluity of wealth was spread along the shores of Europe and Asia; and the Byzantine territory, as far as the Euxine, the Hellespont, and the long wall, might be considered as a populous subarb and a perpetual garden. In this flattering picture, the past and the present, the times of prosperity and decay, are artfully consunnot be applied to the simution of Athens, five miles from the acuand not interested or surrounded by any proligable streets.

LIXVIL

CHAP. founded ; Int a sigh and a confession escape from the orator, that his wretched country was the slindow and sepulchre of its former self. The works of ancient sculpture had been defaced by christian zeal or burbaric violence; the fairest structures were demolished; and the marbles of Pares or Numidia were burnt for lime, or applied to the meanest uses. Of many a statue, the place was marked by an empty pedestal; of many a column, the size was determined by a broken capital; the tombs of the emperors were scattered on the ground; the stroke of time was accelerated by storms and earthquakes; and the vacant space was adorned, by vulgar tradition, with fabulous monuments of gold and silver. From these wonders, which lived only in memory or belief, he distinguishes, however, the porphyrypillar, the column and colosses of Justinian, and the church, more especially the dame; of St. Sophia; the best conclusion, since it could not be described according to its merits, and after it no other object could deserve to be mentioned. But he forgets, that a century before, the trembling fabrics of the colossus and the church had been saved and supported by the timely care of Andronicus the elder. Thirty years after the emperor had fortified St. Sophia with two new buttresses or pyramids: the oastern hemisphere anddenly gave way; CHAP. and the images, the alfars, and the sanctuary, exvit were crushed by the falling ruin. The mischief indeed was speedily repaired; the rubbish was cleared by the increasure labour of every rank and age; and the poor remains of riches and industry were consecrated by the Greeks to the most stately and venerable temple of the East."

[·] Nicepharus Gregoria has described the cub sum of Justinian G, vii, 12) ; his his measures are false and inconsistant. The editor Believe coverilled his friend Circules g and the coupuir gave blim the trile proportions of an expontrian status. That of Justinian was still ciable to Pear Cyange, not on the column, but he the cornered must of the smuglish and he was at Communities; is when it was melted sown, and cast into a brace cannon (da Topograph, c. r. l. ii, c. 17).

The last hope of the falling city and empire Too Greek was placed in the harmony of the mother and my die daughter, in the maternal tenderness of Rome, commit of and the fillal obedience of Constantinople. In a 146the synod of Florence, the Greeks and Latins had embraced, and subscribed, and promised; but these signs of friendship were perfidious or fruitless, and the baseless fallaic of the union. vanished like a dream! The emperor and his prelates returned home in the Venetian gallies; but as they touched at the Mores and the isles of ^{*} Say the decty and regules of St. Sophia, in Marphoeni Greguina the sale life hear, The Tim humaling was propped by Andronicas in THY; the sames beenighter but to 1985. The Grate, is their pumpous chemis, endtof the beauty and holisms of the abuith, we egriffly become, the atests of angels, and of find himself, he.

The gradies and original marrieds of Apropular (p. 215-221) spens the admin from the first she of the Greeks at Various, to the general exposition at Community of the chipy, and position

Our the selices of Constitutionals, see Christia G. H. & Phy. Lawiness Challendyins all via p. 153, Livy, and Decree at Mile the list of which leading with truth and frequent Adversaries we may distinguish the continuator of Pleasy though malls p. 330, Re-401, 400, May not Sportsons in a 1400-20. The said of the latter by drawning its projudite and parties, he was at Rome and congior of married.

CHAP. Corn and Leshos, the subjects of the Latins compigined that the pretended union would be an instrument of oppression. No somer did they land on the Byzantine shore, than they were saluted, or rather assailed, with a general murmur of zeal and discontent. During their absence, above two years, the capital had been deprived of its civil and ecclesiastical rulers: fanaticism fermented in anarchy; the most furious monks reigned over the conscience of women and bigots; and the fatred of the Latin name was the first principle of nature and religion. Before his departure for Italy, the emperor had flattered the city with the assurance of a prompt relief and a powerful succour; aml the clargy, confident in their orthodoxy. and science, had promised themselves and their flocks an easy victory over the blind shepherds of the West. The double disappointment exasperated the Greeks: the conscience of the subscribing prelates was awakened; the hour of temptation was past; and they had more to dread from the public resentment, than they could hope from the favour of the emperor or the pope. Instead of justifying their conduct, they deplored their weakness, professed their contrition, and cast themselves on the mercy of God and of their brethren. To the reproachful question, what had been the event or use of their Italian synod? they answered, with sighs and tears, " Alas! we have made a new faith; we have " exchanged piety for impiety; we have betrayand the immaculate sacrifice; and we are become " Asymiles." (The Azymites were those who ce- guarlebrated the communion with unleavened bread; and I must retract or qualify the praise which I have bestowed on the growing philosophy of the " Alas! we have been seduced by dis-" tress, by frand, and by the hopes and fears of a transitory life. The hand that has signed the union should be cut off; and the tongue " that has pronounced the Latin creed deserves " to be torn from the root." The best proof of their repentance was an increase of zeal for the most trivial rites and the most incomprehensible doctrines; and an absolute separation from all, without excepting their prince, who preserved some regard for honour and consistency. After the decease of the patriarch Joseph, the archhishops of Hernelen and Trebitond had courage to refuse the vacant office; and cardinal Bessarion preferred the warm and comfortable shelter of the Vatican. The choice of the emperor mid his clergy was confined to Metrophanes of Cyzicus; he was conscirated in St. Sophin, but the temple was encunt. The cross-bearers abdicated their service; the infection spread from the city to the villages; and Metrophanes discharged, without effect, some ecclesiastical thunders against a nation of schismatics. The eves of the Greeks were directed to Mark of Ephesus, the champion of his country; and the sufferings of the holy confessor were repord with a tribute of admiration and applause. His example and writings propagated the flame of religious discord; age and infirmity soon removed him from the world;

CHAP.

but the gospel of Mark was not a law of forgiveness; and he requested with his dying breath, that name of the adherents of Rome might attend his obsequies, or pray for his soul.

Zaul of the Orientula and Ruselam.

The schism was not confined to the narrow limits of the Beautime empire. Secure under the Manualuke sceptre, the three patriarchs of Alexandria, Antioch, and Jerusalem, assembled a management around; disowned their representatives at Percaru and Florence; condemned the creed and conneil of the Latina; and threatened the emperor of Constantinople with the consures of the Eastern church. Of the sectaries of the Greek communion, the Russians were the most powerful, ignorant, and sup ratitious. Their primate, the cardinal Isid re, bustened from Florence to Moscow," to reduce the independent nation under the Roman voke. But the Russian histors had been educated at mount Ather; and the prince and people embraced the theology of their priests. They were senudalized by the title, the pump, the Latin cross, of the legate, the friend of those impious men who shaved their beards, and performed the divine office with gloves on their hands, and rings on their fingers; Isidore was condemned by a synod; his person was imprisoned in a monastery; and it was with extreme difficulty with the communication of Kine 2, but the Gentle subject to Perland bare removed that one term the cuits of ham to Lamberg, or Licepold (Herbertie in Removed, then its p. 1975. On the other hand, the Remove theoretical that spectral similaries to the arrihistory, who became, in 1988, the pattings of Mason (Lice-spec, Mass, de Rames, term, iii, p. 198, 199, from a Greek manuscript at Turkle, Airc or labores Arabic property Arabid.

that the cardinal could escape from the hands of CHAP. a fierce and fanatic people. The Russians refused a passage to the missionaries of Rome who aspired to convert the pagans beyond the Tannis," and their refusal was justified by the maxim, that the guilt of idolatry is less damnable than that of schlam. The errors of the Bohamians were excused by their abhorrence for the pope; and a deputation of the Greek clergy solicited the friendship of those sanguinary enthusiasts," While Eugenius triumphed in the union and orthodoxy of the Greeks, his party was contracted to the walls, or rather to the palace, of Constantinople. The zeal of Palacologus bud been excited by interest; it was soon cooled by opposition; no attempt to violate the national belief might endanger his life and crown; nor could the pious rehels be destitute of foreign and do-

A The curious nurrance of Lorenços (Hlbr. de Ramie, tome is, p. 242 -247) is extracted from the patriarchial archives. The corner of Perrain and Piliceter, are consided by Ignorance and precious but the Bustiers are credible in the contact of the does projudicy.

I The elementism, the motion religion of the Summonne and Common philips, him been directly by the many property scambing from fully from the medical quarters the indeed philipsophers have been politic to exceptionalized in fact, the may be decide to be into wearde and physicists. The Marurane and Discremines, in the European Rissing adhers to this collabor, which is formed in the executy model of our king or Got, his mention of angels, and the releasing spirits what appear has preserument. As those velops of the Value have no images, they might many partly relact on the Lame manifest the stems of biology, throughe, this dis Perpier seemis a in Bushingtilit die Bussie, tom 1, p. 106-237, 423-400).

Spondress, Annal Santon tone of a political No. 12. The spirite of the Greeks, with a Latin version, is extent to the college. Illimry at Program

LXVII

CHAR mestic mil. The sword of his brother Demetrins, who in Italy lind maintained a present and popular silence, was half unsheathed in the cause of religion; and Amurath, the Turkish sultan, was displeased and alarmed by the seeming friendship of the Greeks and Latins.

things and character of Armsmile et. my 3491-1457. Folk D.

" Soltan Muruil, or Amurath, lived forty-nine, and reigned thicty, years, six months; and eight days. He was a just and valiant prince, of a " great soul, patient of labours, learned, merci-" ful, religious, charitable; a lover and encon-" rager of the studious, and of all who excelled " in any art or science; a good emperor, and a great general. No man obtained more, or " greater, victories than Annuall; Belgrade " alone withstood his attacks. Under his reign, or the soldier was ever victorious, the citizen rich " and secure. If he subdued any country, his " first care was to build musch's and carayamseras. " hospitals and colleges. Every year he gave a " thousand pieces of gold to the sons of the " prophet; and sent two thousand five hundred " to the religious persons of Mecca, Medina, and " Jerusalem." This portrait is transcribed from the historian of the Othman empire; but the applause of a servile and superstitious people has been lavished on the worst of tyrants, and the virtues of a sultan are often the vices most useful to himself, or most agreeable to his sub-

Sas Campuit, History of the Others Empire, p. 94. Mirral. or Morad, may be stone correct, but I have protected the popular more, to that electric diligerest which is parely successful to translatting am Oriental into the Bognes alphaber.

jects. A nation ignorant of the equal benefits CHAR. of liberty and law, must be awed by the flashes LXVII. of arbitrary power: the cruelty of a despot will assume the character of justice; his profusion, of libernlity; his obstinacy, of firmness. If the most reasonable excuse be rejected, few acts of obedience will be found impossible; and guilt must tremble, where innocence cannot always besecure. The tranquillity of the people, and the discipline of the troops, were best maintained by perpetual action in the field; war was the trade of the junisaries; and those who survived the peril, and divided the spoil, applauded the generous umhition of their sovereign. To propagate the true religion, was the duty of a faithful mussulman: the unbelievers were his enemies, and those of the prophet; and, in the hands of the Turks, the scymetar was the only instrument of conversion. Under these circumstances, however, the justice and moderation of Amurath are attested by his conduct, and acknowledged by the christians themselves; who consider a prosperous reign and a peaceful death as the reward of his singular merits. In the vigour of his age and military power, he seldom engaged in a war till be was justified by a previous and adequate provocation: the victorious sultan was disarmed by submission; and in the observance of treaties, his word was inviolate and sacred." The Hungarians were commonly the aggressors; he was provoked by Sec Chalcountying (L. 86, p. 196, 198), Duess (c. 23), and Masions Radamus (in Vit. S-underlog, p. 146, 146). In his good fairs, towards the gardless of Medigrads, he was a lesson and succepts to his sim Medicanics.

LXVII

CHAP, the revolt of Schoderbeg; and the periodicus Caramanian was twice vanquished, and twice pardoned, by the Ottoman monarch. Before he invaded the Morea, Thebes had been surprised by the despot; in the conquest of Thessalonien, the grandson of Hajazet might dispute the recent purchase of the Venetians; and after the first slege of Constantinople, the sultan was never tempted, by the distress, the absence, or the injuries of Palaologus, to extinguish the dying light of the Byzantine empire-

His double alidication. 1644.

But the most striking feature in the life and 1 - 1142-character of Amerath is the double abdication of the Turkish throne; and, were not his motives debased by an alloy of superstition, we must praise the royal philosopher," who, at the age of forty, could discern the vanity of human givatness. Resigning the sceptre to his son, he retired to the pleasant residence of Magnosia; but he retired to the society of mints and hermits. It was not till the fourth contary of the Hegira, that the religion of Mahomet had been corrupted by an institution so adverse to his genius; but in the age of the crusades, the various orders of dervishes were multiplied by the example of the christian, and even the Latin, monks." The lord of nations submitted to fast, and pray, and turn round in ^{*} Voltaire (Fam) sur l'Humbre Germiele, v. 22, p. 283, 294) admires to pitche pite Time; would be have been well the same praise on a chrotten priors for retries to a managery ?" In his way, Voltage was a bigut, on intolerant bigut.

^{*} S. o the article Dereside, Falie, Namer, Robbaniat, in C'Hopbefor's Bishocheque Orontale. Vet the subject is separateally resided from the Persian and Amilian writers. It is among the Turks that these enders have principally finanched.

endless rotation with the faunties, who mistook cuar. the giddiness of the bend for the illumination of the spirit." But he was soon awakened from this dream of enthusinant, by the Hungarian invasion; and his obedient son was the foremost to urge the public danger and wishes of the people. Under the hunner of their veterms leader, the morganies fought and conquered; but he withdrew from the field of Varon, again to pray, to fast, and in turn round to his Magnesian brethren. These pions occupations were again interrupted by the danger of the state. A victorious army disclaimed the inexperience of their youthful ruler: the city of Adrianople was abandoned to rapine and slaughter; and the unanimous divan implored his presence to appears the turnult, and prevent therebellion, of the janisuries. At the well-known voice of their master, they trembled and obeyed; and the reluctant soltan was compelled to support his splendid servitude, till, at the end of four years, he was relieved by the angel of death. Age or disease, misfortune or caprice, have tempted several princes to discend from the throne; and they have had leisure to repent of their irretrievable step. But Amurath alone, in the full liberty of choice, after the trial of empire and solitude, has repeated his preference of a private life.

[&]quot; Ryemit (in the prount State of the Ottomic Empire, p. 197-2020) affinds much information, which he diwe from his personal massingthis was the beads of the develops, more of whom somiled their arigin to the time of Orchan. He does not meeting the Bolish of Chairmstyles (t. vii. p. 186), among whom demonstrate estimate the Seids of that nather are the descendants of Mateunet.

CHAP

Engenius forms a langue seguint rhe Turks,
a. p. 1443.

After the departure of his Greek brethren, Eugenius had not been unmindful of their temporal interest; and his tender regard for the Byzantine empirewas animated by a just apprehension of the Turks, who approached, and might soon invade, the borders of Italy. But the spirit of the crusades had expired; and the coldness of the Franks was not less unreasonable than their headlong passion. In the eleventh century, a familie monk could precipitate Europe on Asia for the recovery of the boly sepulchre; but in the lifteenth, the most pressing motives of religion and policy were insufficient to unite the Latins in the defence of Christendom. Germany was an inexhaustible store-house of men and arms; " last that complex and languid body required the impulse of a vigarous hand; and Frederic the third was alike impotent in his personal character and his imperial dignity. A long war had impaired the strength, without satisfying the animosity, of France and England: but Philip, duke of Burgandy, was a vain and magnificent prince; and he enjoyed, of In was not sell the year 1888, that France and Engined another agree on a trace of sense months. (See Rymer's Federa, and the character of both nations) without danger or expence, the adventurous piety char. of his subjects, who sailed, in a gallant fleet, from the coast of Flanders to the Heliespoot. The maritime republies of Venice and Genoa were less remote from the scene of action; and their hostile fleets were associated under the standard of St. Peter. 'The kingdoms of Hungary and Poland, which covered as it were the interior pale of the Latin church, were the most nearly concerned to oppose the progress of the Turks. Arms were the patrimony of the Scythians and Sarmatians, and these nations might appear equal to the contest, could they point against the common for those swords that were so wantonly drawn in bloody and domestic quarrels. But the same spirit was adverse to concord and obedience : a poor country and a limited monarch are incapable of maintaining astanding force; and the loose bodies of Polish and Hungarian horse were not armed with the sentiments and weapons which, on some occasions, have given irresistible weight to the French chivalry. Yet, on this side, the designs of the Roman pontiff, and the eloquence of cardinal Julian, his legate, were promoted by the circumstances of the times; by the union of the two crowns on the head of Ladislaus, a young

[•] In the year 14/1, Germany raised $0,000 herse, form at arms, spaced the Harcine of Bohemla Gendeni, Hist. du Coucile de Basie, tom, i, pa 310). At the stept of Nays on the Blaire, in $478, the primare, positives, and ritler, out their respective quotas 1 and the balons of Manuser (quota's pas die plus grands) fatnished 1500 horse; 6000 fact, all in green, with 1200 suggeons. The united more of the king of Hagiana and the date of Barganaty scarcily aqualited one 'tilled of this German hast Changings in Phillippe de Commun, L. v., p. 2). At proxime six or exam hamfred theorems have are scalationed in constant pay and admirable discipline, by the powers of Germany.

To the Hoogarian errords, Spandama (Annel, Berles, s. c. 1843, 1454) has been my leading guide. He has diligently read, and extractly compared, the Gross and Turkish materials, the historium of Hungary, Feland, and the West. His marriely is purposensed and where he can be two from a religious bias, the judgment of Spandames of the communication.

[&]quot;I have unrealised the hards better (Whatfishing) whosh worthers with the hards without in compeliance with the Palick postularization.

LXVII.

and ambitious soldier; by the valour of an hero, whose name, the name of John Humindes, was already popular among the christians, and formidable to the Turks. An endless treasure of pardons and indulgences was scattered by the legate; many private warriors of France and Germany enlisted under the holy banner; and the crusade derived some strength, or at least some reputation, from the new allies both of Europe and Asia. A fugitive despot of Servia exaggerated the distress and ardone of the christians beyond the Danube, who would umanimously rise to vindicate their religion and liberty. The Greek emperor," with a spirit unknown to his fathers, engaged to guard the Bosphorus, and to sally from Constantinople at the head of his national and mercenary troops. The sultan of Caramania' announced the retreat of Amurath, and a powerful diversion in the heart of Anatolia; and if the fleets of the West could occupy at the same moment the straits of the Heliespont, the Ottoman monarchy would be dissevered and destroyed. Heaven and earth must rejoice in the perdition of the miscreants; and or to distinguish him from his rival, the lafant Ladislant of Austria. Their competition for the scores of Hungary is described by Callionschur II pi, p. 447-488), Boutains (Dennt. iii, l. 17), Spandames, and Landam.

^{*} The Groot humeians, Phanner, Chalemaryles, and Ducar, do not seems to their prince a very active got. In this crumale, which he some to have promised by his wishes, and injured by his four.

^{*} Contemir (p. 5%) merities in his policy the original plan, and transmisses his assignating rejietle to the sing of Hangary. But the minimistan powers are minimi informed of the material Christanilous and the simulation and correspondence of the kinglets of Handes much connect them with the sultan of Caramania.

the legate, with prodent ambiguity, instilled the CHAP. opinion of the invisible, perhaps the visible, aid tavn. of the Son of God, and his divine mother.

Of the Pollsh and Hungarian diets, a religioust-distant, war was the unanimous cry; and Ladislaus, after and and passing the Danube, led an army of his confe-marky. dorate subjects as for as Sophia, the capital of agreed the Bulgarian kingdom. In this expedition they obtained two signal victories, which were justly ascribed to the valour and conduct of Huniades. In the first, with a congulard of ten thousand men, he surprised the Turkish camp; in the second, he vampuished and made prisoner the most removated of their generals, who possessed the double advaninge of ground and unabers. The approach of winter, and the natural and artificial electacles of mount Hamus, arrested the progress of the hero, who measured a narrow interval of six daysmarch from the foot of the mountains to the hostile towers of Adrianople, and the friendly conital of the Greek empire. The retreat was undisturbed; and the entrance into Huda was at once a military and religious triumph; An ecclesiastical proces_ sion was followed by the king and his warriors on foot: he nicely balanced the merits and rewards of the two nations; and the pride of conquest was blended with the humble temper of christianity. Thirteen bashaws, nine standards, and four thousand captives, were unquestionable trophies; and as all were willing to believe, and none were present to contradict, the crusaders multiplied, with unblushing confidence, the myriads of Turks whom they had left on the field of ish punce.

CHAT LEVIL

buttle? The most solid proof, and the most splutary consequence, of victory was a deputation The York, from the divan to solicit peace, to restore Servia, to ransom the prisoners, and to evacuate the Hungarian frontier. By this treaty, the rational objects of the war were obtained: the king, the despot, and Huniades himself, in the diet of Segodin, were satisfied with public and private emolument; a truce of ten years was concluded; and the followers of Jesus and Mahomet, who swore on the gespel and the korns, attested the word of God as the guardian of truth and the avenger of perfidy. In the place of the gospel, the Turkish ministers had proposed to substitute the euclimist, the real presence of the catholic deity; but the christians refused to profuse their boly mysteries; and a superstitious conscience is less forcibly bound by the spiritual energy, than by the autward and visible symbols, of an oath."

Vachet son of the peace. a. p. 2454.

During the whole transaction, the cardinal legate had observed a sullen silence, unwilling to approve, and unable to oppose, the consent of the king and people. But the diet was not dissolved before Julian was fortified by the welcome intelligence, that Anatolia was invaded by the Caramanian, and Thrace by the Greek, emperor; that in their letters to the susperm Prederic are the Hangarians sley 300,000 Tucks in use battle; but the motion Julian redices the alaughter to 6000; or each 2000, londate (Zness Syrrius in Europ. 4. 5, and rgart, 44, 51, apad 5 - hammer-

³ See the origin of the Turkish war, and she are expedition of Law distant, in the ofth and early Scote of the third Dend of Burfinise, who, in his division and cayle, copies havy with tolerable success-Call markets (J. H. p. 487-496) to still more pure and arctimatic.

the fleets of Genna, Venice, and Burgundy, were char, musters of the Hellesport; and that the allies, informed of the victory, and ignorant of the treaty, of Ladisland impatiently waited for the return of his victorious army. " And is it thus, " exclaimed the cardinal," " that you will desert their ex-" pectations and your own fortune? It is to them, to your God, and your fellow-christians, "that you have pledged your faith; and that " prior obligation annihilates a rash and sacri-" legious onth to the enemins of Christ. His. " vicar on earth is the Roman pontiff, without " whose ametion you can neither promise nor " perform. In his name, I absolve your perjury " and smetify your arms: follow my footsteps in " the paths of glory and salvation; and if still ye . have scrupies, devolve on my head the punish-" ment and the sin." This mischievous casuistry was seconded by his respectable character, and the levity of popular assemblies; war was resolved on the same spot where peace had so lately been sworn; and, in the execution of the trenty, the Turks were assaulted by the christians, to whom, with some reason, they might apply the epithet of infidels. The fabelood of Ladislaus to his word and outh was palliated by the religion of the times: the most perfect, or at least the most po-[&]quot;I do not perfect to married by Californius & List, p. 30d-277, which is estimate worthed by Californius & List, p. 30d-277, Sordinar ther. on, 1, v), p. 457, 458, and other himstens, who entget indulgs their men obspaces, while they represent me of the marries of the age. But they all agree to the advice and arguments by perjury, which is the field of contravery are hereby attacked by the presentance, and hably defined by the mile by. The latter are discovering by the memorane of Warna.

CHAP- pular, excuse would have been the success of his arms and the deliverance of the Eastern church. But the same treaty which should have bound his conscience, had diminished his strength. On the proclamation of the peace, the French and German volunteers departed with indignant marmirs: the Poles were exhausted by distant warfare, and perhaps disgusted with foreign command; and their palatines accepted the first licence, and hastily retired to their provinces and castles. Even Hungary was divided by faction, or restrained by a laudable scruple; and the relies of the crosside that marched in the second expedition were reduced to an inadequate force of twenty theasand men. A Wallachian chief, who joined the royal standard with his vassals, presumed to remark that their numbers did not exceed the hunting retinue that sometimes attended the sultan; and the gift of two here a of matchless speed might admonish Ladislans of his secret foresight of the event. But the despot of Servin, after the restoration of his country and children, was tempted by the promise of new renims; and the inexperience of the king, the enthusiasm of the legate, and the martial presumption of Huniades himself, were persuaded that every obstacle must yield to the invincible virtue of the sword and the cross. After the passage of the Danube, two roads might lead to Constantinople and the Hellespont; the one direct, abrupt, and difficult, through the mountains of Hamus; the other, more tedious and secure, over a level country, and along the shores of the Euxine, in which their flanks, according to the Seythian discipline, might always be co-cuarvered by a movemble fortification of waggons. The latter was judiciously preferred; the cutbolies murched through the plains of Bulgaria, burning, with wanton cruelty, the churches and villages of the christian natives; and their last station was at Warna, near the sea-shore; on which the defeat and death of Ladislous have bestowed a memorable name.

It was on this fatal spot, that, instead of find-name of ing a confederate fleet to second their opera-Watus, v. 1444, tions, they were alarmed by the approach of A. Nov. 10. murath himself, who had issued from his Magnesian solitude, and transported the forces of Asin to the defence of Europe. According to some writers, the Greek emperor had been awed, or seduced, to grant the passage of the Bosphorus, and an indelible stain of corruption is fixed on the Genocse, or the pope's nephew, the catholic admiral, whose mercenary consivance betrayed the guard of the Hellesport From Adrianople, the suftan advanced by knoty murches, at the head of sixty thousand men; and when the cardinal, and Franches, had taken a nearer survey of the numbers and order of the Turks, these ardent warriors proposed the tardy and impracticable measure of a retreat. The Warms, under the Greeiss name of Odmess, and a calary of the Miles, as, which they do continued from the terr Clyses (Delarina, turn I, p. 313, a'Anville, turn I, p. 512). According to heread's Conjugate of the Eurital (p. 34, 25, in the first semine of findent's Conjugates), it was discuss 1740 scales, from the month of the Denote. Tito from Hymostium, and Bio is the morth of a citize or proceedings of Meant Hamos, which afternoon for the semi-king alone was resolved to conquer or die; and his resolution had almost been crowned with a glorious and salutary victory. The princes were opposite to each other in the centre; and the begierbegs, or generals of Anatolia and Romania, commanded on the right and left against the neverse divisions of the despot and Huniades. The Turkish wings were broken on the first onset, but the advantage was fatal; and the rash victors, in the heat of the pursuit, were carried away far from the annoyance of the enemy or the support of their friends. When Amurath beheld the flight of his squadrens, he despaired of his fortune and that of the empire r a veteran junizary seized his horse's bridle; and he had magnanimity to parden and reward the soldier who dared to perceive the terror, and arrest the flight, of his sovereign. A copy of the trenty, the monument of christian perfidy, had been displayed in the frant of buttle; and it is said, that the sultan in his distress, lifting his eyes and his hands to heaven, implored the protection of the God of truth; and called on the prophet Jesus himself to avenge the impious mockery of his name and religion." With inferior numbers and disordered ranks, the king of Hungary rushed forwards in the confidence of victory, till his career was stopped by the impenetrable phalanx of the janizaries. If we may credit the Ottoman

LXVII

^{*} Some christian writers affirm, that he dees from his bosom the most or wafer on which the treaty had not been event. The Meslems suppose, with more implicitly, an appeal to God and his prophet Jesses, which is liberales in limited by Calimarchus & III. p. 519. Spondance as 1444, No. 8).

annals, his horse was pierced by the javelin of CHAP. Amurath; he fell among the spears of the in- LXVII. fantry; and a Turkish soldier proclaimed with a Desh of loud voice, " Hungarims, behold the head of Ladistum. " your king." The death of Ladislaus was the signal of their defeat. On his return from an intemperate pursuit, Humindes deplored his error and the public loss: he strove to resene the royal body, till he was overwhelmed by the tumultuous crowd of the victors and vanquished; and the last efforts of his courage and conduct were exerted to save the remnant of his Wallachian cavalry. Ten thousand christians were slain in the disastrous battle of Warna; the loss of the Turks, more considerable in numbers, hore a smaller proportion to their total strength; yet the philosophic sultan was not ashumed to confess, that his ruin must be the consequence of a second and similar victory. At his command a column was erected on the spot where Ladislaus had fallen; but the modest inscription, instead of accusing the rashness, recorded the valour, and bewailed the misfortune, of the Hungarian youth."

A critic will siverys district there are the mines of a terrations second, to difficult 5- without neverthing, so easy for district to invest (Continuor, p. 50, 31). Callimedias (6-6), p. 517) name simply and probably afferms, supercontentions juniously, Common small limites, min torn confessor est, quain standards.

^{*} Besides mure selective bluts from Almas Sylvine, which are differently enterted by Specialmon, one best authorities are three fallerines of the afteenth century. Unligious Callinarius (de Bahas a Vialishes Polangram apper Hongarmon Hogo green, their m, in Bel, Seript, Bernin Hongarizarum, thus to p. 413-419, Bonforms (decent in, L. v., p. 460-467), and Chalcacomiyles (t. vit, p. 165-179). The two Leaf wave Italiers, but they prove their level in Poland and Hongary (Faince, Bahilles, Levie, and 41 infinite Æbitie, tour t.

CHAP. LXVII.

tiin.

Before I lose sight of the field of Warna, I am tempted to punse on the character and story of two principal actors, the cardinal Julian and John Hunindes. Julian Casarini was born of a noble family of Rome: his studies had embraced both the Latin and Greek learning, both the sciences of divinity and law; and his versatile genius was conally adapted to the schools, the camp, and the court. No sooner had be been invested with the Ruman purple, than he was sent into Germany to arm the empire against the rebels and heretics of Bohemia. The spirit of persecution is unworthy of a christian; the military profession ill becomes a priest; but the former is excused by the times; and the latter was emobled by the courage of Julian, who stood dauntless and alone in the disgraceful flight of the German host. As the pope's legate, he opened the council of Basil; but the president soon appeared the most strenuous clampion of ecclesinstical freedom; and an opposition of seven years was conducted by his ability and zeal. After promoting the strongest measures against the authority and person of Eugenius, some secret motive of interest or conscience engaged himtodesert on a sudden the popular party.

p. 224. Version of What Levin L Cl., c. S. 11. Rayle, Disciousite, Respirals. A small trust of Fully Poinceins, channellor of Seguia Call colorest Compilers. Se Commiss., p. 725-7221, represents the Disciple of the mar in the Effects contage.

^{*} Mt. Lee last him described the congre (Hint. do Countr do Roote, takes J. p. 257, Sept. and Bellevinian companys (p. 215, Sept. of cardinal Julius. His section of Book and Ferries, and his ordermoute only of contamination of the continuation of Plancy.

The cardinal withdrew himself from Besil to Fer- cuar. rara; and, in the dehates of the Greeks and Latins, the two nations admired the dexterity of his arguments and the depth of his theological erudition." In his Hungarian embassy we have niready seen the mischievons effects of his sophistry and eloquence, of which Julian himself was the first victim. The cardinal, who performed the duties of a priest and a soldier, was lost in the defeat of Warna. The circumstances of his death are variously related; but it is believed, that a weighty incumbrance of gold impeded his flight, and tempted the cruel avarice of some christian fugitives.

From an humble, or at least a doubtful, origin, John Corthe merit of John Hunindes promoted him to the thin had command of the Hungarian armies. His father was a Wallachian, his mother a Greek; her unknown race might possibly ascend to the emperors of Constantinople; and the claims of the Wallachiant, with the surname of Corvinus, from the place of his nativity, might suggest a thin pretence for mingling his blood with the patricians of ancient Rome. In his youth he served in the wars of Italy, and was retained, with twelve hersemen, by the hishop of Zagrah: the valour of

* Ryropular bencarably praises the salient of an energy sp. 1170 : comme was a wife of fallowing confinence property styles and Regionary and not PERSONAL PROPERTY PROPERTY.

^{*} See Bendahm, deest iil, L. iv., p. 42%. Could the Paring Ministra prosessor or the king of Hungary hour, without a bank, the abourst floritory, which produced the reverse as a Wallachine whose with the simple througherism, upithet of a single househ of the Valu ctan Smally at Bonne Z.

LXVIL

the white knight was soon conspicuous; he encreased his fortunes by a noble and wealthy marriage; and in the defence of the Hungarian borders, he won in the same year three battles against the Turks. By his influence, Ludislaus of Poland obtained the crown of Hungary; and the important service was rewarded by the title and office of waived of Transylvania. The first of Julian's crusades added two Turkish laurels on his brow; and in the public distress the fatal errors of Warns were forgotten. During the absence and minority of Ladislaus of Austria, the titular king. Hunindes was elected supreme captain and governor of Hungary; and if eavy at first was silenced by terror, a reign of twelveyears supposes the arts of policy as well as of war. Yet the idea of a consummate general is not delineated in his cumpaigns; the white knight fought with the hand rather than the head, as the chief of desultory burbarians, who attack without fear, and fly without shame; and his military life is composed of a romantic alternative of victories and escapes. By the Torks, who employed his name to frighten their perverse children, he was corruptly denominated Janeus Lain, or the wicked : their latred is the proof of their esteem; the kingdom which he guarded was inaccessible to their arms; and they felt him most daring and formidable, when they fondly believed the captain of his country

Fhilip do Comines (Memairre, L. vi., r. 13), from the uncertain of the universe mentions him with high encommune, but under the editorced name of the Chereffer Blace de Valaigne (Valamis). The forces Chalcesondyles, and the Turkish Annals of Leunclavins, presume to seeme his notifity or valour.

irrecoverably lost. Instead of confining himself CHAP. to a defensive war, four years after the defeat of LXVIL Warna he again penetrated into the heart of Bulgarin; and in the plain of Cossova sustained, till the third day, the shock of the Ottoman army, four times more numerous than his own. As he fled alone through the woods of Wallachia, the hero was surprised by two robbers; but while they disputed a gold chain that hung at his neck, he recovered his sword, slew the one, terrified the other, and, after new perils of captivity or death, consoled by his presence an afflicted kingdom. But the last and most glorious action of his life was the defence of Belgrade against the powers of Mahamet the second in person. After a siege Westerne of forty days, the Turks, who had already entered of Belthe town, were compelled to retreat; and the death, a 1450, joyful nations celebrated Hunindes and Belgrade July 22, as the hulwarks of Christendom, About a month after this great deliverance, the champion expired; and his most splendid epitaph is the regret of the Ottoman prince, who sighed that he could no longer hope for revenge against the single antagonist who had triumphed over his arms. On the first vacancy of the throne, Matthias Corvinus, a youth of eighteen years of age, was elected and crowned by the grateful Flungarians. His reign was prosperous and long : Matthias aspired to the glory of a conqueror and ^{*} See Bondaine (decid iii, 1, viii, p. 492) and Spandamin (a. s. 1450). No. 1-7). Huminius chared the givey of the delecte of ficturate with Captagram, a Franciscan frame; and in their respective mornitors, orither the mint nor the here conducted to take notice of his fivel's merit.

DHAR LOUVAL

a saint; but his purest merit is the encouragement of learning; and the Latin orators and historians, who were invited from Italy by the son, bave shed the lastre of their eloquence on the father's character.

Wieth:ond education att Albustin. $413; Ac.

In the lists of heroes, John Huniades and Scaneracuster, durbog are commonly associated and they are beg prince both entitled to our notice, since their occuma-. A 1401-tion of the Ottoman arms delayed the rain of the Greek empire. John Castriot, the father of Scandurbeg," was the hereditary prince of a small district of Epirus or Albania, between the mountains and the Adriatic sea. Unable to contend with the sultan's power, Castriot submitted to the hard conditions of peare and tribute; he delisee fingfinius, doesn't il, to vittle-doesn't by L vittle The observations of Spouldram on the life and character of Matrician Corriem see cospins and stitled (c. s. 1404, No. 1, 1212, No. 2, 1278, No. 14-16, $400, No. 4, St. Ballon from sers the object of his venity. His mimms are selehermed in the Epitome Therms Phagaretrenn (p. 322-41 Tron Peter America, a Silietas. His wice and Scritting sayings are engineered by Galestin Mortins of Xorni (1895-1889) 1 and we have a particular mountee of his wedding and coronation. These three traits are all contained in the first val. of Rel's Scriptores Serum Hungarkeartim.

[&]quot;They are ranked by Six William Temple, in his plending Essay on Hessie Vienas (Works, vol. III, p. 18-5), summy the seven shiefa who have descript, within a worting, a roral grown a fallowing, Nursen, Secondary of Continue, William Star prince of Orange, Alexander disks of Parms, John Huminous, and George Contrast, or Scandarbeg-

^{*} I comed with the sense compile numberatio memodes of a friend of Semidering, which wents outpeting me to the man, the time, and the place. In the aid and national blinner of Machine Barlonne, a pricet of Sandra also Virta, Morrison, et Briters greatly, Goorgie Castrinti, Sec. liber all, p. 1887. Attenues J. J. in $109, his granty and combencome subos are attor with many false jowels. See linewise Chalesconfelie. L. sii, p. 183, f. siii, p. 228.

vered his four sons as the pledges of his fidelity ? CHAP. and the christian youths, after receiving the mark LAVIL of circumcision, were instructed in the mahametan religion, and trained in the arms and arts of Turkish policy. The three elder brothers were confounded in the crowd of slaves; and the poison to which their deaths are ascribed cannot be verified or disproved by any positive evidence. Yet the suspicion is in a great measure removed by the kind and paternal treatment of George Castriot, the fourth brother, who; from his tender youth, displayed the strength and spirit of a soldier. The successive overthrow of a Tartar and two Persians, who carried a proud defiance to the Turkish court, recommended him to the favour of Amurath; and his Turkish appellation of Scanderbeg (Inkender heg), or the lord Alexander, is an indelible memorial of his glory and servitude. His father's principality was reduced into a province: but the loss was compensated by the rank and title of sanjiak, a command of five thousand horse, and the prospect of the first dignities of the empire. He surved with honour in the wars of Europe and Asia; and we may smile at the art or credulity of the historian, who supposes that in every encounter he spared the christians, while he fell with a thundering arm on his mussulman foes. The glory of Hunindes is without repreach; he fought in the defence of his religion and country; but the enemies who appland the patriot have branded his rival with the name of [&]quot; His circumstains, efection, for, are marked by Marinus with heavily and submance (t,), y. 0, 7).

LXVII.

on ar. traitor and apostate. In the eyes of the christians, the rebellion of Scanderbeg is justified by his father's wrongs, the ambiguous death of his three brothers, his own degradation, and the slavery of his country; and they adore the generous, though tardy, zeal, with which he asserted the faith and independence of his ancestors. But he had imbibed from his minth year the doctrines of the korun; he was ignorant of the gospel; the religion of a soldier is determined by authority and habit; nor is it easy to conceive what new illumination, at the age of forty, could be poured into his soul. His motives would be less exposed to the suspicion of interest or revenge, had he broken his chain from the moment that he was sensible of its weight; but a long oblivion had surely impaired his original right; and every year of obedience and reward had cemented the mutual bond of the sultan and his subject. If Scanderbeg had long barboared the belief of christianity and the intention of revolt, a worthy mind must condemn the base dissimulation, that could serve only to betray, that equid promise only to be forsworn, that could actively join in the temporal and spiritual perdition of so many thousands of his unhappy brethren. Shall we praise a secret correspondence with Hunindes, while he

F Since Standarber died a.m. 1400, in the $54 year of his age ($4a. rinns, I, sile, p. 1705, he was been in 1403; since he was turn from his premis by the Turks, when he was severe Mariner, L i, p. I. 65, that event must have happened to fAIR, nine years inform the accompon of Amurath no who must have inforthed, not acquired, the Attanian slave. Spondamic but remarked this incommittency, as it, 1411, No. 31, 1443, No. 14, commanded the vanguard of the Turkish army? CHAT. shall we excuse the desertion of his standard; a treacherous desertion, which abundoned the victory to the enemies of his benefactor? In the con-His recon fusion of a defeat, the eye of Scanderbeg was from the fixed on the reis effendi or principal secretary ; a a 1445with a dagger at his breast, he extorted a firman Nov. 28. or patent for the government of Albania; and the murder of the guiltless scribe and his train prevented the consequences of an immediate discovery. With some hold companions, to whom he had revealed his design, he escaped in the night, by rapid marches, from the field of battle to his paternal mountains. The gates of Croya were opened to the royal mandate; and no sooner did he command the fortress, than George Castriot dropt the mask of dissimulation; abjured the prophet and the sultan, and proclaimed himself the avenger of his family and country. The names of religion and liberty provoked a general revolt; the Albaniaus, a martial race, were unanimous to live and die with their hereditary prince; and the Ottoman garrisons were indulged in the choice of martyrdom or baptism. In the assembly of the states of Epirus, Seanderbeg was elected general of the Turkish war; and each of the allies engaged to furnish his respective proportion of men and money. From these contributions, from his natrimonial estate, and from the valuable saitpits of Selina, he drew an annual revenue of two hundred chousand ducats and the entire sum, the revenue and forces are torkity given by Marians (L. il. 2. 44),

CHAP, exempt from the demands of luxury, was strictly 13vit appropriated to the public use. His manners were popular; but his discipline was severe; and every superfluous vice was hanished from his camp: his example strengthened his command; and under his conduct, the Albanians were invincible in their own opinion and that of their His value, enemies. The bravest adventurers of France and Germany were allured by his fame and retained in his service; his standing militin consisted of eight thousand horse and seven thousand foot; the horses were small, the men were active; but he viewed with a discerning eye the difficulties and resources of the mountains; and, at the blaze of the beacons, the whole nation was distributed in the strongest posts. With such unequal arms, Scanderbeg resisted twenty-three years the powers of the Ottoman empire; and two conquerors, Amurath the second, and his greater son, were repeatedly hallied by a rebel, whom they pursued with securing contempt and implacable resentment. At the head of sixty thousand horse and forty thousand janizaries, Amurath entered Albunia: he might ravage the open country, occupy the defenceless towns, convert the churches into moschs, circumcise the christian youths, and punish with denth his adult and obstinate cuptives; but the conquests of the sultan were confined to the petty fortress of Sfetigrade; and the garrison, invincible to his arms, was oppressed by a paltry artifice and a superstitious ecruple."

[.] There were two Dilran, the upper and lower, the Bulgarian and Allamin's the former, 10 miles from Croys C. I. p. 171, was monthpress

Amurath retired with shame and loss from the CHAP. walls of Croya, the castle and residence of the LXVII. Castriots: the march, the siege, the retreat, were harnssed by a vexations; and almost invisible, adversary ? and the disappointment might tend to embitter, perhaps to shorten, the last days of the sultan. In the fulness of conquest, Mahomet the second still felt at his bosom this domestic. thorn: his licutements were permitted to negoenate a truce; and the Albanian prince may justly be praised as a firm and able champion of his national independence. The enthusiasm of chivalry and religion has ranked him with the names of Alexander and Pyrrius: nor would they blush to acknowledge their intropid countryman : but his narrow dominion, and slender powers, must leave him at an boundle distance below the heroes of antiquity, who triumphed over the East and the Roman legions. His splendid achievements, the budgaws whom he encountered, the armies that he discomfited, and the three thousand Torks who were slain by his single hand, must be weighed in the scales of suspicious criticism. Against an illiterate enemy, and in the dark solitude of groups to the Gettern of Sicilyrade, where inhabitants tubured to death from a well line which a dead dog bad traditionally been upon the v. p. 198, 140, We want a good may of Epirica.

^{*} Compare the Turbish margifule of Contenue (p. 92) with the pempons and profit doctamation in the fourth, fifth, and exch books of the Athantan priest, who has been report by the tribe of arranges and makings.

In homour of his here, Harbitus (k. s), p. 196-197, king the mitten, by discuss indeed, under the warts of Groys. But this subscious fortion is dispersed by the Grocks and Turks, who agree in the time and transport of America's death at Advanceph.

LXVII.

CHAP. Epirus, his partial biographers may safely indulge the latitude of romance; but their fictions are exposed by the light of Italian history; and they afford a strong presumption against their own truth, by a fabulous tale of his exploits, when he passed the Adriatic with eight hundred horse to the succour of the king of Naples." Without disparagement to his fame, they might have owned that he was finally oppressed by the Ottoman powers: in his extreme danger, he applied to pope Pius the second for a refuge in the ecclesinstical state; and his resources were almost exhausted, since Scanderbeg died a fugitive at Lissus on the Venetian territory.5 His sepulchre was soon violated by the Turkish conquerors; but the janizaries, who wore his bones enchased in a bracelet, declared, by this superstitious amulet, their involuntary reverence for his valour. The instant ruin of his country may redound to the hero's glory; yet, had he balanced the consequences of submission and resistance, a patriot and death. ain 1467. Jan. 17.

But the spaceols of his Calabrica especiation in the simb and much hosts of Mariano Buriotion, which may be entitled by the terthrony or otherce of Morestoni (Amonto d'Iraila, tom. 136, po 221). and his original authors (Joh, filmmetta de Belius Francisco Mortin), in Mountain, Script Bornes Stat time, and p. 778, at all-on. The Alternian ceruity, under the name of Kerndists, soon became fumoria in the ware of Italy (Memorys in Commun. to will, o. 5).

[.] Spontages, from the best evidence and the most retional critirism, has reduced the giant framewhere to the homotome Is. a. 1461. No. 20, 1463, No. 9, 1463, No. 12, 12, 1207, No. 1). His own let, ter to the pope, and the tentiment of Physics (I. III, c. 28), a resigner in the neighborring life of Corin, demonstrate his fact distress. which is and surely concented by Marious Butteries O. 4's.

perhaps would have declined the unequal con- CHAP. test, which must depend on the life and genius of LXVII. one man. Scanderbeg might indeed be supported by the rational, though fallacious hone, that the pope, the king of Naples, and the Venetian republic, would join in the defence of a free and christian people, who guarded the sea coast of the Adriatic, and the narrow passage from Greece to Italy. His infant son was saved from the national shipwreck; the Castriots' were invested with a Neapolitan dukedom, and their blood continues to flow in the noblest families of the realm. A colony of Albanian fugitives obtained a settlement in Calabria, and they preserve at this day the language and manners of their aucestors."

In the long career of the decline and fall of the limit install the Roman empire, I have reached at length the of the Roman last reign of the princes of Constantinople, who great emports of feebly sustained the name and majesty of the perent so feebly sustained the perent so feebly sustained the name and majesty of the perent so feebly sustained the name and majesty of the perent so feebly sus

See the family of the Centriots, in Decouge (From Determines, &c. want, p. 348-330).

^{*} This colony of Albaness by mentioned by Mr. Swindmens (Travels into the two Scilles, vol. 1, p. 350-354)

The showeday of Phranes is their and sufficientle; but instead of their years and seven months. Spondamm (a. s. 1445, Sec. 7) and agree were to eight guarant the reign of the last Communium, which be deduces from a spurious epistic of Engenium in the thin sing of Rule-spin.

CHAP, emperor Manuel. Of these the first and the last were far distant in the Morea; but Demetrius, who possessed the domain of Selybria, was in the suborbs, at the head of a party; his ambition was not chilled by the public distress; and his conspiracy with the Turks and the schismatics had already disturbed the pence of his country. The funeral of the late emperor was accolerated with singular and even suspicious haste; the claim of Demetrins to the vacant throne was justified by a trite and thingy sophism, that he was born in the purple, the cidest son of his father's reign. But the empress-mother, the senate and soldiers, the clergy and people, were unanimous in the cause of the lawful successor; and the despot Thomas, who, ignorant of the change, accidentally returned to the capital, asserted with becoming zeal the interest of his absent brother. An umbussador, the historian Phranca, was immediately dispatched to the court of Adrianople. Amurath received him with honour, and distalled him with gifts; but the gracious approbation of the Turkish sulfan announced his supremacy, and the approaching downfull of the eastern empire By the hands of two illustrious deputies, the imperial crown was placed at Sparta on the head of Constanting. In the spring be sailed from the Morea, escaped the encounter of a Turkish squadron, enjoyed the acclamations of his subjects, celebrated the festival of a new reign, and exhausted by his donatives the treasure, or rather the indigence, of the state. The emperor immediately resigned to his brothers the possession of the Moren; and the brittle friendship of the two curresprinces, Demetrius and Thomas, was confirmed in their mother's presence by the frail security of oaths and embraces. His next occupation was the choice of a consort. A daughter of the doge of Venice had been proposed; but the Byzantine nubles objected the distance between an hereditary monarch and an elective magistrate; and in their subsequent distress, the chief of that powerful republic was not unmindful of the affront. Constantine afterwards besituted between the royal families of Trebizond and Georgia; and the embassy of Phranza represents in his public and private life the last days of the Byzantine empire.

The protocostiane, or great chamberlain, Phran-gminister as, sailed from Constantinople as minister of a primarity bridegroom; and the relies of wealth and luxury that were applied to his pompous appearance. His mamerous retinue consisted of nobles and guards, of physicians and monks; he was attended by a band of music; and the term of his costly embassy was protracted above two years. On his arrival in Georgia or theria, the natives from the towns and villages thecked around the strangers; and such was their simplicity, that they were delighted with the effects, without understanding the cause, of musical harmony. Among the crowd was an old man, above an hundred years of age, who had formerly been carried away a captive

Phrining (h. iii. c. L.6) deserves credit and estraria curse. by the harbarians," and who amused his bearers with a tale of the wonders of India, from whence he had returned to Portugal by an unknown sea." From this hospitable land Phranza proceeded to the court of Trebizond, where he was informed by the Greek prince of the recent decease of Amurath. Instead of rejoicing in the deliverance, the experienced statesman expressed his apprehension that an ambitious youth would not long adhere to the sage and pacific system of his father. After the sultan's decease, his christion wife Maria, the daughter of the Servian despot, had been honourably restored to her parents: on the fame of her beauty and merit, she was recommended by the ambassador as the most worthy object of the royal choice; and Phranza ^{*} Suppose blim to have been commend in 1294, in Timout's first war in Georgia (Shorafeddin, J. 10); c. 50); I be might follow his Tursay maker how lived come to $1998, and from themse and by the space bell made.

LXVII. -

[&]quot;The happy and place fedure fixed as handred and fifty years, and replyed the most perfect productions of the regerable and mineeni kingdoma. The minute were no a larger scale; dragona screaty cubits, ante (the foremer feeling) nine inches long, sheep like sie, phonic, slopkarrs like sheep. Quidliber andendi, &c.

^{*} He salled in a country would from the space blands to one of the parts of the exterior India ; inventique narray grandem Bericass, qualin Pertugallians not delutine. This pursage, composed in 1877 (Phones, Lail, e. 30), twenty years before the discussey of the Cape of Boad Hope, is sourloss at wonderful. But this saw goography is suffied by the old and incompanible error, which places the source of the Mile to India.

Cantendr (p. 83), who explor her the daughter of farante Ogli, and the Helen of the Services, places has marriage with America in the year 1424. It will not easily be believed, that in six-and-receiv years cohabitation, the militar corpus sint from tempt. After the saking of Constantinople, she find to Mahomes to (Phranes, & file c. 22), recapitulates and refutes the specious objections CHAP. that might be raised against the proposal. The LXVII. majesty of the purple would ennoble an unequal alliance; the bar of affinity might be removed by liberal alms and the dispensation of the church : the disgrace of Turkish nuptials had been repeatedly overlooked; and, though the fair Maria was near fifty years of age, she might yet hope to give an heir to the empire. Constantine listened to the advice, which was transmitted in the first ship that sailed from Trebizond; but the factions of the court opposed his marriage; and it was finally prevented by the pious vow of the sultana, who ended her days in the monastic profession. Reduced to the first, alternative, the choice of Phranea was decided in favour of a Georgian princess; and the vanity of her father was dazzled by the glorious alliance. Instead of demanding, according to the primitive and national custom, a price for his daughter," he offered a portion of fifty-six thousand, with an annual pension of five thousand, ducats; and the services of the ambassador were repaid by an assurance, that as his son had been adopted in haptism by the emperor, the establishment of his daughter should be the peculiar care of the empress of Constantinople. On the return of Phranza, the treaty was ratified by the Greek monarch, who with his own band impressed three vermillion crosses on the golden bull, and assured the Georgian envoy, that in the spring his gallies should conduct the bride to her imperial palace. But Constantine embraced his faithful servant, not with the cold approbation of a sovereign, but with the warm confidence of a friend, who, after a long absence, is impatient to pour his secrets into the bosom of his friend.

^{*} The equation confer will recollect the offers of Agumentoon (Illian, 5, v, 144), and the general practice of uniquity.

CHAP. LEVIL

- Braumin. CORPE

Smeather Since the death of my mather and of Canta-" cuzene, who alone advised me without interest " or passion," I am surrounded," said the emperor, " by men whom I can neither love, nor trust, nor " orteem. You are not a stranger to Lucas No-" teres, the great admiral; obstinately attached " to his own sentiments, he declares, both in " private and public, that his sentiments are the " alsolute measure of my thoughts and actions. "The rest of the courtiers are swayed by their a personal or factions views; and how can I " consult the monks on questions of policy and " marriage? I have yet much employment for " your diligence and fidelity. In the spring you " shall enguge one of my brothers to solicit the " succour of the Western powers; from the " Moren you shall sail to Cyprus on a particular " commission; and from thence proceed to Geor-" gia, to receive and conduct the future empress." " Your commands," replied Phranza, " are ir-" resistible : but deign, great sir," he added, with a serious smile, " to consider, that if I am " thus perpetually absent from my family, my ^{*} Continuoussia (I am ignocent of his relation to the property of that name) was great demestic. A firm assemb of the Greak errord, and a brither of the quies of Socrisi, when he visited with the character of minimizador (Syropulus, p. 37, 38, 43).

" wife may be tempted either to seek another cuar. " bushand, or to throw herself into a monastery." EXVIL After laughing at his apprehensions, the emperor more gravely consoled him, by the pleasing assurance that this should be his last service abroad, and that he destined for his son a wealthy and noble beiress; for himself, the important office of great logothete, or principal minister of state. The marriage was immediately stipulated; but the office, however incompatible with his own, had been usurped by the ambition of the admiral. Some delay was requisite to negociate a consent and an equivalent; and the nomination of Phranza was half declared, and half suppressed, lest it might be displeasing to an insolent and powerful favourite. The winter was spent in the preparations of his embassy; and Phranza had resolved that the youth his son should embrace this opportunity of foreign travel, and be left, on the appearance of danger, with his muternal kindred of the Morea. Such were the private and public designs, which were interrupted by a Turkish war, and finally buried in the ruins of the empire.

CHAP, LXVIII.

Reign and character of Mahouet the second.-Siege, ossault, and final compact, of Constantinople by the Turks .- Death of Constantine Palanlogus ,-Scruttude of the Greeks-Extinction of the Roman empire in the East .- Construction of Europe .-Conquests and death of Mahomet the second.

Character. of Mahnmot to

CHAP. THE siege of Constantinople by the Turks attracts our first attention to the person and character of the great destroyer. Mahomet the second was the son of the second Amurath; and though his mother has been decorated with the titles of christian and princess, she is more probably confounded with the numerous concubines who peopled from every climate the haram of the sultan. His first education and sentiments were those of a devout mussulman; and as often as he conversed with an infidel, he purified his hands and face by the legal rites of ablution. Age and empire appear to have relaxed this narrow higotry; his aspiring genius disdained to acknowledge a power above his own; and in his looser hours he presumed (it is said) to brand the prophet of CHAR-Mecca as a robber and impostor. Yet the saltan LXVIII. persevered in a decent reverence for the doctrine and discipline of the korun;" his private indiscretion must have been sacred from the sulgar cur; and we should suspect the credulity of strangers and sectaries, so prone to believe that a mind which is hardened against truth must be armed with superior contempt for absurdity and error. Under the tuition of the most skilful masters. Mahomet advanced with an early and rapid progress in the paths of knowledge; and besides his native tongue, it is affirmed that he spoke or understood five languages, the Arabic; the Persian, the Chaldwan or Hebrew, the Latin, and the Greek. The Persian might indeed contribute to his amusement, and the Arabic to his edification; and such studies are familiar to the Oriental youth. In the intercourse of the Greeks and Turks, a conqueror might wish to converse with the people over whom he was ambitious to reign; his own praises in Latin partry or ^{*} Contents (p. 115), and the mostly which by Support, etter his profile regard for religion. Malmost freely simpleed with the party areli Germalius on the two suligions (Spoud a sa ISA7, No. 77).

[.] For the character of Mahomes in, it is dangerous to trust either the Turks or the christians. The most moscoute picture appears to to drawn by Phrasus (L. l. c. M), whose rescales at had contains age and solitode r see likewiss Spaniforms (a. w. 1451, No. 11), and the continuator of Floory item, tall, p. 552, the fliggs of Paulus Jovius [1, iii, p 164-160), and the Dictionaire de Bayle (tom. ilig D. 173-275)-

^{*} Quinque Engues pratter main noverers forecom, Latiness, Chalentirent, Personant. The Letter translator of Physics has deapt the Arable, which the linear mint recommend to every more from-Finishbins by a Latin edg, requested and singinod the interry of his wife's mother and enters from the company of Constantin-pie. It was deficated into the softends hands by the entere of the Date of Siles. Phileiphus himself was suspected of a similar of militar to Constantinople; yet the status often seconded the trumpet of hely. war tees his life by M. Lumnolog, in the Mamotres de l'American den Inscriptioner, som. s. p. 119, 174, Au.)

LXVIII.

CHAP, prose, might find a passage to the royal ear; but what use or merit could recommend to the state-man or the scholar the uncouth dialect of his Hebrew slaves? The history and geography of the world were familiar to his memory: the lives of the heroes of the East, perhaps of the West, excited his emulation; his skill in astrology is excused by the folly of the times, and supposes some rudiments of mathematical science; and a profuse taste for the arts is betrayed in his liberal invitation and reward of the painters of Italy. But the influence of religion and learning were employed without effect on his savage and licentious nature. I will not transcribe, nor do I firmly believe, the stories of his fourteen pages, whose bellies were ripped open in search of a stolen melon; or of the beautious slave, whose head he severed from her body, in convince the januararies that their master was not the votary of love. His sobriety is attested by the silence of the Turkish anunls, which accuse three, and three only, of the

^{*} Robert Vatures published at Varana, in 1483, his twelve books do He Milliant, in which he first mentions the use of bombs. By his patron Signmond Mulateur, prints of Rimol, it had been addressed with a Latin spirite to Mahimmet or,

According to Physner, he saidingsly studied the lives and actions of Aicrander, Augustus, Construction, and Thirofinius. I have read somewhere, this Plattersh's Lives were translated by his unders into the Turkich language. Withe aultin himself understood Greek, it must have have been for the lament of his subjects. Yet these lines are a school of freedom or wall as of subject-

^{*} The ferrous Central Reliting, whom he had breated from Venice, was illusting with a chain and colleg of good, and a pure of 5000 ducum. With Voltaire I laugh at the footish story of a slave purpossly beheaded, to instruct the painter in the action of the muscled.

Ottoman line of the vice of drunkenness. But CHAP. it cannot be denied that his passions were at once EXVIII. furious and inexorable; that in the palace, as in the field, a torrent of blood was spilt on the slightest provocation; and that the noblest of the captive youth were often dishonoured by his unnatural last. In the Albanian war, he studied the lessons, and soon surpassed the example, of his father; and the conquest of two empires, twelve kingdoms, and two hundred cities, a vain and flattering account, is ascribed to his invincible sword. He was doubtless a soldier, and possibly a general; Constantinople has scaled his glory; but if we compare the means, the obstacles, and the achievements. Mahomet the second must blush to sustain a parallel with Alexander or Timour. Under his command, the Ottoman forces were always more numerous than their enemies; yet their progress was bounded by the Euphrates and the Adriatic; and his arms were checked by Huniades and Scanderbeg, by the Rhodian knights, and by the Persian king.

In the reign of Amurath, he twice fasted of line reroroyalty, and twice descended from the throne transa, his tender age was incapable of opposing his father. Itself, ther's restoration, but never could be forgive the vizirs who had recommended that salutary measure. His auptials were celebrated with the daughter of a Turkman emir; and after a festival

^{*}These imperial drambards were Softman 3, Softman 6, and Amurath 19 (Cautemit, 4, 61). The capita of Persis can produce a more repular security 2 and in the list ago, our European travellers were the pilotoner and companions of their revels.

CHAP. of two months, he departed from Adrianople with his bride to reside in the government of Magnesia. Before the end of six weeks he was recalled by a sudden message from the divan, which announced the decease of Amurath, and the mutinous spirit of the janizaries. His speed and vigour commanded their obedience; he passed the Hellespont with a chosen guard; and at the distance of a mile from Adrianople, the vizirs and emirs, the imams and cadhis, the soldiers and the people, fell prostrate before the new sultan. They affected to weep, they affected to rejoice; he ascended the throne at the age of twentyone years, and removed the cause of sedition by the death, the inevitable death, of his infant brothers. The ambassadors of Europe and Asia soon appeared to congratulate his accession and solicit his friendship; and to all he spoke the language of moderation and peace. The confidence of the Grack emperor was revived by the solemn outly and fair assurances with which he scaled the ratification of the treaty; and a rich domain on the banks of the Strymon was assigned for the annual payment of three hundred thousantid aspers, the pension of an Ottoman prince, who was detained at his request in the Byzantine court. Yet the neighbours of Mahomet might tremble at the severity with which a youthful monarch reformed the pomp of his father's house-

A Calipin, our of these royal infants, was swed from his cruel brethey, and haptined at Rome maker the name of Callicon Othernames. The organic Frederick in presented him with an attore in Austria, where he ended his life; and Cospinian, who is his youth sunrersed with the aged prince at Vienna, applands his prety and wishen tile Committee, p. 672, 473; hold: the expences of luxury were applied to CHAP. those of ambition, and a useless train of seven thousand falconers was cither dismissed from his service, or enlisted in his troops. In the first summer of his reign, he visited with annumy the Asiatic provinces; but after humbling the pride, Mahomet accepted the submission, of the Caramanian, that he might not be diverted by the smallest obstacle from the execution of his great design."

The mahametan, and more especially the Hank in-Turkish, cashists have prenounced that no pro-Mahenets mise can bind the faithful anguinst the interest . . 1451. and duty of their religion; and that the sultan may abrogate his own treaties and those of his prodecessors. The justice and magnanimity of Amurath had scorned this immoral privilege; but his son, though the proudest of men, could stoop from ambition to the basest arts of dissimulation and deceit. Peace was on his lips, while war was in his heart; he incessantly sighed for the possession of Constantinople; and the Greeks, by their own indiscretion, afforded the first pretence of the fatal rupture. Instead of labouring to be for-

^{*} See the accusion of Mahones to in Blooms Or. 339, Physics C. 7, e. 33, h ill, c. 2), Chalcocomblis il cli, p. 1005, and Cantamer 14 P634

Before I enter on the sings of Constantinople I shall above to, that except the above hints of Contomir and Lettneinston, I have not been able to obtain any Turkish account of this compact a such an account as we process of the siege of Rheden by Soliman et (Memnison de p'Armie des Immigrane, tana navie pa Tra-Tesp. I mons therefare, depend on the Gentle, whose projuding, to some degree, see subdood by their distress. Our standard texts ore their of Dycan (p. 34-47), Phrimes (L. iii, c. 7-20), Chalcocondyns (i. snl; p. 301-214/4

CHAR, gotten, theirambassadors pursued his camp, to demand the payment, and even the increase, of their annual stipend; the divan was importuned by their complaints, and the vizir, a secret friend of the christians, was constrained to deliver the sense of his brethren. " Ye foolish and miserable Ro-" mans," said Culil, " we know your devices, and " ye are ignorant of your own danger! the scrupulous Amurath is no more; his throne is oc-" cupied by a young conqueror, whom no laws " can bind, and no obstacles can resist; and if " you escape from his hands, give praise to the " divine elemency, which yet delays the clastise-" ment of your sins. Why do ye seek to affright " us by vain and indirect memces? Rolense the " Ingitive Orchan, crown him sultan of Romania; " call the Hungarians from beyond the Danube; " arm against us the nations of the West; and " he assured that you will only provoke and pre-" cipitate your ruin." But if the fears of the ambassadors were nlarmed by the stern language of the vizir, they were soothed by the courteous audience and friendly speeches of the Ottoman > 214), and Lamardus Chiensis (Historia C. P. a Terror exportants. theregious is the entired in date, since if was compared in the life of Cities, the 16th of August 1433, only screenly-nine days after the loss of the city, and in the first confinemal ideas and passions. Some times must be added from the epitals of engines. Indoor the Parrights Herton. Turnsurury, ad caloem Chalegeandyl, Clausers, Besil, 1550) to pope Richards w, and a tract of Thombidius Eygonnils, which he andressed in the year livel to Martin Cruston (Turco Grania, L t. p. 74-92. Bank, $2-4). Was turned facts and unperiods my briefly, though exitically, reviewed by Spandamin (a. s. 1453, No. 1-27). The largesty valutions of Mountreles and the distinct Latine, I shall man leave be Chrygard.

prince; and Mahonus as ured them that, on his CHAR. return to Adrianople, he would redress the griev. LXVIII. ances, and consult the true interest, of the Greeks. No sooner laid by repassed the Hellespont, than he issued a mandate to suppress their pension, and to expel their officers from the banks of the Strymon: in this measure he betrayed an hostile mind; and the second order mnounced, and in some degree commenced, the siege of Constantinople. In the narrow pass of the Bosphorus, an Asiatic fortress had formerly been raised by his grandfather: in the opposite situation, on the European side, he resolved to creet a more formidable castle; and a thousand masons were commanded to assemble in the spring on a spot named Asomatop, about five miles from the Greek metropolis." Persuasion is the resource of the feeble; and the feeble can seldom persuade: the umbassadors of the emperor attempted, without success, to divert Mahomet from the execution of his design. They represented that his grandfather had solicited the permission of Manuel to build a castle on his own territories; but that this double fortification, which would command the strait, could only tend to violate the alliance of the nations; to intercept the Latins who traded in the Black sea, and perhaps to annihilate the subsistence of the city. "I " form no enterprise," replied the perfidious sul-

GHAP, tan, " against the city; but the empire of Con-" stantinople is measured by her walls. Have " you forgot the distress to which my father was " reduced, when you formed a league with the " Hungarians; when they invaded our country " by land, and the Hellespont was occupied by " the French gallies? Amurath was compelled " to force the passage of the Bosphorus; and w your strength was not equal to your malevo-" lence. I was then a child at Adrianople; the " Moslems trembled; and, for a while, the gu-"bours" insulted our disgrace. But when my " father had triumphed in the field of Warna, he " vowed to creet a fort on the western shore, and "that vow it is my duty to accomplish. Have " ye the right, have ye the power, to controul " my actions on my own ground? For that " ground is my own: as far as the shores of the " Bosphorus, Asia is inhabited by the Turks, and " Europe is deserted by the Romans. Return, " and inform your king, that the present Otto-" man is far different from his predecessors; that " his resolutions surpass their wishes; and that " he performs more than they could resolve. Re-" turn in safety-but the next who delivers a " similar message may expect to be flayed alive," After this declaration, Constantine, the first of the Greeks in spirit as in rank," had determined on AP. to unsheath the sword, and to resist the approach LXVIII. and establishment of the Turks on the Bosphorus. He was disarmed by the advice of his civil and ecclosinstical ministers, who recommended a system less generous, and even less prodent, than his own, to approve their patience and long-suffering, to brand the Ottoman with the name and guilt of an aggressor, and to depend on chance and time for their own safety, and the destruction of a fort, which could not long be maintained in the neighbourhood of a great and populous city. Amidst hope and fear, the fears of the wise and the hopes of the credulous, the winter rolled away; the proper business of each man, and each hour, was postponed; and the Greeks shut their eyes against the impending danger, till the arrival of the spring, and the sultan decided the assurance of their rain.

^{*} The oppositions more which the Turk's bestew on the infidely is expressed today by Duray, and giases by Leunslavius and the modorine. The former term is derived by Documen Oliosa, Greec, tom. i. p. 530) from Andreys, its values Greek, a tortains, as deserting a retragrade motion from the faith. But, also! galoue is no more than glober, which was transferred from the Persian to the Turkout femgroups, from the worshippers of the to these of the crucilla of Herbelot, Bildiot, Orient, p. 375).

Of a master who never forgives, the orders are its basis seldom disobeyed. On the twenty-sixth of March, on the the appointed spot of Asomaton was covered with a last, an active swarm of Turkish artificers; and the March, materials by sea and land were diffigurity transported from Europe and Asia. The time had ^{*} Phrance cleer justice to his master's seem and emerge. Calliffication bomink non-ignores imporative years arms inverse constitute, and eliginatives the fully of the turn start turn profam processes, which he had beard, amendes ups who page. During was use a preynouncilled.

^{*} Instruct of this close and consistent account, the Turkich Annula (Communic, p. 97) reviewd the feelish rate of the ex's hide, and Dido's structure in the faintestion of Corthage. These annuls (unless we are swared by an autochristian prejudice) are the few valuable than the Greek histories.

CHAP.

been burnt in Cataphrygia; the timber was cut down in the woods of Heraclea and Nicomedia; and the stones were dug from the Anatolian countries. Each of the thousand masons was assisted by two workmen; and a measure of two cubits was marked for their daily task. The fortress was built in a triangular form; each angle was flanked by a strong and massy tower; one on the declivity of the hill, two along the sea-shore; a thickness of twenty-two feet was assigned for the walls, thirty for the towers; and the whole building was covered with a solid plutform of lead. Mahomet himself pressed and directed the work with indefatigable ardone: his three vizirs claimed the honour of finishing their respective towers; the zeal of the cadhis emulated that of the junizaries; the meanest labour was ennobled by the service of God and the sultan; and the diligence of the multitude was quickened by the eye of a despot, whose smile was the hope of fortune, and whose frown was the messenger of death. The Greek emperor beheld, with terror, the irresistible progress of the work; and vainly strove, by flattery and gifts, to assuage an implacable foe, who sought, and secretly fomented, the slightest occasion of a quarrel. Such occasions must soon and inevitably be found. The ruins of stately churches, and even the marble columns which had been consecrated to St. Michael the archangel,

A In the dimensions of this furtrees, the old castle of Europe, Phranes does not exactly agree with Chalcocondyles, whose description has been verified on the spot by his editor Leursdarius.

were employed without scruple by the profune cuar. and rapacious Moslems; and some christians, Lavin. who presumed to oppose the removal, received from their hands the grown of marryrdom. Constantine had solicited a Turkish guard to protect the fields and harvests of his subjects: the guard was fixed; but their first order was to allow free pasture to the mules and horses of the camp, and to defend their brethren if they should be molested by the natives. The retinue of an Ottoman chief had left their horses to pass the night among the ripe corn; the damage was felt; the insult was resented; and several of both national were slain in a tumultuous conflict. Mahomet listened with joy to the complaint; and a detacliment was commanded to exterminate the guilty village: the guilty had fled; but forty innocent and unsuspecting reapers were massacred by the soldiers. Till this provocation, Constantinople The Turthad been open to the visits of commerce and cu-June; riosity: on the first alarm, the gates were shut; but the emperor, still anxious for peace, released on the third day his Turkish captives;" and expressed, in a last message, the firm resignation of a christian and a soldier. "Since neither " oaths, nor treaty, nor submission, can secure " peace, pursue," said he to Mahomet, " your "impions warfare. My trust is in God alone: " if it should please him to mollify your heart, I " shall rejoice in the happy change; if he delivers

Among them were notice pages of Mahamet, so conscious of his inemethic rigrary, that they begind to from their brode in the city union. They could return before aument-

VOL XII.

CHAP.

Sept. Li

" the city into your hands. I submit without a " marrour to his holy will. But until the Judgo " of the earth shall pronounce between us, it is " my ditty to live and die in the defence of my " people." The miltan's answer was hostile and decisive: his fortifications were completed; and before his departure for Adrianople, he stationed a vigilant Agu and four bindred janizaries to levy a tribute of the ships of every antion that should pass within the reach of their cunnon. A Venetian vessel, refusing obedience to the new lords of the Bomborus, was sunk with a single bullet. The master and thirty sailors escaped in the boat; but they were dranged in chains to the porte: the chief was impaled; his companions were behended; and the historian Duene beheld, at Demotica, their bodies exposed to the wild beasts. The siege of Constantinople was deferred till the ensuing spring; but an Ottoman army murched into the Alorea to divert the firre of the blessed or afflicted with the birth of a son; "the hard of the blessed or afflicted with the birth of a son; "the hast heir," says the plaintive Phranes, "of the "last spark of the Roman empire."

Perputs. The Greeks and the Turks passed an unxions than he and sleepless winter; the former were kept awake constant by their fears, the latter by their hopes; both by topic ^{*} Discor, c. 23. Physics G. it, s. 35, who had solled in his erand, commonwhat the Venetica plus as a margin.

^{*} Austral of Palentegorous group, at impost soccasion, parentpus Homeocous civillia horra mitus, auditon, &c. (Parenta, h. 61, c., 7). The strong expression was inspected by the fallings.

the preparations of defence and attack; and the curartwo emperors, who had the most to lose or to LXVIII. gain, were the most deeply affected by the nation-s, s, 1652, al sentiment. In Mahomet, that sentiment was september 1433, inflamed by the actions of his worth and temper; April. he amused his leisure with building at Adrianoplet the lefty palace of Jehan Numa (the watchtower of the world); but his serious thoughts. were irrevocably bent on the conquest of the city of Casar. At the dead of night, about the secondwatch, he started from his bed, and commanded the instant attendance of his prime vizir. The message, the hour, the prince, and his own situation, alarmed the guilty conscience of Calil Busha; who had possessed the confidence, and advised the restoration, of Amurath. On the accession of the san, the vigir was confirmed in his office and the appearances of favour; but the veteranstatesman was not inscosible that he trode on a thin and slippery ice, which might break under his footsteps, and plunge him in the abyes. His friendship for the christians, which might be innecest under the late reign, had stigmatised him with the name of Gabour Ortachi, or losterbrother of the infidels;" and his avaries entertained a venal and tremonable correspondence, which was detected and punished after the conclusion of the war. On receiving the royal mandate, he embraced, perhaps for the last time, his wife and children; filled a cup with pieces of gold, hastened to the palace, adored the sultan, and offered, according to the Oriental custom, the slight tribute of his duty and gratitude." "It is " not my wish," said Mahomet, " to resume my " gifts, but rather to heap and multiply them on " thy head. In my turn I ask a present far more " valuable and important; -- Constantinople." As soon as the vizir had recovered from his surprise, " the same God," said he, " who has al-" ready given thee so large a portion of the Ro-" man empire, will not deny the remnant, and " the capital. His providence, and thy power, " assure thy success; and myself, with the rest " of thy faithful slaves, will sacrifice our lives " and fortunes." " Lala," (or perceptor), continued the sultan, " do you see this pillow? all " the night, in my agitation, I have pulled it on " one side and on the other; Thave risen from my " bed, again have I him down; yet sleep has " not visited these weary eyes. Beware of the " gold and silver of the Romans : in arms we

^{*} Contents, p. 97, 50. The solum was either doubtful of his conquest, or ignorant of the repetior setting of Consuminação. A site or a his plant may constitute be reined by the imposed formes of their recognitions.

^{*} Takeyout by the president Count, to translated procuents for a converted indeed from the Latin version; but in his fact, he has serviced of the onic by which formal Building and Discrep, c. 35) are numbered and restlike his services.

CRAP.

^{2.} The Oriental custom of ower appearing without gifts before a severage of a superfer it of high autiquity, and econs analogous with the atom of marriers, still more abtliers and universal. See the atomples of spok Persian gifts, Miles, Hist, Vac. I. i. c. SI, NI, SE.

[•] The Lair of the Turks (Committee, p. 24), and the Turks of the Greeks (Duras, p. 25), and derived from the samual language of children; and it may be observed, that all such primitive words which demand their permits, see the simple repetition of our splittles, mapped of a lability or desiral committee and un upon viewel (the Brother, Methanisms due Language, 10th.), p. 121-247).

" are superior; and with the aid of God, and GHAR. " the prayers of the prophet, we shall speedily LXVIII. " become musters of Constantinople." To sound the disposition of his soldiers, he often wandered through the streets alone, and in disguise; and it was fatal to discover the sultan, when he wished to escape from the vulgar eye. His hours were spent in delineating the plan of the hostile city; in debating with his generals and engineers on what spot he should erect his batteries; on which side he should assault the walls; where he should spring his mines; to what place he should apply his scaling-ladders; and the exercises of the day repeated and proved the locubrations of the night.

Among the implements of destruction, he stu- The great died with peculiar care the recent and tremen- Mahount. dous discovery of the Latins; and his artiflery surpassed whatever had yet appeared in the world. A founder of cannon, a Dane or Hungarian, who had been almost starved in the Greek service, deserted to the Moslems, and was liberally entertained by the Turkish sultan. Mahomet was satisfied with the answer to his first question, which he eagerly pressed on the artist. " Am I able to " cast a cannon capable of throwing a ball or " stone of sufficient size to batter the walls of " Constantinople?" "I am not ignorant of their " strength; but were they more solid than those " of Bahylon, I could oppose m engine of su-" perior power; the position and management of " that engine must be left to your engineers." On this assurance, a foundery was established at Adrianople ; the metal was prepared; and at the CHAP. LXVIII end of three months, Urban produced a piece of brass ordnance of stupendous, and almost incredible, magnitude; a measure of twelve palms is assigned to the bore; and the stone bullet weighed above six hundred pounds." A vacant place before the new palace was chosen for the first experiment; but to prevent the sudden and mischievous effects of astonishment and fear, a proclamation was issued, that the cannon would be discharged the ensuing day. The explosion was felt or heard in a circuit of an hundred furlongs; the ball, by the force of gunpowder, was driven above a mile; and on the spot where it fell, it Imried itself a fathom deep in the ground. For the conveyance of this destructive engine, a frame or carriage of thirty waggons was linked together, and drawn along by a team of sixty oxen: two hundred men on both sides were stationed to poise or support the rolling weight; two hundred and fifty workmen marched before to smooth the way and repair the bridges; and near two months were employed in a laborious journey of one hundred and fifty miles. A fively philosopher" derides on this occasion the credulity of the Greeks, and observes, with much reason,

See Veltripe (Hick Genmile, o art, p. 284, 295). He say ambelieve of universal momenthy's and the port frequently aspires of the mame and style of an astronomer, a abelian, &c.

[&]quot; The Citie values welesied about along paints, or kineditonic rounds too Hosper on Auction Weights, Mostures, Accoration strong the motors forethe, that classic appellation was extended to a motellitus the familiest, or one handred and recenty-bee pointly (Duinner eapercent, Learning Chiemis measured the full or storm of the co--rayment a Lupidem, qui paleria underlim au mais griffitud for green, that we should always distrust the exagerations CHAP. of a vampoished people. He calculates, that a Exviii. hall, even of two hundred pounds, would require a charge of one landred and fifty pounds of powder: and that the stroke would be feeble and impotent, since not a fifteenth part of the mass could he hillamed at the same imment. A stranger as I um to the art of destruction, I can discorn that the modern improvements of artillery prefer the number of pieces to the weight of metal; the quickness of the fire to the sound, or even the consequence, of a single explosion. Yet I dare not reject the positive and ununimous evidence of contemporary writers; nor can it seem improbable, that the first artists, in their rude and ambitious efforts, should have transgressed the standard of moderation. A Turkish camoon, more coormous than that of Mahomet, still guards the entrance of the Dardanelles; and if the use be inconvenient, it has been found on a late trial that the effect was far from contempfible. A stone bullet of eleven hundred pounds weight was once discharged with three hundred and thirty pounds of powder; at the distance of six hundred yards, it shivered into three rocky fragments, traversed the strait, and leaving the waters in a foam, again rose and bounded against the opmovite hill."

The Barrer de Tart (time III, p. 85-89), who forthird the Declarities against the Hamanon, describes or a facility, and everyoner, arrain his own presents of the control side of the Tarke. But that edgewards travelles of or not process the metof gaining one conjudence.

CHAR EXAM. Mahaman. rr fiarms Constantimoples April 6.

While Mahomet threatened the capital of the East, the Greek emperor implored with fervent prayers the assistance of earth and heaven. But ese negon the invisible powers were deaf to his supplientions; and Christendom beheld with indifference a. ii 1863, the fall of Constantinople, while she derived at least some promise of supply from the jealous and temporal policy of the sultan of Egypt. Some states were too weak, and others too remote ; by sume the danger was considered as imaginary, by others as inevitable: the Western princes were involved in their endless and domestic quarrels; and the Roman pontiff was exasperated by the falsehood or obstinue of the Greeks. Instead of employing in their favour the arms and treasures of Italy, Nicholas the fifth had foretohl their approaching ruin; and his honour was engaged in the accomplishment of his prophecy. Perhaps he was softened by the last extremity of their distress; but his compassion was tardy; his efforts were faint and unavailing; and Constantinople had fallen, before the squadrous of Genoa and Venice could sail from their harbours." Even the princes of the Morea and of the Greek islands affected a cold neutrality; the Genoese colony of Galatia negociated a private treaty; and the sultan indulged them in the delusive hope, that by his clemency they might survive the rain of the empire. A plebeian crowd, and some Byzantine cuarnobles, basely withdrew from the danger of their country; and the avarice of the rich denied the comperor, and reserved for the Turks, the secret treasures which might have raised in their defence whole armies of mercenaries. The indigent and solitary prince prepared however to sustainhis formidable adversary; but if his courage were equal to the peril, his strength was inndequate to the contest. In the beginning of the spring, the Furkish vanguard swept the towns and villages as far as the gutes of Constantinople : submission was spored and protected; whatever presumed to resist was exterminated with fire and sword. The Greek places on the Black sea, Mesembria, Acheloum, and Bizon, surrendered on the first summons; Selybria alone deserved the honours of a siege or blockade; and the hold inhabitants, while they were invested by land, faunched their boats, pillaged the opposite coast of Cyzicus, and sold their captives in the public market. But on the approach of Mahomet himself all was ailent and prostrate: he first halted at the distance of five miles; and from thonce advancing in battle array, planted before the gate of St. Romanus the imperial standard; and, on the sixth ^{} Assemble in Proces. -- Holes, Cardinal, Isidon again Spendenton ; and Dr. Johnson, in the tragedy of Frence, has Juppily select this abbrevious communication.

A Non audirit, indignum durum, mys.the houses Autonimus; but us the Homan smirt was offerwards griscod and asturned, we find the mace countly expression of Pinting, fit noises falme postilici Juvara Grame, and the practice assertion of Engle Sylven, structum classeen, Ar. (Spond. a. s. 1455, No. 3).

The granting Greeks dig up the golden enterms.
The accumulated wealth of hunding ages :
That wealth which, granted as their excepting gether, Itself cong'st surfact that nations at their gates.

CHAP day of April, formed the memorable siege of LXVIII. Constantinople.

Forces of the Turbe ;

The troops of Asia and Europe extended on the right and left from the Propontis to the hurbour : the ianizaries in the front were stationed before the sultan's tent; the Ottoman line was covered by a deep entrenchment; and a sabordinate army inclosed the suburb of Galata, and watched the doubtful faith of the Genoese. The inquisitive Philelphus, who resided in Greece about thirty years before the siege, is confident, that all the Turkish forces, of any name or value, could not exceed the number of sixty thousand horse and twenty thousand foot; and he uphraids the pusilfanimity of the nations, who had tamely yielded to a handful of burburiums. Such indeed might be the regular establishment of the capicali, the troops of the porte, who murched with the prince, and were paid from his royal treasury. But the bushaws, in their respective governments, maintained or levical a provincial militia; many lands were held by a military tenure; many volunteers. were attracted by the hope of spoil; and the cound of the holy trampet invited a swarm of hunger and fearless fanaties, who might contribute at least to multiply the terrors, and in a first attack to blunt the swords, of the christians: The whole mass of the Turkish powers is magnified by

The polarity troops are deless (by red), the provincial, Sevenning and court of the minors and institution of the Torolds collects excised before the Case's New A of Schings in from which and his own experiency, among the stage has compacted his military state of the man suppose.

Duens, Chalcocondyles, and Leonard of Chies, to CHAP. the amount of three or four hundred thousand LNVIII, men; but Phranza was a less remote and more accurate judge; and his previse definition of two hundred and fifty-eight thousand does not exeeed the measure of experience and probability? The navy of the besiegers was less formidable; the Propontis was overspread with three hundred and twenty sail; but of these no more than eighteen could be rated as gullies of war; and the far greater part must be degraded to the condition of storeships and transports, which poured into the camp fresh supplies of men, animanition, and provisions. In her last decay, Constantinople of the was still peopled with more than an hundred Great thousand inhabitants; but these numbers are found in the accounts, not of war, but of captivity; and they mostly consisted of mechanics, of priests, of women, and of men devoid of that spirit which even women have sometimes exerted for the common safety. I can suppose, I could almost excuse, the relactance of subjects to serve on a distant frontier, at the will of a tyrant; but the man who dares not expose his file in the defence of his children and his property has last in society the first and most active energies of nature. By the emperor's command, a particular inquiry had been sinde through the streets and houses, how of The abstraction of Philaphna is approved by Contaction to the reas 1300 th, Conseiling, in Epitog, Schilling Turchit, p. 1817; Mussigh process that the effective armor of the Toris are much be a in the they appear to the error that become Continlimple, Lemandre Calenda reckour on more than 13,000 jumnaries, LKVIII. ******

CHAP, many of the citizens, or even of the monks, were able and willing to bear arms for their . country. The lists were intrusted to Phranza r and, after a diligent addition, he informed his master, with grief and surprise, that the national defence was reduced to four thousand nine hundred and seventy Romans, Between Constantine and his faithful minister, this comfortless secret was preserved; and a sufficient proportion of shields, cross-hows, and muskets, was distributed from the arienal to the city hands. They derived some accession from a body of two thousand strangers, under the command of John Justiniani, a noble Genoese: a liberal dountive was advanced to these auxiliaries; and a princely recompence, the life of Lemnos, was promised to the valour and victory of their chief. A strong chain was drawn across the mouth of the harbour i it was supported by some Greek and Italian vessels of war and merchandise; and the ships of every christian nation, that successively arrived from Caudia and the Black sea, were detained for the public service. Against the powers of the Ottoman empire, a city of the extent of thirteen, perhaps of sixteen, miles was defended by a scanty emrison of seven or eight thousand soldiers. Europe and Asia were open to the besiegers; but the strength and provisions of the [&]quot; If you ender though telestics extribut non-absque delete et musicithe manufigure spect not discretify occupies minimum (Pireness, L. III., s. St. With some indulgance for national projunture, we come desire a care anticontic witness, and only of gubble faces, but of partieto comments.

Greeks must sustain a daily decrease; nor could cuar, they indulge the expectation of any foreign succour or supply.

The primitive Romans would have drawn their Falsandon swords in the resolution of death or conquest churches, The primitive christians might have embraced $ 2, 14.32 each other, and awaited in patience and charity the stroke of martyrdom; but the Greeks of Constantinople were animated only by the spirit of religion, and that spirit was productive only of animosity and discord. Before his death, the emperor John Palmologus had renounced the unpopular measure of an union with the Latins: nor was the idea revived, till the distress of his brother Constantine imposed a last trial of flattery and dissimulation. With the demand of temporal aid, his amhassalors were instructed to mingle the assurance of spiritual obedience: his neglect of the church was excused by the argent cares of the state; and his orthodox wishes solicited the presence of a Roman legate. The Vatican had been too often deluded; yet the signs of repentance could not decently be overlooked; a legate was more easily granted than an army; and about six months before the final destruction, the cardinal Isidore of Russia appeared in that character with a retinue of priests and soldiers. The emperor soluted him as a friend and father: respectfully listened to his public and private ser-

⁶ In Spendance, the correcte of the union is not only portial, bid imported. The history of Painters died in 1942, and the bilinery of Dorse, which represents these scenes (c. 36, 37) with work truck and spirit, was not priced stil the year 1840.

LXVIII

CHAP, mons; and with the most obsequious of the clergy and laymen subscribed the act of union, as it had been ratified in the council of Florence. On the twelfth of December, the two nations, in the church of St. Sophia, joined in the communities of sacrifice and prayer; and the names of the two pontiffs were solemnly commemorated; the names of Nicholas the fifth, the vicar of Christ, and of the patriarch Gregory, who had been driven into exile by a rebellious people.

Obeliancy and fancti-Grecks.

But the dress and language of the Latin priest es who officiated at the altar were an object of scandal; and it was observed with horror, that he consecrated a cake or wafer of unleavened bread, and poured cold water into the cup of the sucrament. A national historian acknowledges with a blush, that none of his countrymen, not the emperor himself, were sincere in this occusional conformity? Their hasty and unconditional submission was pulliated by a promise of future revisal; but the best, or the worst, of their excuses was the confession of their own perjury. When they were pressed by the reproaches of their honest brethren, " Have patience," they whispered, " have patience till God shall have " delivered the city from the great dragon who " seeks to devour us. You shall then perceive " whether we are truly reconciled with the Azy-" mites." But patience is not the attribute of Firmers, our of the conferming Greeks, acknowledges that the measure was adopted only propter spore anxills the afferns with pleasure, that there who refreed by perform their developes by $1. Sophia, miles culpum et lie pace quent (l. lil. r. 20).

zeal; nor can the arts of a court be adapted to CHAP. the freedom and violence of popular enthusiasm, tavim * From the dome of St. Sophia the inhabitants of either sex, and of every degree, rushed in crowds to the cell of the monk Gennadius, to consult the oracle of the church. The holy man was -invisible; entranced, as it should seem, in sleep meditation or divine rapture: but he had expendon the door of his cell a speaking tablet; and they successively withdrew, after reading these tremendous words; "O miscrable Romans, why " will ye ahandon the truth; and why, insteadof confiding in God, will ye put your trust in " the Italians? In losing your faith, you will " lose your city. Have mercy on me, O Lord ! " I protest in thy presence, that I am innocent " of the crime. O miserable Romans, consider, " pause, and repent. At the same moment that " you renounce the religion of your fathers, by " embracing impiety, you submit to a foreign " servitude." According to the advice of Gennadius, the religious virgius, as pure us ungels, and as proud as de mons, rejected the act of union, and abjured all communion with the present and future associates of the Latins; and their example was applauded and imitated by the greatest part

This primitive and earnier name was Greege Scholegius, which he changed for that of Generalius, either when he become a count or a partiarch. The definice, of Piarrenes, of the case tunes which he was fartistically attached at Constantinople, has temperal Lee Allatino Constraint de Georgias, in Fancie Bildian Cross term, h., p. 161-7507, to divide annuments of the Bildian Cross term, h., p. 161-7507, to divide annuments ment i but Remander (p. 342-383) has returned the identity of the character.

CHAP, of the clergy and people. From the monastery, the devoit Greeks dispersed themselves in the tiverns; drank confusion to the slaves of the pope; emptied their glasses in honour of the image of the haly virgin; and besought her to defend, against Mahomet, the city which she had formerly saved from Chosroes and the Chagan. In the double interiention of zend and wine, they valiantly exclaimed, " What occasion have we for " succoun or union, or Latins? for from us be " the worship of the Azymites!" During the winter that preceded the Turkish conquest, the nation was distracted by this epidemical frenzy; and the senson of lent, the approach of easter, instead of breathing charity and love, served only to fortify the obstinucy and influence of the The confessors scrutinized and alarmed zenlote. the conscience of their votaries, and a rigorous putunce was imposed on those who had received the communion from a priest, who had given an express or tacit consent to the union. His service at the altar propagated the infection to the mute and simple spectators of the ceremony: they forfeited, by the impure spectacle, the virtue of the sacordotal character; nor was it lawful, even indunger of sudden death, to invoke the assistance of their prayers or absolution. No sooner had the church of St. Sophia been polluted by the Latio anerolee, thun it was deserted as a Jewish synagogue, or un heathen temple, by the clergy and people; and a vast and gloomy silence prevailed in that venerable dome, which had so often smoked with a cloud of incense, blazed with innumerable lights, and resounded with the voice of prayer and thanksgiving. The Latins were the most odious of heretics and infidels; and the first minister of the empire, the great dake, was heard to declare, that he had rather behold in Constantinople the turban of Mahomet, than the pope's tiars or a cardinal's hat." A sentimentso unworthy of christians and patriots, was familiar and fatal to the Greeks: the emperor was deprived of the affection and support of his subjects; and their native cowardice was sanctified by resignation to the divine decree, or the visionary hope of a miraculous deliverance.

Of the triangle which composes the figure of sept of Constantinople, the two sides along the sea were constantinople, the two sides along the sea were noted by made inaccessible to an enemy; the Propontis by Manager nature, and the harhour by art. Between the two seasons waters, the basis of the triangle, the land side was May 22, protected by a double wall, and a deep ditch of the depth of one hundred feet. Against this line of fortification, which Phranza, an eye-witness, prolongs to the measure of six miles, the Ottomans directed their principal attack; and the emperor, after distributing the service and command of the most perilous stations, undertook the defence of the external wall. In the first days of the siege, the Greek soldiers descended into the

VOL. XIL

[&]quot;passion, salawage, may be fairly translated, a curtimal's fast. The difference of the Grack and Latin haldes emblitured the saldism

^{*} We me addiged to reduce the Occel miles to the constant mosure which is preserved in the worse of Birels, of All French Amer, and of 104 three-fifths to a degree. The six miles of Phonors is not exceed from Braffish miles (of Anville, Mosures Timeratum, p. 81-175, &C).

LEVIN

CHAP. ditch, or sallied into the field; but they soon dis, covered that, in the proportion of their numbers, one christian was of more value than twenty Turks; and after these hold preludes, they were pradently content to maintain the rampart with their missile weapons. Nor should this prudence be accused of pusillanimity. The nation was indeed predilanimous and have; but the last Constantine deserves the name of a hero; his noblehand of colunteers was inspired with Roman virtue; and the foreign auxiliaries supported the honour of the Western chivalry. The incessant vollies of lances and arrows were accompanied with the smoke, the sound, and the fire of their musketry and cannon. Their small arms discharged at the same time either five, or even ten, balls of lead, of the size of a walnut; and, according to the closeness of the ranks and the force of the powder, several breastplates and bodies were transpierced by the same shot. But the Turkish approaches were soon sunk in trenches, or covered with ruins. Each day added to the science of the christians; but their landequate stock of gunpowder was wasted in the operations of each day, Their ordnance was not powerful, either in size or number; and if they possessed some heavy cannon, they feared to plant them on the walls, lest the aged structure should be shaken and overthrown by the explosion." The same destructive

A At Indias Southern metri facts paranere contra house machinamesta, over tance over delicture. Palvisores altri motical exigen ; tela modica i homburdar, al afterant incommunitrate loci primum bostos offendare source had been revealed to the Moslems; by CHAP. whom it was employed with the superior energy of LXVIII. zeal, riches, and despotism. The great cannon of Mahamet has been separately noticed; an important and visible object in the history of the times; but that enormous engine was flanked by two fellows almost of equal magnitudes, the long order of the Turkish artillery was pointed against the walls: fourteen batteries thundered at once on the most accessible places; and of one of these it is ambiguously expressed, that it was mounted with one hundred and thirty guns, or that it discharged one hundred and thirty bullets. Yet, in the power and activity of the solum, we may discern the infancy of the new science. Under a master who counted the moments, the great cannon could be loaded and fired no more than seven times in one day. The heated metal unfortunately burst; several workmen were destroyed; and the skill of an artist was admired who bethought himself of preventing the danger and the accident, by pouring oil, after each explosion, into the mouth of the cannon.

affendire micerialus alverique tectus non putream. Mannique magme trant, se multipe describación puedas, qui tradant. This parmage of Leonardon Chiesnia temperatus and important.

^{*} According to Chalcons lights and Phrands, the great common burst, up and dent which, amending to Duras, was prevented by the arrist's shift. It is arident they do not speak of the same gran.

^{*} Note in hundred years after the slage of Constantinophi, the French and English Sects in the Channel were present of tring 300 short in an organization of two hours (Memoires do Marrin du Bellay, & x, in the Collection Generale, tone axis, p. 200).

CHAR LEVIII. defence.

Thufirst random shots were productive of more sound than effect; and it was by the mivice of a Augus and christian, that the engineers were taught to level their aim against the two opposite sides of the salient angles of a bastion. However imperfect, the weight and repetition of the fire made some impression on the walls; and the Turks, pushing their approaches to the edge of the ditch, attempted to fill the enormous chasm, and to build a road. to the assault.' I homomerable fascines, and hogsheads, and trunks of trees, were heaped on each other; and such was the impetuosity of the throng, that the foremost and the weakest were pushed headlong down the precipice, and instantly buried under the accumulated mass. To fill the ditch was the toil of the besiegers; to clear away the rubbish was the safety of the besieged; and, after n long and bloody conflict, the web that had been woven in the day was still unravelled in the night. The next resource of Mahomet was the practice of mines; but the soil was rocky; in every attempt, he was stopped and undermined by the christian engineers; nor had the art been yet invented of replenishing those subterraneous passages with gunpowder, and blowing whole towers and cities into the air. A circumstance that dis-

^{*} I have releved some cursion facts, without striving to simulate the bloody and electrons stayment of the above de Vernit, in his profix. Secriptions of the steps of Bhodes, Mates, Acc. But that agreeable historian but a turn for common ; and so be some to plane the order, he had a toped the mine with of eathers and chivalry.

^{*} The first theory of misses with gampowder appears in 1480, in a was of George of Siemer (Tershauth), tom. wh. P. J. p. 324. They weto tinguishes the slege of Constantinopie, is the re- CHAP. amion of the ancient and modern artiflery. The LXVIII. cannon were intermingled with the mechanical engines for casting stones and darts; the bullet and the battering-ram were directed against the same walls; nor had the discovery of gunpowder superseded the use of the liquid and unextinguishable fire. A wooden turret of the largest size was advanced on rollers: this portable magazine of ammunition and fascines was protected by a threefold covering of bulls hides: incessant vollies were securely discharged from the loop-holes; in the front, three doors were contrived for the alternate sally and retreat of the soldiers and workmen. They ascended by a stair-case to the upper platform, and as high as the level of that platform, a scaling-ladder could be raised by pullies to form a bridge, and grapple with the adverse rampart. By these various arts of annoyance, some as new as they were permicious to the Greeks. the tower of St. Romanus was at length overturned: after a severe struggle, the Turks were repulsed from the breach, and interrupted by darkness; but they trusted, that with the return. of light they should renew the attack with fresh vigour and decisive success. Of this purse of action, this interval of hope, each moment was improved by the activity of the emperor and Justiniani, who passed the night on the spot, and were first practiced or Sarpenella, in 1507; but the homer and improvements in 1503, is meribed to Princial Navarre, who used mewith ourcess in the wars of italy illut, de la Ligne du Cambray, tom-H. F. P.T-91).

LXVIII

CHAP, urged the labours which involved the safety of the church and city. At the dawn of day, the impatient adtan perceived, with astonishment and grief, that his wooden turret had been reduced to ashes; the ditch was cleared and restored; and the tower of St. Romanns was again strong and entire. He deplored the failure' of his design; and attered a profune exclanation, that the word of the thirty seven thousand prophets should not have compelled him to believe that such a work, in so short a time, could have been accomplished by the infidels.

Successi ami victory of four abigm,

The generosity of the christian princes was cold and tardy; but in the first apprehension of a siege, Constantine had negotiated, in the isles of the Archipelago, the Mores, and Sicily, the most indispensable supplies. As early as the beginning of April, five great ships, equipped for merchandise and war, would have sailed from the harbour of Chies, had not the wind blown obstinutely from the north." One of these ships here the imperial fing; the remaining four belonged to the Genoese; and they were laden with wheat and barley, with wine, oil, and vegetables, and, above all, with soldiers and mariners, for the service of

It is also also that the Greeks should not agree in the number of these identified emoter the fire of Durse, the few of Phinnes and Lamming, and the two of Chalesonery less, must be extended to the comfler, or conflect to larger, size. Valuaire, in giving one of these ships to Frederic su, confounds the empoons of the East and West.

In hold deliance, or rather in gross limitative, of language and geography; the president Comin decame them at Chim with a south, and walls them to Constantinople with a surth, wied.

the capital. After a terious delay, a gentle CHAP. breeze, and, on the second day, a strong gale LXVIII. from the south, carried them through the Hellespont and the Proportis: but the city was already. invested by sea and land; and the Turkish fleet, at the entrance of the Bosphorus, was stretched from shore to shore, in the form of a crescent, to intercept, or at least to repel, these bold auxiliaries. The render who has present to his mind the geographical picture of Constantinople, will conceive and admire the greatness of the speciacle. The five christian ships continued to advance with joyful shouts, and a full press both of suils and ours, against an hostile feet of three hundred vessels; and the rampart, the camp, the consts of Europe and Asia, were fined with inmmerable speciators, who anxiously awaited the event of this momentous succour. At the first view that event could not appear doubtful: the superiority of the Moslems was beyond all measure or meount; and, in a calm, their numbers and valour must inevitably have prevailed. But their husty and imporfeet may had been created, not by the genius of the people, but by the will of the sultan; in the height of their prosperity, the Turks have acknowledged, that if God had given them the earth, he had left the was to the infidels;" and a series of defeats, a rapid progress of decay, has established the truth

This prepared decay and weathers of the Turkob every, more to abserved to Byeart (State of the Ottomas Louples, p. 1123-118; i. Thevision (Version, John p. 222-242) | and Tor (Memories, 1986-11) | the last of whom is strays whereou to arrest and senare his reader.

LXVIII

CHAR of their modest confession. Except eighteen gullies of some force, the rest of their fleet consisted of open houts, rudely constructed and awkwardly managed, crowded with troops, and destitute of cannon; and since courage arises in a great measure from the consciousness of strength, the bravest of the janizaries might tremble on a new element. In the christian squadron, five stout and lofty ships were guided by skilful pilots, and manned with the veterans of Italy and Greece, long practised in the arts and perils of the sen-Their weight was directed to sink or scatter the weak obstacles that impeded their passage : their artiflery swept the waters : their liquid fire was poured on the heads of their adversaries, who, with the design of boarding, presumed to approach them; and the winds and waves are always on the side of the ablest navigators. In this conflict, the imperial vessel, which had been almost overpowered, was rescued by the Genoese; but the Turks, in a distant and closer attack, were twice repulsed with considerable loss. Mahomet himself sat on horseluck on the beach, to encourage their valour by his voice and presence, by the promise of reward, and by fear, more potent than the fear of the enemy. The passions of his soul, and even the gestures of his body," seemed to imitate the actions of the combatants; and, as if he had been the lord of nature, he sparred his horse with a fearless and impotent effort into the sea. His loud reproaches, and the clamours CHAP. of the camp, urged the Ottomans to a third at- LXVIII. tack, more faral and bloody than the two former; and I must repeat, though I cannot credit, the evidence of Phranza, who affirms from their own mouth, that they lost above twelve thousand men in the slaughter of the day. They fled in disorder to the shores of Europe and Asia, while the christian squadron, triumphant and unhart, steered along the Bosphorus, and securely anchored within the chain of the harbour. In the confidence of victory, they boasted that the whole Turkish power must have yielded to their arms; but the admiral, or captain bashaw, found some consolation for a painful wound in his eye, by representing that accident as the cause of his defeat. Bulling Ogli was a renegade of the race of the Bulgarian princes; his military character was tainted with the unpopular vice of avarice; and under the despotism of the prince or people, misfortune is a sufficient evidence of guilt. His rank and services were annihilated by the displeasure of Mahomet. In the royal presence, the captain bashaw was extended on the ground by four slaves, and received one hundred strokes with a golden rod? his death had been pronounced; and he adored the clemency of the sultan, who was satisfied with the milder punishment of confiscation and exile. The introduction of this supply revived the hopes of [&]quot;According to the exaggrestion of corrupt text of Durse (c. 38), this gridden has was of the enumerous and (correlate weight of 500 librar, or points. Boulland's reading of 500 dreaburs, or free points, is sufficient to exercise the arm of Mahouset, and braise the back of his actuars.

⁷ I smut confers, that I have before my eyes the living picture which This policies (L. vid. c. Tr) has discuss of the possions and gate turns of the Athenians in a naval engagement in the great harbour of Syracuse.

LEVILL

CHAP, the Greeks, and accused the supineness of their Westernallies. Amidst the deserts of Austolia / and the rocks of Palestine, the millions of the crusades had buried themselves in a voluntary and inevitable grave; but the situation of the imperial city was strong against her cuemics, and accessible to her friends; and a rational and moderate armament of the maritime states might have saved the relies of the Roman name, and maintained a christian fortress in the heart of the Ottomin empire. Yet this was the sole and feeble attempt for the deliverance of Constantinople; the more distant powers were insensible of its danger; and the ambassador of Hungary, or at least of Huniades, resided in the Turkish camp, to remove the fears, and to direct the operations, of the sultan."

Mahamet trimeporta his navy over land.

It was difficult for the Greeks to penetrate the secret of the divan; yet the Greeks are persuaded. that a resistance, so obstinate and surprising, had fatigued the perseverance of Mahomet. He began tomeditate a retreat, and the siege would have been speedily raised, if the ambition and jeulousy of the second vizir had not opposed the perfidious advice of Calil Bashaw, who still maintained a secret correspondence with the Byzantine court. The reduction of the city appeared to be hopeless, unless a double attack could be made from the barbour as well as from the land; but the harbour [&]quot;Thicas, who continues himself (Brinformed or the affers of Rungury, and get a middle of superstillion, a faint belief that Constantions ple would be the term of the Turkish conquests. See Phrance (L. III., o 20% and Spondamus, was inaccessible; an impenetrable chain was now cust. defended by eight large ships, more than twenty taviit, of a smaller size, with several pullies and sloops; and, instead of forcing this barrier, the Turks might approhend a neval sally, and a second encounter in the open sea. In this perplenity, the genius of Maliomet concaived and executed a plan of a hold and marvellous cast, of transporting by land his lighter vessels and military stones from the Bosphorus into the higher part of the harhour. The distance is about ten miles; the ground is uneven, and was overspread with thickets; and, as the read must be opened behind the suburb of Galata, their free passage or total destruction must depend on the option of the Genoese. But these selfish merchants were ambitions of the fayour of being the last devoured; and the sixficiency of art was supplied by the strength of obedient myriads. A level way was covered with a broad pintform of strong and solid planks; and to render them more suppery and smooth, they were anointed with the fat of sheep and oxen. Fourscore light gallies and brigantines of fifty and thirty ours, were disciolarked on the Bosphorus shore; arranged successively on rollers; and drawn forwards by the force of men and pullies. Two guides or pilots were stationed at the helm, and the prow, of each vessel; the sails were unfurled to the winds; and the labour was cheered by song and acclaumtion. In the course of a single night, this Turkish fleet painfully climbed the hill, steered over the plain, and was launched from the declivity into the shallow waters of the harbour, far above the molestation of the deeper vessels of the Greeks. The real importance of this operation was magnified by the consternation and confidence which it inspired : but the noterious, unquestionable fact was displayed before the eyes, and is recorded by the pens of the two nations.3 A similar stratagem had been repeatedly practised by the ancients: the Ottoman gallies (I must again repeat) should be considered as large bonts; and, if we compare the magnitude and the distance, the obstacles and the means, the boasted miracles has perhaps been equalfed by the industry of our own times." As soon as Mahomet had occupied the upper harbour with a fleet and army, he constructed, in the narrowest part, a bridge, or rather mole, of fifty cubits in breadth, and one hundred in length; it was formed of casks and hogsheads, joined with rafters linked with iron, and covered with a solid floor. On this floating battery, he planted one of his largest cannon, while the fourscore gallies, with troops

CHAP.

^{*} The ounnimous testimony of the four Greeks is confirmed by Contender to See, from the Turkish annals; but I could walk to contract the distance of set miles, and in problem the term of see ount.

^{*} Program relates two egalitypes of a similar framepoticities ever the sex males of its eatherms of Corinita's the mas farancia, of Augments after the builds of Autmos's the other true, of Nicolay, a Grook general in the tenth century. To these to might have added a ball enterprise of Hamming, so introduce to sense jumn the harbour of Tarentom (Polyblia, C. etc., p. 740, edd. Groups.)

^{*}A torock of Comfia, who had served the Verenzan in a similar undertaking Cromit a. a. 1428, No. 37), pught penalthy to the atriags and agent of Mahameti.

^{7.7} particularly all other court surn authoritations on the laker of Canada in the years 1776 and 1727, so great in the labour, so fruitless in the second.

and scaling-ladders, approached the most acces- CHAP. sible side, which had formerly been stormed by the LEVIII, Latin conquerors. The indolence of the christians has been accused for not destroying these unfinished works; but their fire, by a superior fire. was controlled and silenced; nor were they wanting in a nocturnal attempt to burn the vessels as well as the bridge of the sultan. His vigilance prevented their approach; the foremost galliots were sunk or taken: forty youths, the bravest of Italy and Greece, were inhumanly massacred at his command; nor could the emperor's grief he assuaged by the just though cruel retaliation, of exposing from the walls the heads of two hundred and sixty mussulman captives. After a siege of paren of forty days, the fate of Constantinople could no the city. longer be averted. The diminutive garrison was exhausted by a double attack; the fortifications, which had stood for ages against hostile violence, were dismantled on all sides by the Ottoman cannon; many breaches were opened; and near the gate of St. Romanus, four towers had been levelled with the ground. For the payment of his feeble and mutinous troops, Constantine was compelled to despoil the churches, with the promise of a fourfold rest tution; and his sacrilege offered a new reprouch to the enemies of the union, A spirit of discord impaired the remnant of the christian strength; the Genoese and Venetian auxiliaries asserted the pre-eminence of their respective service; and Justiniani and the great duke, whose ambition was not extinguished by the common danger, accused each other of treachery and cowardice.

CHOAP. LXVIII

Property. sometit. Atay 20%

During the siege of Constantinople, the words of pence and expitulation had been sumetimes / pronounced; and several endussies lad passed tions of the between the camp and the city.' The Greek the served emperor was humbled by adversity; and would have yielded to my terms compatible with religion and royalty. The Turkish sultan was desirons of sparing the blood of his soldiers; still more desirous of scouring for his own use the Byzantine trensures; and he necomplished a sacred duty in presenting to the gubours, the choice of circumcision, of tribute, or of death. The avarice of Mahomet might have been satisfied with an annual sum of one bundred thousand duents; but his ambition grasped the capital of the East; to the prince he offered a rich equivalent, to the people a free toleration, or a safe departure; but after some fruitless treaty, he declared his resolution of finding either a throne, or a grave, under the walls of Constantinopic. A sense of honour, and the fear of universal reproach, forbade Palmologus to resign the city into the hands of the Ottomens: and he determined to abide the last extremities of war. Several days were employed by the sultan in the preparations of the assault; and a respite was granted by his favourite science of astrology, which had fixed on the twenty-ninth of May, as the fortunate and fatal hour. On the evening of the twenty-seventh, he issued his final orders; assembled in his presence the military shiefs; and dispersed his heralds through the cuar. crump to proclaim the duty, and the motives, of LXVIII. the perilous enterprise. Four is the first principle of a despotic government; and his menuces were expressed in the Oriental style, that the fugitives and deserters, had they the wings of a bird," should not escape from his inexorable justice. The greatest part of his bashaws and janizaries were the offspring of christian parents; but the glories of the Turkish name were perpetuated by successive adoption; and in the gradual change of individuals, the spirit of a legion, a regiment, or an oda, is kept alive by imitation and discipline. In this hely warfare, the Moslems were exhorted to purify their minds with prayer, their bodies with seven ablations; and to abstain from food till the close of the ensaing day. A crowd of dervishes visited the tents,

^{*} Chalcocouchyine and Durne differ in the time and commutators of the negociation; and as it was meither glacious my salinary, the fallieful Phranca spares his prince even the thought of a surreniler.

These wings (Chalencondyles, L still, p. 298) are so more than an Oriental figure ; but in the tragedy of freeze, Milhomot's pussion some where you've not reward ?

Should the ferry south, upon his frozen wings, Here bim aloft above the wondering stoods, And sen him in the Pleints mished charles-Theree should my hay sing him down to torrow.

Bender the extraoguese of the root, I must observe. I, That the operation of the wind must be comined to the lower regions of the sie, J. Thus the name, styrmings, and the fible of the Flelads senpurely Greek Coholius ad Hemor, Z. 686. Emissis to Innis, p. 200. Applitudes, J. III. c. 10. Heises, p. 229, Nat. 0821, and had no affining with the autonouncy of the Rast (Hyde of Ulugber, Tabal, or Synnama Dissert, form i, p. 40, 42. Gegnet, Origins ides Arm, Amitten, el. p. 75-79. Gebeller, Mer, die Colembrier, p. 731, which Malemer had mutien. 3, The golden charies does not exist either in science or fiction; but I much fear that Dr. Jahnson has confinenced the Photois with the great hear or waggon, the rodine with a meethern equately-Sien :

Aprile Philas Spinger exceller address.

CHAP, to instill the desire of martyrdom, and the assurance of spending an immortal youth anidst the rivers and gardens of paradise, and in the embraces of the black-eved virgins. Yet Mahomet principally trusted to the efficacy of temporal and visible rewards. A double pay was promised to the victorious troops; "The city and the buildings," said Malamet, " are mine; but I resign to your " valour the captives and the spoil, the treasures " of gold and beauty; he rich and be happy, " Many are the provinces of my empire; the " intrepid soldier who first ascends the walls of " Constantinople, shall be rewarded with the go-" vernment of the fairest and most wealthy; and " my gratitude shall accumulate his honours and " fortunes above the measure of his own hopes." Such various and potent motives diffused among the Turks a general ardour, regardless of life, and impatient for action: the camp re-echood with the Moslem shouts of " God is God, there is " but one God, and Mahomet is the apostle of " God:" and the sea and land, from Galata to the seven towers, were Illuminated by the blaze of their nocturnal fires.

Land forey well of the empered -14 (84) Brecker

For different was the state of the christians; who, with loud and impotent complaints, deplored the guilt, or the punishment, of their sins, The celestial image of the virgin had been exposed in solumn prosession; but their divine patroness was deaf to their intrenties; they accused the obstinacy of the emperor for refusing a timely surrender; anticipated the horrors of their CHAP. fate; and sighed for the repose and security of LXVIII. Turkish servitude. The noblest of the Greeks, and the bravest of the allies, were summoned to the palace, to prepare them, on the evening of the twenty-eighth, for the duties and dangers of the general assault. The last speech of Palasologus was the funeral cration of the Roman empire? he promised, he conjured, and he vainly attempted to infuse the hope which was extinguished in his own mind. In this world all was comfortless and gloony; and neither the gospel nor the church have proposed any conspicuous recompence to the heroes who fall in the service of their country. But the example of their prince, and the confinement of a siege, bad armed these warriors with the courage of despair; and the pathetic scene is described by the feelings of the historian Phranza, who was himself present at this mournful assembly. They wept, they embraced; regardless of their families and fortunes, they devoted their lives: and each commander, departing to his station, maintained all night a vigilant and anxious watch on the rampart. The emperor, and some faithful companions, entered the dome of St. Sophia, which in a few hours was to be converted into a mosch, and devoutly received, with tears and prayers, the sacrament of the holy communion. He reposed some moments in the palace.

Phrents quarrels with those Machin arriamminus, not for the name of Guil, but for that of the prophet; the page and of Vultuire Co executive and even ridiculous.

I am afreid that this discourse was composed by Phrancis himself; and it bearings to make of the sermin and the movent, that I almost denlit whather it was pronunced by Constantine, Leguardus asalgon him mother speech, or which he addresses himself store are specificity to the Latte mixiliaries.

LXVIII

which resounded with cries and lamentations; solicited the pardon of all whom he might have injured; and mounted on horseback to visit the guards, and explore the motions of the enemy. The distress and fall of the last Constantine are more glorious than the long prosperity of the Byzantine Casars.

The percent,

In the confusion of darkness, an assailant may sometimes succeed; but in this great and general attack, the military judgment and astrological knowledge of Mahomet advised him to expect the morning, the memorable twenty-ninth of May, in the fourteen hundred and fifty-third year of the christian era. The preceding night had been strenuously employed; the troops, the cannon, and the fascines, were advanced to the edge of the ditch, which in many parts presented a smooth and level passage to the brench; and his fourscore gallies almost touched with the prows and their scaling ladders the less defensible walls of the harbour. Under pain of death, silence was enjoined; but the physical laws of motion and sound are not obedient to discipline or fear; each individual might suppress his voice and measure his footsteps; but the march and labour of thousands must inevitably produce a strange confusion of dissonant clamours, which reached the ears of the watchmen of the towers. At day-break, without the customary signal of the morning gun, the Turks assaulted the city by sea and land; and [&]quot;This absorption, which develops has compliced extented from sying princip, it is becomes not the graphs distributed the forestrance of injuries; it is more easy to forgive 190 times, than such to set purdon of ma interior.

the similitude of a twined or twisted thread has cuar. been applied to the closeness and continuity of LXVIII. their line of attack. The foremost ranks consisted of the refuse of the host, a voluntary crowd. who fought without order or command; of the feebleness of age or childhood, of peasants and vagrants, and of all who had joined the camp in the blind hope of plumler and martyrdom. The common impulse drave them cowards to the wall: the most audacious to climb were instantly precipitated; and not a dart, not a bullet, of the christians was ally wasted on the accumulated throng. But their strength and ammunition were exhausted in this laborious detence; the ditch was filled with the bodies of the shin; they supports ed the footsteps of their companions; and of this devoted vangourd, the death was more serviceable than the life. Under their respective bashaws and sanjaks, the troops of Anatolia and Romania were successively led to the charge; their progress was various and doubtful; but, after a conflict of two hours, the Greeks still maintained and improved their mlyantage; and the voice of the emperor was heard, encouraging his soldiers to achieve, by a last effort, the deliverance of their country. In that fatal moment, the janizaries arose, fresh, vigorous, and invincible. The sultan himself on horseback, with an iron mace in his hand, was the spectator and judge of their valuer: he was surrounded by ten thousand of his domestic troops, whom he reserved for the ^{&#}x27; Besides the 16,000 guards, and the politics and the marines, Duran numbers in this general assume 250,000 Tarks, both bars and foot.

CHAP, decisive occasions; and the tide of buttle was directed and impelled by his voice and eye. His numerous ministers of justice were posted behind the line, to urge, to restrain, and to punish; and if danger was in the front, shame and inevitable death were in the rear, of the fugitives. The cries of fear and of pain were drowned in the martial music of drums, trumpets, and attaballs; and experience has proved, that the mechanical operation of sounds, by quickening the circulation of the blood and spirits, will act on the human machine more forcibly than the eloquence of reason and honour. From the lines, the gallies. and the bridge, the Ottoman artillery thundered on all sides; and the camp and city, the Greeks and the Turks, were involved in a cloud of smoke. which could only be dispelled by the final deliverance or destruction of the Roman empire. The single combats of the heroes of history or fable amuse our fancy and engage our affections; the skillful evolutions of war may inform the mind, and improve a necessary, though pernicious, science; but in the uniform and odious pictures of a general assuult, all is blood, and horror, and confusion: nor shall I strive, at the distance of three centuries and a thousand miles, to definente a scene of which there could be no speciators, and of which the actors themselves were incapable of forming any just or adequate iden:

The immediate loss of Constantinople may be ascribed to the ballet, or arrow, which pierced the gauntlet of John Justiniani. The sight of his blood, and the exquisite pain, appalled the courage CHAP. of the chief, whose arms and counsels were the LXVIII. firmest rampart of the city. As he withdrew from his station in quest of a surgeon, his flight was perceived and stopped by the indefatigable emperor. "Your wound," exclaimed Palacologus, " is slight; the danger is pressing; your presence " is necessary; and whither will you retire?" " I will retire," said the trembling Genoese, by " the same road which God has opened to the " Turks;" and at these words he hastily passed through one of the breaches of the inner wall. By this pusillanimous act, he stained the honours of a military life; and the few days which he survived in Galata, or the isle of Chios, were embittered by his own and the public reproach." His example was imitated by the greatest part of the Latin auxiliaries; and the defence began to slacken when the attack was pressed with redoubled vigour. The number of the Ottomans was fifty, perhaps an hundred, times superior to that of the christians; the double walls were reduced by the cannon to an heap of ruins: in a circuit of several miles, some places must be found more easy of access, or more feelily guarded; and if the besiegers could penetrate in a single point, the whole city was irrecoverably lost. The first

To the arrere censure of the flight of Justiniani, Phranea expresses the own facilities, and those of the public. For some pressurremove, he is involved with more leadily and respect by Ducas ; but the words of Leonardus Chieness express his strong and except lodgnation, glorus admits enough whiting. In the whole series of their Eastern policy. His armitrymum, the Geomes, were always surpriseed, and often guilty.

cuar, who deserved the sultan's reward was Hassan the EXVIII. junisary, of gigantic stature and strength. With his seymetar in one hand and his buckler in the other, he ascended the outward fortification; of the thirty janizaries, who were emulous of his valuer, eighteen perished in the bold advent cer Hassan and his twelve companious had reached the annualt; the giant was precipitated from the cumpart; he rose on one knee, and was again. oppressed by a shower of durts and stones. But his success had proved that the achievement was possible; the walls and towers were instantly covered with a swarm of Turks; and the Greeks, now driven from the vantage ground, were overwhelmed by increasing multitudes. Amidst there multitudes, the emperor, who accomplished all the Juties of a general and a soldier, was long seen, and finally lost. The nobles, who fought round his person, sustained, till their last breath, the honography names of Palacologus and Cantacureme; his mouraful exclumation was heard, . Cannot there be found a christian to cut off " my head?"" and his last fear was that of fall-

[&]quot; Dutes hills him with versitions of Turkish soldiers a Chalgeons. styles women him in the simulative, and they trumples him by Dec gates. The greet of Physics corrying him smood the inetty, except from the precise image of his death a dust we may, without factory, apply the sold-time of Dryden s.

As to Season, he thou execut the finish. And where they find a moremum of the state, for 5 one to eliots, and builting down beneath, There they will and that at his monty largely, With his face the to benefit, he that out meanward

White the good women feel degged,

[·] Spendence is: a 1450, No. 10), who has began of his solvation, wishes to absence this domain from the guilt of culesda.

ing alive into the hands of the infidels.3 The cuarprudent despair of Constantine cast away the LXVIII. purple : amidst the tumult be fell by an unknown peed of hand, and his body was buried under a mountain the copeof the slain. After his death, resistance and order panels wers no more: the Greeks fled towards the city ten and many were pressed and stiffed in the narrow pass of the gate of St. Romanus. The victorious Turks rushed through the breaches of the innerwall; and as they advanced into the streets, they were soon joined by their brethren, who had forced the gate Phenar on the side of the harbour. In the first heat of their pursuit, about two thoussand christians were put to the sword; but avarice soon prevailed over cruelty; and the victors acknowledged, that they should immediately have given quarter, if the valour of the emperor and his chosen bands had not prepared them for a similar opposition in every part of the capital. It was Loss of the thus, after a siege of fifty-three days, that Con-chy and stantinople, which had defied the power of Chosroes, the Chagun, and the caliphs, was irretriesably subdued by the arms of Mahomei the second. Her empire only had been subverted by the Latins; her religion was trampled in the dust by the Moslem conquerurs."

^{*} Leonardus Chiennis very properly observes, that the Yorks, and they known the amperor, would have latered to see and second a supplier to acceptable to the politics.

^{*} Cristmir, p. 96. The similar ships in the possible of the bus-

[&]quot;Chalcocondples must about by suppose that Constanting to exact the Asimira, in revenue for the material columnities of Troy i and the granusarium of the illerable contary we happy to make how the uncourfe appetition of Torks, into the reconstant assumed Torks.

CHAP. LEVIIL enter and pillage maple.

The tidings of misfortune fly with a rapid wing : yet such was the extent of Constantinople, that The Toris the more distant quarters might prolong some moments the happy ignorance of their rain. But Constant in the general consternation, in the feelings of selfish or social auxiety, in the turnult and thunder of the assault, a sleeploss night and morning must have elapsed : nor can I believe that many Grecian ladies were awakened by the janizaries from a sound and tranquil slumber. On the assurance of the public calamity, the houses and convents were instantly deserted; and the trembling inhabitants flocked together in the streets, like an herd of timid animals, as if accumulated weakness could be productive of strength, or in the vain hope, that amid the crowd, each individual might be safe and invisible. From every part of the capital they flowed into the church of St. Sophia: in the space of an hour, the sanctoury, the choir, the nave, the upper and lower galleries, were filled with the multitude of fathers and husbands, of women and children, of priests, monks, and religious virgins: the doors were barred on the inside, and they sought protection from the sacred dome, which they had so lately abborred as a profune and polluted edifice. Their confidence was founded on the prophecy of an enthusiast or impostor, that one day the Turks would enter Con-

^{*} When Cone surprised Baldides, dering the edilitation of a feetval, on east was the city, and as excellent were the inhabitants, that much time altered before the distant quarters knew that they were captives effer dense, t. f. z. 1975, and Ucher (Annal, p. 18), who had second from the prophet Jeternials I pursue of similar import-stantinople, and pursue the Romans as far as the CHAP. column of Constantine in the square before St, LXVIII. Sophia; but that this would be the term of their calamities; that an angel would descend from heaven, with a sword in his hand, and would deliver the empire, with that celestial weapon, to a poor man scated at the foot of the rolumn. " Take this sword," would be say, " and avenge " the people of the Lord." At these animating words, the Turks would instantly fiv, and the victorious Romans would drive them from the West, and from all Anatolia, as for as the fromtiers of Persia. It is on this occasion, that Duons, with some fancy and much truth, upbraids the discord and obstimacy of the Greeks. " Had a that angel appeared," exclaims the historian, a had he offered to exterminate your foes if you " would consent to the union of the church, " even then, in that fatal moment, you would " have rejected your safety, or have deceived " wour God."

While they expected the descent of the turdy Capturyer angel, the doors were broken with axes; and as the Turks encountered no resistance, their bloodless hands were employed in selecting and securing the multitude of their prisoners. Youth, beauty, and the appearance of wealth, attracted their choice; and the right of property was de-

^{*}This thirty description is extracted from Docus (c. 30), who, I we yours afterwards, was cent and associated in it the primer of Lected to the section in 44). The Lected contained to 1460 (Philomes, L. III, c. 27), that is lead main have been full of the topology of Companies pic, who stripped to report, perhaps to adorn, the trac of their mistry.

CHAP: cided among themselves by a prior seizure, by personal strength, and by the authority of command. In the space of an hour, the male captives were hound with cords, the females with their veils and girdles. The senators were linked with their slaves; the prelates, with the porters of the church; and young men of a plebeian class, with noble maids, whose faces had been invisible to the oun and their nearest kindred. In this common captivity, the ranks of society were confounded; the ties of nature were cut asunder; and the inexorable soldier was careless of the father's grouns. the tears of the mother, and the lamentations of the children. The loudest in their wallings were the nuns, who were torn from the altar with naked bosoms, outstretched hamls, and dishevelled bair: and we should piously believe, that few could be tempted to profer the vigils of the haram to those of the monastery. Of these unfortunate Greeks, of these domestic animals, whole strings were rudely driven through the streets; and as the conquerors were enger to return for more prey, their trembling pure wasquickened with menaces and blows. At the same hour, a similar rapine was exercised in all the churches and monasteries, in all the palaces and habitations of the capital; nor could any palace, however sacred or sequestered, protect the persons or the property of the Greeks. Above sixty thousand of this devoted people were transported from the city to the camp and fleet; exchanged or sold, according to the caprice or interest of their masters, and dispersed in remote servitude through the provinces of the Ottoman empire. Among these we may notice some recenar. markable characters. The historian Phranza, first LXVIII. chamberlain and principal secretary, was involved, with his family, in the common lot. After suffering, four months, the hardships of slavery, he recovered his freedom; in the ensuing winter he ventured to Adrianople, and ransomed his wife from the mir bashi, or master of horse; but his two children, in the flower of youth and beauty. had been seized for the use of Mahomet himself. The daughter of Phranza died in the scraglio, perhaps a virgin; his son, in the fifteenth year of his age, preferred death to infamy, and was stabbed by the band of the royal lover." A deed thus inhuman cannot surely be expiated by the taste and liberality with which be released a Grecian matron and her two daughters, on receiving a Latin ode from Philelphus, who had chosen a wife in that noble family. The pride or cruelty of Mahomet would have been most sensibly gratified by the capture of a Roman legate; but the dexturity of cardinal Isidore cluded the search, and he escaped from Galata in a plebeian habit.

^{*} Ber Phenon, L. H. 2220, H.: He supplied and political Amorre and must impulsed as a confeliat soon on torputer at negative about. Me miserum et infeligyn. Yet ha roodd only faaru frum enpost, the blicely at impure somes that were seted in the dark recomme at the swaying

I Het Tiesboschi (tonn. 1), p. i. p. 200) and Lameeter (Mysu du PACESTRIA des Leuriptone, fortex, p. 718p. I should be surious to hearer how his could predice the public around, whom he so either surface as the ment energie and informer of tyroung

The Commences of Pills it suppose that he enably placed his continued hat see the head of a corput, which was our off and wepoud in trimping white the logate himself was bought and delivered.

may. The chain and entrance of the outward harbour was still occupied by the Italian ships of merchandise and war. They had signalised their valour in the siege; they embraced the moment of retrent, while the Turkish mariners were dissipated in the pillage of the city. When they hoisted sail, the heach was covered with a suppliant and lamentable crowd; but the means of transportation were scanty: the Venetians and Genoese selected their countrymen; and, notwithstanding the fairest promises of the sulture, the inhabitants of Galata evacuated their houses, and embarked with their most precious effects.

Amount of the spuit!

In the fall and the sack of great cities, an historian is condemned to repeat the tale of uniform. calamity; the same effects must be produced by the same passions; and when those passions may be indulged without controll, small, alas! is the difference between civilized and savage man. Amidst the vague exclamations of bigotry and hatred, the Turks are not accused of a wanton or immoderate effusion of christian blood; but, according to their maxims (the maxims of antiquity), the lives of the vanquished were forfeited; and the legitimate reward of the conmeror was derived from the service, the sale, or the runsom, of his captives of both sexes," The

as a exprise of no value. The great Belgie Chronicle offices his surgewith new adventures, which is suppressed two e Spandanus, is in 1433, No. 15 in his own letters, lest be should less the mornt and remand of mothering for Christ.

A Bastoquius expensees, with planner and applaine, on the rights of war, and the use of slavery, saming the notionic and the Turktota Logat, Torcici, spint, ili, p. 1617.

wealth of Constantinopic had been granted by the CHAY. sultan to his victorious troops; and the supine of LXVIII. an hour is more productive than the industry of years. But as no regular division was attempted of the spail, the respective shares were not determined by merit; and the rewards of valour were stolen away by the followers of the camp, who had declined the toil and danger of the battle. The narrative of their depredations could not afford either unusement or instruction; the total amount, in the last poverty of the empire, has been valued at four millions of ducats;" and of this sum a small part was the property of the Venetians, the Genoese, the Florentines, and the merchants of Ancona. Of these foreigners, the stock was improved in quick and perpetual circulation; but the riches of the Greeks were displayed in the idle ostentation of palaces and wardrobes, or deeply buried in treasures of ingots and old coin, lest it should be demanded at their hands for the defence of their country. The profamtion and plunder of the monasteries and churches excited the most tragic complaints. The dome of St. Sophia itself, the carthly heaven, the second firmament, the vehicle of the cherubim, the throne of the glory of God," was despoiled of the oblations of ages; and the gold and silver, the

^{*} This cum is specified in a marginal note of Lennelsviar (Chalcos condyter, L.vin, p. 211) , but, in the dimension to Venice, Genoti-Pitterner, and Ancius, of 50, 20, 20, and 15,000 durate. I majori that a figure has been dropt. Even with the restitution, the foreign property would accordly exceed constaurth,

I See the endurated probas and terrestation of Phoens th W. E/1737

LXVIII.

nearls and jewels, the vases and sacerdotal ornaments, were most wickedly converted to the service of mankind. After the divine images had been stripped of all that could be valuable to a profine eye, the canvas, or the wood, was torn, or broken, or burnt, or trod underfoot, or applied, in the stables, or the kitchen, to the vilest uses, The example of sacrilege was imitated, however, from the Latin conquerors of Constantinople; and the treatment which Christ, the virgin, and the saints, had sustained from the guilty catholie might be inflicted by the zealous mussulman on the monuments of idolatry. Perhaps, instead of joining the public clamour, a philosopher will observe, that in the decline of the arts, the workmanship could not be more valuable than the work, and that a fresh supply of visions and infrar les would speedily be renewed by the craft. of the priest and the credulity of the people, He will more seriously deplore the loss of the Byzantine libraries, which were destroyed or scattered in the general confusion; one hundred and twenty thousand manuscripts are said to have disappeared; ten volumes might be purchased for a single disent; and the same ignominious price, too high perhaps for a shelf of theology, included the whole works of Aristotle and Homer, the nablest productions of the science and literature of ancient Greece. We may reflect, with pleasure, that an inestimable portion of our classic treasures was safely deposited in CHAP.

Size Duras (r. 43) and an equals, July 13th, 1453, from Lauren Gurmus to pope Nicholas (.) (Hadly de Grants, p. 192, from a sulio the Carren library).

Italy; and that the mechanics of a German town had invented an art which derides the havor of time and harbarism.

From the first hour of the memorable twenty-Norman ninth of May, disorder and rapine prevailed in a data the Constantinople, till the eighth hour of the same Sophia, the day; when the sultan himself passed in triumph through the gate of St. Romanus. He was attended by his vizies, bashaws, and guards, each of whom (says a Byzantine historian) was robust as Hercules, dextrous as Apollo, and equal in hattle to any ten of the race of ordinary mortals. The conquerors guzed with satisfaction and wonder on the strange, though splendid, appearance of the domes and palaces, so dissimilar from the style of Oriental architecture. In the hippodrome, or atmoiden, his eye was attracted by the twisted column of the three serpents; and, as a trial of his strength, he shattered with his iron mace, or buttle-axe, the under-jaw of one of these monsters, which, in the eye of the Turks, were the idols or talismans of the city, At the principal door of St. Sophia, he nlighted from his horse, and entered the dome; and such was his jealous regard for that monument of his glory, that on observing a zealous mussulman .

^{*} The Julies calendar, * Eith reckins the days and hours from millnight, was most at Constantinopis. But Ducas somes to understand the adducal hours from ann. view.

[&]quot; See the Taskich Annals, p. 329, and the Pontaria of Laurefestus, p. 448.

^{*} I form had to case the p. 27) to manual the period of the of Greeken accoming.

LXVIII

in the act of breaking the marble pavement, he admonished him with his seymetar, that, if the spoil and captives were granted to the soldiers, the public and private buildings had been reserved for the prince. By his command the metropolis of the Eastern church was transformed into a mosch; the rich and portable instruments of superstition had been removed; the crosses were thrown down; and the walls, which were covered with images and mosaics, were washed and purified, and restored to a state of naked simplicity. On the same day, or on the ensuing Friday, the muccin, or crier, ascended the most lofty turret, and prociaimed the ezan, or public invitation in the name of God and his prophet; the imam preached; and Mahomet the second performed the names of prayer and thanksgiving on the great alter, where the christian mysteries had so lately been celebrated before the last of the Casars* From St. Sophin be proceeded to the august, but desolate, mansion of an hundred successors of the great Constantine, but which, in a few hours, had been stripped of the pomp of royalty. A melancholy reflection on the vicissitudes of human greatness forced itself on his mind; and he repeated an elegant distich of Persian poetry : " The spider has " wove his web in the imperial palace; and the a We are obliged to Cantemir in 102; for the Turkish account of the conversion of St. Sophia, to bitterly deployed by Phouses and Doera. It is amoning amongh to observe, in what opposite lights the same object appears to a massalman and a christian eye.

" owl hath sung her watch song on the towers of CHAP.
" Afrasiab."

Yet his mind was not satisfied, nor did the His behavictory seem complete, till he was informed of the coreix. fate of Constantine; whether he had escaped, or been made prisoner, or had fallen in the battle. Two janizaries claimed the honour and reward of his death: the body, under an heap of slain, was discovered by the golden eagles embroidered on his shoes; the Greeks acknowledged with tears the head of their late emperor; and, after exposing the bloody trophy, Mahomet bestowed on his rival the honours of a decent funeral After his decease. Lucas Notaras, great duke. and first minister of the empire, was the most important prisoner. When he offered his person and his treasures at the foot of the throne, " And " why," said the indignant sultan, " did you not " employ these treasures in the defence of your " prince and country?" " They were yours," answered the slave, " God had reserved them for " your hands." " If he reserved them for me." replied the despot, " how have you presumed to ^{*} This district, which Cantamir gives in the original, deriver now beauties from the application. It was thus that Seigio represent, in the suck of Carthage, the immens prophers of Houses. The same gatterness feeling eartied the mind of the conqueror to the past or the future.

A cannot believe with Ducas less Spondanus, e.s. 1443, No.13), that Mahamet sent round Persia, Arabia, &c. the hand of the Greek ampanit t he would surely content himself with a trophy less inhustrate.

^{*} Phranza was the pernoval enemy of the great duke; per could time, or death, or his own retreat to a monastery, extert a feeling of sympathy or factiveses. Discuss to inclined to prace and pity the marryy; Chalcocombyles is neuter, but we are indebted to him for the hint of the Greek conspirary.

CHAP. cally named by the Italians) appears to reign over LXVIII. Europe and Asia; but his person on the shores of the Bosphorus may not always be secure from the insults of an hostile pavy. In the new character of a mosch, the cathedral of St. Sophia was endowed with an ample revenue, crowned with lofty minarets, and surrounded with groves and fountains, for the devotion and refreshment of the Moslems. The same model was imitated in the fami or royal moschs; and the first of these was built by Mahomet himself, on the ruins of the church of the holy apostles and the tombs of the Greek emperors. On the third day after the conquest, the grave of Abu Ayub, or Joh, who had fallen in the first siege of the Arabs, was revealed in a vision; and it is before the sepulchre of the martyr that the new sultans are girded with the sword of empire." Constantinople no longer appertains to the Roman historian; nor shall I enumerate the civil and religious edifices that were profimed or creeted by its Turkish musters: the population was speedily renewed; and before the end of September, five thousand families of Anatolia and Romania had obeyed the royal mandate, which enjoined them, under pain of death, to occupy their new habitations in the capital. The throne of Mahomet was guarded by the numbers and fidelity of his Moslem subjects; but his rational policy aspired to collect the remnant of the Greeks; and they returned in CHAP. crowds as soon as they were assured of their lives, LEVIII. their liberties, and the free exercise of their religion. In the election and investiture of a patriarch, the ceremonial of the Byzantine court was revived and imitated. With a mixture of satisfaction and horror, they beheld the sultan on his throne; who delivered into the hands of Gennadius the crosier or pastoral staff, the symbol of his ecclesiastical office; who conducted the patriarch to the gate of the seraglio, presented him with an horse richly caparisoned, and directed the vizirs and bashaws to lead him to the palace which had been allotted for his residence." The churches of Constantinople were shared between the two religions; their limits were marked; and, till it was infringed by Selim, the grandson of Mahomet, the Greeks' enjoyed above sixty years the benefit of this equal partition. Encouraged by the ministers of the divan, who wished to elude the fanaticism of the sultan, the christian advocates presumed to allege that this division had been an act, not of generosity, but of justice;

[&]quot; The Turby, or sepulchial amount of Abe Ayes, is downbest and engraved in the Tablests General de l'Empire Ottoman (Partie 1787, in large follo), a work of lass use, perhaps, then magnificence (tem. 4, p. 305, 306).

Phrants (L. iii, c. 19) relates the corressory, which has possibly been adorned in the Greek reports to each other, and to the Lacing-The fact is remisened by Rossewi Malaxus, who wrote, in valgar Greek, the history of the justificely after the taking of Constantinople, inserted in the Tarco-Greeks of Greeks (C. v. p. 106-185). But the most parfect reader will not believe that Malaxusz adopted the Casholic form, "Sancia Trimitas que milhi densait imperious to in particular moves Rosses deligit."

From the Throo-Gracia of Crusius, &c. Spendamis (s. n. 1453, No. 21, 1458, No. 16) describes the slavery and domestic quarrels of the Greek chimid. The puriarch who succeeded Gennadius three bimedif in drapsir into a well.

CHAP, not a concession, but a compact; and that if one LXVIII, half of the city had been taken by storm, the other moiety had surrendered on the faith of a sacred capitulation. The original grant had indeed been consumed by fire; but the loss was supplied by the testimony of three aged janizaries who remembered the transaction; and their venal oaths are of more weight in the opinion of Cantemir, than the positive and unanimous consent of the history of the times."

Estinction of the im-Palarolodus.

The remaining fragments of the Greek kingperial fami-dom in Europe and Asia I shall abandon to the less Com-Turkish arms; but the final extinction of the two last dynasties which have reigned in Constantinople, should terminate the decline and fall of the Roman empire in the East. The despots of the Mores, Demetrius and Thomas, the two surviving brothers of the name of Palwologus, > * Camonda (p. 101-105) igents on the imaginous consent of the Torkish historiems, amount as well as modern, and argues, that they would not have violated the truth to diminish their motional glary, since it is extremed more humourable to take a city by force than by composition. But, I. I doubt this consent, since he quotes no particular historian, and the Turkish annuls of Lenoclavius affirm, wiffis out exerction, that Mahomet took Constantinople per new (p. 329), y. The same argument may be mirrord in favour of the Greeke of the times, who would not have forgotten this bonourable and substruct terry. Volinire, as usual, profice the Turks to the christians.

> A For the generalogy and full of the Comment of Techteond are Du. range (Fami Byzner, p. 193); for the lim Palmotogi, the same strue suic antiquestion (p. 244, 247, 348). The Palmongs of Muntiberral were not extinct till the next contary a for they and forgotten their Greek orlicit and kindred.

f. In the worthing story of the Supplies and misfortance of the two lanthers, Phyanca (t. iii, c. 21-30) is too partial on the side of Those . man; Durus (c. 44, 65) is too bring, and Chalcocondylms (L. vill. iv. a) too diffuse and digressive.

were astonished by the death of the emperor Con- CHAR. stantine, and the ruin of the monarchy. Hopeless LXVIII. of defence, they prepared, with the noble Greeks who adhered to their fortune, to seek a refuge in Italy, beyond the reach of the Ottoman thunder. Their first apprehensions were dispelled by the victorious sultan, who contented himself with a tribute of twelve thousand ducats; and while his ambition explored the continent and the islands in search of prey, he indulged the Morea in a respite of seven years. But this respite was a period of grief, discord, and misery. The hexamilion, the rampart of the isthmus, so often raised and so often subverted, could not long be defended by three hundred Italian archers; the keys of Corinth were seized by the Turks; they returned from their summer excursions with a train of captives and spoil; and the complaints of the injured Greeks were heard with indifference and disdain. The Albanians, a vagrant tribe of shepherds and robbers, filled the peninsula with rapine and murder; the two despots implored the dangerous and humiliating aid of a neighbouring bushaw; and when he had queffed the revolt, his lessons inculcated the rule of their future conduct. Neither the ties of blood, nor the onths which they repeatedly pledged in the communion and before the altar, nor the stronger pressure of necessity, could reconcile or suspend their domestic quarrels. They ravaged each other's patrimony with fire and sword: the alms and succours of the West were consumed in civil hostility; and their power was only exerted in savage and arhitrary execu-

CHAP, tions. The distress and revenge of the weaker rival invoked their supreme lord; and, in the I am of the season of maturity and revenge, Mahomet declarto a 1460 ed himself the friend of Demetrius, and marched into the Morea with an irresistible force. When he had taken possession of Sparta, " You are too " weak," said the sultan, " to control this tur-" hulent province: I will take your daughter to " my bed; and you shall pass the remainder of " your life in security and honour." Demetrius sighed and obeyed; surrendered his daughter and his castles; followed to Adrianople his sovereign and son; and received for his own maintenance, and that of his followers, a city in Thrace, and the adjacent isles of Imbros, Lemnos, and Samothrace. He was joined the next year by a companion of misfortune, the last of the Comnenian race, who, after the taking of Constantinople by the Latins, had founded a new empire on the coast of the Black sen.' In the progress of his Anatolian conquests, Mahomet invested with a fleet and army the capital of David, who presumed to style himself emperor of Trebizond ? and the negociation was comprised in a short and peremptory question, "Will you secure your life ^{*} See the line or conquest of Trebigued in Chalcocombins (blix, p. 263-260), Danes (c. 45), Pirranes G. in, r. 27), and Captende (p. 107).

* Though Tournstore (c. 45)

^{*} Though Tournefort (time til, better vell, p. 110) speaks of Tralettered as and people's. Paymont, the latest and steet securate observer, can find 100,000 telephinate (Communes de la Mer Noire, tom. (I. p. 72, and for the province, p. 33-50). Its prespectity and trade are perpetically disturbed by the factions quartels of two effect of junisative, is one of which 30,000 hard are remainedly enrolled (Memoures de Tou, tom, iii, p. 16, 17).

" and treasures by resigning your kingdom? or CHAP.
" lind you rather forfest your kingdom, your LXVIII.

" treasures, and your life?" The feeble Comneous was subdued by his own fears, and the example of a mussulman neighbour, the prince of Sinope;" who, on a similar aummons, had yielded a fortified city with four hundred cannon and ten or twelve thousand soldiers. The capi. or Transtulation of Trebizond was faithfully performed ; La. 1461. and the emperor, with his family, was transported to a eastle in Romania; but on a slight suspicion. of corresponding with the Persian king, David, and the whole Commenian race, were sacrificed to the joalousy or avarice of the conqueror. Nor could the name of father long protect the unfortunate Demetrius from exile and confiscation; his abject submission moved the pity and contempt of the sultan; his followers were transplanted to Constantinople; and his poverty was alleviated by a pension of fifty thousand aspers, till a monastic habit and a tardy death released Palaeologus from an earthly master. It is not easy to pronounce whether the servitude of Demetrius, or the exile of his brother Thomas," be the most inglorious. On the conquest of the ^{*} Januar Reg. prince of Simps or Simple, was possessed (chindly from his supper mines) of the reservoir of 200,000 durants (Chales rol. Lix, p. 258, 259). Psystems (Commorce de la Mor Noire, tont. II, p. 100) secribes to the modern sity 60,000 inhabitants. This account secrits soormous; yet it is by trading with a people that we become acquainted with their wealth and numbers.

^{*} Spondarus (from Gobelia Comment. Pil et. 1. v) relates the arrived and recoptum of the despot Thomas at Rome (s. n. 1461, No. 2.

LXVIII.

Morea, the despot escaped to Corfu, and from thence to Italy, with some naked adherents : his name, his sufferings, and the head of the apostle St. Andrew, entitled him to the hospitality of the Vatican; and his misery was prolonged by a pension of six thousand ducats from the pope and cardinals. His two sons, Andrew and Manucl, were educated in Italy; but the eldest, contemptible to his enemies and burthensome to his friends, was degraded by the baseness of his life and marriage. A title was his sole inheritance; and that inheritance he successively sold to the kings of France and Arragon." During this transient prosperity. Charles the eighth was ambitions of joining the empire of the East with the kingdom of Naples; in a public festival, he assumed the appellation and the purple of Augustus: the Greeks rejoiced, and the Ottoman already trembled at the approach of the French chivalry.* Manuel Palæologus, the second son, was tempted to revisit his native country; his return might be grateful, and could not be dongerous, to the porte : he was maintained at Con-

^{2.} By an act, dated at to 1400, kept, 6, and lately transmitted from the medices of the Capitol to the soyal library of Paris, the despet Ambrew Palacologue, receiving the Moren, and adjustating some private allegating, covery the Charles vin., Aing of France, the employed Capitantangue, covery the Charles vin., Aing of France, the employed Capitantangue, and Technique of Capitantangue, and 1495, No. 2).
31. Or Francemagne (Mont. or Parademie first Inscriptions, them aris, p. 338-378) has bestewed a Discription on this national tide, of which he had obtained a copy from Rome.

See Philippe do Comitors di, vii, e. 14, who reckens with pleasure the number of Gracks who ware prepared to rice, 60 miles of as gave navigation, eightness days jumpey from Valona to Constantionale, &c. On this occasion the Turkish empire was saved by the policy of Venico.

stantinople in safety and case; and an honour-charable train of christians and Moslems attended Lavin. him to the grave. If there he some animals of so generous a nature that they refuse to propagate in a domestic state, the last of the imperial race must be ascribed to an inferior kind; he accepted from the sultan's liberality two beautiful females; and his surviving son was lost in the habit and religion of a Turkish slave.

The importance of Constantinople was felt and Goof and magnified in its loss: the pontificate of Nicholas Kurope, the fifth, however peaceful and prosperous, was * a. 1123. dishonoured by the full of the Eastern empire; and the grief and terror of the Latins revived. or seemed to revive, the old enthusiasm of the crusades. In one of the most distant countries of the West, Philip duke of Burgundy entertained, at Lisle in Flunders, an assembly of his nobles; and the pointous pageants of the feast were skilfully adapted to their fancy and feelings." In the midst of the banquet, a gigantic Saracen entered the half, leading a fictitious elephant, with a castle on his back; a matron in a mourning robe, the symbol of religion, was seen to issue from the castle; she deplored her oppression, and accused the slowness of her champions; the principal herald of the golden fleece advanced, hear-

^{*} See the original feast in Oliver de la Marcha (Memoirra, p. i., c. 29, 20), with the abstract and observations of M. de See. Palaye (Manusces per la Cherolerie, tom. i., p. iii, p. 182-183). The peacook and the phemont were distinguished as royal linds.

LXVIII

CHAP. ing on his fist a live phensant, which, according to the rites of chivalry, he presented to the duke. At this extraordinary summons, Phillip, a wise and aged prince, engaged his person and powers in the holy war against the Turks: his example was imitated by the barons and knights of the assembly; they swore to God, the virgin, the ladies, and the pheasant; and their particular vows were not less extravagant than the general sanction of their onth. But the performance was made to depend on some future and foreign contingency; and, during twelve years, till the last hour of his life, the duke of Burgundy might be scrupulously, and perhaps sincerely, on the eve of his departure. Had every breast glowed with the same ardour; had the union of the christians corresponded with their bravery; had every country, from Sweden' to Naples, supplied a just proportion of cavalry and infantry, of men and money, it is indeed probable that Constantinople would have been delivered, and that the Turks might have been chased beyond the Hellespont or the Euphrates. But the secretary of the emperor, who composed every epistle, and attended every meeting, Æneus Sylvius, a statesman and orator, describes from his own experience the re- CHAR. pugnant state and spirit of Christendom. "It is a LXVIII. " body," says he, " without an head; a republic " without laws or magistrates. The pope and the " emperor may shine as lofty titles, as splendid " images; but they are unable to command, and a none are willing to obey; every state has a se-" parate prince, and every prince has a separate " interest. What eloquence could unite so many " discordant and hostile powers under the same " standard? Could they be assembled in arms, " who would dare to assume the office of gea neral? What order could be maintained?what military discipline? Who would undere take to feed such an enormous multitude? " Who would understand their various languages, " or direct their stranger and incompatible manm ners? What mortal could reconcile the Eng-" lish with the French, Genoa with Arragon, " the Germans with the natives of Hungary and "Bohemia? If a small number enlisted in the " holy war, they must be overthrown by the infi-" dels; if many, by their own weight and con-" flosion." Yet the same Eness, when he was raised to the papal throne, under the name of Pius the second, devoted his life to the prosecution of the Turkish war. In the council of Mantua he excited some sparks of a false or feeble enthusiasm; but when the pontiff appeared at Ancona, to embark in person with the troops, engagements vanished in excuses; a preCHAP cise day was adjourned to an indefinite term; and his effective army consisted of some German pilgrims, whom he was obliged to disband with indulgences and alms. Regardless of futurity, his successors and the powers of Italy were involved in the schemes of present and demestic ambition; and the distance or proximity of each object determined, in their eyes, its appurcut magnitude. A more enlarged view of their interest would have taught them to maintain a defensive and naval war against the common enemy: and the support of Scanderbeg and his brave Albanians might have prevented the subsequent invasion of the kingdom of Naples. The siege and sack of Otranto by the Turks diffused a general consternation; and pope Sixtus was preparing to fly beyond the Alps, when the storm was instantly dispelled by the death of Mahomet the second, in the fifty-first year of a. a. 1481, his age.4 His lofty genius aspired to the conquest of Italy: he was possessed of a strong city and a capacious barbour; and the same

^{*} It was found by an actual unumeration, that Sweden, Gothland, and Finland, contained 1,800,000 figuring man, and amarquently were far more populate than at present.

^{*} In the year 1854 Spontinum has given, from Siness Sylvino, a. view of the state of Karope, unrithed with his own electrations. That calcubic muratire, and the Italian Manetori, will continue the series of events from the year 1453 to 1461, the and of Mahomas's life, and of this chapter.

Death of Mahomet May 3, or July 2.

> * Besides the two annalists, the reader may consult Giannone (Isforts Civile, tom. Ill., p. 449-455) for the Turkish invasion of the kingdom of Naples. For the reign and conquests of Mahomet in, I have excadenally used the Memnire Leuriche de Mouarchi Ottumennd di Giovanni Sogrado (Venezia, 1677, in 460). In peace and war, the Turks have ever engagest the attention of the republic of Venice-All her dispetities and erchives were open to a procurator of St. a Mark, and Sagredo is not enmamptible alther in sense or atyle. Yet he too litterly haves the indicate t he is ignorant of their language and minimum; and his narrative, which allows only seventy pages to Mitbomet it (p. 60- 40), becomes more copletts and authoritie as he apfor the the years 1840 and 1644, the term of the historic labours of John Sagredo.

reign might have been decorated with the tro- CHAP. phies of the New and the Ancient Rome."

" As I um now taking an everlaiting farewell of the Greek empire. I shall briefly mention the great collection of Byzantine writers, whose matter and textinences have been successively reported in this work. The Greak presses of Aldus and the Italians were confined to the classics of a better age; and the next risks editions of Procuping, Acathian, Cedrumus, Zonarov, &c. were published by the fearmed dilligener of the Germana. The whole Byzantine series (35 volumes in folio) has gradually issued a. c. 1643, &c.) from the royal press of the Louvre, with some collateral aid from Rome and Leipsic ; but the Venetian edition (s. o. 1729), though charger and more copious, binot less inferior in correctness then in magnificence to that of Paris. The merits of the French editors are various I fact the value of Anna Commens, Commune, Villabordonia, &c. is arranged by the histogrand matra of Charles do France do Cango, His applicamental works, the Greek Girmary, the Constantinopalls Chessians, the Familias Bramthur, diffure a steady light over the darkness of the Lower Empire.

CHAP, LXIX.

State of Rome from the twelfth century .- Temporal dominion of the popes .- Seditions of the city .- Political heresy of Armold of Bressin .- Restoration of the republic. The senators. - Pride of the Romans. Their ware. - They are deprized of the election and presence of the popes, who retire to Asignon .- The jubiler .- Noble families of Rome .- Fend of the Colonna und Ursini.

LXIX. ALD: 1100-1000

CHAP. In the first ages of the decline and fall of the Roman empire, our eye is invariably fixed on the State and royal city, which had given laws to the fairest revolutions portion of the globe. We contemplate her fortunes, at first with admiration, at length with pity, always with attention; and when that attention is diverted from the capitol to the provinces, they are considered as so many branches which have been successively severed from the imperial trunk. The foundation of a second Rome on the shores. of the Bosphorus has compelled the historian to follow the successors of Constantine; and our curiosity has been tempted to visit the most remote countries of Europe and Asia, to explore the causes and the authors of the long decay of the Byzantine monarchy. By the conquest of Justinian, we have been recalled to the banks of the Tyber, to the deliverance of the ancient metropolis; but that deliverance was a change, or perhaps an aggravation, of servitude. Rome had been already stripped of her trophies, her gods, CHAP. and her Cassars; nor was the Gothic dominion 1.XIX. more inglorious and oppressive than the tyranny of the Greeks. In the eighth century of the christian era, a religious quarrel, the worship of images, provoked the Romans to assert their independence: their bishop became the temporal, as well as the spiritual, father of a free people; and of the western empire, which was restored by Charlemagne, the title and image still decorate the singular constitution of modern Germany, The name of Rome must yet command our involuntary respect: the climate (whatsoever may be its influence) was no longer the same?" the purity of blood had been contaminated through a thousand channels; but the venerable aspect of her ruins, and the memory of past greatness, rekindled a spark of the national character. The darkness of the middle ages exhibits some scenes not unworthy of our notice. Nor shall I dismiss the present work till I have reviewed the state and revolutions of the Roman city, which acquiesced under the absolute dominion of the popes, about the same time that Constantinople was enslaved by the Turkish arms.

a The Abbé Dubos, who, with less genius than his enceemer Montempains, has asserted and magnified the influence of climate, objects to himself the degeneracy of the Romans and Batavians. To the first of these examples he replies, i. That the change is less real than apparent, and that the masters Romans productly conceal in themselves the virtues of their ancestors. 2. That the air, the will, and the climate, or Roma have toilfered a great and visible alteration (Refoctions our in Possis et sur in Pointure, part il, sec. 10).

CHAP-LXIX-The Fronch and German emperars of Rome, a. p. 1000-1100.

In the beginning of the twelfth century," the era of the first crusade, Rome was revered by the Latins, as the metropolis of the world, as the throne of the pope and the emperor; who, from the eternal city, derived their title, their bonours, and the right or exercise of temporal dominion. After so long an interruption, it may not be useless to repeat that the successors of Charlemagne and the Othos were chosen beyond the Rhine in a national diet; but that these princes were content with the humble names of kings of Germany and Italy, till they had passed the Alps and the Apennine, to seek their imperial crown on the banks of the Tyber.' At some distance from the city, their approach was saluted by a long procession of the clergy and people with palms and crosses; and the terrific emblems of wolves and lions, of dragons and eagles, that floated in the military hanners, represented the departed legious and cohorts of the republic. The royal oath to maintain the liberties of Rome was thrice reiterated, at the bridge, the gate, and on the stairs of the Vatican; and the distribution of a customary donative feebly imitated the magnificence of the first Casars. In the church of St. Peter, the b The reader has been so long absent from Bone, that I would advise him to recollect or review the forty-ninth chapter, in the ninth values of this history.

[&]quot;The cocounties of the German emperors at Rome, more superially in the abrevath commery, is best represented from the original monuments by Mirratori (Antiquitas, Italia, modif, Ric), sons 1, discreted, 11, p. 99, occ) and Genai (Monument, Damin, Pontin, tom II, discrete, vi., p. 261), the latter of whom I mily knew from the copious extract of Schmidt (Hist, dos Allemants, tom, III, p. 253-266).

coronation was performed by his successor; the CHAP. voice of God was confounded with that of the LXIX. people; and the public consent was declared in the acclamations of, " Long life and victory to " our lord the pope! Long life and victory to " our lord the emperor! Long life and victory " to the Roman and Teutonic armies !" The names of Casar and Augustus, the laws of Constantine and Justinian, the example of Charlemagne and Otho, established the supreme dominion of the emperors; their title and image was engraved on the papal coins;" and their jurisdiction was marked by the sword of justice, which they delivered to the prefect of the city. But every Roman prejudice was awakened by the name, the language, and the manners, of a barbarian lord. The Cassars of Saxony or Franconia were the chiefs of a feudal aristocracy; nor could they exercise the discipline of civil and military power, which alone secures the obedience of a distant people, impatient of servitude, though perhaps incapable of freedom. Once, and once only, in his life, each emperor, with an army of Teutonic vassals, descended from the Alps. 1 have described the peaceful order of his entry and coronation; but that order was commonly dis-

" Exercited Housene or Teutonico J. The latter was both seen and felt ; but the former was no more than ranged nominis number.

^{*} Morator) has given the arrive of the papel coins (Antiquitat, tennils, dos. axvii, y. 548-354). He finds only two more early than the year 800: 60y are still extent from Lee on to Lee or, with addition of the reigning emperce: none remain of Gregory vii, or Urban ii; but in those of Paschal ii, he seems to have renounced this bodge of dependence.

LXIX

CHAP. turbed by the clamour and sedition of the Romans, who encountered their sovereign as a foreign invader: his departure was always speedy, and often shameful; and, in the absence of a long reign, his authority was insulted and his name was forgotten. The progress of independence in Germany and Italy undermined the foundations of the imperial sovereignty, and the triumph of the popes was the deliverance of Rome.

Authority still that popen let Itium.

Of her two sovereigns, the emperor had precariously reigned by the right of conquest; but the authority of the papes was founded on the soft, though more solid, basis of opinion and habit, The removal of a foreign influence restored and endeared the shepherd to his flock. Instead of the arbitrary or venal nomination of a German court, the vicar of Christ was freely chosen by the college of cardinals, most of whom were either natives or inhabitants of the city. The applause of the magistrates and people confirmed his election; and the ecclesiastical power that was obeyed in Sweden and Britain had been ultimately derived from the suffrage of the Romans. same suffrage gave a prince, as well as a pontiff. to the capital. It was universally believed, that Constanting had invested the popes with a temporal dominion of Rome; and the boldest civilians, the most propliane sceptics, were satisfied with disputing the right of the emperor and the validity of his gift. The truth of the fact, the authenticity of his donation, was deeply rooted in the ignorance and tradition of four centuries; and the fabulous origin was lost in the real and permanent effects.

from sitfection t

The name of dominus or lord was inscribed on CHAP. the coin of the bishops: their title was acknowledged by acclamations and oaths of allegiance right; and with the free, or reluctant consent of the German Cassus, they had long exercised a supreme or subordinate jurisdiction over the city and patrimony of St. Peter. The reign of the nopes, which gratified the prejudices, was not incompatible with the liberties, of Rome; and a more critical enquiry would have revealed a still nobler source of their power; the gratitude of a nation, whom they had rescued from the heresy and oppression of the Greek tyrant. In an age of superstition, it should seem that the union of the royal and sacerdotal characters would mutually fortify each other; and that the keys of paradise would be the surest pledge of earthly obedience. The sunctity of the office might indeed be degraded by the personal vices of the man; but the scan-since; dals of the tenth century were obliterated by the austere and more dangerous virtues of Gregory the seventh and his successors; and in the amhitious contests which they maintained for the rights of the church, their sufferings or their success must equally tend to increase the popular veneration. They sometimes wandered in poverty and exile, the victims of persecution; and the apostolic zeal with which they offered themselves to martyrdom must engage the favour and sympathy of every catholic breast. And sometimes, thundering from the Vatican, they created, judged, and deposed the kings of the world; nor could the proudest Roman be disgraced by submitting to a CHAP, priest, whose feet were kissed, and whose stirrup was held by the successors of Charlemagne. Even the temporal interest of the city should have protected in peace and honour the residence of the popes; from whence a vain and lazy people derived the greatest part of their subsistence and riches. The fixed revenue of the popes was probably impaired; many of the old patrimonial estates, both in Italy and the provinces, had been invaded by sacrilegious hands; nor could the loss be compensated by the claim, rather than the possession, of the more ample gifts of Pepin and his descendants. But the Vatican and capitol were nourished by the incessant and encreasing swarms of pilgrims and suppliants; the pale of christianity was enlarged, and the pope and cardinals were overwhelmed by the judgment of ecclesiastical and secular causes. A new jurisprudence had established in the Latin church the right and practice of appeals of and, from the north and west, the bishops and abbots were invited or summoned to solicit, to complain, to accuse, or to justify, before the threshold of benellts:

See Ducange, Gloss, media et infime Latinitat, tem. vi. p. 364. 305. Mafe. This homnge was paid by kings to architishaps, and by vassals to their herdy (Schmidt, tom. iii, p. 262); and it was thu nicest policy of Reme to confound the marks of fillal and of feeded subjection.

[#] The appeals from all the shorthes to the Riman postiff are deplored by the zeni of St. Bernard the Considerations, h ill, torn, li, p. 431-442, edit. Mahillon, Venet, 1750) and the judgment of Plenry (Discours our l'Hist. Ecclephatique, is and ville But the mint, who believed in the false degreeals, condemns only the abuse of these appeals ; the more enlightened histories investigates the origin, and rejects the principles, of this new juristrudence, the apostles. A rare prodigy is once recorded, char. that two horses, belonging to the archbishops of LXIX. Mentz and Cologne, repassed the Alps, yet laden with gold and silver: but it was soon understood, that the success, both of the pilgrims and clients, depended much less on the justice of their cause than on the value of their offering. The wealth and piety of these strangers were ostentatiously displayed; and their expences, sacred or profane, circulated in various channels for the emolument. of the Romans.

Such powerful motives should have firmly lacoustinattached the voluntary and pious obedience of persition. the Roman people to their spiritual and temporal father. But the operation of prejudice and interest is often disturbed by the sallies of ungovernable passion. The Indian who fells the tree, that he may gather the fruit, and the Arab who plunders the caravans of commerce, are actuated by the same impulse of savage nature, which overlooks the future in the present, and relinquishes for momentary rapine the long and secure possession of the most important blessings. And it was thus that the shrine of St. Peter was profuned by the thoughtless Romans; who pillaged the offerings, and wounded the pilgrims, without always desputie.

³ Germanici - , . . summarii nen levatis sarcinis enurti nihilumians repatriant inviti. Nova res.! quando hactenus gurum Roma refudit P Et aung Rammorum consilio of sourpatum non credimos (Bernard de Consideratione, J. III, r. 3, p. 457). The first words of the passage are obscure, and probably corrupt.

Quant his serveges de la Louisiana verdeux avoir du fruit, lis coupent l'arbre me pind et cucilime le fruit. Volla le gouvernement desposique (Haprit des Loix, L v. c. 13); and possion and ignorance are

CHAP. computing the number and value of similar visits. which they prevented by their inhospitable sacrilege. Even the influence of superstition is fluctuating and precarious; and the slave, whose reason is subdued, will often be delivered by his avarice or pride. A credulous devotion for the fables and oracles of the priesthood most powerfully acts on the mind of a barbarian; yet such a mind is the least capable of preferring imagination to sense, of sacrificing to a distant motive, to an invisible, perhaps an ideal, object, the appetites and interests of the present world. In the vigour of health and youth, his practice will perpetually contradict his belief; till the pressure of age, or sickness, or calamity, awakens his terrors, and compels him to satisfy the double debt of piety and remorse. I have already observed, that the modern times of religious indifference are the most favourable to the peace and security of the clergy. Under the reign of superstition, they had much to hope from the ignorance, and much to fear from the violence, of mankind. The wealth, whose constant increase must have rendered them the sole proprietors of the earth, was alternately bestowed by the repentant father, and plundered by the rapacious son: their persons were adored or violated; and the same idol, by the hands of the same votaries, was placed on the Seditions of altar ov trampled in the dust. In the feudal system saint the of Europe, arms were the title of distinction and the measure of allegiance; and amidst their tu-Dillpod. mult, the still voice of law and reason was seldom heard or obeyed. The turbulent Romans disdained the voke, and insulted the impotence, of CHAP. their bishop; nor would his education or character allow him to exercise, with decency or effect, the power of the sword. The motives of his election and the frailties of his life were exposed to their familiar observation; and proximity must diminish the reverence, which his name and his decrees impressed on a burlarous world. This difference has not escaped the notice of our philosophic historian: "Though the " name and authority of the court of Rome were " so terrible in the remote countries of Europe, " which were sunk in profound ignorance, and " were entirely unacquainted with its churacter "and conduct, the pope was so little revered at "home, that his inveterate enemies surrounded "the gates of Rome itself, and even controlled " his government in that city; and the ambas-" sadors, who, from a distant extremity of Eu-" rope, carried to him the humble, or rather ab-" ject, submissions of the greatest potentate of " the age, found the utmost difficulty to make " their way to him, and to throw themselves at o his feet "!

In a free conversation with the rountryman Africa er, John of Sallabury accuse the avarice of the pape and cirry a Provincianum deripiumt spella, ac si thessume Crami studiumt reporters. Bed recre cum che agit altisatuma, quontam et ipal allis et sepe vilissimis hondsilice dati and in direptionem (de Nigris Caradium, I. vi. c. 21, p. 387). In the next page, he blumes the rashoom and infidelity of the Hammer, whom their bishops valuely strave to conciliate by giffe, instead of virtues. It is a pity that this miscellamous writer has not given us less inneality and erudition, and more pictures of homical and the limit.

Hume's History of England, vol. 1, p. 410. The same writer has given us, from Fits-Stephen, aningular act of cruelty perpetrated CHAR LXIX.

Sorcemma of Giri-

Since the primitive times, the wealth of the popes was exposed to envy, their power to opposition, and their persons to violence. But the long hostility of the mitre and the crown enand inflamed the passions, and inflamed the passions, of their enemies. The deadly factions of the Guelphs and Ghibelines, so fatal to Italy, could never be embraced with truth or constancy by the Romans, the subjects and adversaries both of the bishop and emperor; but their support was solicited by both parties; and they alternately displayed in their banners the keys of St. Peter and the German eagle. Gregory the seventh, who may be adored or detested as the founder of the papal monarchy, was driven from Rome, and died in exile at Salerno. Six-andthirty of his successors," till their retreat to Avignon, maintained an unequal contest with the Romans: their age and dignity were often vialated; and the churches, in the solemn rites of religion, were polluted with sedition and murder. A repetition" of such capricious brutality, with-on the clergy by Geoffrey, the father of Henry II. " When he was " master of Normandy, the chapter of Seca presumed, without his er commut, to proceed to the election of a bishop a upon which he orwe don't all of them, with the to-bop ciect, to be enstroyed, and made " all their testicles be brought him in a platter," Of the pain and stanger they shight justily emophality yet, albeit they buil count chossity, he depoined them of a superfluore tremmer, [&]quot; From Live in and Gregory etc, an actionate and emitemporary series of the freezer the paper by the confirm of Arragon, Pandidpleas Pleasure, Bernard Guido, &c. is inserted in the Italian Historiam of Muratori (tom. iti, p. 6, p. 271-683), and hat bein always be-

[&]quot; The dates of years in the margin may throughout this chapter be ambresteed as tack references to the Armals of Muritori, my ordi-VALUE out connection or design, would be tedious and CHAP.

LXIX.
disgusting; and I shall content myself with some events of the twelfth century, which represent the state of the popes and the city. On Holy Paschal II, Thursday, while Paschal officiated before the al- 1118 tar, he was interrupted by the clamours of the multitude, who imperiously demanded the confirmation of a favourite magistrate. His silence exasperated their fury; his pious refusal to mingle the affairs of earth and heaven was encountered with mennes and oaths, that he should he the cause and the witness of the public ruin. During the festival of Easter, while the hishop and the clergy, barefoot and in procession, visited the tombs of the martyrs, they were twice assaulted, at the bridge of St. Angelo, and before the capitol, with vollies of stones and darts. The houses of his adherents were levelled with the ground: Paschal escaped with difficulty and danger: he levied an army in the patrimony of St. Peter; and his last days were embittered by suffering and inflicting the calamities of civil The scenes that followed the election of Gelstimes, his successor, Gelasius the second, were still 1110. more scandalous to the church and city. Cencio Frangipani," a potent and fractious baren, burst into the assembly, furious and in arms;

tury and excellent guide. He uses, and indeed quotes, with the freedensed a master, his great Collection of the Italian Historians, in 28 volumes; and so that treasure is in my filways, I have shaught it an amuseument, if not a duty, to consult the originals.

^{• 1} consut refrais from transcribing the high-assoured words of Pandulphon Phonon (p) 384): The audiens introduce parts at one bases jent fatus Centrus Prajapane, more desconis immunicaria sibilant, et ab inte perturbus trained langue suspiris, actions retro

CHAP, the cardinals were stripped, beaten, and trampled under foot; and he seized, without nity or respect, the vicar of Christ by the throat. Gelasius was dragged by his hair along the ground, buffeted with blows, wounded with sours, and bound with an iron chain in the house of his brutal tyrant. An insurrection of the people delivered their bishop; the rival families opposed the violence of the Frangipani; and Cencio. who sued for pardon, repented of the failure, rather than of the guilt, of his enterprise. Not many days had elapsed, when the pope was again assaulted at the altar. While his friends and enemies were engaged in a bloody contest, he escaped in his sacerdotal gurments. In this unworthy flight, which excited the compassion of the Roman matrons, his attendants were scattered or unborsed; and, in the fields benind the church of St. Peter, his successor was found alone and half-dead with fear and fatigue .-Shaking the dust from his feet, the apoule withdrew from a city in which his dignity was insulted and his person was endangered; and the vanity of sacerdotal ambition is revealed in the involuntary confession, that one emperor was more tolerable than twenty.9 These > gladio sine mure current, valvas de form confergit. Ecclesium furibundas introlit, inde contade remoto papara per guiam accepit, effe. traxit, pagnis sulciforeque perconale, et tanquem brutum enland intra limen peciesta permer calcaribus praemavit ; et latro tentum dominum per capillos et brachia. Josh bians interior dormiente, derraxis ad dismum, negos deducit, infla entenault et inchisit.

Figureman Devict ecclesia dico, si maguam possibile coset, malitern unum Imperatorem quam tot dominus (Vit. Gelta. u. p. 1983).

examples might suffice; but I cannot forget the CHAP, sufferings of two pontiffs of the same age, the second and third of the name of Lucius. The Lucius n. former, as he ascended in battle-array to assault 1144the capital, was struck on the temple by a stone, and expired in a few days. The latter was se-Locisi no. verely wounded in the persons of his servants, a w. 1181-In a civil commotion, several of his priests had been made prisoners; and the inhuman Romans, reserving one as a guide for his brethren, put out their eyes, crowned them with ludicrous mitres, mounted them on asses with their faces to the tail. and extorted an oath, that, in this wretched condition, they should offer themselves as a lesson to the head of the church. Hope or fear, lassitude or remorse, the characters of the men, and the circumstances of the times, might sometimes obtain an interval of peace and obedience; and the pope was restored with joyful acclamations to the Lateran or Vatican, from whence he had been driven with threats and violence. But the root of mischief was deep and perennial; and a momentary calm was preceded and followed by such tempests as had almost sunk the bark of St. Peter. Rome continually presented the aspect of war and discord; the churches and palaces were fortified and assaulted by the factions and families; and, after giving peace to Europe, Calistus the se-cation u. cond alone had resolution and power to pro- 1124 hibit the use of private arms in the metropolis inscents. Among the nations who revered the apostalic 11 to. throne, the tumults of Rome provoked a general indignation; and, in a letter to his disciple Eugenius the third, St. Bernard, with the sharp-

LXIX. Chyparter Impania by St. Becomed-

CHAP, ness of his wit and zeal, has stigmatised the vices of the rebellious people.9 "Who is ig-" norant," says the monk of Clairvanx, " of the er the Ros is vanity and arrogance of the Romans? a nation " nursed in sedition, cruel, untractable, and scorn-" ing to obey, unless they are too feeble to re-" sist. When they promise to serve, they aspire " to reign; if they swear allegiance, they watch " the opportunity of revolt; yet they vent their " discontent in loud clamours if your doors or " your councils are shut against them. Dextrous " in mischief, they have never learnt the science of " doing good. Odious to earth and heaven, im-" pious to God, seditious among themselves, jea-" loss of their neighbours, inhuman to strangers, " they love no one, by no one are they beloved; " and while they wish to inspire fear, they live in " hase and continual apprehension. They will " not submit; they know how to govern; faith-" less to their superiors, intolerable to their equals, " ungrateful to their benefactors, and alike im-" prudent in their demands and their refusals. " Lofty in promise, poor in execution: adulation " and calumny, perfidy, and treason, are the fami-" liar arts of their policy." Surely this dark portrait is not coloured by the pencil of christian charity;" yet the features, however harsh and [.] Quid tum notum saculis quam protessis et servicustras Reseaporum? Gem tessata part, termificii associa, gene lumitis el intractabilis isspec asilor, withit waste, mist cum non votet president (de Considerat, Liv. c. 2, p. 441). The saint takes breath, and then begins again a Hr, level terre et codo, strique injecere manus, &c., F-443).

[&]quot; As a Rouma citizen, Personel takes have to observe, that Bermand, though a suint, was a man; that he might be proveked by rerenument.

ugly, express a lively resemblance of the Romans CHAP.

Of the twelfth century."

The Jews had rejected the Christ when he ap-patteral peared among them in a plebeion character; and herey of the Romans might plead their ignorance of his Br = ia, vicar when he assumed the pomp and pride of a 1140, temporal sovereign. In the busy age of the crusades, some sparks of curiosity and reason were rekindled in the western world: the heresy of Bulgaria, the paulician sect, was successfully transplanted into the soil of Italy and France; the Gnostic visions were mingled with the simplicity of the gospel; and the enemies of the clergy reconciled their passions with their conscience, the desire of freedom with the profession of piety." The trumpet of Roman liberty was first sounded by Arnold of Brescia," whose promotion in the church was confined to the lowest rank, and who wore the monastic habit rather as a garb of poverty sentment, and possibly repent of his harry pussion, &c. (Memnion sur la Vie de Petrurque, tem. l. p. 230).

[&]quot;Barmone, in his index to the twelfth volume of his Annals, has found a file and early excess. He makes two heads, of Hemani Cotions and Schreenies. In the horner he applies all the grad, in the latter all the cvil, that is said of the cpty.

^{*} The heresins of the tredith manner may be found in Mashrom (Institut, Hist. Eccior, p. 419, 427), who emercials a favourable opinion of Arnold of Breach. In the tenth volume I have described the sert of the punisions, and followed their migration from Armonia to These and Holgaria, Iraly and France.

^{*} The original pictures of Armold of Brencia are drawn by Othe bishop of Friengen ethron, L. vis, c. 31, do gestle Frederici t., L. r. 27, L. R. c. 21), and in the third book of the Lagurance, a pour of Gamber, who Souriched a a 1700, in the monastry of Paris rear Real (Fabric, Ribbot, Latin, and, et humas directs, tors. 15, p. 174, 170). The long passage that relates to Armold by produced by Gardinan (do Reals Helivetten, L. 15, c. 0, p. 108).

LXIX.

than as an uniform of obedience. His adversaries could not deny the wit and eloquence which they severely felt: they confess with reluctance the specious purity of his morals; and his errors were recommended to the public by a mixture of important and beneficial truths. In his theological studies, he had been the disciple of the famous and unfortunate Abelard," who was likewise involved in the suspicion of heresy; but the lover of Eloisa was of a soft and flexible nature; and his ecclesiastic judges were edified and disarmed by the humility of his repentance. From this master, Arnold most probably inbibed some metaphysical definitions of the trinity, repugnant to the taste of the times: his ideas of baptism and the eucharist are loosely censured; but a political heresy was the source of his fame and misfortunes. He presumed to quote the declaration of Christ, that his kingdom is not of this world; he boldly maintained, that the sword and the sceptre were entrusted to the civil magistrate; that temporal honours and possessions were lawfully vested in secular persons; that the abbots, the bishops, and the pope himself, must renounce either their state or their salvation; and that after the loss of their revenues, the voluntary tithes and oblations of the faithful would suffice, not indeed for luxury and avarice, but for a frugal life in the exercise of spiritual labours. During a short time, the preacher was revered as a patriot; and the discou- on ar. tent, or revolt, of Brescia against her bishop was the first fruits of his dangerous lessons. But the favour of the people is less permanent than the resentment of the priest; and after the heresy of Arnold had been condemned by Innocent the second, in the general council of the Lateran, the magistrates themselves were urged by prejudice and fear to execute the sentence of the church, Italy could no longer afford a refuge, and the disciple of Abelard escaped beyond the Alps, till he found a safe and hospitable shelter in Zurich. now the first of the Swiss cantons. From a Roman station," a royal villa, a chapter of noble virgins, Zurich had gradually increased to a free and flourishing city; where the appeals of the Milanese were sometimes tried by the imperial commissaries.* In an age less ripe for reformation, the precursor of Zuinglius was heard with applause: a brave and simple people imbibed and

^{*} The wicked wit of Bayle was amused in composing, with muck levity and learning, the articles of Abeliand, Fortgues, Helsine, in his Dictionnaire Critique. The dispute of Abeliand and St. Bernard, of scholastic and positive dirinity, is well understood by Masheim Unstitut. Hist. Eccles. p. 412-415).

- Damnanir ab filo

Preside, qui nummer settlem conslagrer contrat

Nomen ab seems short Similabile with

We may applied the dealersty, and correctness of Ligarinus, who turns the unposted some of Innocessi of Into a compliment.

A Homen transporter of State Turners in the large femod at Zapsiels of Aleville, Nozice de Canataura Gente, p. 682-645; but it is without sufficient warrant, that the city and center have managed, and even successful the same of Tighton and Pages Taperious.

* Guilffinian (do Behno Haberticle, h Ht. c. 5, p. 100) compositates the domains (a. c. 533) of the suspects Lowis the pious to his staughter the abbase Histogradus. Curtim mostrom Torogram is duested Alamannia in page Dorgoogenel, with schares, woods, members, waters, staves, charches, &c. a motte gift. Charles the held gave the just maintain the city was waited under Ottos q and the limit the histogram.

Nobile Tracerous multicram copie return, is repeated with picanute by the antiquaries of Engicha

CHAP, long retained the colour of his opinions; and his art, or merit, seduced the bishop of Constance, and even the pope's legate, who forgot, for his sake, the interest of their master and their order. Their tardy zeal was quickened by the fierce exhortations of St. Bernard;" and the enemy of the church was driven, by persecution, to the desperate measure of erecting his standard in Rome itself, in the face of the successor of St. Peter.

He esheds Yet the courage of Arnold was not devoid of the Romani discretion: he was protected, and had perhaps to restore the repuls been invited, by the nobles and people; and in a, a 1144-the service of freedom, his eloquence thundered over the seven hills. Blending in the same dis-1154 course the texts of Livy and St. Paul, uniting the motives of grapel, and of classic, enthusiasm, he admonished the Romans, how strangely their patience and the vices of the clergy had degenerated from the primitive times of the church and the

> D. Barnard, openial care, excess, turn i, p. 181-100. Apolic his investives he drops a precious schemiotyment, ord, at the sequine none send detries queen dutriette est vira. He were that Armoid would be a valuable acquosition for the charely> city. He exharted them to assert the inalienable rights of men and christians; to restore the laws and magistrates of the republic; to respect the name of the emperor; but to confine their shepherd to the spiritual government of his flock." Nor could his spiritual government escape the

" He advised the Komane,

Constilis armitigue visi scoderzinios automa Arbitro unitare sur a pil jura as bie re Portified stammer, medicans according regi-Sandelist popula. Se last stuling strique Majestate, tenne coming se secret mile.

Nor is the pourty of Gunther different from the prope of Othos censure and controul of the reformer; and the in- CHAP. ferior clergy were taught, by his lessons, to resist LXIX. the cardinals, who had usurped a despotic command over the twenty-eight regions or parishes of Rome,a The revolution was not accomplished without rapine and violence, the effusion of blood. and the demolition of houses; the victorious faction was enriched with the spoils of the clergy and the adverse nobles. Arnold of Brescia enjoyed. or deplored, the effects of his mission: his reign continued above ten years, while two popes, Innocent the second and Amstroius the fourth, either trembled in the Vatican, or wandered as exiles in the adjacent cities. They were succeeded by a more vigorous and fortunate pontiff, Adrian the fourth," the only Englishman who has ascended the throne of St. Peter; and whose merit emerged from the mean condition of a monk. and almost a beggar, in the monastery of St. Albans. On the first provocation, of a cardinal killed or wounded in the streets, he cast an interdict on the guilty people; and, from Christmas to Easter, Rome was deprived of the real or imaginary comforts of religious worship. The Romans had despised their temporal prince: they submitted, with grief and terror, to the censures of their spiritual father; their guilt was expiated by penance, and the banishment of the * Son Barmina (a. v. 1148, No. 38, 36) from the Vatient wes. He landly condemns Arnold (s. v. 1141, No. 3) as the father of the political herotics, whose influence they hart him in France.

^{*} The English render may consult the Ill graphia Britannica, Advise is; but our own writers have added nothing to the fame or secrets of their countrymum.

LIXIX

seditions preacher was the price of their absolution. But the revenge of Adrian was yet unsatisfied, and the approaching coronation of Frederic Barbarossn was fatal to the bold reformer, who had offended, though not in an equal degree, the heads of the church and state. In their interview at Viterbo, the pope represented to the emperor the forious ungovernable spirit of the Romans; the insults, the injuries, the fears, to which his person and his clergy were continually exposed; and the pernicious tendency of the heresy of Arnold, which must subvert the principles of civil, as well us ecclesiastical, subordination. Frederic was convinced by these arguments, or tempted by the desire of the imperial crown; in the balance of ambition, the innocence or life of an individual is of small account; and their common enemy was sacrificed to a moment of political concord. After his retreet from Rome, Arnold had been protected by the viscounts of Campania, from whom he was extorted by the power of Carsar; the prefect of the city pronounced his sentence; the martyr

The chergy triumphed in his death; with his ashes, his sect was despersed; his memory still lived in the minds of the Romans. From his school they had probably derived a new article of ^{*} Besides the historian and poer sirendy quoted, the last adventures of Armoid are collect by the historian of Adrian ar. (Marstori, acript. Barum Dal. mm. id., p. 1, p. 441, 442).

faith, that the metropolis of the catholic church charis exempt from the penalties of excommunication and interdict. Their bishops might argue, that the supreme jurisdiction, which they exercised over kings and nations, more especially embraced the city and diocese of the prince of the apostles.
But they preached to the winds, and the same principle that weakened the effect, must temper the abuse, of the thunders of the Vatican.

The love of ancient freedom has encouraged a Ramosbelief, that as early as the tenth century, in their mate, first struggles against the Saxon Othes, the commonwealth was vindicated and restored by the semate and people of Rome; that two consuls were annually elected among the nobles, and that ten or twelve plebeian magistrates revived the name and office of the tribunes of the commons. But this venerable structure disappears before the light of criticism. In the darkness of the middle ages, the appellations of senators, of consuls, of the sons of consula, may sometimes be discovered.

^{*} Demogrations, Litheliatic making et indices, distile, Democlasier, tom. it, p. 720) gives on a quantum from Blooker (devad. it, it is Dun consults or reddition significants scients, qui all terminists considers exemple Argume forms processed. And a Segment the Regne Haller, is the sum town it, p. 100) I result of the control and tributes of the tenist contary. Been Bloodies, and seen Segments, too freely copied the alease method of supplying, from tensor or fancy, the deficiency of moordis.

[&]quot;In the panegyme of Bernagerius (Maratori, Script, Ret. Ital, near, it, p. 409) a Research is mouthwed as according some in the beginning of the tenth country. Maratori is learn by discovers, is the search BAV and BAS, Gerslemes in Det maneur country data. Georgical country and that in 101A, Bernaims, hinther of Gregory out, promity, but requiry, etiles himself country data at annalum Reconstruction sensites.

LXIX

They were bestowed by the emperors, or assumed by the most powerful citizens, to denote their rank, their honours, and perhaps the claim of a pure and patrician descent; but they float on the surface, without a series or a substance; the titles of men, not the orders of government; and it is only from the year of Christ one thousand one hundred and forty-four, that the establishment of the senate is dated, as a glorious era, in the acts of the city. A new constitution was hastily framed by private ambition, or popular enthusiasm; nor could Rome, in the twelfth century, produce an antiquary to explain, or a legislator to restore, the harmony and proportions of the ancient model. The assembly of a free, of an armed, people will ever speak in loud and weighty acclamations. But the regular distribution of the thirty-five tribes, the nice balance of the wealth and numbers of the centuries, the debates of the adverse orators, and the slow operation of votes and ballots, could not easily be adapted by a blind

As lite as the tenth century, the Greek emperors confurred on the dukes of Venice, Naples, Amniphi, &c. the title of Jenner, or control (see Chron. Segoraini, pussion); and the encourses of Charlemagne would not abolicate any of their proregative. But, in general, the tenus of sessed and sension, which may be found soming the Fernick and Germana, signify no more than count and look (Niguese, Durange, Glamers, 'The resultable waters are after ambilious of fine Count worth.

^{*} The most constitutional form is a diplome of Otbo in (a. a. 998), Consulting sensition population Remain ; but the art - in facility spurious. At the constitution of Henry 1, a. a. 1014, the house Dithmer topod Marators, discorts with describes bits, a sensition of discorts with a sensition of the design valiations, quarum sensition in the discorts with the property of Bernagarius (p. 406).

uniltitude, ignorant of the arts, and insensible of CHAP. the benefits, of legal government. It was proposed by Arnold to revive and discriminate the "" equestrian order; but what could be the motive or measure of such distinction? The pecuniary qualification of the knights must have been redured to the poverty of the times: those times no longer required their civil functions of judges and farmers of the revenue; and their primitive duty, their military service on horseback, was more nobly supplied by feudal tenures and the spirit of chivalry. The jurisprudence of the republic was useless and unknown; the nations and families of Italy who fived under the Roman and barbaric laws were insensibly mingled in a common muss; and some faint tradition, some imperfect fragments, preserved the memory of the code and pandects of Justinian. With their liberty the Romans might doubtless have restored the appellation and office of consuls; had they not disdained a title so promiscuously adopted in the Italian cities, that it has finally settled on the humble station of the agents of commerce in a foreign land. But the rights of the tribunes, the formidable word that arrested the public counsels, suppose or must produce a legitimate democracy. The old patricians were the subjects, the modern barons the tyrants, of the state: nor would the enemies of peace and order, [&]quot;In accions flome, the equations order was not ranked with the senate and people as a third branch of the reputate till the remutatoly of Clores, who essents the merit of the establishment (Phys. Rest, Natur. extill, L. Remifort Republique Hernales, tem to p. 144-155.

CHAP, who insulted the vicar of Christ, have long re-EXIX. spected the unarmed sanctity of a plebeian magistrate,"

The Capitol.

In the revolution of the twelfth century, which gave a new existence and era to Rome, we may observe the real and important events that marked or confirmed her political independence. 1. The Capitoline hill, one of her seven eminences," is about four hundred yards in length, and two hundred in breadth. A flight of an hundred steps led to the summit of the Tarpeian rock; and far steeper was the ascent before the declivities had been smoothed, and the precipices filled by the ruins of fallen edifices. From the earliest ages, the Capital had been used as a temple in peace, a fortress in war; after the loss of the city, it maintained a siege against the victorious Gaul, and the sanctuary of empire was occupied, assaulted, and burnt, in the civil wars of Vitellius and Vespasium. The temples of Ju-

" The regulations plan of Armid of Birecia is thus stated by Gunther:

Quin stiam titulio prhia renovare vetinitor ; Numine plable securiors numin squartre, Jura tribunorum, muctum reparare senatum, Et emile transcrimitaque reponeze legres. Lapse subnece, et other pendentia surre Renders promuve Capitolia prises nitori.

But of these reformations, some were no more than ideas, others na priore them words.

* Turit, Hist, III, 69, 70.

[.] After many disputes among the antiquaries of Riene, it seems determined, that the summit of the Capitolius buil next the river is strictly the Mone Tarpoun, the Arx; and that outlier other summit, the church and convent of Atricell, the barefast friend of St. Prancis. eccupy the remple of Jupiter (Nardini, Roma Autica, J. v. c. 11-16)- piter and his kindred deities had crambled into cuar. dust; their place was supplied by monasteries and houses; and the solid walls, the long and sheleing porticoes, were decayed or ruined by the lapse of time. It was the first not of the Romans, an act of freedom, to restore the strength, though not the beauty, of the capital; to fertify the sent of their arms and counsels; and as often as they ascended the hill, the coldest minds must have glowed with the remembrance of their ancestors. II. The first Casars and been invested with the The cole. exclusive coinage of the rold and silver; to the senate they abandoned the haser metal of bronze or copper." The emblems and legends were inscribed on a more ample field by the genius of flattery; and the prince was relieved from the care of celebrating his own virtues. The successors of Diocletian despised even the flattery of the senate: their royal officers at Rome, and in the provinces, assumed the sole direction of the mint; and the same prerogative was inherited by the Gothic kings of Italy, and the long series of the Greek, the French, and the German dynasties. After an abdication of eight hundred years, the Roman senate asserted this honourable and lucrative privilege; which was tacitly renounced by the popes, from Paschal the second to the establishment of their residence beyond the Alps.

LAIX

e This partition of the noble and have metric interest the emperor. and senate spirat however be adopted, not as a positive fact; has as the probable opinion of the best antiquories (our the science des Medallice of the Pere Joubert, sum, it, p. 208-211, in the improved and morror scitton of the Baron de la Burtle).

GHAP. LXIX.

Some of these republican coins of the twelfth and thirteenth centuries are shewn in the calinets of the curious. On one of these, a gold medal, Christ is depictured holding in his left hand a book with this inscription : " THE YOW OF THE " ROMAN SENATE AND PEOPLE : ROME THE " CAPITAL OF THE WORLD!" on the reverse, St. Peter delivering a banner to a kneeling senator in his cap and gown, with the name and arms The protect of his family impressed on his shield.4 With of the city, the empire, the prefect of the city had declined to a municipal officer; yet be still exercised in his last appeal the civil and criminal jurisdiction; and a drawn sword, which he received from the successors of Otho, was the mode of his investiture and the emblems of his functions.' The dignity was confined to the noble families of Rome : the choice of the people was ratified by the pope; but a triple outh of fidelity must have often embarrassed the prefect in the conflict of adverse

To his twenty-accept discreption on the Antophres of Italy ctors. II, p. 559-5694, Minrature withdists a sector of the accounting coins, which here the abovers names of effectivit, reflectivity previsist, papered. During this period all the paper, without exception Bentlace cur, elicialized from the right of coloning, which was resonred by his mecessor Hamdier et, and regularly exercised in the court of Avignos-

A German histories, Great of Halencrypuz tin Salus. Miscelli. tom v. p. 64, april Schmitt, (Eut. des Allemands, 1981, 18, p. 263), thus describe the constitution of Rome in the eleventh century of Grandied uchia et achia tegrita specient 42 Hamanum pentidenti itumque ad Romenom imperatorent; sixt attas elegatum urbis profertiers, un de seu dignitate respect utramagne, videliest dominant papers cal fact hominum, of dominum superstrain a year accost sum petertutis inalgue, schiert giadium exertum.

duties,' A servant, in whom they possessed but a CHAP. third share, was dismissed by the independent Romans; in his place they elected a patrician; but this title, which Charlemagne had not disdained, was too lofty for a citizen or a subject; and, after the first fervour of rebellion, they consented without reloctance to the restoration of the prefect. About fifty years after this event, Innocent the 1.0. 1196third, the most ambitious, or at least the most fortunate, of the pontiffs, delivered the Romans and himself from this budge of foreign dominion; he invested the prefect with a banner instead of a sword, and absolved him from all dependence of onths or service to the German emperors,1 In his place an ecclesiastic, a present or future cardinal, was named by the pope to the civil government of Rome; but his jurisdiction has been reduced to a narrow compass; and in the days of freedom; the right or exercise was derived from the senate and people. IV. After the revival of Number the senate," the conscript fathers (if I may use of the mthe expression) were invested with the legislative "aleand executive power; but their views seldom [&]quot; See Otho Frising, Chron. vii, 31, do Guit. Frederic s, b i, c. 27.

^{*}The world of a contemporary writer (Pandolph, Plesa, in Vir. Paurital it, p. 137, 310) describe the election and onto of the perfect in 1118, incomplify patribus . . . loca proceededs. . . . Lander prosectorias - - - - commitorum applanesm - - - paraturnum paquile in umbinning sublevant confirming our in code predection peting.

^{*} Ushia presection ad ligium fidellistem rerupit, et per marriere quad dif donavit de prinfectură com publice inventivit, qui mapur aff ld fampins jurgments fideliteria imperatura fuit abligarus en als en prafectures tomoit limitorem (Goste Junecent mi, be Muramel, tune fil, per 14 per 487.3

LXIX.

CHAP, reached beyond the present day; and that day was most frequently disturbed by violence and tumult. In its utmost plenitude, the order or assembly consisted of fifty-six senators,2 the most eminent of whom were distinguished by the title of counsellors: they were nominated, perhaps annually, by the people; and a previous choice of their electors, ten persons in each region, or parish, might afford a basis for a free and permanent constitution. The popes, who in this tempest submitted rather to bend than to break, confirmed, by treaty, the establishment and privileges of the senate, and expected from time, peace, and religion, the restoration of their government. The motives of public and private interest might sometimes draw from the Romans an occasional and temperary sacrifice of their claims; and they renewed their oath of allegiance to the successor of St. Peter and Constantine, the lawful head of the church and the republic.3

^{*} Our country man, Roger Hovedon, speaks of the sleight mentors, of the Capson family, &c. quorum temporibus manus regelemer Rome quam cour (s. v. 1194) est remporthus (vi sengueum (Duranes, Glass, tom, vi. p. 191, Scantorer).

J Maratari (dissert alic, tom. ill, p. 785-788) has published an erighted treaty i Concernia inter D- nostrum papara Chementem inet musteres popule florensi super regulifica et allie signitatibus urbes, All aunn 140 semula. The wests speaks, and speaks with mitherity : Boiliness ad posterio babelinus dabitis prosbyteria juralistus paems et fidelitatem, &c. A churufa de Tepresently Townsell, denil in the feetp-accently year of the same era, and construct decreta amplissimi ordinis senatiis, acciamatione P. R. public. Capitalia amaistratis. It is there we find the difference of senatures consiliarii and simple sonutura (Shuratori, dissert, alli, tom, ili, ps. 不禁了一个担心。

The union and vigour of a public council was CHAR dissolved in a lawless city; and the Romans soon IXIX. adopted a more strong and simple mode of admi-The office nistration. They condensed the name and an. of smally. thority of the senate in a single magistrate, or two colleagues; and, as they were changed at the end of a year, or of six months, the greatness of the trust was compensated by the shortness of the term. But in this transient reign, the senators of Rome indulged their avarice and ambition; their justice was perverted by the interest of their family and faction; and as they punished only their enemies, they were obeyed only by their adherents. Anarchy, no longer tempered by the pastoral care of their bishop, admonished the Romans that they were incapable of governing themselves; and they sought abroad these blessings which they were hopeless of finding at home. In the same age, and from the same motives, most of the Italian republies were prompted to embrace a measure, which, however strange it may seem, was adapted to their situation, and productive of the most salutary effects." They chose, in some foreign but friendly city, an impartial magistrate of noble birth and unblemished character, a soldier and a statesmun, recommended by the voice of fame and his country, to whom they delegated, for a time, the supreme administration of peace and war. The compact ^{*} Simulat (dissert, alv., tem. iv., p. 65-57) has tully explained this mode of government; and the Ocular Parameter, which he has given as the end, is a treatise or arrived on the distinct of these foreign magnerates.

CHAP. between the governor and the governed was sealed with oaths and subscriptions; and the duration of his power, the measure of his stipend, the nature of their mutual obligations, were defined with scrupulous precision. They swore to obey him as their lawful superior; he pledged his faith to unite the indifference of a stranger with the zeal of a patriot. At his choice, four or six knights and civilians, his assessors in arms and justice, attended the podesta, who maintained, at his own expence, a decent retinue of servants and horses; his wife, his son, his brother, who might bias the affections of the judge, were left behind; during the exercise of his office, he was not permitted to purchase land, to contract an alliance, or even to accept an invitation in the house of a citizen; nor could be honourably depart till be had satisfied the complaints that might be urged against his government,

Houses. SHIERRA $256.

It was thus, about the middle of the thirteenth A 0 1757 century, that the Romans called from Bologna the senator Brancalcone,* whose fame and merit. have been rescued from oblivion by the pen of an English historian. A just anxiety for his reputation, a clear foresight of the difficulties of the [&]quot; In the Latin writers, at least of the silver age, the title of goterms was transferred from the office to the magnitude.

Harries quil tratition printabilité sumées marie :

An Pidenter Collections on parties.

Quivernit, Satis, z. 201.

b See the life and south of Brancalcone, in the Historia Major of Matthew Parts, p. 741, 757, 792, 707, 209, 510, 823, 833, 836. $40. The multimate of principle and suiters contented Rome and St.Amen's ; and the resentament of the English electry principled than to relate whenever the poper were humbled and opproved.

task, had engaged him to refuse the honour of CHAP. their choice; the statutes of Rome were suspended, and his office prolonged to the term of three years. By the guilty and licentious hewas necessed as cruel; by the clergy he was suspected as partial; but the friends of peace and order applauded the firm and upright magistrate by whom those blessings were restored; no criminals were so powerful as to brave, so obscure as to clude, the justice of the senator. By his sentence, two nobles of the Annibaldi family were executed on a gibbet ; and he inexerably demolished, in the city and neighbourhood, one hundred and forty towers, the strong shelters of rapine and mischief. The hishop, as a simple hishon, was compelled to reside in his diocese; and the standard of Brancalcone was displayed in the field with terror and effect. His services were repaid by the ingratitude of a people unworthy of the happiness which they enjoyed. By the public robbers, whom he had provoked for their sake, the Romans were excited to depose and imprison their benefactor; nor would his life have been spared, if Bologan had not possessed a pledge for his safety. Before his departure, the prudent senator had required the exchange of thirty hostages of the noblest families of Rome; on the news of his danger, and at the prayer of his wife, they were more strictly gnarded; and Bologna, in the cause of honour, sustained the thunders of a papal interdict. This generous resistance allowed the Romans to compare the present with the past; and Brancalcone was conducted from the prison to the capitol amidst the accia-

CHAP, mations of a repentant people. The remainder of his government was firm and fortunate; and as soon as envy was appeased by death, his head, enclosed in a precious vase, was deposited on a lofty column of murble."

Anjour. 1278.

Charles of The impotence of reason and virtue recom-2 2 1265 mended in Italy a more effectual choice; instead of a private citizen, to whom they yielded a voluntary and precarious obedience, the Romans elected for their senator some prince of independent power, who could defend them from their enemies and themselves. Charles of Anjou and Provence, the most ambitious and warlike monarch of the age, accepted at the same time the kingdom of Naples from the pope, and the office of senator from the Roman people.4 As he passed through the city, in his road to victory, he received their oath of allegiance, lodged in the Lateran palace, and smoothed in a short visit the harsh features of his despotic character. Yet even Charles was exposed to the inconstancy of the people, who saluted with the same acclarations

[.] Matthew Paris thus ends his account a Caput vern spains Branexisonia in vaso pretiono super marmoreum reliumnam collecation, in signme and valuets as problemtly, qu'à cettiquies, suppossibline binnis et pumpus sustaiseant. Facett saint superfering pasentim et ros-Infactioning while mallions of antilipators, of populi protection of defensur, contacts at justities imitator at minuter (p. 840). A hingraphor of Innounce or Chierman, berget man, but p. 1, p. 421, 522; drawes fees freezinglis perroll of this Chibelline senator.

^{*} The electron of Churles of Apleis to the affect of perpetual senster of Rome is mantioned by the hosterium to the eighth solume of the collection of Muritiant, by Shekatas de Jerreilla (c. 597), the monk of Palms (p. 725), Nicos Malargina S. S. s. 9, p. 808), and Illoors danz Malespini er. 277, p. 2991.

the passages of his rival, the unfortunate Con- CHAPradin; and a powerful avenger, who reigned in LXIX. the capitol, alarmed the fears and jealousy of the popes. The absolute term of his life was superseded by a renewal every third year; and the enmity of Nicholas the third obliged the Sicilian king to abdicate the government of Rome. In his bull, a perpetual law, the imperious pontiff asserts the truth, validity, and use, of the donation of Constantine, not less essential to the peace of the city than to the independence of the church; establishes the annual election of the senator; and formally disqualifies all emperors, kings, princes, and persons of an eminent and conspicuous rank." This prohibitory clause was Pope Marrepealed in his own behalf by Martin the fourth, to 1981. who humbly solicited the suffrage of the Romans. In the presence, and by the authority, of the people, two electors conferred, not on the pope, but on the noble and faithful Martin, the dignity of senator, and the supreme administration of the reupblic,' to hold during his natural life, and to exercise at pleasure by himself or his deputies. About fifty years afterwards, the same title was The empegranted to the emperor Lewis of Bavaria; and to Lewis the liberty of Rome was acknowledged by her of Bararia,

"I am industed to Pieury (Hist. Eccies, tons, 2311, p. 300) for an extract of that Raman act, which he has taken from the Ecclesiattical

Annals of Odericus Raynaldus, A. r. 1281, No. 14, 15.

The high-senuting built of Niebelas may which founds his temporal sovereignty on the donation of Constantine, is still extent; and as it has been inserted by Buniface vin in the Serie of the Donatalia, it must be received by the entholies, or at least by the papiets, is a seried and perpetual law.

CHAP. two sovereigns; who accepted a municipal office in the government of their own metropolis. LXIX.

Addresses of flames to the ampecors.

In the first moments of rebellion, when Arnold of Brescia had inflamed their minds against the church, the Romans artfully laboured to conciliate the favour of the empire, and to recommend their merit and services in the Course on Cause of Caesar. The style of their ambassadors to Courad the third and Frederic the first is a n. 1144. a mixture of flattery and pride, the tradition and the ignorance of their own history." After some complaint of his silence and neglect, they exhort the former of these princes to pass the Alps, and assume from their hands the imperial crown. "We beseech your majesty, not " to disdain the humility of your sons and vas-" sals, not to listen to the accusations of our " common enemies, who calumniate the senate as " hostile to your throne, who sow the seeds of " discord, that they may reap the harvest of "destruction. The pope and the Sicilian are " united in an impious league to oppose our li-" berty and your coronation. With the bless-"ing of God, our zeal and courage has hither-" to defeated their attempts. Of their power-" ful and factious adherents, more especially " the Francipani, we have taken by assault

" the houses and turrets: some of these are

f Thom bittees and speeches are preserved by Othis hithop of Frisingen (Fabric Biblion Let med at inden, test, v. p. 186, 187), perhaps the noblest of historious r he was non of Leopold marquis of America; his mother, Agnes, was daughter of the emperor Henry ye, and he was half brother and untile to Courad on, and Frederic se He has left, in seven books, a Chronicis of the Times; in two, the Gesm Frederick), the last of which is inserted in the sixth volume of Munitori's historiaus.

o occupied by our troops, and some are levelled CHAP. " with the ground. The Milvian bridge, which LXIX. "they had broken, is restored and fortified for " your safe passage; and your army may enter " the city without being annoyed from the castle " of St. Angelo. All that we have done, and all " that we design, is for your honour and service, in the loyal hope, that you will speedily appear " in person, to vindicate those rights which have " been invaded by the clergy, to revive the dig-" nity of the empire, and to surpass the fame and a glory of your predecessors. May you fix your " residence in Rome, the capital of the world : " give laws to Italy and the Teutonic kingdom; " and imitate the example of Constantine and " Justinian," who, by the vigour of the senate " and people, obtained the sceptre of the earth." But these splendid and fallacious wishes were not cherished by Conrad the Franconian, whose eyes were fixed on the Holy land, and who died without visiting Rome soon after his return from the Holy land.

Hisnephew and successor, Frederic Barbarossa, Frederic 1, was more ambitious of the imperial crown; nor a 1154 had any of the successors of Otho acquired such absolute sway over the kingdom of Italy. Surrounded by his ecclesiastical and secular princes, he gave audience in his camp at Sutri to the ambassadors of Rome, who thus addressed him in a free and florid oration : " Incline your ear to the " queen of cities; approach with a peaceful and " friendly mind the precincts of Rome, which " has cast away the yoke of the clergy, and is " impatient to crown her legitimate emperor. "Under your auspicious influence, may the pri-" mitive times be restored. Assert the preroa rogatives of the eternal city, and reduce under a her monarchy the insolence of the world. You " are not ignorant, that, in former ages, by the " wisdom of the senate, by the valour and disci-" pline of the equestrian order, she extended her "victorious arms to the East and West, beyond " the Alps, and over the islands of the ocean. " By our sins, in the absence of our princes, " the noble institution of the senate has sunk in " ablivion; and with our prodence, our strength " has likewise decreased. We have revived the " senate and the equestrian order : the counsels " of the one, the arms of the other, will be de-" voted to your person and the service of the " empire. Do you not hear the language of the "Roman matron? You were a guest, I have " adopted you as a citizen; a Transalpine stran-" ger, I have elected you for my sovereign?" and " given you myself and all that is mine. Your " first and most sacred duty is to swear and subscribe that you will shed your blood for " the republic; that you will maintain in peace " and justice the laws of the city and the charters of your predecessors; and that you will reward

^{*} We desire quiet the ignorant Romans) to restore the empire to sum statum, que fuit tempere Constantini et Justiniani, qui tettue ersem vignre senatue et populé Romani tuis tamese manibus.

Otho Fruhig de Gestis Predence s, L 1, c. 99, p. 662-684.

LKIX.

^{*} Hespes even, civem tech. Advena faigil ex Transalpinis partibus a principena essaritui,

" with five thousand pounds of silver, the faithful CHAP. senators who shall proclaim your titles in the LXIX. " capitol. With the name, assume the character. " of Augustus." The flowers of Latin rhetoric were not vet exhausted; but Frederic, impatient of their vanity, interrupted the orators in the high tone of royalty and conquest. " Famous indeed " have been the fortitude and wisdom of the " ancient Romans; but your speech is not sea-" soned with wisdom, and I could wish that " fortitude were conspicuous in your actions. " Like all sublunary things, Rome has felt the vi-" cissitudes of time and fortune. Your noblest " families were translated to the East, to the " royal city of Constantine; and the remains of " your strength and freedom have long since a been exhausted by the Greeks and Franks. " Are you desirous of beholding the ancient glory " of Rome, the gravity of the senate, the spirit " of the knights, the discipline of the camp, the " valour of the legions? you will find them in " the German republic. It is not empire, maked " and alone; the ornaments and virtues of em-" pire have likewise migrated beyond the Alps " to a more deserving people." They will be em-" played in your defence, but they claim your " obedience. You pretend that myself or my " predecessors have been invited by the Romans: " you mistake the word; they were not invited; "they were implored. From its foreign and [&]quot;Non count notes nadom imperium, virtuite our smartum venit, comments and seems travit. Pence not unit commiss till, Sc. Queru or Livy would not have rejected those images, the storpumps of a barburan, born and advantaged in the Herryman forcet.

(2)

LXIX.

"domestic tyrants, the city was rescued by " Charlemagne and Otho, whose ashes repose in some country; and their dominion was the price " of your deliverance. Under that dominion " your ancestors lived and died. I claim by the "right of inheritance and possession, and who " shall dare to extort you from my hands? Is the " hand of the Franks" and Germans enfeebled. " by age? Am I vanquished? Am I a captive? " Am I not encompassed with the banners of a " potent and invincible army? You impose con-" ditions on your master; you require oaths: if " the conditions are just, an oath is superfluous; " if unjust, it is criminal. Can you doubt my " equity? It is extended to the meanest of my " subjects. Will not my sword be unsheathed in " the defence of the capital? By that sword the " northern kingdom of Denmark has been re-"stored to the Roman empire. You prescribe " the measure and the objects of my hounty, " which flows in a copious but a voluntary stream. " All will be given to patient merit; all will be " denied to rade importunity." Neither the emperor nor the senate could maintain these lofty. pretensions of dominion and liberty. United with the pope, and suspicious of the Romans, Frederic continued his march to the Vatican: his coronation was disturbed by a sally from the [&]quot;Other of Friningen, who surely understood the language of the central and diet of Germany, speaks of the Franks in the twelfth century as the reigning sation (Procures Franci, equites Franci, manus Francorum); he adds, however, the epithet of Testonici.

Other Frising, de Gustis Fraderici i, 1-11, c. 22, p. 780-722. These original and authentic acts I have translated and abridged with freedom, yet with blefty.

eapitol; and if the numbers and valour of the CHAP. Germans prevailed in the bloody conflict, he could not safely encamp in the presence of a city of which he styled himself the sovereign. About twelve years afterwards, he besieged Rome, to seat an antipope in the chair of St. Peter; and twelve Pisan gallies were introduced into the Tyber; but the senate and people were saved by the arts of negociation and the progress of disease; nor did Frederic or his successors reiterate the hostile attempt. Their laborious reigns were exercised by the popes, the crusades, and the independence of Lombardy and Germany; they courted the alliance of the Romans; and Frederic the second offered in the capital the great standard, the Caroccia of Milan." After the extinction of the house of Swabia, they were banished beyond the Alps; and their last coronations betrayed the impotence and poverty of the Teutonic Cassars."

"From the chronicles of Ricobaldo and Francis Pepin, Maratari (direct, xxv), turn it, p. 492) has transcribed this curious fact, with the doggref twees that accompanied the gift.

Are decre in the give t victim (thi distrinut, ave t Christia sh Augusto Frederica County justo.
Vor Medicianum I jum centis speriore summs Imperii vicus, proprior fibil tallere vicus.
Ergo triumphorum urbs potes memor com priorum Quos tibi mittebant reges qui bella gerobant.

Ne si des meere (I now me the Italian dissertations, term. 1, p. 644) she mill' anno 1727, una copia demo Caroccio in marmo dianal ignote al scoprinci Campidoglio, presso alle carcere di qual imago, deve. Sisto V. Paven falto rinchindere. Stava caso posto aspra quatto column de marmo fino colla requante inscrizione, &c. to the some purpose as the old inscription.

The destine of the imperial arms and authority in Italy is related with importial tearning in the Annals of Muraner (tome z, zi, zi0;

Resid

CHAP. LXIX Romann Ing cities.

Under the reign of Adrian, when the empire extended from the Euphrates to the ocean, from Warsafthe mount Atlas to the Grampian hills, a fanciful against the historians amused the Romans with the picture mighbour of their infant wars. "There was a time," says Florus, "when Tibur and Præneste, our summer " retreats, were the objects of hostile vows in the " capitol, when we dreaded the shades of the " Arician groves, when we could triumph without " a blush over the nameless villages of the Sahines "and Latins, and even Corioli could afford a "title not unworthy of a victorious general." The pride of his contemporaries was gratified by the contrast of the past with the present : they would have been humbled by the prospect of futurity; by the prediction, that after a thousand years, Rome, despoiled of empire, and contracted to her primayal limits, would renew the same hostilities, on the same ground which was then decorated with her villas and gardens. The adjacent territory on either side of the Tyber was always claimed, and sometimes possessed, as the patrimony of St. Peter; but the barons assumed a lawless independence, and the cities too faithfully copied the revolt and discord of the metropolis. In the twelfth and thirteenth cen-> and the resder may compare his parrative with the Histoire des Alfemands (tom fil, iv), by 5therids, who has deserved the esteem of his countrymen.

t Tilur nune mantannu, et astiva Pramete delicie, nuncuputis in expitatio vatis pershanter. The whole passage of Florus U. i. z. 11) may be read with plan arm, and has deserved the praise of a man of gamins (Guyres de Montesquieu, tem. iii, p. 634, 635, questo editimi ..

LXIX.

turies, the Romans incessantly laboured to reduce or destroy the contumacious vassals of the church and senate; and if their headstrong and selfish ambition was moderated by the pope, he often encouraged their zeal by the alliance of his spiritual arms. Their warfare was that of the first consuls and dictators, who were taken from the plough. They assembled in arms at the foot of the capitol; sallied from the gates, plundered or burnt the harvests of their neighbours, engaged in tumultuary conflict, and returned home after an expedition of fifteen or twenty days. Their sieges were tedious and unskilful: in the use of victory, they indulged the menner passions of jealousy and revenge; and instead of adopting the valour, they trampled on the misfortunes, of their adversaries. The captives, in their shirts, with a rope round their necks, solicited their pardon: the fortifications, and even the buildings, of the rival cities, were demolished, and the inhabitants were scattered in the adjacent villages. It was thus that the seats of the cardinal bishops, Porto, Ostia, Albanum, Tusculum, Praeneste, and Tibur or Tivoli, were successively overthrown by the ferocious hostility of the Romans." Of these,"

"Ne a fertitale Remandrum signi foorent Hostimars, Portionies, Translanguese, Albanesses, Lablemass, et nuper Transland, descrimrentur (Matthew Paris, p. 757). These weeks are marked in the Annals and Index (the eighteenth volume) of Murgaria.

*For the state or rule of these suburban cities, the backs of the Typer, &c. see the lively picture of the P. Lahat. (Voyage of Diagne et an Italie), who had not long resided in the neighborhood of Rome; and the more occurate description of which P. Pach and (Rome, 1730, in occurs) has added to the topographical map of Congolian.

CHAP. Porto and Ostin, the two keys of the Tyber, are LXIX.

Buttle of still vacant and desolate; the murshy and unwholesome banks are peopled with herds of buffalos, and the river is lost to every purpose of navigation and trade. The hills, which afford a shady retirement from the autumnal heats, have again smiled with the blessings of peace: Prescati has prisen near the ruins of Tusculum: Tibur or Tivoli has resumed the honour of a city," and the meaner towns of Albano and Palestrina are decorated with the villas of the cardinals and princes of Rome. In the work of destruction, the ambition of the Romans was often checked and repulsed by the neighbouring cities and their allies: in the first siege of Tibur, they were driven from their camp; and the battles of Tusculum' Tusculum, L & 1187, and Viterhos might be compared, in their relative state, to the memorable fields of Thrasymene and Cannae. In the first of these petty wars, thirty thousand Romans were overthrown by a thousand German horse, whom Frederic Barbarossa had detached to the relief of Tusculum; and if we number the slain at three, the prisoners at two, thousand, we shall embrace the most authentic and moderate account. Sixty-eight years after-

I Labet Com, iii. p. 233) mentions a vocant derive of the Roman government, which has expersly marriabel the guide and poverty of Thefit is evenue Tillering non visitur giviliter.

" I depart from my sound method, of quoting only by the date the annals of Murature, in sunsideration of the critical belance in which he has weighed also contamporary writers, who mustim the buttle of Tremlim (ton, z, p. 42-44).

* Matthew Posts, p. 344. This highsput Winshester was Peter du Stupmen, who occupied the see thirty-turn years (s. s. 1708, 1238), and is flexished, by an English histories, as a soldier and a statement 48, 178, 309).

ward they marched against Viterbo in the eccle- CHAP. sinstical state with the whole force of the city; by LXIX. a rare coalition the Teutonic engle was blended, name of in the adverse banners, with the key of St. Peter; h. n. 1234. and the pope's auxiliaries were commanded by a count of Thoulouse and a bishop of Winchester, The Romans were discomfitted with shame and slaughter; but the English prelate must have indulged the vanity of a pilgrim, if he multiplied their numbers to one hundred, and their loss in the field to thirty, thousand men. Had the policy of the senate, and the discipline of the legions, heen restored with the capitol, the divided condition of Italy would have offered the fairest opportunity of a second conquest. But in arms, the modern Romans were not above, and in arts they were far below, the common level of the neighbouring republics. Nor was their warlike spirit of any long continuance: after some irregular sallies, they subsided in the national apathy, in the neglect of military institutions, and in the disgraceful and dangerous use of foreign mercenaries,

Ambition is a weed of quick and early vegeta- The election in the vineyard of Christ. Under the first that of the christian princes, the chair of St. Peter was disputed by the votes, the venality, the violence, of a popular election : the sanctuaries of Rome were polluted with blood; and, from the third to the twelfth century, the church was distracted by the mischief of frequent schisms. As long as the final appeal was determined by the civil magistrate, these mischiefs were transient and local; the merits were tried by equity or favour; nor could the unsuccessful competitor long disturb the triumph of his rival. But after the emperors had been divested of their prerogatives, after a maxim had been established, that the vicar of Christ is amenable to no earthly tribunal, each vacancy of the holy see might involve Christendom in controversy and war. The claims of the cardinals and inferior clergy, of the nobles and people, were vague and litigious: the freedom of choice was overruled by the tumults of a city that no longer owned or obeyed a superior. On the decease of a pope, two factions proceeded in different churches to a double election: the number and weight of votes, the priority of times, the merit of the candidates, might balance each other: the most respectable of the clergy were divided; and the distant princes, who bowed before the spiritual throne, could not distinguish the spurious, from the legitimate, idol. The emperors were often the authors of the schism, from the political motive of opposing a friendly to an hostile pontiff; and cach of the competitors was reduced to suffer the insults of his enemies, who were not awed by conscience; and to purchase the support of his adherents, who were instigated by avarice or ambition. A penceful and perpetual succession was ascertained by Alexander the third, who finally abolished the tumultuary votes of the clergy and people, and defined the right of election in the

CHAP.

Hight of the cardinals estaunished by Alexander

[?] See Mesheim, Lorditor, Histor, Ecclestort, p. 401, 403. Absumder himself had marrly been the stetim of a contested election; and the doubtful survite of Innocent had only preparateurised by the weight of graden and learning which St. Bermard cast into the scale tree his life and sentings).

sole college of cardinals." The three orders of CHAR. bishops, priests, and deacons, were assimilated to LXIN. each other by this important privilege; the parochial clergy of Rome obtained the first rank in the hierarchy; they were indifferently chosen among the nations of Christendom; and the possession of the richest benefices, of the most important bishopries, was not incompatible with their title and office. The senators of the catholic church, the coadjutors and legates of the supreme pontiff, were robed in purple, the symbol of martyrdom or royalty; they claimed a proud equality with kings; and their dignity was enhanced by the smallness of their number, which, till the reign of Leo the tenth, seldom exceeded twenty or twenty-five persons. By this wise regulation, all doubt and scandal were removed, and the root of schism was so effectually destroyed, that in a period of six hundred years, a double choice has only once divided the unity of the sacred college. But as the concurrence of two thirds of the votes had been made necessary, the election was often delayed by the private interest and passions of the cardinals; and while they prolonged their independent reign, the christian world was left destitute of an head. A vacancy testinous of almost three years had preceded the elevation of the conof Gregory the tenth, who resolved to prevent Green's

^{*} The origin, titles, importuner, dress, presidency, As, of the Reman cardinate, are very they observed by Thomason (Osciplins de l'Eglire, 1902), a 1262-1267, but their purple is more smach fades. The specied college was taken to the nuffert municier of seventy-two, to represent, under his vient, the disciples of Christ.

CHAP, the future abuse; and his bull, after some opposition, has been consecrated in the code of the canon law.* Nine days are allowed for the obsequies of the deceased pope, and the arrival of the absent cardinals; on the tenth, they are imprisoned, each with one domestic, in a common apartment or conclave, without any separation of walls or curtains; a small window is reserved for the introduction of necessaries; but the door is locked on both sides, and guarded by the magistrates of the city, to seclude them from all correspendence with the world. If the election be not consummated in three days, the luxury of their tables is contracted to a single dish at dinner and supper; and after the eighth day, they are reduced to a scanty allowance of bread, water, and wine. During the vacancy of the holy see, the cardinals are prohibited from touching the revenues, or assuming, unless in some rare emergency, the government, of the church; all agreements and promises among the electors are formally annulled; and their integrity is fortified by their solemn oath and the prayers of the catho-Some articles of inconvenient or superfluous rigour have been gradually relaxed, but the principle of confinement is vigorous and entire; they are still urged, by the personal motives of health and freedom, to accelerate the moment. of their deliverance; and the improvement of ballot or secret votes has wrapt the struggles of the conclave" in the silky veil of charity and po- cnap. liteness.* By these institutions, the Romans were excluded from the election of their prince and hishop; and in the fever of wild and precarious liberty, they seemed insensible of the loss of this inestimable privilege. The emperor Lewis of an 1378. Bavaria revived the example of the great Otho. After some negociation with the magistrates, the Roman people was assembled in the square before St. Peter's; the pope of Avignon, John the twenty-second, was deposed; the choice of his successor was ratified by their consent and apploase. They freely voted for a new law, that their bishop should never be absent more than three months in the year, and two days journey from the city; and that if he neglected to re-[&]quot;Rechiesti per bando cupe John Villant) amatori di Roma, e 22 del popula, et capitani do" 25 e comoil /casudi 5/, et 13 huone huoriini, uno per visure. Our knowledge is too imperfect to premounce hou much of this constilintion was temporary, and how much ordinary and permanent. Yes it is faintly illustrated by the uncient elatores of Roma.

^{*} See the bull of Gregory x, approbants mero concilio, in the Sexte of the Canon Law (l. i. tit. 0, c. 3), a supplement to the Decretals, which Bootface van promulgated at Rome in 1998, and addressed to all the universities of Europe.

^{*} The gening of cardinal do Hots had a sight to paint a conclave (of 1665), in which he was a speciator and an actor (Memoirs, turn iv, p. 15-57); but I am at a feas to appreciate the knowledge or authority of no anonymous Italian, whose history (Conclavi de Pontiñai Romani, in quarto, 1667) has been continued since the reign of Alexander vec. The accidental form of the work furnishes a leason, though not an authore, to ambition. From a helysteth of intrigues, we emerge to the adventum of the successful sandidate; but the certifical opens with his function.

[&]quot;The expressions of rardinal de flets are positive and picturesque; On y vegut toujours en mable avec le même supert, et la même cist-lité que l'on observe dans le cabinet dus rois, avec la même politage qu'un avoit dans la cour de Henri su, avec le même famillarité que l'on zoit dans les collèges ; avec la même modestie, qui se remarque dans les noviclots ; et avec la même chavité, du meme su apparance, dui pourrois être entre des fivers parfaitement auss.

CHAP.

tion on the third summons, the public servant should be degraded and dismissed. But Lewis forgot his own debility and the prejudices of the times: beyond the precincts of a German camp, his useless phantom was rejected; the Romans despised their own workmanship; the antipope implaced the mercy of his hawful sovereign; and the exclusive right of the cardinals was more firmly established by this unseasonable nitacle.

Had the election been always held in the Va-Absence of fromRome, tican, the rights of the senate and people would not have been violated with impunity. But the Romans forgot, and were forgotten, in the absence of the successors of Gregory the seventh, who did not keep as a divine precept their ordinary residence in the city and diocese. The care of that diocese was less important than the government of the universal church; nor could the popes delight in a city in which their authority was always opposed, and their person was often endangered. From the persecution of the emperors, and the wars of Italy, they escaped beyond the Alps into the hospitable bosom of France; from the tumults of Rome they prudently withdrew to live [&]quot;Villary (L. 2., c. 66-71 in Muratori, Scripts tom. xill. p. 641-645) related this law, and the wome transaction, with much less abhorrone than the pointent Muratori. Any one conversals with the durker ages much have absenced here much the same (I much the nossense) of supersition is fluctuating and inconsecut.

In the first volume of the Popes of Avignous, see the second origins Life of John xxxx, p. 142-145, the emineral of the amprops, p. 145-152, and the laborious moter of Balum, p. 714, 715.

and die in the more tranquil stations of Anagai, CHAP. Perugia, Viterbo, and the adjacent cities. When LXXX. the flock was offended or impoverished by the absence of the shepherd, they were recalled by a stern admonition that St. Peter had fixed his chair, not in an obscure village, but in the capital of the world; by a ferocious menace that the Romans would march in arms to destroy the place and people that should dare to afford them a retreat. They returned with timorous obedience; and were saluted with the account of an heavy debt, of all the losses which their desertion had occasioned, the hire of lodgings, the sale of provisions, and the various expences of servants and strangers who attended the court. After a short interval of peace, and perhaps of authority, they were again banished by new tunnilts, and again summoned by the imperious or respectful invitation of the senate. In these occasional retreats. the exiles and fugitives of the Vatican were seldom long, or far, distant from the metropolis; but in the beginning of the fourteenth century the apostolic throne was transported, as it might seem for ever, from the Tyber to the Rhône; and the cause of the transmigration may be deduced from ^{*} Romani antern non valentes ner volentes ultra mum celaus cupiditatem gravissimum contra papam movere corperunt questionem, exigentes ab co urgentissimo cumia qua subserunt per ejus absentism damas et jacturus, vidulices in hospitis locandis, in mercimanila, in senris, in redittibus, in provinsatinus, et in allia modis innonurrabilibus. Quod cum audisset papa, procordialiter ingenuit et ac competions sussignaturus, A.c. Matt. Paris, p. 757. For the ordinary history of the popes, their life and death, their craid-one and absence, is is enough to refer to the occlematical annullats, Spomlanus and Fleury.

LXIX Benifico

PRINCE

and the king of France." The spiritual arms of excommunication and interdict were repulsed by 100 1294, the union of the three estates, and the privileges of the Gallican church; but the pope was not against the carnal weapons which Philip the fair had courage to employ. As the pope resided at Anagai, without the suspicion of danger, his palace and person were assaulted by three hundred horse, who had been secretly levied by William of Negaret, a French minister, and Sciarra Colonna, of a noble but hostile family of Rome. The cardinals fled; the inhabitants of Anagni were seduced from their allegiance and gratitude; but the dauntless Boniface, unarmed and alone, seated himself in his chair, and awaited, like the conscript fathers of old, the swords of the Gauls. Nogaret, a foreign adversary, was content to execute the orders of his master; by the domestic ennity of Colorus, he was insulted with words and blows; and during a confinement of three dayshis life was threatened by the bardships which they inflicted on the obstinacy which they provoked. Their strangedelay gave time and courage to the adherents of the church, who rescued him from sacrilegious violence; but his imperious soul was wounded in a vital part; and Boniface expired at Rome in a frenzy of rage and revenge.

Besides the general historians of the thursh of Italy and of France, we possess a taluable fractise composed by a learned friend of Thumbur, which his last and best editors have published in the appendix (Hissaire particuliere dis grand Different entre Bentuce van, et Philippe le Bill, par Pierre du Pain, tem. vil. p. al, p. 61-519.

His memory is stained with the glaring vices of charavarice and pride; nor has the courage of a martyr promoted this ecclesiastical champion to the honours of a saint; a magnanimous sinner (say the chronicles of the times), who entered like a fox, reigned like a lion, and died like a dog. He was succeeded by Benedict the eleventh, the mildest of mankind. Yet he excommunicated the impious emissaries of Philip, and devoted the city and people of Anagni by a tremendous curse, whose effects are still visible to the eyes of superstition.

After his decease, the tedious and equal suspense Translaof the conclave was fixed by the dexterity of the bon of the French faction. A specious offer was made and Avig on, accepted, that, in the term of forty days, they would " a taos, elect one of the three candidates who should be named by their opponents. The archbishop of Bourdeaux, a furious enemy of his king and country, was the first on the list; but his ambition was known; and his conscience obeyed the calls of fortune and the commands of a benefittor, who had been informed by a swift messenger that the choice of a pope was now in his hands. The terms were regulated in a private interview: and with such speed and secrecy was the business transacted, that the unanimous conclave applauded the elevation of Clement the fifth.3 The

A is to difficult to agree whether Labut (lone iv. p. Al-37) be in jest or in cornect, when he supposes that Anagui still focia the weight of this curse, and that the corn fields, or sineparts, so after trees, are somely binated by nature, the obsequious handmaid of the popular.

See in the Chamicle of Gervanni Villani U. viii, v. 63, 68, 80, in Murature, some will) the imprisonment of Buniface viu, and the election of Clement v. the last of which, like most anecdotes, is emberfaced with norm difficulties.

CHAP.

cardinals of both parties were soon astonished by a summons to attend him beyond the Alps; from whence, as they soon discovered, they must never hope to return. He was engaged, by promise and affection, to prefer the residence of France; and, after dragging his court through Poitou and Gascogny, and devouring, by his expence, the cities and convents on the road, he finally reposed at Avignon, which flourished above seventy years" the seat of the Roman pontiff and the metropolis of Christendom: By land, by sea, by the Rhône, the position of Avignon was on all sides accessible; the southern provinces of France do not yield to Italy itself; new palaces arose for the accommodation of the pope and cardinals; and the arts of luxury were soon attracted by the treasures of the church. They were already possessed of the adjacent territory, the Venaissin county," a

^{*} The original fives of the eight paper of Avigner, Chrisest v., John and Resolut ii., Chement st., Index at v., Urban st., Gregory at, and Chement we, are published by Stephan Balanc (Vine Paparum Averimmentary Paris 1973, 2 value in the with copious and claborate motes, and a second volume of acis and documents. With the true and of an editor and a patriot, he devoutly juntifies or excures the characters of his countrymen.

The exile of Avignon is compared by the Italians with Babylen and the Rebylench copilety. Such fortune meraphers, some substitute to the archarg of Persons than to the judgment of Muranet, are gravely related in Sintana's presers. The abbe do Sada is distracted between the love of Persona and of his country: Yet be modestly plands that many of the focal inconveniencies of Avignon are now actioned; and transpared the vorce against which the post declaims, had been imported with the Some actions of Italy Done I, p. 274-285.

The country Venezuito was coded to the popes in 1273 by Philipper, king of France, after he had Juberited the dominious of the count of Theodome. Forty years before, the heresy of count Raymond and given populous and fertile spot; and the sovereignty char. of Avignon was afterwards purchased from the LXIX. youth and distress of Jane, the first queen of Naples and countess of Provence, for the inadequate price of fourscore thousand florins." Under the shadow of the French monarchy, amidst an obedient people, the popes enjoyed an honourable and tranquil state, to which they long had been strangers ; but Italy deplored their absence ; and Rome, in solitude and poverty, might repent of the ungovernable freedom which had driven from the Vatican the successor of St. Peter. Her repentance was tardy and fruitfess: after the death of the old members, the sacred college was filled with French cardinals," who beheld Rome and Italy with abhorrence and contempt, and perpetuated a series of national, and even provincial, popes, attached by the most indissoluble ties to their native country.

them a precence of micros, and they derived none obscure claim from the obventh contary to some lands citra filandamum (Valent Notitia Goldonno, p. 449, 610. Longuirus, Decription de la France, tont.), p. 379-3813.

* If a personal or their conturbes were not that a title, such objections might around the bargain; but the purchase manage sould be refunded, for indeed it was gold. Civintian Arendoman spoid..., per spinored conditioners pecually redundants, &c. 2da Vin Clement st. in flatter, term is p. 272. Murature, Script. 1996, p. 565, The only temptation for Jane and her second husband was ready manage, and without it they could not have returned to the throne of Nigden.

Clement e immediately presented ten cardinale, nine Ferrale and one English (Vita 4ta, p. 63, et Bales, p. 625, &c.) in 13th, the pape released two cardidates to communicately the sing of France, quart ax Cardinales, de quibus xvii de Begos Francis originale traxisonoscentus in memorato collegio existant (Thomason, Discipline de l'Eglise, tom.), p. 1281).

X S

CHAR LXIX. of the jubic

hee or buly

year. to no 1500.

The progress of industry had produced and enriched the Italian republics: the era of their li-Includes berty is the most flourishing period of population and agriculture, of manufactures and commerce; and their mechanic labours were gradually refined into the arts of elegance and genius. But the position of Rome was less favourable, the territory less fruitful; the character of the inhabitants was debased by indolence and elated by pride; and they fondly conceived that the tribute of subjects must for ever nourish the metropolis of the church and empire. This prejudice was encouraged in some degree by the resort of pils grims to the shrines of the mostles; and the last legacy of the popes, the institution of the holy wear, was not less beneficial to the people than to the clergy. Since the loss of Palestine, the gift of plenary indulgences, which had been applied to the crusades, remained without an object; and the most valuable treasure of the church was sequestered above eight years from public circulation. A new channel was opened by the diligence of Boniface the eighth, who reconciled the vices of ambition and avarice; and the pope had sufficient learning to recollect and revive the secular games, which were celebrated in Rome at the conclusion of every century. To sound without danger the depth of popular credulity, a sermon was seasonably pronounced, a report was artfully scattered, some aged wit- CHAP.

² Our primitive account to from exedited Jeruss Culeton (Maxima Riddier, Patrima torac 2277 ; and I am at a leaste determine whether the highest of Boulder starte a field of a known the numbers a much element character.

nesses were produced; and on the first of January of the year thirteen hundred, the church of St. Peter was crowded with the faithful, who demanded the customary indulgence of the holy time. The pontiff, who watched and irritated their devout impatience, was soon persuaded by ancient testimony of the justice of their claim; and he proclaimed a plenary absolution to all catholics who, in the course of that year, and at every similar period, should respectfully visit the apostolic churches of St. Peter and St. Paul. The welcome sound was propagated through Christendom; and at first from the nearest provinces of Italy, and at length from the remote kingdoms of Hungary and Britain, the highways were througed with a swarm of pilgrims who sought to expiate their sins in a journey, however costly or laborious, which was exempt from the perils of military service. All exceptions of rank or sex, of age or infirmity, were forgotten in the common transport; and in the streets and churches many persons were trampled to death by the eagerness of devotion. The calculation of their numbers could not be easy noraccurate; and they have probably been magnified by a dextrous clergy, well apprised of the contagion of example : yet we are assured by a judicious historian, who assisted at the ceremony, that Rome was never replenished with less than two hundred thousand strangers; and another spectator has fixed at two millions the total concourse of the year. A triffing oblation from each individual would acquimulate a royal treasure; and two priests.

Junilee,

CHAP, stood night and day, with rakes in their hands, to collect, without counting, the heaps of gold and silver that were poured in the altar of St. Paul. It was fortunately a season of peace and plenty; and if forage was scarce, if inns and lodgings were extravagantly dear, an inexhaustible supply of bread and wine, of meat and fish, was provided by the policy of Boniface and the venal hospitality of the Romans. From a city without trade or industry, all casual riches will speedily evaporate: but the avarice and envy of the next generation solicited Clement the sixth to anticipate the distant period of the century. The gracious pontiff complied with their wishes; afforded Rome this poor consolation for his loss: and justified the change by the name and practice of the mosaic jubilee.1 His summons was obeyed; and the number, zeal, and liberality of the pilgrims did not yield to the primitive festival. But they encountered the triple The account scourge of war, pestilence, and famine; many wives and virgins were violated in the castles of A. W. 1850. Italy; and many strangers were pillaged or mur-

· See John Villami C, vill, c. 36) to the 12th, and the Chronican Astense, in the 11th volume up. 191, 192; of Maratasi's Collection, Papa immumerabilem pecuniam ab ciatem accepit, nam duo clerici, cum couris, Ac-. The two battle of Boutface vitt and Clement vi, are inserted to the Corpus Jaris Committ (Hatenvagenz, Commun. 1. v. tit. ix, c. 1, 2). * The exhbatic years and judition of the moute less (Car. Signa, de Republica Hehrmorum, Opp. mm. iv. J. iii, e. 16, 13, p. 151, 152, the angention of all care and labour, the periodest relesse of lamb, debts, servinude, &c. may seem a nobile idea ; but the execution would be imposedirable in a profess republic; and I should be glad to learn that this ruinous festival was observed by the Jonish people, dered by the savage Romans, no longer mode-char, rated by the presence of their bishop." To the impatience of the popes we may ascribe the successive reduction to fifty, thirty-three, and twenty-five years; although the second of these terms is commensurate with the life of Christ. The profusion of indulgences, therevolt of the protestants, and the decline of superstition, have much diminished the value of the jubilee; yet even the nineteenth and last festival was a year of pleasure and profit to the Romans; and a philosophic smile will not disturb the triumph of the priest or the happiness of the people."

In the beginning of the eleventh century, Italy The mobile was exposed to the feudal tyranny, alike op-of thems. pressive to the sovereign and the people. The rights of human nature were vindicated by her numerous republics, who soon extended their liberty and dominion from the city to the adjacent country. The sword of the nobles was broken; their slaves were enfranchised; their castles were demolished; they assumed the habits of society and obedience; their ambition was confined to municipal honours, and in the proudest aristocracy of Venice or Genoa, each patrician was subject to the laws.7 But the feeble and disorderly government of Rome was unequal to the task of curbing her rebellious sons, who scorned the authority of the magistrate within and without the walls. It was no longer a civil contention between the nobles and plebeians for the government of the state; the barons asserted in arms their personal independence; their palaces and castles were fortified against a siege; and their private quarrels were maintained by the numbers of their vassals and retainers. In origin and affection, they were aliens to their country;" and a genuine Roman, could such have been produced, might have renounced these haughty strangers, who disdained the appellation of citizens, and proudly styled themselves the princes of Rome.* After a dark series of revolutions, all records of pedigree were lost; the distinction of surnames were abolished; the blood of the nations was mingled in a thousand channels; and the Goths and Lombards, the Greeks and Franks. the Germans and Normans, had obtained the ^{*} Murainel (Dissert, abil) alleges the Adouts of Florence, Pading-Geom, &c., the analogy of the rest, the evidence of Othe of Prisongen & Geom. Prod. s. 1 ii. e. 13), and the administrate of the marrysle of Four.

See the Chronicle of Mattee Villani (1, 1, c. 56) in the fourteenth volume of Munitori, and the Memoires our la Vie de Petrarque, Londin, p. 75-86.

^{*} The subject is exhausted by M. Chais, a French minister at the Hague, in his Lattres Historiques of Dogmathques, our let donnes of less Indilgences; in Haye, 1751, 3 vots to 12mo; as elaborate and pleasing work, had not the author preferred the character of a polo-mic to that of a philosopher.

LNIX.

As early at the year $24, the requerer Lathaire a found it expedient is historogen? the Roman people, to hear front such indisduct by what intriousl law to those to be governed (Murators, Discet, 228).

^{*} Petrorch attacks these furniguous, the tyraits of Rome, in a dechamation or spirite, full of bold truths and absurd podantry, in which he applies has maxime, and exam population, of the old republic to the stars of the fourseenth century (Memoirce, town ill, p. 157-169).

fairest possessions by royal bounty or the prero- CHAP. gutive of valour. These examples might be readily presumed; but the elevation of an Hebrew race to the rank of senators and consuls, is an event without a parallel in the long captivity of these miserable exiles." In the time of Leo the ninth, a wealthy and learned Jew was converted to christianity, and honoured at his baptism with the name of his godfather, the reigning pope. The zeal and courage of Peter the son Family of of Leo were signalised in the cause of Gregory Jen. the seventh, who entrusted his faithful adherent with the government of Adrian's mole, the tower of Crescentius, or, as it is now called, the castle of St. Angelo. Both the father and the son were the parents of a numerous progeny; their riches, the fruits of usury, were shared with the noblest families of the city; and so extensive was their alliance, that the grandson of the proselyte was exalted by the weight of his kindred to the throne of St. Peter. A majority of the clergy and people supported his cause: he reigned several years in the Vatienu, and it is only the eloquence of St. Bernard, and the final triumph of Innocent the second, that has branded Anacletus with the epithet of antipope. After his defeat and death, the posterity of Leo is no longer conspicuous; and none will be found of the modern nobles am-

The origin and adventures of this Jewish family are united by Fagi (Filten, from iv. p. 435, s. n. F124, No. 3, 4), who draws his information from the Chromographus Maurigniacomia, and Araulphus Sagamus de Schlomate in Mauston, Script, Ital, non, in, p. i, p. 423-432). The fact must in some degree be tring yet I could aroun that it had been coolly related, before it was curred into a responsible gainer the autipope.

CHAP.

bitious of descending from a Jewish stock. It is not my design to enumerate the Roman families which have failed at different periods, or those which are continued in different degrees of splendor to the present time." The old consular line of the Frangipani discover their name in the generous act of breaking or dividing bread in a time of famine; and such benevolence is more truly glorious than to have enclosed, with their allies the Corri, a spacious quarter of the city in the chains of their fortifications"; the Savelli, as it should seem a Sabine race, have maintained their original dignity; the absolute surname of the Capitucchi is inscribed on the coins of the first senators; the Conti preserve the honour, without the estate, of the counts of Signia; and the Annibaldi must have been very ignorant, or very modest, if they had not descended from the Carthaginian hero."

Spp Co-

But among, perhaps above, the peers and princes of the city, I distinguish the rival houses

Interes titulis radimiti conquine et armis Illustresque vici Remani a stiepe trabentes Nomen la emeritos tanam victuris homorea Intulerant se modios festimopos colchara Aurata miguntes topa sociame categol.

^{*} Muratori less given two disserrations (all and all!) to the names, surmanes, and families of Italy. Some pobles, who glory in their demostic fiddles, may be offended with his firm and temperate criticism; yet sately some nonces of jure gold are of more value than many pounds of his metal.

^{*} The cardinal of St. George, is his particul, or rather metrical history of the election and commutant of Beniface von (Morator), Script, Ital. com. iii., p. 1, p. 641, Ac.), describes the state and families of Rome at the coronation of Baniface vitt (a. p. 1293).

of Colonna and Ursini, whose private story is CHAP. an essential part of the annals of modern Rome. LXIX. t. The name and arms of Colonna have been the theme of much doubtful etymology; nor have the orators and antiquarians overlooked either Trajan's pillar, or the columns of Hercules, or the pillar of Christ's flagellation, or the luminous column that guided the Israelites in the desert. Their first historical appearance in the year eleven hundred and four, attests the power and antiquity, while it explains the simple meaning, of the name. By the usurpation of Cavathe Colonna provoked the arms of Paschal the second; but they lawfully held, in the Campagna of Rome, the hereditary fiels of Zagarola and Colonna; and the latter of these towns was prohably adornal with some lofty pillar, the relic of a villa or temple. They likewise possessed one moiety of the neighbouring city of Tusculum; a strong presumption of their descent from the counts

> Ex Ipris devota donnes prestancia als Fren Ecclesia, coformação percas depleshos aftems From Colomic print, minimus Sciences minist Stephantiles under, Chemics, Asidelies produc-President spin urbit magestin sine virther amount. CL 11, C. 5, 100, p. 847, 548).

The ancient statues of Rome (i. iii, i. 59, p. 174, 175; distragalish sleven families of femore, who are chilged to swear in specific communt, before the senator, that they would not harhour or propert any mainfactors, outlaws, &c .- a feeble security.

" It is pity that the Colorna themselves have not favoured the world with a complete and critical blistory of their illustrious home. I adhere by Maramer (Dissert, viii, torn, iii, p. 647, 648).

Pandulphi Plain, in Vii. Paumal, 11, in Minuteri, Script, Tral. tum, ill. p. i. p. 385. The family has still great percention in the Campagns of Romm; but they have allegated to the Respigited this original fiel of Colomas (Zachimarii, p. 258, 250).

LXIX

CHAP, of Tusculum, who in the tenth century were the tyrants of the apostolic sec. According to their own and the public opinion, the primitive and remote source was derived from the banks of the Rhine; and the sovereigns of Germany were not ashamed of a real or fabulous affinity with a noble race, which in the revolutions of seven hundred years has been often illustrated by merit, and always by fortune. About the end of the thirteenth century, the most powerful branch was composed of an uncle and six brothers, all conspicuous in arms, or in the honours of the church. Of these, Peter was elected senator of Rome, introduced to the capital in a triumphant car, and bailed in some vain acclamations with the title of Casar; while John and Stephen were declared marquis of Ancona and count of Romagna by Nicholas the fourth, a patron so partial to their family, that he has been delineated, in satirical portraits, imprisoned as it were in a hollow pillar.1 After his decease, their haughty

To longingua dodlt tellus et pascua Rheni, says Petrarch 1 and, in 1447, a duke of Guilders and Juliers acknowledges (Lonfant, Hint, du Cancile de Constance, turn, II, p. 539) his dissent from the ancestors of Martin a (Other Columns a but the royal author of the Memoirs of Brandon org observes, that the scripter in his arms has been empounded with the estarms. To maintain the Rousse origin of the Colonia, it was improvedy approved (Disrie di M maideschi, in the Script. Itali none afr, p. 633:, that a cousin of the emperor News except from the city, and founded Menta in Gormany.

a f cannot everlock the Roman trumph or couling of Marco Actonio Colorna, who had convinued of the pope's gallies at the mayst sectory of Lepunto (Timms Hist. L T, torn. 10, p. 55, 56, Murat-Oratio x. Opp. tom. i. p. 180-190).

Muraturi, Annali d'Italia, toma x, p. 216, 210.

behaviour provoked the displeasure of the most im- CHAR. placable of mankind. The two cardinals, the uncleand the nephew, denied the election of Boniface the eighth; and the Colonna were oppressed for a moment by his temporal and spiritual arms. He proclaimed a crusade against his personal enemies; their estates were confiscated; their fortresses on either side of the Tyber were besieged by the troops of St. Peter and those of the rival nobles; and after the ruin of Palestrina or Prasneste, their principal seat, the ground was marked with a ploughshare, the emblem of perpetual desolution. Degraded, bunished, proscribed, the six brothers, in disguise and danger, wandered over Europe without renouncing the hope of deliverance and revenge. In this double hope, the French court was their surest asylum; they prompted and directed the enterprise of Philip; and I should praise their magnanimity, had they respected the misfortune and courage of the captive tyrant. His civil acts were annulled by the Roman people, who restored the honours and possessions of the Colonna; and some estimate may be formed of their wealth by their losses, of their losses by the damages of one hundred thou-Permer's attachment is the Colonna, has authorised the abby de Sade to experiate on the state of the fearly in the fourteenth example, the personation of Bonifices vor, the character of Starben and Edwards, their quarrels with the Crimi, &c., Marmin is not Personate, tom. 1, p. 88-170, 146-148, 174-176, 122-130, 275-130). He criticism attact rectifies the hoursey strike of Villani, and the arrows of the less diligent moderna. I understand the branch of Virginia to be now exitent.

LETE ----

CHAP, sandgold florins which were granted them against the accomplices and heirs of the deceased pope. All the spiritual censures and disqualifications were abolished by his pradent successors; and the fortune of the house was more firmly established by this transient hurricane. The holdness of Sciarra Colonna was signalised in the captivity of Boniface, and long afterwards in the coronation of Lewis of Bavaria; and by the gratitude of the emperor, the pillar in their arms was encircled with a royal crown. But the first of the family in fame and merit was the elder Stephen, whom Petrurch loved and esteemed as an hero superior to his own times, and not unworthy of ancient Rome. Persecution and exile displayed to the nations his abilities in peace and war; in his distress he was an object, not of pity but of reverence; the aspect of danger proyoked him to ayow his name and country; and when he was asked, " where is now your for-"tress?" he laid his hand on his heart, and answered, " here." He supported with the same virtue the return of prosperity; and till the roin of his declining age, the ancestors, the character, and the children of Stephen Colonna, exalted his dignity in the Roman republic, and at the court.

and Cesial, of Avignon. 11. The Ursini migrated from Spo-

Alexander in but declared the Colonia who adhered to the empoor Predicte s, incapable of holding my excludational benefice (Villant, I. v. c. i) a and the last states of annual excommunication were purifind by Sixtus v Vita di Sixto va (terre ille p. 416). Tremon, and critique, preceription, are often the best titles of ancient nobility.

leto; the sons of Ursus, as they are styled in CHAP. the twelfth century, from some eminent person, LXIX. who is only known as the father of their race. But they were soon distinguished among the nobles of Rome, by the number and bravery of their kinsmen, the strength of their towers, the honours of the senate and sacred college, and the elevation of two popes, Celestin the third and Nicholas the third, of their name and lineage." Their riches may be accused as an early abuse of nepotism: the estates of St. Peter were alienated in their favour by the liberal Celestin; and Nicholas was ambitious for their sake to solicit the alliance of monarchs; to found new kingdoms in Lombardy and Tuscany; and to invest them with the perpetual office of senators of Rome. All that has been observed of the greatness of the Co-

— Valille te proxima mielt Appendinigene qu'i prate vicentia sylve Spoistane metunt armente greges protervi.

Monaldeschi (tom. xii, Script. Ital. p. 535) gives the Uraini a French origin, which may be remotely true.

" In the metrical life of Colestin v, by the randinal of St. George (Mountari, tom. iii, p. 1, p. 613, &c.), we find a luminous, and not incline many (L. 1, c. 3, p. 203, &c.):

Progenies, Romann domus, veterataque magnis Fascibus in ciero, pompasque experta secutite, Relforumque manú grandi atipata parenjum
Cordineos apiera necesor fastigia dudum
Papatha iterata tenena.

Maratori (Dissert. III, tom. xill, p.) observer, that the first Ursini parallelie of Celestine III was naknown r he is inclined to read 'Grei programs.

Fill Grai, quondam Codostini pape nepotes, de hemia scrission Romanos dimiti Vit. Innocent m., in Muratori, Script tom. III., p. 0. The partial productity of Nicholas in is smore complement in Villani and Muratori. Yet the Uraini would distant the unphews of a modern pope.

VOL. XII.

LXIX.

Their hereditary frada.

CHAP. lonns, will likewise redound to the glory of the Ursini, their constant and equal antagonists in the long hereditary feud, which distracted above twohundred and fifty years the ecclesiastical state. The jealousy of pre-eminence and power was the true ground of their quarrel; but as a specious badge of distinction, the Colonna embraced the name of Ghibelines and the party of the empire; the Ursini espoused the title of Guelphs and the cause of the church. The engle and the keys were displayed in their adverse hanners; and the two factions of Italy most furiously raged when the origin and nature of the dispute were long since forgotten." After the retreat of the popes to Avignon, they disputed in arms the vacant republic; and the mischiefs of discord were perpetuated by the wretched compromise of electing each year two rival senators. By their private hostilities, the city and country were desolated, and the fluctuating balance inclined with their alternate success. But none of either family had fallen by the sword, till the most renowned champion of the Ursini was surprised and slain by the younger Stephen Colonna.4 His triumph is stained with the reproach of violating the truce; their defeat was basely avenged by the assassination, before the church-door, of an innocent boy and his two servants. Yet the victorious Co-

^{*} In his afty-first Disserration on the Italian Antiquities, Muratori explains the factions of the Goelphy mil Chibelines.

^{*} Petrarch (tom- 1, p. 222-230) has eclabrated this victory according to the Colonne; but two contemporaries, a Florestine (Giovanni Willeni, I. x, c. 220) und a Bomun (Ludovico Menainerchi, p. 353, $34), are less favourable to their arms.

lonna, with an annual colleague, was declared charsenator of Rome during the term of five years. And the muse of Petrarch inspired a wish, a hope, a prediction, that the generous youth, the son of his venerable hero, would restore Rome and Italy to their pristine glory; that his justice would extirpate the wolves and lions, the serpents and bears, who laboured to subvert the eternal basis of the marble column.

4 The abid do Sade Joon. 1, notes, p. 61-66) has applied the stath contains of Petrarch. Sports Gentil, &c. to Stephen Column the Jounger:

Over, tupe, bond, aquile a surpt.

Ad nos gran manneres estena

Fanno noja savente « à se danne.

CHAP, LXX.

Character and coronation of Petrucch .- Restoration of the freedim and government of Rome by the tribune Riomi.- His virtues and vices, his expulsion and death .- Return of the popes from Avignon .- Great schim of the West .- Re-summ of the Lotin church - Last struggles of Roman liberty. - Statules of Rome. - Final settlement of the ecclesiastical state.

LXX. Petrurch. June 13-A St. 1374, Auty 10.

CHAP. In the apprehension of modern times, Petrarch is the Italian songster of Laura and love, the harmony of his Tuscan rhymes, Italy applauds, or rather adores, the father of her lyric poetry; and his verse, or at least his name, is repeated by the enthusiasm, or affectation of amorous sensibility. Whatever may be the private taste of a stranger, his slight and superficial knowledge should humbly acquiesce in the taste of a learned nation: yet I may hope or presume, that the Italians do not compare the tedious uniformity of sonnets and elegies, with the sublime

A The Memilieu and la Vie de Pennyais Petrarijus (Amidurdam), 1766, 1767, 3 vpla, in 600) form a coplous, original, and entertaining work, a labour of lover, composed from the accurate study of Petrarch and his contemperation; but the here is too often lost in the general history of the age, and the author too after languisher in the affectation of politeness and gallantry. In the preface to his first volume, he enumerates and weight twenty Italian bliggraphers, who have prefemedly treated of the same subject.

compositions of their epic muse, the original wild- chap. ness of Dante, the regular beauties of Tasso, and LXX. the boundless variety of the incomparable Ariosto. The merits of the lover I am still less qualified to appreciate; nor am I deeply interested in a metaphysical passion for a nymph so shadowy, that her existence has been questioned;3 for a matron so prolific, that she was delivered of eleven legitimate children,4 while her amorous swain sighed and sung at the fountain of Vaucluse." But in the eyes of Petrarch, and those of his graver contemporaries, his love was a sin, and Italian verse a frivolous unusement. His Latin works of philosophy, poetry, and eloquence, established his serious reputation, which was soon diffused from Avignon over France and ^{*} The allegorical interpretation provailed in the "iffrenth contary a but the wise commontators were not agreed whether they should understand by Laura, religion, or virtue, or the blemed virgin, or second volume.

See the preface to the first and second volume.

Laure de Noves, horn about the year 1307, was married, in Jamusry 1325, to Hugues de Sade, a noble efficie of Avignon, whose judicitary was not the effect of love, since he married a second wife with in screet meeties of new death, which happened the 6th of April 1248, precisely one-and-twenty years after Petrasch had seen good invest her.

Corpus crebris partubus exhaustim : from one of these is lessed, in the tenth degree, the able do Sade, the fond and grateful hiegmpher of Petrafth; and this domestic motive most probably suggested the idea of his work, and organ him to enquire into every elemnistance that could affect the history and character of his grandmother (see particularly tom. 1, p. 172-133, notes, p. 7-58, tom. 8, p. 855-495, not. p. 76-82).

[•] Vauchies, as familier to our linguish travellers, is decribed from the writings of Petrzech, and the local knowledge of his bingrapher (Memodres, tent. 1, p. 340-359). It was, in truth, the retreat of an hermit, and the moderne are much mistaken, if they pince Laura and an happy lever in the grotto.

CHAP. Italy: his friends and disciples were multiplied in every city; and if the ponderous volume of his writings' be now abandoned to a long repose, our gratitude must applaud the man, who by precept and example revived the spirit and study of the Augustan age. From his earliest youth, Petrarch aspired to the poetic crown. The acadenical honours of the three faculties had introduced a royal degree of master or doctor in the art of poetry;" and the title of poet-laurent, which custom, rather than vanity, perpetuates in the English court, was first invented by the Cæsars of Germany. In the musical games of antiquity, a prize was bestowed on the victor;

COT 1250 pages, in a close print, at Basil in the sixteenth conmry, fair without the date of the year. The abbe de Sade calls aloud for a new edition of Petrareh's Latin works; but I much doobs whether it would reduced to the profit of the bookseller, or the auror, count of the public.

a Council Seldon's Titles of Henour, in his works (vol. iii, p. 437-460). An implied years before Persuch, 54. Francis received the when of a goes, qui ab imperature formi esquiarms et exhibit rex. versortime distress.

^{*} From Augustus to Louis, the 'mose has too offer been false and yeard; but I much doubt whether any uge or court can produce a similar establishment of a stipendiary post, who in every reign, and at all events, to bound to formith twice a year a measure of praise and verse, such at may be sung in the chapel, and, I believe, in the preserge, of the macroign. I speak the most freely, as the best time for abeliableg this ridentous rustom, is while the prince is a men of virtue, and the past a man of gentie,

I faccentes the Panegymes, term. 1, p. 116, 117, effit. Battle, Cantals, 1729; cities for his major Athens the glory of first implicating and recommending the system are on which payors are pass regar and jures, all a der depay on passes. The example of the Panatheness. was imitated at Delphi's but the Otympic games were ignorant of a minical crown, till it was exterred by the sain tyronny of Nero (Surton, in Kerone, c. 23; Philastrat, apail Canadam ad forum; Dian Carrina, or Xiphilin, I. Inill, p. 1032, 1041. Potter's Greek Antiquities, vol. i, p. 445, 450).

the belief that Virgil and Horace had been CHAP, crowned in the capitol inflamed the emulation LXX. of a Latin bard; and the laurel was endeared to the lover by a verbal resemblance with the name of his mistress. The value of either object was enhanced by the difficulties of the pursuit : and if the virtue or prudence of Laura was inexorable," he enjoyed, and might boast of enjoying, the nymph of poetry. His vanity was not of the most delicate kind, since he applauds the success of his own labours; his name was popular; his friends were active; the open or secret opposition of envy and prejudice was surmounted by the dexterity of patient merit. In the thirty-sixth year of his age, he was solicited to accept the object of his wishes; and on the same day, in the solitude of Vaucluse, he received a similar and solemn invitation from the senate of Rome and the university of Paris. The learning of a theological school, and the ignorance of a

^{*} The Capitoline games (certamen quinquenale, sussicum, equestre, gyuntleme) were instituted by Domitian (Section, c. 4) he the year of Christ Sc (Censusin de Din Natali, c. 18, p. 100, edit. Harsenmapy, and were not abuilded in the Courte cautory (Austrian de Professoribus Burdegel, v). It the every were given to superior merit, the exclusion of Statine (empitolia nostrue inficiata lyrse, Syre, L. 16, v. 31) may do homour to the games of the capitol; but the Latin poets who lived before Doubitian were crowned only in the public appinion.

Petrarch and the emptors of Rome were ignorant that the laural was not the Capitoline, but the Delphie, crown (Plin, Hist. Natur. xv, 39. Hist. Critique de la Republique des Lettres, tons 4, p. 150-220). The victors in the capitol were crowned with a guchind of oak leaves (Martial, L. iv, epigram 54).

^{*} The pious grandees of Laura has laboured, and not without success, to visitinte her immaculate chassity against the consures of the grave and the moors of the profung (turn it, moors, p. 76-83).

LXX.

CHAP. lawless city, were alike unqualified to bestow the ideal though immortal wreath which genius may obtain from the free applause of the public and of posterity; but the candidate dismissed this troublesome reflection, and after some moments of complacency and suspense, preferred the summons of the metropolis of the world.

His poetic coronation at Rouse, 41.0. 1311, April 8.

The ceremony of his coronation was performed in the capitol by his friend and patron the supreme magistrate of the republic. Twelve patrician youths were arrayed in scarlet; six representatives of the most illustrious families, in green robes, with garlands of flowers, accompanied the procession: in the midst of the princes and nobles, the senator, count of Anguillara, a kinsman of the Colonna, assumed his throne; and at the voice of an herald Petrarch arose. After discoursing on a text of Virgil, and thrice repeating his yows for the prosperity of Rome, he knelt before the throne, and received from the senator a laurel crown, with a more precious declaration, "This is the reward of merit." The people shouted " long life to the capitol and the poet!" A sonnet in praise of Rome was accepted as the effusion of genius and gratitude; and after the whole procession had visited the Vatican, the profane wreath was suspended before the shrine of St. Peter. In the act of diploma, which was presented to Petrarch, the title and prerogatives cuar, of poet laureat are revived in the capitol, after the lapse of thirteen hundred years; and he receives the perpetual privilege of wearing, at his choice, a crown of laurel, ivy, or myrtle, of assuming the poetic habit, and of teaching, disputing, interpreting, and composing, in all places whatsoever, and on all subjects of literature. The grant was ratified by the authority of the senate and people; and the character of citizen was the recompence of his affection for the Roman name. They did him honour, but they did him justice. In the familiar society of Ciccro and Livy, he had imbibed the ideas of an ancient patriot; and his ardent fancy kindled every idea to a sentiment, and every sentiment to a passion. The aspect of the seven hills and their majestic ruins confirmed these lively impressions; and he loved a country by whose liberal spirit he had been crowned and adopted. The poverty and debasement of Rome excited the indignation and pity of her grateful son; he dissembled the faults of his fellow-citizens; applanded with partial fondness the last of their heroes and matrons; and in the remembrance of the past, in the hope of the future, was pleased to forget the miseries of the present time. Rome was still the lawful mistress of the world: the pope and the emperor, her bishop and general, had abdicated their station by an inglorious retreat to the Rhône and the Danube; but if she could resume her virtue, the republic might again vindicate her liberty and dominion. Amidst the CHAP, indulgence of enthusiasm and eloquence. Petrarch, Italy, and Europe, were astonished by a revolution which realized for a moment his most splendid visions. The rise and fall of the tribune Rienzi will occupy the following pages: the subject is interesting, the materials are rich, and the glance of a patriot-bard will sametimes viviby the copious, but simple, narrative of the Florentine, and more especially of the Roman, historism.

^{*} The whole process of Petrarch's coveration is accurately described by the abbe de Sade (tom. 1, p. 425-435, tom. 11, p. 1-6, notem p. 1-13) from his own writings, and the Boman diary of Ludovice Menaldeschi, without mixing in this authentic narrative the more recent fables of Sannoccio Delbene.

[&]quot; The original act is printed among the Pieces Justificatives in the Memoires var Petrarque, tom. III, p. 40-43.

- . To find the proofs of his enthusiasm for Rome, I need only requant that the render would open, by chance, either Petrarch, or his French hisgrapher. The tarter has described the poet's first visit. to Rome from I, p. 323-333). But in the plans of much idle thetoric and amounty, Petorch might have atmost the present and fature say with an original argument of the city mul his coromation.
- It has been treated by the pen of a Jesuit, the P. du Cercenu, whose prochammers were (Conjuration de Nicolas Galleini, dit de Richal Tyrak do Hame, on 1347; was justilished at Paris 1748, in 12mm Lum indented to him for some facts and documents in John Harming, cross of Leige, a contemporary bistorian (Paheirium, Biblist, Lat. med. Rei, fun. 64, p. 273, tum. ec. p. 85).
- * The abod de Sade, who as recely expatitates on the history of the fourtweeth scattery, might brest as his proper subject a revolution in which the heart of Petrurch was so deeply engaged (Memsires, tom-II, p. 30, 31, 390-417, metes, p. 70-76, tem. III, p. 221-243, 366-375). Not an idea or a fact in the writings of Petrarch has probably necaped him-
- Giovani Villani, 1 xii, c. 89, 104, in Muratori, Rarum Halicarum Scriptores, mm. ziii, p. 969, 970, 981-983.
- * In his third sulome of Hallent antiquities (n. 249-518), Muratori has inserted the Fragmenta Historia Hormana alcanos 1327 usque all aumim 1854, in the original dialect of Rome or Naples in the fourteenth sentury, and a Latin version for the basely of strangers. It contains the most particular and authentic life of Cols (Nicholas) di Bionni; which had been printed at Bencelime 1627, in 4to, under the name of Tomaso Fertiliseen, who is only mentioned in this work as having been punished by the tillions for forgery. Human nature is scaroely

In a quarter of the city which was inhabited cuar. only by mechanics and Jews, the marriage of an LXX. innkeeper and a washerwoman produced the future wash, chadeliverer of Rome. From such parents Nicholas periode Rienzi Gahrini could inherit neither dignity nor migns of fortune; and the gift of a liberal education, which they painfully bestowed, was the cause of his glory and untimely end. The study of history and eloquence, the writings of Cicero, Seneou, Livy, Casar, and Valerius Maximus, elevated above his equals and contemporaries the genius of the young plebeign; he perused with indefatigable diligence the manuscripts and marbles of antiquity; loved to dispense his knowledge in familiar language; and was often provoked to exclaim, " Where are now these Romans? their " virtue, their justice, their power? why was I " not born in those happy times?" When the sourcely capable of such sublime or stapid importiality; but whoseever is the author of these fragments, he wrote on the spot and at the time, and paints, without design or set, the manners of Rome and the character of the tribune.

The first and splendid period of Hierar, his tribunitian government, is considered in the sighteenth chapter of the Pregments (p. 309-479), which, to the new division, forms the second book of the history in 38 smaller chapters or sections.

The reader may be pleased with a specimen of the original idism is Fo da son juventurine autrivate di latte de elequentia, bone granutice, megliore rettuorice, autorista knun. Deli come et quanto era veloce lairora i umita mava Tiro Livio, Senece, et Tullio, et Balerio Massimo, smits il dilettava le magnificantie di Julio Cesare raccontare. Tutta la die se speculava negl' intagli di marmo lequali incissistaran Roma. Non era altri che muo, che napensa lejere il antichi patadili. Tutte scritture antiche valgatizzava; quesse fure di marmo justamente interpretava. On come spesso diceva, " Dove susco quelli se buoni Rumani! diove ensioro fonuma justina? poteramme trovare in tempo che quessi furiano!"

CHAP, republic addressed to the throne of Avignon an embassy of the three orders, the spirit and eloquence of Rienzi recommended him to a place among the thirteen deputies of the commons. The orator had the honour of haranguing pope Clement the sixth, and the satisfaction of conversing with Petrarch, a congenial mind; but his aspiring hopes were chilled by disgrace and poverty; and the patriot was reduced to a single garment and the charity of the hospital. From this misery he was relieved by the sense of merit or the smile of favour; and the employment of apostolic notary afforded him a daily stipend of five gold florins, a more honourable and extensive connection; and the right of contrasting, both in words and actions, his own integrity with the vices of the state. The eloquence of Rienzi was prompt and persuasive : the multitude is always prone to envy and censure : he was stimulated by the loss of a brother and the impunity of the assassins; nor was it possible to excuse or exaggerate the public calamities. The blessings of peace and justice, for which civil society has been instituted, were banished from Rome: the jealous citizens, who might have endured every personal or pecuniary injury, were most deeply wounded in the dishonour of their wives and daughters;" they were equally oppressed by the arrogance of the nobles and the corruption of the magistrates; and the abuse of arms or of laws was the only circumstance that distinguished the lims from the dogs CHAP. and serpents of the capitol. These allegorical LXX. emblems were variously repeated in the pictures which Rienziexhibited in the streets and churches; and while the spectators guzed with curious wonder, the bold and ready orator unfolded the meaning, applied the satire, inflamed their passions, and announced a distant hope of comfort and deliverance. The privileges of Rome, her eternal sovereignty over her princes and provinces, was the theme of his public and private discourse; and a monument of servitude became in his hands a title and incentive of liberty. The decree of the senate, which granted the most ample prerogatives to the emperor Vespasian, had been inscribed on a copperplate still extant in the choir of the church of St. John Lateran." A numerous assembly of nobles and plebeians was invited to this political lecture, and a convenient theatre was erected for their reception. The notary appeared, in a magnificent and mysterious habit, explained the inscription by a version and commentary," and descanted with eloquence and zeal on the ancient glories of the senate and people, from whom all legal authority was derived. The supine igno-

^{*} Perrarch compares the jealousy of the Romans with the cast temper of the furshands of Avignou (Memoires, tum, I, p. 330).

The fragments of the Lex Regis may be found in the Inscriptions of Genter, tom. i, p. 282, and at the end of the Taurius of Ermetti, with some learned notes of the editor, tom. it.

I cannot overlook a stopendoons and laughable blunder of Hianni. The Lex Regis empowers Verpasius to enlarge the Permuritus, a word familiar to every antiquary. It was not so to the tributer; he confounds it with personner an orchard, translates to Jardino de Roma cioene Italiar, and is copied by the less excussible ignorance of the Latin translator (p. 406) and the French historian (p. 33). Even the learning of Muratari has simplered over the principa.

CHAP, rance of the nobles was incapable of discerning the serious tendency of such representations : they might sometimes chastisc with words and blows the plebeian reformer; but he was often suffered in the Colonna palace to amuse the company with his threats and predictions; and the modern Brutus was concealed under the mask of folly and the character of a buffoon. While they indulged their contempt, the restoration of the good estate, his favourite expression, was entertained among the people as a desirable, a possible, and at length as an approaching, event; and while all had the disposition to applaud, some had the courage to assist, their promised deliverer.

He me sumes the movemment of Rome, a n. 1347, May 20.

A prophecy, or rather a summons, affixed on the church-door of St. George, was the first public evidence of his designs; a nocturnal assembly of an hundred citizens on mount Aventine, the first step to their execution. After an outh of secrecy and aid, he represented to the conspirators the importance and facility of their enterprise; that the nobles, without union or resources, were strong only in the fear of their imaginary strength; that all power, as well as right, was in the bands of the people; that the revenues of the apostolical chamber might relieve the public distress; and that the pope himself would approve their victory over the common enemies of government and freedom. After securing a faithful band to protect his first declaration, he proclaimed through the city, by sound of trumpet, that on the evening CHAP. of the following day all persons should assemble without arms before the church of St. Angelo, to provide for the re-establishment of the good estate. The whole night was employed in the celebration of thirty masses of the Holy Ghost; and in the morning, Rienzi, bareheaded, but in complete armour, issued from the church, encompassed by the hundred conspirators. The pope's vicar, the simple bishop of Orvieto, who had been persuaded to sustain a part in this singular ceremony, marched on his right hand; and three great standards were borne aloft as the emblems of their design. In the first, the banner of liberty, Rome was seated on two lions, with a palm in one hand and a globe in the other : St. Paul, with a drawn sword, was delineated in the hanner of justice; and in the third, St. Peter held the keys of concord and peace. Rienzi was encouraged by the presence and applause of an innumerable crowd, who understood little, and hoped much; and the procession slowly rolled forwards from the castle of St. Angelo to the capitol. His triumph was disturbed by some secret emotion which he laboured to suppress: he ascended without opposition, and with seeming confidence, the citadel of the republic; harangued the people from the balcony; and received the most flattering confirmation of his acts and laws. The nobles, as if destitute of arms and counsels, beheld in silent consternation this strange revolution; and the moment had been prodently chosen, when the most formidable, Stephen Colonna, was

^{*} Priori (Brote) tamen similier, Juvenie tsterque, longe ingrafo spinon cripia simulationesti inducrate, ut sub boc obtentà liberator ille P. R. aperirettar tempore suo. . . The regime, hie tyrantis conscreptus (Opp. p. 436).

CHAP, absent from the city. On the first rumour, he returned to his palace, affected to despise this plebeinn tumult, and declared to the messengers of Rienzi, that at his leisure he would east the madman from the windows of the capitol. great bell instantly rang an alarm, and so rapid was the tide, so argent was the danger, that Colonna escaped with precipitation to the suburb of St. Laurence: from thence, after a moment's refreshment, he continued the same speedy career till be reached in safety his castle of Palestrina; lamenting his own imprudence, which had not trampled the spark of this mighty conflagration. A general and peremptory order was issued from the capitol to all the nobles, that they should peaceably retire to their estates: they obeyed; and their departure secured the tranquillity of the free and obedient citizens of Rome.

willly that sitie and effice of tethame.

But such voluntury obedience evaporates with the first transports of zent; and Rienzi felt the importance of justifying his usurpation by a regular form and a legal title. At his own choice, the Roman people would have displayed their attachment and authority, by lavishing on his head the names of senator or consul, of king or emperor: he preferred the ascient and modest appellation of tribune; the protection of the commons was the essence of that sacred office; and they were ignorant, that it had never been invested with any share in the legislative or executive powers of the Lassacos republic. In this character, and with the consent consensus of the Romans, the tribune enacted the most salutary laws for the restoration and maintenance of the good estate. By the first he fulfils the CHAP. wish of honesty and inexperience, that no civil suit should be protracted beyond the term of fifteen days. The danger of frequent perjury might justify the pronouncing against a false accuser the same penalty which his evidence would have inflicted; the disorders of the times might compel the legislator to punish every homicide with death, and every injury with equal retaliation; but the execution of justice was hopeless till he had previously abolished the tyranny of the nobles. It was formerly provided, that none, except the supreme magistrate, should possess or command the gates, bridges, or towers, of the state; that no private garrisons should be introduced into the towns or castles of the Roman territory; that none should bear arms, or presume to fortify their houses in the city or country; that the barons should be responsible for the safety of the highways and the free passage of provisions; and that the protection of malefactors and robbers should be expiated by a fine of a thousand marks of silver. But these regulations would have been impotent. and nugatory, had not the licentious nobles been awed by the sword of the civil power. A sudden alarm from the bell of the capitol could still summon to the standard above twenty thousand volunteers: the support of the tribune and the laws required a more regular and permanent force. In each harbour of the coast, a vessel was stationed for the assurance of commerce; a standing militia of three hundred and sixty horse and thirteen hundred foot was levied, clothed, and paid, in the thirteen quarters of the city; and the spirit of a commonwealth may be traced in the grateful allowance of one hundred florins or pounds to the heirs of every soldier who lost his life in the service of his country. For the maintenance of the public defence, for the establishment of granaries, for the relief of widows, orphans, and indigent convents, Rienzi applied, without fear of sacrilege, the revenues of the apostolic chamber: the three branches of hearth-money, the salt-duty, and the customs, were each of the annual produce of one hundred thousand floring; and scandalous were the abuses, if in four or five months the amount of the salt-duty could be trebled by his judicious economy. After thus restoring the forces and finances of the republic, the tribune recalled the nobles from their solitary independence; required their personal appearance in the capitol; and imposed an oath of allegiance to the new government, and of submission to the laws of the good estate. Apprehensive for their safety, but still more apprehensive of the danger of a refusal, the princes and barons returned to their houses at Rome in the garb of simple and peaceful citizens; the Colonna and Ursini, the Savelli and Frangipani, were con-

CHAP.

[&]quot;To one as, I read 0, ii, c. 8, p. 409) persumants quatro soli, in mother quatro flecis, an important variety, since the florin was worth ten Roman solid (Murapor), dissert axviii). The formor reading would give us a population of 25,000, the latter of 250,000 families; and I much fear that the former is more consistent with the decay of Roma and her territory.

founded before the tribunal of a plebeian, of the CHAP. vile buffoon whom they had so often derided; and their disgrace was aggravated by the indignation which they vainly struggled to disguise. same outh was successively pronounced by the several orders of society, the clergy and gentlemen, the judges and notaries, the merchants and artisans; and the gradual descent was marked by the increase of sincerity and zeal. They swore to live and die with the republic and the church, whose interest was artifully united by the nominal association of the bishop of Orvietto, the pope's vicar, to the office of tribans. It was the boast of Rienzi, that he had delivered the throne and patrimony of St. Peter from a rebellious aristocracy; and Clement the sixth, who rejoiced in its fall, affected to believe the professions, to applied the merits, and to confirm the title, of his trusty servant. The speech, perhaps the mind, of the tribune was inspired with a lively regard for the purity of the faith; he insimuated his claim to a supernatural mission from the Holy Ghost; enforced, by an heavy forfeiture, the annual duty of confession and communion; and strictly guarded the spiritual as well as temporal welfare of his faithful people.4

Never perhaps has the energy and effect of a prestime single mind been more remarkably felt than in the perhy of the sudden, though transient, reformation of the Boundar Rome by the tribune Rienzi. A den of rob trapulate. Been was converted to the discipline of a camp

^{*} Horsemins, p. 288, apod do Cercum, Hist. de Blanco, p. 194, The aftern tribunition laws may be found in the Roman historian (whom for brevity I shall some) Portifores, L. 0, c. 4-

LXX

CHAP, or convent: patient to hear, swift to redress, inexorable to punish, his tribunal was always accessible to the poor and stranger; nor could birth, or dignity, or the immunities of the church, protect the offender or his accomplices. The privileged houses, the private sanctuaries, in Rome, on which no officer of justice would presume to trespass, were abolished; and he applied the timber and iron of their barricades in the fortifications of the capitol. The venerable father of the Colonna was exposed in his own palace to the double shame of being desirous, and of being unable, to protect a criminal. A mule, with a jar of oil, had been stolen near Capranica; and the lord of the Ursini family was condemned to restore the damage, and to discharge a fine of four hundred florins for his negligence in guarding the highways. Nor were the persons of the barons more inviolate than their lands or houses; and, either from accident or design, the same impartial rigour was exercised against the heads of the adverse factions. Peter Agapet Colonna, who had himself been senator of Rome, was arrested in the street for injury or deht; and justice was appeared by the tardy execution of Martin Ursini, who, among his various acts of violence and rapine, had pillaged a shipwrecked vessel at the mouth of the Tyber." His name, the purple of two cardinals, his uncles, a recent marriage, and a cnar. mortal disease, were disregarded by the inflexible tribune, who had chosen his victim. The public officers dragged him from his palace and nuptial bed; his trial was short and satisfactory; the bell of the capitol convened the people: stript of his mantle, on his knees, with his hands bound behind his back, he heard the sentence of death; and after a brief confession, Ursini was led away to the gallows. After such an example, none who were conscious of guilt could hope for impunity, and the flight of the wicked, the licentions, and the idle, soon purified the city and territory of Rome. In this time (says the historian) the woods began to rejoice that they were no longer infested with robbers; the oxen began to plough; the pilgrims visited the sanctuaries; the roads and inns were replenished with travellers; trade, plenty, and good faith, were restored in the markets; and a purse of gold might be exposed without danger in the midst of the highway. As soon as the life and property of the subject are secure, the labours and rewards of industry spontaneously revive: Rome was still the metropolis of the christian world; and the fame and fortunes of the tribune were diffused in and Avignon. 2. The militra were of Neples and the lale of Elearis, how skilled than those of Sirily and Groos. 3. The nerogation from Marceller was a counting voyage in the mouth of the Tyber, where they took shelter in a storm i but instead of inding the current, infinitionately sun on a shoult the versel was stranded, the martners escaped. 4. The cargo, which was pillegred, cassings of the revenue of Provence for the royal treasury, many bugs of papers and cinematon, and bales of Prenen cieth, to the value of F0,000 forms to a rich price.

[&]quot; Partifaces, I lie e. 11. From the account of this shipwreck wa learn some circumstances of the trule and auxigation of the age. I. The ship was built and freighted at Naples for the ports of Marseilles and

CHAP, every country by the strangers who had enjoyed the blessings of his government.

Tim tribirm is respecial in.

The deliverance of his country inspired Rienzi with a vast, and perhaps visionary, idea of hay, ac uniting Italy in a great federative republic, of which Rome should be the ancient and lawful head, and the free cities and princes the members and associates. His pen was not less cloquent than his tongue; and his numerous epistles were delivered to swift and trusty messengers. On foot, with a white wand in their hand, they traversed the forests and mountains; enjoyed, in the most hostile states, the sacred security of ambassadors; and reported, in the style of flattery or truth, that the highways along their passage were lined with kneeling multitudes, who implored heaven for the success of their undertaking. Could passion have listened to reason; could private interest have yielded to the public welfare; the supreme tribunal and confederate union of the Italian republic might have bealed their intestine discord, and closed the Alps against the burbarians of the North. But the propitious season had elapsed; and if Venice, Florence, Sienna, Perugia, and many inferior cities, offered their lives and fortunes to the good estate, the tyrants of Lombardy and Tuscany must despise, or hate, the plebeian author of a free constitution. From them, however, and from every part of Italy, the tribune received the most friendly and respectful answers; they were followed by the ambassadors of the princes and republies: and in this foreign conflux, on all the occasions of pleasure or business, the low- CHAP. born notary could assume the familiar or majestic courtesy of a sovereign. The most glorious circumstance of his reign was an appeal to his justice from Lewis king of Hungary, who complained, that his brother, and her husband, had been perfidiously strangled by Jane queen of Naples:8 her guilt or innocence was pleaded in a solemn trial at Rome; but after hearing the advocates," the tribune adjourned this weighty and invidious cause, which was soon determined by the sword of the Hungarian, Beyond the Alps, more especially at Avignon, the revolution was the theme of curiosity, wonder, and applause. Petrarch had been the pri- and refevate friend, perhaps the secret counsellor, of brated by Rienzi: his writings breathe the most ardent spirit of patriotism and joy; and all respect for the pope, all gratitude for the Colonna, was lost in the superior duties of a Roman citizen. The poet-laurent of the capitol maintains the

It was thus that Oliver Cromwell's old acquaintance, who remembered his valgar and ungracious entrance into the house of commore, were extended at the case and majors of the protector on his throne (see Harris's Life of Gramwall, p. 27-34, from Chrouding, Warwick, Whitelack, Waller, An., The consciousness of merit and power will sometimes elevate the manners to the station.

^{*} See the causes, circumstances, and effects, of the death of Andrew, In Glamone (tem. III, & ralil, p. 220-229) and the Life of Petrarch (Memoires, tom. ii, p. 143-148, 245-250, 575-379, mms. p. 21-37s. The abbe de Sade wisles to extenuate her guilt, [&]quot;The advocate who plraried squinst June could add nothing to the logical force and brevity of his master's epistle, Johanna ! Saurdinata vita pracedera, actentio potonictis in regno, neglecta sindicta, vir alter susceptus, et exemutio subsequens, necia un sui te profunt filles participem at commutem. Jane of Naples and Mary of Sects and have a singular confirmity.

CHAP.

act, applauds the hero, and mingles with some apprehension and advice the most lofty hopes of the permanent and rising greatness of the republic.

His views

While Petrarch indulged these prophetic visions, the Roman hero was fast declining from the meridian of fame and power; and the people, who had gazed with astonishment on the ascending meteor, began to mark the irregularity of its course, and the vicissitudes of light and obscurity. More eloquent than judicious, more enterprizing than resolute, the faculties of Rienzi were not balanced by cool and commanding reason: he magnified in a tenfold proportion the objects of hope and fear; and prudence, which could not have erected, did not presume to fortify, his throne. blaze of prosperity, his virtues were insensibly tinctured with the adjacent vices; justice with craelty, liberality with profusion, and the desire of fame with puerile and ostentatious vanity. He might have learned, that the ancient tribunes, so strong and sacred in the public opinion, were not distinguished in style, habit, or appearance, from an ordinary plebeian; and that as often as they visited the city on foot, a

¹ See the Epistola Hartatoria de Capessenda Republica, from Pertrarch to Nicholas Rienzi (Opp. p. 533-340), and the fifth ecloque, or pastoral, a perpetual and obscure allegary.

In his Reman Questions, Plutterh (Opesent tome i, p. 505, 506, edit. Grace. Hen. Steph.) states, on the most constitutional principles, the simple greatures of the tributes, who were not properly magistration, but a closel on magistracy. It was their duty and interest passed as the respective of the state of the property of the state of the single viator, or beadle, attended the exercise of cnar. their office. The Gracchi would have frowned EXX. or smiled, could they have read the sonorous titles and epithets of their successor, " Nicho-" las, severe and merciful; deliverer of Rome; " defender of Italy? friend of mankind, and " of liberty, peace, and justice; tribune august ?" his theatrical pageants had prepared the revo-Intion; but Rienzi abused, in luxury and pride, the political maxim of speaking to the eyes, as well as the understanding, of the multitude. From nature he had received the gift. of an handsome person," till it was swelled and disfigured by intemperance; and his propensity to laughter was corrected in the magistrate by the affectation of gravity and sternness. He was clothed, at least on public occasions, in a party-coloured robe of velvet or sattin. lined with for, and embroidered with gold: the rod of justice, which he carried in his hand, was a sceptre of polished steel, crowned with a globe and cross of gold, and inclosing a small fragment of the true and holy wood. In his civil and re-advisors to Language, Acc. History, and Petrurch historic, were incapable perhaps of reading a Greek philospher; but they might have imhibed the same modest doctrines from their favourite Latins, Livy and Valerius Maximus.

[&]quot;I could not express in English the forelide, though berharous, talls of Zelato- Italia, which Riems assumed.

[&]quot;Era bell' home (L. II, c.), p. 399). It is remarkable that the rise accessing of the Bracciano edition is wanting in the Ramas as, from which Muratori has given the text. In his second reign, when he is printed almost as a moneter, Richard fraven one ventressa tomas trionfale, a mode de une Ablante Asiano, or Asiano (L. III, c. 18, p. 523).

CHAP. LXX.

ligious processions through the city, he rode on a white steed, the symbol of royalty: the great banner of the republic, a sun with a circle of stars, a dove with an olive branch, was displayed over his head; a shower of gold and silver was scattered among the populace; fifty guards with halberds encompassed his person; a troop of horse preceded his march; and their tymbals and trumpets were of massy silver.

The pump of his kutghtneod, 4. m. 1547.

The ambition of the honours of chivalry" betraved the meanness of his larth, and degraded the importance of his office: and the equestrian August 1; tribune was not less odious to the nobles, whom he adopted, than to the plebeians, whom he deserted. All that yet remained of treasure, or luxury, or art, was exhausted on that solemn day, Rienzi led the procession from the capitol to the Lateran; the tediousness of the way was relieved with decorations and games; the ecclesiastical, civil, and military, orders marched under their various banners; the Roman ladies attended his wife; and the ambassadors of Italy might loudly applaud, or secretly decide, the novelty of the pomp. In the evening, when they had reached the church and palace of Constantine, he thanked and dismissed the numerous assembly, with an invitation to the festival of the ensuing day. From

Strange as it may ment, this festival was not without a precedent, In the year LaEl, two terrors, a Colomna and un Craint, the usual lufance, were created inlights by the Roman people a thrie bath was of rose water, their beds were decked with royal magnifectors, and they were occured at St. Maria of Aracell, in the capitol, by the recenty-night. bond Leonini. They afterwards received from Robert king of Naptes. the sword of chicalry (Hist. Rom. L. L. c. 2, p. 289).

the hands of a venerable knight he received the GHAP. order of the Holy Chast; the purification of the bath was a previous ceremony; but in no step of his life did Rienzi excite such scandal and censure as by the profane use of the porphyry vase, in which Constantine (a foolish legend) had been healed of his leprosy by pope Sylvester." With equal presumption the tribune watched or reposed within the consecrated precincts of the haptistery; and the failure of his state-bed was interpreted as an omen of his approaching downfall. At the hour of worship he shewed himself to the returning crowds in a majestic attitude, with a robe of purple, his sword, and gilt spurs; but the holy rites were soon interrupted by his levity and insolence. Rising from his throne, and advancing towards the congregation, he proclaimed in a loud voice: " We summon to our tribunal pope " Clement; and command him to reside in his " diocese of Rome; we also summon the sacred " college of cardinals," We again summon the " two pretenders, Charles of Bohemia and Lewis " of Bavaria, who style themselves emperors: " we likewise summon all the electors of Ger-" many, to inform us on what pretence they have

All parties believed in the Jeproxy and both of Constantine (Petravel, Epist Famil vi. II), and Rienai justified his own conduct by observing to the court of Avignon, that a year which had been and by a page, easily not be profund by a place christian. Yet this crime is specified in the built of excommunication (Riccombus, apart of Cervan, p. 189, 190.

This certal summers of pape Clement vi, which rests on the authority of the Roman historian and a Vatham we is disputed by the blog rapher of Petrach (tean. it, eat. p. 70-76), with arguments rether of decency than of weight. The court of Avigner might not chase to antuite this delicate questions

CHAP, " usurped the inalienable right of the Roman tim

" people, the ancient and lawful sovereigns of " the empire." Unsheathing his maiden sword, he thrice brandished it to the three parts of the world, and thrice repeated the extravagant declaration, " And this too is mine!" The pope's vicar, the bishop of Orvieto, attempted to check this career of folly; but his feeble protest was silenced by martial music; and instead of withdrawing from the assembly, he consented to dine with his brother tribune, at a table which had hitherto been reserved for the supreme pontiff. A banquet such as the Caesars had given, was prepared for the Romans, . The apartments, porticoes, and courts, of the Lateran were spread with innumerable tables for either sex, and every condition : a stream of wine flowed from the nostrils of Constantine's brazen horse; no complaint except of the scarcity of water, could be heard; and the licentiousness of the multitude was curbed by disvil cozona- cipline and fear. A subsequent day was appointed for the coronation of Rienzi; seven crowns of different leaves or metals were successively placed on his head by the most eminent of the Roman clergy; they represented the seven gifts of the Holy Ghost; and he still professed to imitate the example of the ancient tribunes. These extraordinary spectacles might deceive or flatter the people; and their own vanity was gratified in the CHAP. vanity of their leader. But in his private life he soon deviated from the strict rule of frugality and abstinence; and the plebeians, who were awed by the splendour of the nobles, were provoked by the luxury of their equal. His wife, his son, his uncle (a barber in name and profession), exposed the contrast of vulgar manners and princely expence; and without acquiring the majesty, Rienzi degenerated into the vices, of a king.

> 4 The summons of the two rival emperors, a monument of freedom and fully, is extant in Horsemina (Corpent, p. 163-166).

^{*} It is singular that the Rosman historian about have overlooked. this sevenfold coronation, which is sufficiently proved by internal evidence, and the testiment of Hocsemius, and even of Rienzi (Cer. Seau, p. 167-170, 2293.

LXX

A simple citizen describes with pity, or per-Fer and haps with pleasure, the humiliation of the barons the nobles of Rome. " Bareheaded, their hands crossed on of Rome " their breast, they stood with downcast looks in " the presence of the tribune; and they trembled; " good God, how they trembled !" As long as the yoke of Rienzi was that of justice and their country, their conscience forced them to esteem the man, whom pride and interest provoked them to hate: his extravagant conduct soon fortified their hatred by contempt; and they conceived the hope of subverting a power which was no longer so deeply rooted in the public confidence. The old animosity of the Colonna and Ursini was suspended, for a moment, by their common disgrace: they associated their wishes, and perhaps their designs; an assassin was seized and tortured; he accused the nobles; and as soon as Rienzi deserved the fate, he adopted the suspicions and ^{*} Paul se facera stare denante a es, mentre sedeva, il harsed tutti in diedi ritti co le vraccia piccato, e co li capucci scutti. Deb como stavano penrusi! (Hist. Rom. L. H. c. 20, p. 439). He saw them, and we see them.

QUAP, maxims, of a tyrant. On the same day, under various pretences, he invited to the capitol his principal enemies, among whom were five memhers of the Ursini and three of the Colonna name. But instead of a council or a banquet, they found themselves prisoners under the sword of despotism or justice; and the consciousness of innocence or guilt might inspire them with equal apprehensions of danger. At the sound of the great bell the people assembled; they were arraigned for a conspiracy against the tribune's life; and though some might sympathise in their distress, not a hand, nor a voice, was raised to rescue the first of the nobility from their impending doom. Their apparent holdness was prompted by despair; they passed in separate chambers a sleepless and painful night; and the venerable hero, Stephen Colonna, striking against the door of his prison, repeatedly urged his guards to deliver him, by a speedy death, from such ignominious servitude. In the morning they understood their sentence from the visit of a confessor and the tolling of the bell. The great hall of the capitol had been decorated for the bloody scene with red and white hangings; the countenance of the tribune was dark and severe; the swords of the executioners were unsheathed; and the barons were interrupted in their dying speeches by the sound of trumpets. But in this decisive moment, Rienzi was not less anxious or apprehensive than his captives; he dreaded the splendour of their names, their surviving kinsmen, the inconstancy of the people, the reproaches of the world; and, after rashly offering a mortal CHAP. injury, he vainly presumed that, if he could forgive, he might himself be forgiven. His elafiorate oration was that of a christian and a suppliant; and, as the humble minister of the commons, he entreated his masters to pardon these noble criminals, for whose repentance and future service he pledged his faith and authority. " If you are spared," said the tribune, " by the " mercy of the Romans, will you not promise " to support the good estate with your lives and " fortunes?" Astonished by this marvellous clemency, the barons bowed their heads; and, while they devoutly repeated the oath of allegiunce, might whisper a secret, and more sincere, assurance of revenge. A priest, in the name of the people, pronounced their absolution; they received the communion with the tribune, assisted at the banquet, followed the procession; and, after every spiritual and temporal sign of reconciliation, were dismissed in safety to their respective homes, with the new honours and titles of generals, consuls, and patricians."

During some weeks they were checked by the rasy opmemory of their danger, rather than of their de-passillanos liverance, till the most powerful of the Ursini, escaping with the Colonna from the city, erected at Marino the standard of rebellion. The fortifications of the castle were instantly restored; the vassals attended their lord; the outlaws

The original letter, in which Rienzi justines his transment of the Colonna (Hocermine, apad its Corrent, p. 222-229) implays, in genaline colours, the mixture of the known and the makeue.

CHAP.

armed against the magistrate; the flocks and herds, the harvests and vineyards, from Marino to the gates of Rome, were swept away or destroyed; and the people arraigned Rienzi as the author of the calamities which his government had taught them to forget. In the camp, Rienzi appeared to less advantage than in the rostrum; and he neglected the progress of the rebel barons till their numbers were strong, and their eastles impregnable. From the pages of Livy he had not imbibed the art, or even the courage, of a general; an army of twenty thousand Romans returned, without honour or effect, from the attack of Marino; and his vengeance was amused by painting his enemies, their heads downwards, and drowning two dogs (at least they should have been bears) as the representatives of the Ursini. The belief of his incapacity encouraged their operations: they were invited by their secret adherents; and the barons attempted, with four thousand foot and sixteen hundred horse, to enter Rome by force or surprise. The city was prepared for their reception: the alarm-bell rung all night; the gates were strictly guarded, or insolently open; and, after some hesitation, they sounded a retreat. The two first divisions had passed along the walls, but the prospect of a free entrance tempted the headstrong valour of the nobles in the rear; and, after a successful skirmish, they were overthrown and Defeat and massacred, without quarter, by the crowds of the death of the Roman people. Stephen Colonna the younger, Nov. 20. the noble spirit to whom Petrarch ascribed the restoration of Italy, was preceded or accompa- CHAP. nied in death by his son John, a gallant youth, LXX. by his brother Peter, who might regret the case and bonours of the church, by a nephew of legitimate hirth, and by two bastards of the Colonna race; and the number of seven, the seven crowns, as Rienzi styled them, of the Holy Ghost, was completed by the agony of the deplorable parent, and the veteran chief, who had survived the hope and fortune of his house, The vision and prophecies of St. Martin and pope Boniface had been used by the tribune to animate his troops:" he displayed, at least in the pursuit, the spirit of an hero; but he forgot the maxims of the ancient Romans, who abhorred the triumphs of civil war. The conqueror ascended the capitol; deposited his crown and sceptre on the altar; and boasted with some truth, that he had cut off an ear which neither pope nor emperor had been able to amputate." His base and implacable revenge denied the honours of burial; and the bodies of the Colonna, which he threatened to expose with those of the [&]quot;Berzi, in the share-mentioned letter, exciles to St. Marin the tribuce, Busifice sur, the reemy of Colorea, himself, and the Reema people, the giory of the day, which Villani likewise U. 12; c. 104) describes as a regular battle. The discreterly stirminh, the fight of the Romans, and the cowardies of Riemi, are pointed in the simple and minute marrative of Fartillocus, or the annoymous culture C. if, c. 34-37.

In describing the fall of the Colonna, I speak only of the family of Stephen the elder, who is often confounded by the P. An Corpus with his son. That family was extinguished, but the house has been perpenuated in the collateral branches, of which I have not a very accurate knowledge. Circumspice tanys Petrarch familia than statum Colonnatement of the colonnate Colonnatement of the collateral particular backet colonnate. Quid sit sem? mode fundamentum stabile, salidancy, paymental.

CHAR vilest malefactors, were secretly interred by the holy virgins of their name and family. The people sympathised in their grief, repented of their own fury, and detested the indecent joy of Rienzi, who visited the spot where these illustrious victims had fallen. It was on that fatal spot that he conferred on his son the honour of knighthood; and the ceremony was accomplished by a slight blow from each of the horsemen of the guard, and by a ridiculous and inhuman ablution from a pool of water, which was yet polluted with partrician blood.

Pall and Hightof the seiburg Rimete A . 347. Dec. 13.

A short delay would have saved the Colonna; the delay of a single month, which elapsed between the triumph and exile of Rienzi. In the pride of victory, he forfeited what yet remained of his civil virtues, without acquiring the fame of railitary prowess. A free and vigorous opposition was formed in the city; and when the tribune proposed in the public councils to impose a new tax, and to regulate the government of Perugia, thirty-nine members voted against his measures; repelled the injurious charge of freachery and corruption; and urged him to

I The sunvent of St. Silvester was founded, and overrestant, by the Colomos cardinals, for the daughters of the family who enisomed a monunic life, and who, in the year 1318, were twelve in number. The others were allowed to marry with their blis men in the fourth degree, and the dispersection was institled by the small number and also alliances of the judio families of Rome (Mermires nor Petrurque, tum L. p. 110, tum. H. p. 401).

[&]quot; Perrorch wents a stiff and pedantic letter of consulation (Fam. Losli, spin, 15, p. ser, serg. The relend was loss in the partiel. Nella toto orde principue Camilla codar a surior timen respublicamarine Boens, carlor Italia.

Ja vonde graves sun Dien de n'etre pas Romain.

[.] This enancil and opposition it obscurely mentioned by Pollimore, a contemporary writer, who has preserved some entires and appears. facts (Her. Stallmanns, tons arv, c. St. p. 198-908).

prove, by their forcible exclusion, that, if the CHAP. populace adhered to his cause, it was idready LXX. disclaimed by the most respectable citizens, The pope and the sacred college had meyer been dazzled by his specious professions; they were justly offended by the insidence of his conduct; a curdinal legate was sent to Italy, and after some fruitless treaty, and two personal interviews, he fulminated a bull of excommunication, in which the tribune is degraded from his office, and branded with the guilt of rebellion, sacrilege, and heresy," The surviving barons of Rome were now humbled to a scuse of allegiance; their interest and revenge engaged them in the service of the church; but as the fate of the Colonna was before their eyes, they abandoned to a private adventurer the peril and glory of the revolution. John Pepin, count of Minorbine in the kingdom of Naples, had been condemned for his crimes, or his riches, to perpetual imprisonment; and Petrarch, by soliciting his release, indirectly contributed to the ruit of his friend. At the head of one hundred and fifty soldiers, the count of Minorbino introduced himself into Rome : barricaded the quarter of the Colonna; and found

The herofa and buils of Clement vs against R(mm) are translated by the P. du Cerceta (p. 196, 232), from the Reclarational Acousts of Rodericas Regradus (s. s. 1347, No. 15, 17, 21, &z.), who found them in the archives of the Vations.

Mattee Villamijdearribes the origin, character, and death, of this sents of Minurbine, a mon de natura incomanne a course and, whose grandfatters, a crurty entary, was curiched and combiled by the epolish of the serament of Novers C. vil. c. 107, 107). See his imprisonment, and the officers of Perrarch, tens. ci. p. 149-131.

CHAP, the enterprise as easy as it had seemed impossible. From the first alarm, the bell of the capitol incessantly tolled; but, instead of repairing to the well-known sound, the people was silent and mactive; and the pusillanimous Rienzi, deploring their ingratitude with sighs and tears, abdicated the government and palace of the republic.

Revoluthose of Home, 4- m 1347-1354.

Without drawing his sword, count Pepin restored the aristocracy and the church; three senators were chosen, and the legate assuming the first rank, accepted his two colleagues from the rival families of Colonna and Ursini. The acts of the tribune were abolished, his head was proscribed; yet such was the terror of his name, that the barons hesitated three days before they would trust themselves in the city; and Rienzi was left above a month in the castle of St. Angelo, from whence he peaceably withdrew, after labouring, without effect, to revive the affection and courage of the Romans. The vision of freedom and empire had vanished: their fallen spirit would have acquiesced in servitude, had it been smoothed by tranquillity and order; and it was scarcely observed, that the new senators derived their authority from the apostolic see; that four cardinals were appointed to reform, with dictatorial power, the state of the republic. Rome was again agitated by the bloody feeds of the barons, who detested each other, and despised the commons ; their hostile fortresses, both in town and country, again rose, and were again demolished; and the peaceful citizens, a flock of sheep, were devoured, says the Florentine historian, by these rapa- CHAP. cious wolves. But when their pride and avarice and exhausted the patience of the Romans, a confraternity of the virgin Mary protected or avenged the republic: the bell of the capital was again tolled; the nobles in arms trembled in the presence of an unarmed multitude; and of the two senators, Colonna escaped from the window of the palace, and Ursini was stoned at the foot of the altar. The dangerous office of tribune was successively occupied by two plebeians, Cerroni and Baroncelli. The mildness of Cerroni was unequal to the times; and after a faint struggle, he retired with a fair reputation and a decent fortune to the comforts of rural life. Devoid of eloquence or genius, Baroncelli was distinguished by a resolute spirit : he spoke the language of a patriot, and trode in the footsteps of tyrants; his suspicion was a sentence of death, and his own death was the reward of his cruelties. Amidst the public misfortunes, the faults of Rienzi were forgotten; and the Romans sighed for the peace and prosperity of the good estate."

After an exile of seven years, the first deli-Adventures verer was again restored to his country. In the disguise of a monk or a pilgrim, he escaped from the castle of St. Angelo, implored the friendship of the kings of Hungary and Naples, tempted the ambition of every hold adventurer, ² The troubles of Rome, from the departure to the return of Riemal, are related by Marton Villani (t. ii. c. 47, 1. iii. c. 33, 57, 78) and Thomas Fortificace (f. iii. c. 1-4). I have slightly pused over these secondary characters, who imitated the original titleaus.

LXX

mingled at Rome with the pilgrims of the jubilee, lay concealed among the hermits of the Appennine, and wandered through the cities of Italy, Germany, and Bohemia. His person was invisible, his name was yet formidable; and the anxiety of the court of Avignon supposes, and even engnifies, his personal merit. The emperor Charles the fourth gave madience to a stranger, who frankly revealed himself as the tribune of the republic; and astonished an assembly of ambassador and princes, by the elequence of a patriot, and the visions of a prophet, the downfal of tyranny, and the kingdom of the Holy Ghost." Whatever had been his hopes, Rienzi found himself a captive ; but he supported a character of independence and dignity, and obeyed, as his own choice, the irresistible summons of the supreme pontiff. The geal of Petrarch, which had been cooled by the unworthy conduct, was rekindled by the sufferings and the presence, of his friend; and he boldly complains of the times, in which the saviour of Rome was delivered by her A prisoner emperor into the hands of her bishop. Rienzi was an Avignon, transported slowly, but in safe custody, from Prague to Avignon; his entrance into the citywas that of a malefactor; in his prison be was clinined by the leg; and four cardinals were named to inquire into the crimes of heresy and rebellion, ^{*} Those visions, of which the friends and the member of Rieneri seem alike (generate, are sorely magnified by the real of Pollisters, # Dominious impusitor . Rev. Hal. Som. war, c. 35, p. 818). - Had the tribons taught, that Christ was empedded by the Muly Guest, that the tyrning of the pope a unid be shellshad, he might have been conacted of herety and treasure without offending the House people.

But his trial and condemnation would have CHAP. involved some questions, which it was more prudent to leave under the veil of mystery: the temporal supremacy of the popes; the duty of residence; the civil and ecclesiastical privileges of the clergy and people of Rome. The reigning pontiff well deserved the appellation of Clement: the strange vicissitudes and magnanimous spirit of the captive excited his pity and esteem; and Petrarch believes that he respected in the hero the name and sacred character of a poet. Rienzi was indulged with an easy confinement and the use of books; and in the assiduous study of Livy, and the hible, he sought the cause and the consolation of his misfortunes.

The succeeding pontificate of Innocent the Revel, so nator of sixth opened a new prospect of his deliverance Roose, and restoration; and the court of Avignon was a substant persunded, that the successful rebel could alone appease and reform the anarchy of the metropolis. After a solemn profession of fidelity, the Roman tribune was sent into Italy, with the title of senator; but the death of Baroncelli appeared to supersede the use of his mission; and the legate, cardinal Albornoz, a consummate statesman, allowed him with reluctance, and

If The astonishment, the stry atmost, of Petrach is a proof, if not of the truth of this incredible fact, at least of his own territity. The abbe de Sade (Mennires, tone Di, p. 247) quotes the stath spindle of the thirteenth book of Petrach, but is is of the cord as which he consulted, and set of the columny Baill edition (p. 627).

F Agains, or Gibs Albornoz, a make Spinnard, architektop of Tobsic, and cardinal legate in Italy (a. s. 1982-1987), sectioned, by his arms and common, the temperal dominion of the paper. The life has been separately written by Separated a but Dayson could not reasonably suppose, that his name, or that of Wolsey, had resulted the sure of the Multi in Dan Scharforn.

LXX.

without aid, to undertake the perilous experiment. His first reception was equal to his wishes: the day of his entrance was a public festival; and his eloquence and authority revived the laws of the good estate. But this momentary sunshine was soon clouded by his own vices and those of the people; in the capitol, he might often regret the prison of Avignon; and after a second administration of four months. Rienzi was massacred in a tumult which had been fomented by the Roman barons. In the society of the Germans and Bohemians, he is said to have contracted the habits of intemperance and cruelty; adversity had chilled his enthusiasm, without fortifying his reason or virtue; and that youthful hope, that lively assurance, which is the pledge of success, was now succeeded by the cold impotence of distrust and despair. The tribune had reigned with absolute dominion, by the choice, and in the hearts, of the Romans: the senator was the servile minister of a foreign court; and while he was suspected by the people, he was abandoned by the prince. The legate Albornoz, who seemed desirous of his ruin, inflexibly refused all supplies of men and money : a faithful subject could no longer presume to touch the revenues of the apostolical chamber; and the first idea of a tax was the signal of clamour and sedition. Even his justice was tainted with the guilt or reproach of selfish cruelty: the most virtuous citizen of Rome was sacrificed to his jenlousy; and in the execution of a public robber, from whose purse he had been assisted, the magistrate too much forgot, or too much remembered, the obligations of the debtor. CHAP. A civil war exhausted his treasures and the patience of the city: the Colonna maintained their hostile station at Palestrina: and his mercenaries soon despised a leader whose ignorance and fear were envious of all subordinate merit. In the death as in the life of Rienzi, the hero and the coward were strangely mingled. When the capitol was invested by a furious multitude, when he was basely deserted by his civil and military servants, the intrepid senator, waving the banner of liberty, presented himself on the balcony, addressed his eloquence to the various passions of the Romans, and laboured to persuade them, that in the same cause himself and the republic must elther stand or fall. His oration was interrupted by a volley of imprecations and stones; and after an arrow had transpierced his bend, he sunk into abject despair, and fled weeping to the inner chambers, from whence he was let down by a sheet before the windows of the prison. Destitute of aid or hope, he was besieged till the evening : the doors of the capitol were destroyed with axes and fire; and while the senator attempted to escape in a plebeian habit, he was discovered and dragged to the platform of the palace, the fatal scene of his judgments and executions. A whole hour, without voice or motion, he stood amidst the multitude half naked and half dead; their rage was hushed into curiosity and wonder; the last

LXX

From Marten Villani and Fortificers, the P. du Ceryenn (p. 314-324) has extracted the life and death of the chevality Montreal, the life of a robber and the death of an bens. At the head of a free compeny, the lest that deschand Italy, he became the and formidable; he had money in all the banks ; $0,000 succes in Partus slope.

LXX AND DESIGNATION. Sept. S.

CHAR feelings of reverence and compassion yet struggled in his favour; and they might have prevailed, if a na date, hold assassin had not plunged a dagger in his * 1334 breast. He fell senseless with the first stroke; the impotent revenge of his enemies inflicted a thousand wounds; and the senator's body was abandoned to the dogs, to the Jews, and to the flames. Posterity will compare the virtues and failings of this extraordinary man; but in a long period of anarchy and servitude, the name of Rienzi has often been celebrated as the deliverer of his country, and the last of the Roman patriots,

Petrorely. mphenide the empeour Charles 4. m. 1355. James 15-Mary

The first and most generous wish of Petrarch lastus and was the restoration of a free republic; but after the exile and death of his plobeian hero, he turned his eyes from the tribune, to the king, of the Romans. The capitol was yet stained with the blood of Rienzi, when Charles the fourth descended from the Alps to obtain the Italian and imperial crowns. In his passage through Milau he recrived the visit, and repaid the flattery, of the poetlaurest; accepted a medal of Augustus; and promised, without a smile, to imitate the founder of the Roman monarchy. A false application of the names and maxims of antiquity was the source of the hopes and disappointments of Petrarch : yethe could not overlook the difference of times and characters; the immensurable distance between the first Carsars and a Bohemian prince, who by the favour of the clergy had been elected the titular head of the German pristocracy. Instead of re-

The calle, second government, and death, of Blenzi, are minutely related by the emonyment Reman, who appears neither his friend nor his county (). ii), c. 12-25). Petrarch, who loved the telbung, was Indifferent to the fate of the woulder, be had bound himself, by a secret treaty with the pope, to evacuate the city on the day of his coronation; and his shumeful retreat was pursued by the reproaches of the patriot bard.

After the loss of liberty and empire, his third He solicie and more humble wish was to reconcile the Avance of shepherd with his flock; to recal the Roman his fix their reshop to his ancient and peculiar diocese. In Ramo the fervour of youth, with the authority of age. Petrarch addressed his exhortations to five successive popes, and his eloquence was always inspired by the enthusiasm of sentiment and the freedom of language. The son of a citizen of Florence invariably preferred the country of his birth to that of his education; and Italy, in his eyes, was the queen and garden of the world. Amidst her domestic factions, she was doubtless superior to France both in art and science, in wealth and politeness; but the difference could scarcely support the epithet of harbarous, which he promisenously bestows on the countries beyond the Alps. Avignon, the mystic Babylon, the sink of vice and corruption, was the object of his hatred and contempt;

The looper and the disappointment of Petrarch are agreeably discribed in his own words by the Franch languages (Memoires, tous III, p. 375-410); but the deep, though accres, unland, was the companies of Zanobi the post-laurent by Charles re-

See in the exercise and amoung hierarcher, the application of Prinarch and Bone to Banedict six, in the year 1353 (Manufectum, 1, p. 261-265); to Clement vi, in 1313 (tont. E. p. 45-47); and to Urben v. in 1360 (tont. in, p. 611-361)) has peaked in. 711-715), and excess up. 777), of the last of those position. We assert controversy on the translation of France and Rady may be more (Opp. p. 1068-1083).

LXX.

but he forgets that her scandalous vices were not the growth of the soil, and that in every residence they would adhere to the power and luxury of the papal court. He confesses, that the successor of St. Peter is the bishop of the universal church; yet it was not on the banks of the Rhone, but of the Tyber, that the apostle had fixed his everlasting throne: and while every city in the christian world was blessed with a hishop, the metropolis alone was desolate and forlorn. Since the removal of the holy see, the sacred buildings of the Lateran and the Vatican, their altars and their saints, were left in a state of poverty and decay; and Rome was often painted under the image of a disconsolate matron, as if the wandering husband could be reclaimed by the homely portrait of the age and infirmities of his weeping spouse." But the cloud which hung over the seven hills would be dispelled by the presence of their lawful sovereign: eternal fame, the presperity of Rome, and the peace of Italy, would be the recompence of the pope who should dare to embrace this generous resolution. Of the five whom Petrarch exhorted, the three first, John the twenty-second, Benedict the twelfth, and Clement the sixth, were importuned or amused by the boldness of the orator; but the memorable

He spins this allegory beyond all memore or patience. The Epistics to Urban v. in process are more simple and personalive (Semilium, 1, 11), p. 811-827, h. is, epist, i. p. 814-856.

change which had been attempted by Urban the CHAP-fifth, was finally accomplished by Gregory the eleventh. The execution of their design was opposed by weighty and almost insuperable obstacles. A king of France, who has deserved the epithet of wise, - was unwilling to release them from a local dependence: the cardinals, for the most part his subjects, were attached to the language, manners, and climate, of Avignon; to their stately palaces; above all, to the wines of Burgundy. In their Return of eyes, Italy was foreign or hostile; and they reluc. . x 1367, tantly embarked at Marseilles, as if they had been ig. sold or banished into the land of the Saraccas, a c. 1370, Urban the fifth resided three years in the Vatican with safety and bonour: hissanctity was protected by a guard of two thousand horse; and the king of Cypros, the queen of Naples, and the emperors of the East and West, devoutly saluted their common father in the chair of St. Peter. But the joy of Petrarch and the Italians was soon turned into grief and indignation. Some reasons of publie or private moment, his own impatience or the prayers of the cardinals, recalled Urban to France; and the approaching election was saved from the tyrannic patriotism of the Romans. The powers of heaven were interested in their cause: Bridget of Sweden, a saint and pilgrim, disapproved the return, and foretold the death, of Urban Pinst rethe fifth: the migration of Gregory the eleventh men of was encouraged by St. Catherine of Sienna, the Gregory re. spouse of Christ and ambassadress of the Floren-Jan, 17. tines; and the pages themselves, the great masters of human credulity, appear to have listened to CHAP. these visionary females." Yet those celestial admonitions were supported by some arguments of temporal policy. The residence of Avignon had been invaded by hostile violence; at the kemi of thirty thousand robbers, an hero had extorted cansom and absolution from the vient of Christ. and the sacred college; and the maxim of the French warriers, to spare the people and plunder the church, was a new heresy of the most dangerous import." While the pope was driven from Avignon, he was stremously invited to Rome. The senate and people acknowledged him as their lawful sovereign, and laid at his feet the keys of the gates, the bridges, and the fortresses; of the quarter at least beyond the Tyber. But this loyal offer was accompanied by a declaration, that they could no longer suffer the scandal and calamity of his absence; and that his obstinacy would finally provoke them to revive and assert the primitive right of election. The abbot of mount

I Floury alleg w, from the annals of Oderleus Raynelder, the arts glind trusty, which was support the $1st of Documber 1876, between [&]quot; I have not leisure to experiate on the legends of St. Bridget se-5t. Carbonne, the last of which might furnish some amoving stories. They effect on the mind of Gregory sy is attented by the last antenna mounts of the dying pope, who adminished the assistants, at excessit ale hominidos, sine virie, elve villeribus, sub specie religion's loquentibes statemes an expitie, quie per table igns seduting, &c. (Raint, Not, of Vit. Pap. Avenienments, num. i, p. 1773.

^{*} This resistant expedition a related by Francisco (Chronique, tom, I, p. 230), and in the life of du Gusselin (Collection Generals des Memoires Historiques, toma et. v. 16, p. 105-1135. As early at the year 1301, the court of Avigness has been underted by theiling freebosters, who afterwards passed the Alps (Memoirus our Petracque, tum in, p. 305-500).

Cassin had been consulted whether he would accept the triple crown from the clergy and people; "I am a citizen of Rome," replicat that venerable ecclesiastic, " and my first law is the "voice of my country."

If superstition will interpret an untimely death; Bis death, if the merit of counsels be judged from the event; March 17: the heavens may seem to frown on a measure of such apparent reason and propriety. Gregory the eleventh did not survive above fourteen months his return to the Vatican; and his decease was followed by the great schism of the West, which distracted the Latin church above forty years. The sacred college was then composed of twenty-

The first case in region (Decemps, Gless Latin term v. p. 700), on the epite and indire of the popes, is ascribed to the gift of Constantiate. Checks The second was indeed by Humiles vin, as the emblem one only of a spiritual, but of a imposed, Lingdom. The three states of the church are represented by the triple crown, which was introduced by John and or Bancolet an (Mannores on Persangue, 1988, p. 259, 259).

^{*} History (Not., ad Pap. Avenion, tom. 6, p. 1194, 1195) produces the original evidence which arrests the threats of the Ramon unbestadors, and the vedgmation of the ablest of mount Cossin, qui place a sufficient, respectful to every Ramonum man, at this total quadratic believe.

^{*} The returns of the paper from Avigness to Bierre, and their reception by the couple, are calculated in the original Lives of DrSen v, and Gregory at, in Balance (Vit. Papperms Avenuessesium, term i, p. 383-486) and Muraham (Script, Rev. Hallengers, term iii, p. 1, p. 4, p. 383-486) and Muraham (Script, Rev. Hallengers, term iii, p. 1, p. 4, p. 383-486) and disputes of the whiten, every elementations may return by the decided the obselfaces of Cartille, and to which Raines in the late moter, so often and so largely appeals from a sea relume in the Harrey Harrey of 1981, &c.)

^{*} Can the done of a good was be teacened a punchioner by those who believe in the immertality of the matr. They berray the imitablity of their fault. Yet as a mere philosopher, I cannot agree with the Greeks, is a few passed are described. Proto Greener, p. 231. See in Herodatin (i. i. e. 31) the moral and plinning take of the Agrice youths.

EXX.

CHAP. two cardinals; six of these had remained at Avig. non; eleven Frenchmen, one Spaniard, and four lindians, entered the conclave in the usual form. Their choice was not yet limited to the purple :

Crimin Was April 9.

Elseum of and their unanimous votes acquiesced in the archhishop of Bari, a subject of Naples, conspicuous for his zeal and learning, who ascended the throne of St. Peter under the name of Urban the sixth. The epistle of the sacred college affirms his free and regular election; which had been inspired. as usual, by the Holy Ghost : ne was adorned, invested, and crowned, with the customary rights; his temporal authority was obeyed at Rome and Avignon, and his ecclesiastical supremacy was acknowledged in the Latin world. During several weeks, the cardinals attended their new master with the fairest professions of attachment and loyalty; till the summer heats permitted a decent escape from the city. But as soon as they were united at Anagni and Fundi, in a place of security, they east aside the mask, accused their own falsehood and hypocrisy, excommunicated the apostate and antichrist of Rome, and proceeded Election of Robert of Geneva, Clement the seventh, whom they announced to the nations as the true and rightful vicar of Christ. Their first choice, an involuntary and illegal act, was annulled by the fear of death and the menaces of the Romans; and their complaint is justified by the strong evidence of probability and fact. The twelve French cardinals, above two-thirds of the votes, were masters of the election; and whatever might be atheir provincial jeniousies, it cannot cuar. Tairly be presumed that they would have ucrificed their right and interest to a foreign candidate, who would never restore them to their native country. In the various, and often inconsistent, narranives," the shades of popular violence are more darkly or faintly coloured; but , the licentiousness of the seditions Romans was inflamed by a sense of their privileges, and the danger of a second emigration. The conclave was intimidated by the shouts, and encompassed by the arms, of thirty thousand rebels; the bells of the capitol and St. Peter's rang on alarm; " Death, or an Italian pope!" was the universal cry; the same threat was repeated by the twelvebannerots, or chiefs of the quarters, in the form of charitable advice; some preparations were made for burning the obstinute cardinals; and had they chosen a Transalpine subject, it is probable that they would never have departed alive from the Vutican. The same constraint imposed the necessity of dissembling in the eyes of Rome and of the world; the pride and cruelty of Urban presented a more inevitable danger; and they soon discovered the features of the tyrant, who could walk in his garden and recite his breviary, while he heard, from an adjacent chamber, six cardinals groaning on the rack,

Clement 9114 Sept. 21.

^{*} In the first best of the Histoire de Concle de Pier, M. Landelt has already of and conquired the intiginal morrower of the adherents of them and Circums, of the Stations and Germana, the Francis and Symmetric. The latter appear to be the most active and formation, and every feel and beautiful to be upon active and formation, and every feel and beautiful to be neighbor to the state addition of these actives are expressed to the notes of them edition below.

CHAP.

His inflexible zeal, which loudly consured their linkury and vice, would have attached them to the stations and duties of their parishes at Rome; and had he not fatally delayed a new promotion. the French cardinals would have been reduced to an helpless minority in the sucred college. For these reasons, and in the bone of repassing the Alps, they rashly violated the peace and unity of the church; and the merits of their double choice are yet agitated in the catholic schools." The vanity, rather than the interest, of the nation, determined the court and clergy of France.3 The states of Savoy, Sicily, Crprus, Arragon, Castile, Navarre, and Scotland, were inclined, by their example and authority, to the obedience of Clement the seventh, and, after his decease, of Benedict the thirteenth, Rome, and the principal states of Italy, Germany, Portugal, England, the Low Countries, and the kingdoms of the north, adhered to the prior election of Urban the sixth, who was suc-

[&]quot;The ordinal numbers of the poper seem to decide the question against Clement so and Remainst till, who are behild dignarized as antipopes by the Indians, while the French are content with authoriline and resons to plead the curse of doubt and toleration (Bainz, in Franks). It is simplier, or eather it is test singular, that misses, visions, and releasing absolid his currences to both parties.

^{*} Rainer stremments inhouse (Not, p. 1271-1280) to justify the pure and game making of Charles w, time of France: he refused to hear the importants of Urbins : but were not the irrhedists equally deaf to the reasons of Chement, Az. ?

An epocks, so designed line, for the name of Edward or (Halms VII. Page Availies, from it is $15) displays the sent of the English names against the committee. Now was their real sunfeed to words; the billion of Norwick led a criticals of 60,000 biguts beyond we (Hame's Hattery, vol. III, p. 57, 59).

ereded by Soniface the ninth, Innocent the se. CHAE.

venth, and Georgery the twelfth,

From the banks of the Tyber and the Rhone, treat the hostile postiffs encountered each other with or wer, the pen and the sword; the civil and ecclesi- tars. astical order & society was disturbed; and the Romans and tagir full share of the mischiefs of which they may be arraigned as the primary muthors. They had waisty flattered themselves with the hope of restoring the seat of the ecclesigstical monarchy, and of relieving their poverty with the tributes and offerings of the nations; but the separation of France and Spain Calominis diverted the stream of lucrative devotion; nor could the loss be compensated by the two juhiles which were crowded into the space of ten years. By the avocations of the schism, by foreign arms and popular tumults, Urban the sixth, and his three successors, were often compelled to interrupt their residence in the Vatican. The Colonna and Ursini still exercised their deadly feuds: the bannerets of Rome asserted and abused the privileges of a republic : the vicers of Christ, who had levied a military force, chastised their rebellion with the gibbet, the sword, and the dagger; and in a friendly conference, eleven deputies of the people were perfidiously nurdered and cast into the street-Since the invasion of Robert the Norman, the Romans had pursued their donustic quarrels ^{*} Besides the general hornerines, the Digites of Delphines Centifia, Peter Antonion, and Stephen Infrastra, in the green Collection of Marston's represent the state and satisferous of Rome.

LXX.

CHAP, without the dangerous interpositionful a stranger. But, in the disorders of the chism, an aspiring neighbour, Ladislaus, kine of Naples, alternately supported and betrayed the pope and the people; by the former he was declared gonfalonier, or general, of the cherch, while the latter submitted to his choice the nomination of their magistrates. Besieging Rome by land and water, he thrice entered the gates as a barbarian conqueror; profused the catgre, violated the virgins, pillaged the megchants, performed his devotions at St. Peter's, and left a garrison in the castle of St. Angelo. His arms were sometimes unfortunate, and to a'delay of three days he was indebted for his life and crown; but Ladislans triumphed in his turn, and it was only his premature death that could save the metropolis and the ecclesinstical state from the ambitions conqueror, who had assumed the title, or at least the powers, of king of Rome."

Nagmain. Martin Fill Person and moint. town 1373 LANT.

I have not undertaken the ecclesiastical history of the schism; but Rome, the object of these last chapters, is deeply interested in the disputed succession of her sovereigns. The first counsels for the peace and union of Christendom prose from the university of Paris, from the faculty of the Serbonica, whose dischars were esteemed, at least in the Caltinan church, as the most consummate

A.D. is suppressed by Generalize Horocket, p. 2202) that he styled himadd the there, a title where is the world size the experience of Torquin. But a result horsest a has jointfed the realing of Rex. Home, of Hims, an observe kingdom appoint to the crown of Humberr.

masters of theological science. Prudently wav- CHAP. ing all invalious inquiry into the origin and merits of the dispute, they proposed, as an healing measure, that the two pretenders of Rome and Avienon should abdicate at the same time, after qualifying the Cardinals of the adverse factions to join in a leggimate election; and that the nations should substract their obedience, if either of the competitors processed his own interest to that of the public At each vacancy, these physicians of the church Seprecated the mischiefs of an hasty choice; but the policy of the complave and the ambition of its members were deaf to reason and entrenties; and whotsoever promises were made, the pope could never be bound by the naths of the cardinal. During fifteen years, the pacific designs of the university were claded by the arts of the rival pontifis, the scruples or passions of their adherents, and the vicis itudes of French factions, that ruled the insunity of Charles the sixth. At length a vigorous resolution was embraced; and a solemn embassy, of the titular patriarch of Alescandria; two wchbishops, five bishops, five abbut, three knights, and twenty doctors, was sent to the courts of [&]quot;The leading and ductions part which Venez accounted in the critism, is stated by Pener do Pale in a superns History, extracted from unstantic venerity, and inserted to the except volume of the tast and been addition of his friend Thumana (p. al., p. 110-100).

^{*} Of this marries, John Greson, a most elemin, and lon author of the champion. The proceedings of the universe, at Pools and the Galffeet thursday after promoted by his adapta, and are especially displayed in his theological systems of reach to Con-18.5 to top of Chaldre, were a p. 1-Tel to give a minute action. John Greson and the ling of their part in the connects of the unit Constants.

LXX.

Avignon and Rome, to require, in the Pame of the church and king, the abdication of the two metenders, of Peter de Lung, who givled himself Benedict the thirteenth, and of Angelo Corrario, who assumed the name of Greekey the twelfth. For the ancient honour of Rome and the success of their commission, the umbase days solicited a conference with the magistrates of the city, whom they gentified by a possise declaration, that the most christian king did no external a wish of transporting the boly see Punf the Vatican, which he considered as the genuine and proper seat of the successor of St. Peter. In the name of the senate and people, an eloquent Roman asserted their desire to co-operate in the union of the church, deplored the temporal and spiritual calamities of the long schism, and requested the protection of France against the arms of the king of Ningles. The answers of Benedict and Gregory were alike edifying and alike deceitful; and, in evading the demand of their abdication, the two rivals were animated by a common spirit, They agreed on the necessity of a previous interview, but the time, the place, and the manner, could never be ascertained by mutual consent. " If the one advances," says a servant of Gregory, " the other retreats; the one appears an " animal fearful of the land, the other a creature " apprehensive of the water. And thus, for a " short remnant of life and power, will these " aged priests endanger the peace and salvation " of the christian world."

^{*} Lemandus Brumm Arvanus, one of the revivers of classic laurning

The chastian world was at length provoked cnar. By their obstitutey and fraud t they were deserted by their cardinals, who embraced each other count of as friends and colleagues; and their revolt was the 1400. supported by a numerous assembly of prelates and ambassadars. With equal justice, the council of Pish deposed the popes of Rome and Avignon; the conclave was unanimous in the choice of Alexander the fifth, and his variet sent was soon fiftingly a similar election of John the twenty-third, 17 most prolligate of mankind. But insterd of extinguishing the schism. the rashness of the Previou and Italians had given a third pretender to the chair of St. Peter. Such new claims of the synod and conclave were disputed: three kings, of Germany, Hungury, and Naples, adhered to the cause of Gregory the twelfth; and Benedict the thirteenth, bimself a Spaniard, was acknowledged by the devotion and patriotism of that powerful nation. The rush proceedings of Pisa were cur-Cometat rected by the council of Constance; the cuspe- a 1813for Sigismond acted a conspicuous part as the late. advocate or protector of the carholic church; and the number and weight of civil and exclesinstical members might seem to constitute the states-general of Europe. Of the three popes, John the twenty-third was the first victim; he fled, and was brought back a prisoner; the most on Raig, when, after serving many years as excentry in the Remon court, referred to the beauty-ride of the of chancellor of the two beauty of Photocock (Publics, Rightles, means May), came), p. 2300. Leadert ine given the extract of this core as equals (Consule in Pass, term 1, p. 192-180).

LXX.

CHAP, scandalous charges were suppressed the vicar of Christ was only accused of pirace, murder, rape, sodomy, and incest; and after subscribing his own condemnation, he explaced in prison the imprudence of trusting his burson to a free city beyond the Alps. Gregory the twelfth, whose obedience was reduced to the narrow precincts of Rimini, descended with more honour from the throne, and his ambassador convened the session, in which the renounced the title and authority of la-rat pope. To vanquish the obstinucy of Benedikt the thirteenth, or his adherents, the emperots in person undertook a journey from Constance to Perpignan. The kings of Castille, Arragon, Navarre, and Scotland, obtained an equal and honourable treaty; with the concurrence of the Spaniards, Benedict was deposed by the council; but the harmless old man was left in a solitary castle to excommunicate twice each day the rebol kingdoms which had deserted his cause. After thus eradicating the remains of the schiam, the synod of Constance proceeded, with slow and cautious steps, to elect the sovereign of Rome and the head of the church. On this momentous ocresion, the college of twenty-three cardinals was fortified with thirty deputies; six of whom were chosen in each of the five great nations of Christendom, the Italian, the German, the French, the Spanish, and the Emplish? the in-

[&]quot; I rained contlock this great particular cause, which was also a and a majorational by the English and another agreement those of Francis-The latter controlled, that Christian lan was countiedly distributed.

derference of strangers was softened by their CHAR.
generous preference of an Italian and a Roman;
and the hereditary, as well as personal, merit themse of Otho Coloma recommended him to the conclave. Rome described with joy and obedience the noblest of her some, the exclusivational state was defended to his powerful family, and the elevation of Marrin the fifth is the era of the restoration and establishment of the popes in the Vatican.

into the Barr greet mattern and seek of Italy, Germany, France, and Spains and their the thousand to the the transformation of England, Opening, Percept, (ed.) were emperiored in the Religion of the greet divisions. The English was said, that the Religion islands, of which they were the head, should be emissioned as a with and co-entinote emissi, with an isput ruter and every asymmet of truth of fishly was introduced to wralt the digury of time commy. Furnating Engined, Scotland, Water, the Day Lingdon of Iroland, and the Occupied, the British minute are discounted with eight cornt creeing. and discriminated by their or tree inspires, English, Wolch, Corpuls, Seconds, Irland, Am. The greater island from south to south pressures 800 miles, or 40 days isomey ; and England alone contains If coursthus, and $2,000 parish charries (a bold second f), header cathodrals, cultium, primire, and hospitals. They columns the relation of St. Joseph of Arimetha, the burth of Constantion, and the beauties powers of the two pointers without Largetting the leathning of flarthinking the Chartello (4, a. 1300), who acclaims only from excitons Large trees, L. of Bonney L. of Contact trees, L. of Arthurt, which had been transferred to the Buglish monachts, must be of Spaine Our summy man prevailed in the contest, but the sources of Henry a added much weight is their arguments. The advance plentings were found at Constance by Str Babert Wingfield, spinsonder to so Harry will be the empeyor Maximilian a, as I by Min printed by 1312 at Language, Sprom a Lemmin was they are smore correctly positional in the collection of Von der Harth, tom- a plant I have only - a Later fant's abstract of these arm (Comilie de Loustmore turn in p. 147, eat hmy

* The littleries of the three successive source, from Common, and Hall, there have neglets with a telepade of green of conduct, indicately, and disgunter, by a precisions minister, M. Laufant, wite control from France to Burlie. They form all evoluties in quarter and as that is the worst, or Common in the best, part of the soffertion.

The royal prerogative of coining roney, which CHAP. had been exercised near three hundred years by the senate, was first resumed by Martin the Martin v. fifth, and his image and superscription intro-6 × 1417 duce the series of the papul moduls. Of his two immediate anccessors, Eugenius the fourth was a a 1431. the last pape expelled by tod tumults of the National Roman people, and Nicholas the lifth, the last Let resorman emperor. 1. The presence of a Roof Romes with the fathers of Bood, and the weight or May 19- apprehension of a new excise, emboldened and provoked the Romans to asurp the temporal government of the city. They rose in arum, selerted seven governors of the republic, and a constable of the capitol; imprisoned the pope's nephew; besieged his person in the palace; and shot vollies of arrows into his bark as he escaped down the Tyber in the habit of a monic. But he still possessed in the castle of St. Angelo a faithful garrison, and a train of artil-

 The committee of Frederic m. is described by Lenburt (Coullé de Baile, tome B, p. 276-288), from Americ Sytting, a spectage and setter in that spiculaid serms.

^{*} See the treasty-meanth discriming of the Antiquities of Marators, and the first function of the Science des Medanics of the Pers-Jouleur and the Baron de la Bardle. The Meadle bishery of Martin *, and his successors, has been compared by two manks, Martines a Prenchman, and Bosson as Italian a bur I emberstand, that the heat just of the merse is authored from more reconstraint.

[&]quot;Residenthe Lives of Engenine or (Bernen Italie, term in, p. 1, p. 800, and term way, p. 226), the Diagree of Paul Percent and Stephens Informer, and the heat original evidence for the result of the Rotonne against Engenine re- The Journey, who lived at the time, and on the spot, speaks the language of a cliften, equally affinish of priest, by mid popular syrange.

lery: their catteries incessantly thundered on CHAP. the city, and a bullet more dextrously pointed axx. broke down the barricade of the bridge, and scattered with a single shot the heroes of the republic. The r constancy was exhausted by a rehellion of five months. Under the tyranny of the Ghibeline nothes, the wisest patriota regretted the dominion of the church ; and their repentance was unanimoheand effectual. The troops of St. Peter again odd red the capital; the magis trates desarted to 250 chomes; the most guilty ware executed or exiled; and the legate, at the bead of two thousand foot and four thousand horse, was saluted as the father of the city. The synuds of Ferrara and Florence, the fear or resentment of Eugenius, prolonged his absence; he was received by a submissive people; but the pontiff understood from the acclamations of his triumphal entry, that to secure their loyalty and his own repose, he must grant without delay the abolition of the odious excise. II. Rome was restored, as dorned, and enlightened, by the peaceful reign of Nicholas the fifth. In the midst of these landable occupations, the pope was ularmed bothe upproach of Frederic the third of Austria: though Landon of a his fears could not be justified by the character Ground or the power of the imperial candidate. After Probate drawing his military force to the metropolis, in this and imposing the best security of onthal and March 18.

The seth of fidelity imposed on the empeyor by the pape, is secorded and narraned in the Chemicalines (4 th, say, fa) a and Breas Sylvins, who objects to this new demand, excit not foreser, thus in a fre years he should arrend the thrum, and imitte the maxime, of Birmifice were.

CHAP.

treaties. Nicholas received with a spiling countenance the faithful advocate and vissal of the church. So tame were the times, so feeble was the Austrian, that the pump of his coronation was accomplished with order and hurmony: but the superfluous honour was so disgraceful to an independent nation, that his successors have excused themselves from the toil-one pit-grimage to the Valican and rest their imperial title on the choice of the electors of Germany.

The ustures and government of flome. A citizen has remarked, with pride and pleasure, that the king of the Romans, after passing with a slight salute the cardinals and prelates who met him at the gate, distinguished the dress and person of the senator of Rome; and in this last farewell, the pageants of the empire and the republic were clasped in a friendly embrace." According to the laws of Rome," her first magistrate was required to be a doctor of laws, an alien, of a place at least forty miles from the city; with whose inhabitants he must not be connected in the third canonical degree of blood or alliance. The election was annual; a severe scrutiny was instituted into the conduct of the ^{*} La samue di Somo cestio di contra ces quali se alle fone il cui quale contra, al manue mi ili per cui quali se alle fone ili Terraccio e Nagoro, migiti scape the aye of dinera ferritori, but be le she col with adulication and a replacator by abe il more etilema (Dinera di Supramo Informet, p. 1133).

See in the statutes of Rome, the country and three party of the 2-14), the concentrate of the Ch. 17, to the see of the country of the count departing segrator; nor could be be recalled to the CHAP. same office till after the expiration of two years. AXX. A liberal salary of three thousand florins was assigned for hit expense and reward; and his public appearance represented the majesty of the republic. His robes were of gold brocade or crimson velvet, or-in the summer season of a lighter silk; he bory in his hand an ivory sceptre; the sound of trumfets amesunced his approach; and his solemn strikt were preceded at least by four lictors or attenships, whose red wands were enveloped with banes or stramers of the galaien colour or livery of the city. His outh in the capitol proclaims his right and duty, to observe and assert the laws, to controul the proud, to protect the poor, and to exercise justice and mercy within the extent of his jurisdiction. In these useful functions he was assisted by three learned strangers, the (we collaterals, and the judge of criminal appeals; their frequent trials of robberies, rapes, and murders, are attested by the laws; and the westers sof these laws connives at the licentinuous of private tends and armed associations for manual defence. But the semular was confined to the administration of justice; the capitol, the treasury, and the government of the city and its territory was entrusted to the three conservators, who were changed four times in each year: the militia of the thirteen regions assembled under the hanners of their respective chiefs or corporately and the first of these was distinguished by the name and dignity of the price. The popular legislature consisted of the secret and the CHAP common councils of the Romans, wThe former was composed of the magistrates and their immediate predecessors, with some fiscal and legal officers, and three classes of therteen, twenty-six, and forty counsellors, amounting in the whole to about one hundred and twenty persons. In the common council all made citizens had a right to vote; and the value of their privilege was enhanced by the careswith which any foreigners were prevented from usurping the title and character of Romeds. The tumult of a democracy was checked by wise and jealous precantions; except the magistrates, none could propose a question; none were permitted to speak, except from an open pulpit or tribunal; all disorderly acclimations were suppressed; the sense of the unjority was decided by a secret ballot; and their decrees were promulgated in the venerable name of the Roman senate and people. It would not be easy to assign a period in which this theory of government has been reduced to accurate and constant practice, since the establishment of order has been gradually connected with the decay of liberty. But in the year one thousand five hundred and eighty, the ancient statutes were collected methodised in three books, and adapted to present use, under the pontificate, and with the approbation, of Gregory the thirteenth:" this civil and criminal code is the eit

LXX. *******

[.] Statuta often Urbis Rimer Australius, S. D. N. Gregori Alli. Post Mar. a Sensey Populayes Rom. referents et edita. Rome, 1560. in falls. The pholete, repugnant statutes of antiquity were confound-

· modern law of the city; and if the popular as come. semblies have been abolished, a foreign senator, LXX. with the three conservators, still resides in the palace of the capitol." The policy of the Cassars has been repeated by the popes; and the bishop of Rome affected to maintain the form of a republic, while he reigned with the absolute powers of a temporal, as well as spiritual, monarch.

It is an obvious truth, that the times must Company be suited to extraordifferry characters, and that of Porcero, the genius of Cromwell by Retz might now Jamary W. expire in obscurity. The political enthusiasm of Rienzi had exhalted him to a throne; the same enthusiasm, in the next century, conducted his imitator to the gallows. The hirth of Stephen Porcaro was noble, his reputation spotless; his tongue was armed with eloquence, his mind was enlightened with learning; and he aspired, beyond the aim of vulgar ambition, to free his country, and immortalize his name. The dominion of priests is most odious to a liberal spirit; every scruple was removed by the recent knowledge of the fable and forgery of Constantine's donation; Petrarch was now the oracle of the Italians; and as often as Porcaro revolved the ode which describes the of in five books, and Laura Parus, a Junyer and antiquariza, was alspotential to not as the goodern Tribunian. Yet I suggest the old code, with the ruggest event of freedom and herbridge.

2 In my time (1765), and in M. Gredey's Risservations our Pfinler, toni. II. ja 381), the senitio of Bome was M. Bielke, a noble Swarls, and a penselym to the rathetic faith. The pape's right to appoint the senator and the conservator is implied, eather than effected, in the statutes.

CHAP. patriot and here of Rome, he applied to himself the visions of the prophetic bard. His first trial of the popular feelings was at the funeral of Eugenius the fourth: in an elaborate speech he called the Romans to liberty and arms; and they histoned with apparent pleasure, till Porcaro was interrupted and answered by a grave advocate, who pleaded for the church and state. By every law the seditions orator was guilty of treason; but the benevolence of the new poutiff, who viewed his character with pity and esteem, attempted hyan honourable office to convert the patriot into a friend. The inflexible Roman returned from Anagui with an increase of reputation and real; and, on the first opportunity, the games of the place Navona, he tried to inflame the casual dispute of some boys and mechanics into a general rising of the people. Yet the humane Nicholas was still averse to accept the forfeit of his life; and the traiter was removed from the scene of temptation to Bologna, with a liberal allowance for his support, and the easy obligation of presenting himself each day before the governor of the city. But Porcaro had learned from the younger Brutus, that with tyrants no faith or gratitude should be observed; the exile declained against the arbitrary sentence; a party and a conspiracy were gradually formed; his nephew, a daring vouth, assembled a hand of volunteers; and on the appointed evening a feast was prepared at his house for the friends of the republic. Their leader, who had escaped from Bologna.

appeared among them in a robe of purple and GHAP. gold: his voice, his countenance, his gestures, bespoke the man who had devoted his life or death to the glorious cause. In a studied oration, he expatinted on the motives and the means of their enterprise: the name and liberties of Rome: the sloth and pride of their ecclesiastical tyrants: the active or passive consent of their fellowcitizens; three fundred soldiers and four hundred exiles, long exercised in arms or in wrongs : the licence of revenge to edge their swords, and a million of ducats to reward their victory. It would be easy (he said), on the next day, the festival of the Epiphany, to seize the pope and his cardinals, before the doors, or at the altar, of St. Peter's; to lead them in chains under the walls of St. Angelo; to extort by the threat of their instant death a surrender of the castle; to ascend the vacant capitol; to ring the alarmhell; and to restore in a popular assembly the ancient republic of Rome. While he triumphed, he was already betrayed. The senator, with a strong guard, invested the house; the nephew of Porearo cut his way through the crowd; but the unfortunate Stephen was drawn from a chest, lamenting that his enemies had anticipated by three hours the execution of his design. After such manifest and repeated guilt, even the mercy of Nicholas was silent. Porcaro, and nine of his accomplices, were hanged, without the benefit of the sacraments; and amidst the fears and invectives of the papal court, the Romans pitied,

CHAP, and almost applanded, these martyrs of their country. But their applause was mute, their pity ineffectual, their liberty for ever extinct; and, if they have since risen in a cacancy of the throne or a scarcity of bread, such accidental tumults may be found in the bosom of the most abject servitude.

Last disordery of the nekles if Rome.

But the independence of the nobles, which was fomented by discord, survived the freedom of the the commons, which must be founded in union. A privilege of rapine and oppression was long maintained by the barons of Rome; their houses were a fortress and a sanctuary; and the ferocious train of banditti and criminals whom they protected from the law, repaid the hospitality with the service of their swords and daggers. The private interest of the pontiffs, or their nephews, sometimes involved them in these domestic fends. Under the reign of Sixtus the fourth, Rome was distracted by the battles and sieges of the rival houses; after the confingration of his palace, the protonotary Colonna was tortured and beheadeds and Savelli, his captive friend, was murdered on the spot, for refusing to join in the medamations

A Builder the continue though common carried as of Machine of (Istison Photostus, L. al., Opers., June 1, p. 210, 211, edit, Lundin, 1747, in Hose the Posterior completely to extend in the Dury of Stephen Informer (Nor. Sail term D. p. it, p. 1188, 1188, sich in a separate tract by Lon Builties Affects (flow, Italy tome xxv., p. 8078-614). It is amoning to emplace the style and sentiments of the courties and chiano. Pieleus pustario que . . . unque perionio horrioline, meque millionil detectabilities, migue syndromes toleros, or quantum production then engine a conjunting at Perdeste la vita quiell' intonio da min, e ascritore delle bene et litterti di Roma.

of the victorious Ursini. But the popes no CHAP. longer treinbied in the Vatican: they had EXX. strength to command, if they had resolution to claim, the observed of their subjects; and the strangers, who observed these partial disorders, admired the easy taxes and wise administration of the coolesinstical state.

The spiritual thanders of the Vations depend on The population the force of opinion; and if that opinion be sup-at-solute planted by reason or passion, the sound may idly demanded planted by reason or passion, the sound may idly demanded waste itself in the air; and the helpless priest is a a 1400, exposed to the brutal violence of a noble or a plebeian adversary. But after their return from Avignan, the keys of St. Peter were guarded by the sword of St. Paul. Rome was commanded by an impregnable citadel: the use of cannon is a powerful engine against popular seditions 1 a regular force of cavalry and infantry was enlisted under the banners of the pope: his ample revenues supplied the resources of war; and, from the extent of his domain, he could bring down on a rebellious city an army of hostile neighbours

^{*} The floorders of Rosmo, which were smock inflamed by the garticity of States is, are expected to the Diames of two spectration, has plen Informers, and all antonymous citizen. See the irradier of the just 1484, and the floath of the processory Colours, in som. it, pi, p. 1083, 1165.

^{*} List tomic is turns de l'eglies trembée pour cette partialité siète Commiss et des Uraines), come nous divisors Luce et Grantmunts, ou en Hollende Home et Calmillon ; et quand ne se semit ce différent à taure de l'eglies servit je plus béurrons liebendion pour les aujets, que méglant mui le monde (car de me payent ne railles ou puerre atmité de monde et servitent toujeurs less doubles (car language les papes aint auges et bien committée); mais less auvent en adelient de grande et cennies accurres et pillenies.

CHAP, and loyal subjects. Since the union of the duchies of Ferarra and Urbino, the ecclesiastical state extends from the Mediterranean to the Adriatic, and from the confines of Naples to the hanks of the Po; and as early as the sixteenth century, the greater part of that spacious and fruitful country acknowledged the lawful claims and temporal sovereignty of the Roman pontiffs. Their claims were readily deduced from the genuine, or fabulous, donations of the darker ages : the successive steps of their final settlement would engage us too far in the transactions of Italy, and even of Europe; the crimes of Alexander the sixth, the martial operations of Julius the second, and the liberal policy of Leo the tenth, a theme which has been adorned by the pens of the noblest historians of the times." In the first period of their conquests, till the expedition of Charles the eighth, the popes might successfully wrestle with the adjacent princes and states, whose military force was equal, or inferior, to their own : but as seen as the monarchs of France, Germany, and Spain, ⁴ By the eronomy of Sixtua's the revenue of the eccinsusmeal states was raised to two millions and a half of Roman armona (Vita, total the pe 295-296); and so regular was the military retablishments that in our seouth Coment vist could errors use during of Ferrary with three thousand house and twenty thousand doct from life p. 64). Since that time (a. o. 1597) the gapal arms are happing-curred; but the receive must have galant mass married backers.

[.] More especially by Gairmandon and Machiberty in the general Armony of the Commer, in the Presentine Listary, the Prince, and the position discourses of the latter. These, with their worthy successful. Fra-Panio and Daville, were justly externed the dest blatments of mordam languages, till, in the presum age, Scotland acces, to surpose the prize with Italy hereals.

contended with gigantic arms for the dominion caar. of Italy, they supplied with art the deficiency of LXX. strength; and concealed, in a labyrinth of wars and treaties, their aspiring views, and the immortal hope of chacing the barbarians beyond the Alps The nice balance of the Vatican was often subverted by the soldiers of the North and West, who were united under the standard of Charles the fifth: the feeble and fluctuating policy of Clement the seventh exposed his person and do. minions to the conqueror; and Rome was abandoned seven months to a lawlessarmy, more cruel and rapicious than the Goths and Vandals.4 After this severe lesson, the popes contracted their ambition, which was almost satisfied, resumed the character of a common parent, and abstained from all offensive hostilities, except in an hasty quarrel, when the vicar of Christ and the Turkish sultan were armed at the same time against the kingdom of Naples? The French and Germans at length withdrew from the field of battle: Milan, Naples Sicily, Sardinia, and the sea-coast of Tuscuny, were firmly possessed by the Spaniards; and it became their interest to maintain the peace and

^{*} In the history of the Gathle tings, I have compared the tortaclass with the subjects of Chartes the v Crob v. p. 1888-1921 ; no macolpution, which, like that of the Verter enquests, I haddined with the Min accupie, in I would accurally hope to reach the conclusion of my work.

The ambilions and feeble bentilities of the Carolla pope, Paul et. tring for mean in Thereits (I- axi-axis) and Genemous Costs, by p. 149-163) These sunnic tigots, Philip o, and the duke of Alia, precontact to asparate the Rieman prince from the sicar of Chapter yet the budy character, which would have carried by county, was die entity applied to peaters his define.

HXX.

dependence of Italy, which continued almost without disturbance from the middle of the sixteenth to the opening of the eighteenth century. The Vatican was swayed and protected by the religious policy of the catholic king; his prejudice and interest disposed him in every dispute to support the prince against the people; and instead of the encouragement, the aid; and the asylum, which they obtained from the adjacent states, the friends of liberty, or the enemies of law, were inclosed on all sides within the iron circle of despotism. The long habits of obedience and education subdued the turbulent spirit of the nobles and commons of Rome. The barons forgot the arms and fections of their ancestors, and insensibly became the servants of luxury and government. Instead of maintaining a crowd of tenants and followers, the produce of their estates was consumed in the private expences, which multiply the pleasures, and diminish the power, of the lord." The Colonna and Ursini vied with each other in the decoration of their palaces and chapels; and their antique splendour was rivalled or surpassed by the sudden opulence of the papal families. In Rome the voice of freedom and discord is no langer heard; and instead of the foaming torrent, a smooth and stagment lake reflects the briage of idleness and servitude.

^{*} This gradual change of manners and expense is admirably caplained by Dr. Adam Smith Washin of Nathons, vol. 1, p. 495-3045, win general, perhaps too according that the most mintary affects have forced from the meaning and most saliah causes.

A christian, a philosopher, and a patriot, will CHAP. be equally scandalized by the temporal kingdom of the clergy; and the local majesty of Rome, the Tie serbremembrance of her consuls and triumphs, may permissis. seem to embitter the sense, and aggravate the shame, of her slavery. If we calmly weigh the merits and defects of the ecclesiastical government, it may be praised in its present state, as a mild, decent, and tranquil. system, exempt from the dangers of a nimority, the sallies of youth, the expences of luxury, and the calamities of war. But these advantages are overhalanced by a frequent, perhaps a septennial, election of a sovereign, who is soldom a native of the country: the reign of a young statesmen of threescore, in the decline of his life and abilities, without hope to accomplish, and without children to inherit, the labours of his transitory reign. The successful candidate is drawn from the church, and even the convent; from the mode of education and life the most adverse to reason, humanity, and freedom. In the trammels of servile faith, he has learned to believe because it is absurd, to revere all that is contemptible, and to despise whatever might deserve the esteem of a rational being: to punish error as a crime, to re. ward mortification and celibacy as the first of virtues; to place the saints of the kalendar above

Mr. Hume (Her, of England, vol. 1, p. 580; the hamly rescales, that if the effet and emissiontial powers be until in the same person, it need intransport whether he be explain prizes of pretails, since the respond character will always probaminate.

^{*} A production may illustrate the surrently preference of $5. Prancis

STREET, V.

1450

CHAP, the heroes of Rome and the sages of Athens; and |to consider the missal, or the crucifix, as more useful instruments than the plough or the loom. In the office of nuncio, or the rank of cardinal, he may acquire some knowledge of the world; but the primitive staip will adhere to his mind and manners: from study and experience he may suspect the mystery of his profession; but the sacerdotal artist will imbibe some portion of the bigotry which he inculentes. The genius of Sixtus A N. 1485. the fifth burst from the gloom of a Franciscan cloister. In a reign of five years, he exterminated the outlaws and banditti, abolished the profine sanctuaries of Rome', formed a naval and military force, restored and emulated the monuments of antiquity, and after a liberal use and large increase of the revenue, left five millions of crowns > or St. Dominic, but he will not rashly condemn the sunt or judgment of Status v, who placed the studies of the apostics, St. Pitte and St. Paid, on the regard columns of Trajan and Assentes.

> A wondering Italian, Greenrie Lett, has given the Vitz di Sista-Quinti (Amite), 1721, 3 vols to 12mo), a copiour and amining work, but which does not command our absolute confidence. Yet the charector of the man, and the principal faces, are supported by the annals of Spendamis and Muraturi (a. z. 1585-1100), and the contemporary history of the great Thumms (L. Perrii, c. I. 2. 1. lexuly, c. 10, l. c.

> 4 These privileged planes, the quertiers or franchises, were adopted from the Roman pobles by the foreign ministers. Julius it had seen abilitated the abuning odom or detectuations translitations happineds nomen a and after Status v., they again surived. I cannot discern elther the justice or magnificanty of Louis are, who, in 1687, sont his ambiender, the imaquir de Lavardie, to Rome, with an armed force of a thousand officers, generic, and dismeries, differentiate time iniquitoos cialm, and usual page formers to be the funct of his capital (Vita il) Sisto v., tom: ili, p. 268-278. Murater), Armali d'Ttalia, tom, ar, p. 494, 496, and Valtairs, Fietle de Louis are, men. 15 r. 14, 5, 28, 39, in the castle of St. Angelo. But his justice was cute. sullied with cruelty, his activity was prompted by LXX. the umbition of conquest; after his decease, the abuses revived; the treasure was dissipated; he entailed on posterity thirty-five new taxes and the vennity of offices; and, after his death, his statue was demolished by an ungrateful, or an injured, people.* The wild and original character of Sixtus the fifth stands alone in the series of the pontiffs : the maxims and effects of their temporal government may be collected from the positive and comparative view of the arts and philesophy, the agriculture and trade, the wealth and population, of the ecclesinstical state. For myself, it is my wish to depart in charity with all mankind, nor am I willing, in these last moments, to offend even the pope and slergy of Rome."

• This outrage produced a factor, which was increased as marke, and placed is the capital. It is expressed in a cryst of manify simplicity and freedom; i St quit, sive provides, sive magnetisming provide collected a case postular status mentioned factor units, legitimes a.v. a. a. decrease in proportion informis at publishment mannerous a crystal series. Manne Augusta (Van de Sida a, sam, ill., p. 409), if believe that these states is allo observed, and I know that every meanth who describes a state, Abenia large it suppose the provident.

I The blanches of the church. Hely, and Christopher, have contributed to the shapter which I may amake a. In the original Links of the Popes, we when thesever the site and opposite of flower, and the events of the Continues and the contract has presented in the course and dominate chromistes, which I have according important, and Sail recapositate in the order of time.

I. Monaldeschi (Ludoveci Romcomnici Fragmenta Annalogue Romaa, a. 1723, in the Striptures Region Ludescents of Museucci, tous, alle p 2023. N. R. This gradit of this fragment is competate born by a singular parerpointness, in which the author politics his evaducts at the agree of 113 years.

2 Progressive Historie Romana (1937-1324, in Murstor), Anti-

CHEAT. CXX.

- querer mosti .Eve Italia, tame iii, p. 247-248; the ambrestic groundswork of the history of Bleuck
- 3. Delphin (Contille) Durium Remarant (c. s. 1310-1410), in the Barren fratiogram, tem. til, p. fl. p. 846.
- L Autonii (Peto) Discress Rom- (s. p. 1404-1411), com may, p-64.m
- 8. Peterni (Pinti) Miscellimos Historica Remont (a. s. 1483-1440), mm. sav., p.:1101.
- 6. Volctorant (Feet) & Digitam Rom. (a. s. 1472-1454), tom. xxiii.
- 7. Americal Charles Calls Rome (a. s. 1493-1492), time 10, p. 11. # 3000.
- a tolomore (Supplant) Digricon Remanum (L. n. 1994, or 1375-1404), turn ill, p. ll. p. 1100.

D. Historia Assana Alexandri ve, sure Excurpts ex Discin Joh. Beremell (s. m. 1492-1503), ellitu a Godefe, Gulidan Lellminis, Heirver, 1637, let $60. The large and samable Journal of Humard might be completed from the was in different libraries of Italy una France (M. de Forennague, in the Memoirus de l'Arad-duifragrip, som, avil, p. AST-608.

I sumpt the last, all those fragments and diaries are inverted in the Collections of Massacri, my guide and manur in the history of Italy. Ills country, and the public, are indebted to him for the following works on this subject: 1. Heren Pulicavets Scriptures (s. a. 500)-1500), person policier proxyers primer in force profit, &c. 28 ride in falls, Miles, $721-1718, $751. A values of alternal giral and alphabetical tailes to still weating as a key to this great work, which is yet in a dimensionly and delection state. 2. Astrophics Color - 1 diet, 8 velo la Cilia, Milian, 1738-1742, 18:73 curious direct divine on the monney, government, religion, Ac. of the Itsharm of the darker ages, with a targe supplement of churters, shrasaidre, &c. 3. Dissertations segre to disregate Indiane, 2 vote, in Ato, Milano, IVAL, a few tersion by the guttor, which may be quoted with the same confidence as the Lutin text of the Autiquities. In Asanti d' Jielle, 18 vote in octavo, Milan, 1753-1736, a dry though preparate and peeful absidgement of the blitters of fully from the human Christ to the middle of the eighteenth commy. A Dell' Author Courses at Pulliane, 2 vols. In falls, Modern, 1717, 7740. In the bitting of this Himsteine want, the parent of our Bruncwick kings, the critic is me colored by the layalty or gratifule of the subject. In all his every, Muratury opposings blanchf a dilligent and believenus writer, who aspires almy the perjudice of a Catholic priect. Me was hore in the year 1973, and that he the year 1730, after yearthe mean story pours in the Himeries of Millage and Mindeins (Vita dei Property Ludevice Attends Minimal, by his missew and accorder Glar, Francesco Soll Mureton, Vernale, 2756, in 410).

CHAP, LXXL

Prospect of the vaius of Rome in the fifteenth ventury.—Four causes of decay and destruction.—Example of the Colseum.—Renovation of the city.— Conclusion of the whole work.

Is the last days of pope Engenins the fourth, CHAP, two of his servants, the learned Poggins' and a friend, ascended the Capitoline hill; reposed view and themselves among the rains of columns and teme of region ples; and viewed from that commanding spot free the wide and various prospect of desolation. The hill, place and the object gave ample scope for moralising on the vicissitudes of fortune, which spares neither man nor the proudest of his works, which buries empires and cities in a common grave; and it was agreed, that in proportion to her former greatness, the fall of Rome was the more awful and deplorable. "Her primaryal state, " such as she might appear in a remote age, when "Evander entertained the stranger of Troy", has

* I here already (see, 20, 41, on thep, 61) municipal the age, engrector, and writings of Poggins 1 unit particularly marked the date of this olegant energy because on the territory of factors.

^{*} Considerate in John Tarpelle arrive relate, post in garn parties on its dame, at partie, remptly martinure on famous pharmonic position in the parties properties artists possessed in Al.

Marid vill, DL.1150. This motion planars, as archite introduced, and so exquisitely funded, trues have been highly insecrating to an inhabitent of Rome s and our early sender since as he sympathize in the feelings of a Roman.

CHAZ

" been delineated by the fancy of Virgil. This " Tarpeian rock was then a savage and solitary " thicket; in the time of the poet, it was crowned " with the golden roofs of a temple; the temple a is overthrown, the gold has been pillaged, the " wheel of fortune has accomplished her revolu-"tion, and the sacred ground is again dis-" figured with thorns and brambles. The hill of " the capital, on which we sit, was formerly the " head of the Roman empire, the citadel of the " earth, the terror of kings; illustrated by the " footsteps of so many triumphs, enriched with "the spoils and tributes of so many nations, " This spectacle of the world, how is it fallen! " how changed! how defaced! the path of vic-" tory is obliterated by vines, and the benches of the senutors are concealed by a dung-" hill. Cast your eyes on the Palatine hill, and " seek among the shapeless and enormous frag-" ments, the marble theatre, the obelisks, the " colossal statues, the porticoes of Nero's palace: " survey the other hills of the city, the vacant " space is interrupted only by ruins and gar-"dens. The forum of the Roman people, where " they assembled to enact their laws and elect " their magistrates, is now enclosed for the culti-" vation of pot herbs, or thrown open for the " reception of swine and buffaloes. 'The public "and private edifices, that were founded for "eternity, lie prostrate, naked, and broken, " like the limbs of a mighty giant, and the " ruin is the more visible, from the stupendous

900

" relies that have survived the injuries of time CHAR.

These reliefs are minutely described by Pog- im asgins, one of the first who raised his eyes from the raise the monuments of legendary, to those of classic, superatition." I. Besides a bridge, an arch, a sepulchre, and the pyramid of Cestius, he could discern, of the age of the republic, a double row of vaults, in the salt-office of the capitol, which were inscribed with the name and munificence of Catulus. 2. Eleven temples were visible in some degree, from the perfect form of the Pantheon, to the three arches and a marble column of the temple of peace, which Vespasiun erected after the civil wars and the Jewish triumph. 3. Of the number, which he rashly defines, of seven thermer or public bushs, none were sufficiently entire to represent the use and distribution of the several parts : but those of Diocletian and Antoninus Caracalla still retained the titles of the founders, and astonished the curious spectator, who, in observing their solidity and extent, the variety of marbles, the size and multitude of the columns, compared the labour and expence with the use and importance. Of the baths of Constantine, of Alexander, of Domitian, or rather of Titus, some vestige might yet be found. 4. The triumphal arches of Tixus, Severus, and Constantine, were entire, both the structure and the inscriptions; a falling frag-

^{*} See Poggius, p. S. St.

CHAR ment was honoured with the name of Trajan; and two arches, then extant, in the Flaminian way, have been ascribed to the baser memory of Faustina and Gallienus, 5, After the wonder of the Coliseum, Poggius might have overlooked a small amphitheatre of brick, most probably for the use of the practurian camp; the thenires of Marcellus and Pompey were occupied in a great measure by public and private buildings t and in the circus, Agonalis and Maximus, little more than the situation and the form could be investigated. 6. The columns of Trajan and Antonine were still creet; but the Egyptian obelisks were broken or buried. A people of gods and heroes, the workmanship of art, was reduced to one equestrian figure of gilt brass, and to five marble statues, of which the most conspicuous were the two horses of Phillias and Praxiteles. 7. The two maunolemms or sepulchres of Augustas and Hadrian could not totally be lest; but the former was only visible as a mound of earth; and the latter, the castle of St. Angelo, had acquired the name and appearance of a modern fortress. With the addition of some separate and nameless columns, such were the remains of the ancient city: for the marks of a more recent structure might be detected in the walls, which formed a circumference of ten miles, included three hundred and seventy-nine turrets, and opened into the country by thirteen gates.

This melancholy picture was drawn above nine louidred years after the fall of the Western empire, and even of the Gothic kingdom of Italy. A long period of distress and unarchy, in which our on Avpire, and arts, and riches, had migrated from the LXXL banks of the Tyber, was incapable of restoring or adorning the city; and as all that is human must retrograde If it do not advance, every successive age must have hastened the ruin of the works of antiquity. To measure the progress of decay, and to ascertain, at each ern, the state of cards edifice, would be un undless and useless labour ; and I shall content myself with two observations, which will introduce a short enquiry into the general causes and effects. J. Two hundred sears before the elequent complaint of Poggius, an anonymous writer composed a description of Rome! His ignorance may repeat the same objects under strange and fabulous names. Yet this bariourous topographer had eyes and cars, he could observe the visible remains, he could listen to the tradition of the people, and be distinctly enumerates seven theatres, eleven baths, twelve arches, and eighteen palaces, of which many had disappeared. before the time of Poggius. It is apparent, that many stately monuments of antiquity soreived till a late period;" and that the principles of de-

* The Petr Muhillon (Anatomi, 1900, 1915, he to be published on

Arragaill is Diligation for Joseph Arragaill (Loss parties of Arragaill is Diligation for Joseph Arragaill is Diligation for Joseph Arragaill is Diligation for Joseph Arragaill of the Same had been presented by Montfaces (Darkon Indiana, p. 283-201). The Control of Same Indiana, p. 283-201) and the Control of Same Indiana, p. 283-201, and the Control of Same Indiana, p. 283-201, and the Same Indiana, p. 283-201, and the Same Indiana, p. 283-201, and the Same Indiana, p. 283-201, and p. 283 ergy in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries.

LXXI

2. The same reflection must be applied to the three last ages; and we should vainly seek the Septizenium of Severus, which is celebrated by Petrarch and the antiquarians of the sixteenth century. While the Roman edifices were still entire, the first blows, however weighty and impetuous, were resisted by the solidity of the mass and the harmony of the parts; but the slightest touch would precipitate the fragments of arches and columns, that already nodded to their fall,

Four course of destruction. After a diligent enquiry, I can discern four principal causes of the rain of Rome, which continued to operate in a period of more than a thousand years. t. The injuries of time and nature. II. The hostile attacks of the harbarians and christians. III. The use and abuse of the materials. And IV. The domestic quarrels of the Romans.

a. The injuries of nature ;

i. The art of man is able to construct monuments far more permanent than the parrow span of his own existence: yet these monuments, like himself, are perishable and frail; and in the boundless annals of time, his life and his labours must equally be measured as a fleeting moment. Of a simple and solid edifice, it is not easy, however, to circumscribe the duration. As the won-the churches and buly places of Home, impelies on several healtings, associally pertions, which had disappeared before the the thirdenth estatery.

No. the Septimenum, me the Manusires our Percarque (turn. Is p. 2015), Decarms (p. 338), and Nardini (p. 117, 414).

thers of ancient days, the pyramids attracted the CHAP. curiosity of the ancients; an hundred generations, the leaves of autumn," have dropt into the grave; and after the fall of the Pharaohs and Ptolemies, the Casars and caliphs, the same pyramids stand erect and unshaken above the floods of the Nile. A complex figure, of various and minute parts, is more accessible to injury and decay; and the silent lapse of time is often accelerated by hurricanes and earthquakes, by fires hurrican and inundations. The air and earth have doubt- quaker; less been shiken; and the lofty turrets of Rome have tottered from their foundations; but the seven hills do not appear to be placed on the great cavities of the globe; nor has the city, in any age, been exposed to the convulsions of nature, which, in the climate of Antioch, Lishon, or Lima, have crumbled, in a few moments, the works of ages into dust. Fire is the most power-age; ful agent of life and death; the rapid mischief may be kindled and propagated by the industry or negligence of mankind; and every period of the Roman annuls is marked by the repetition of similar calamities. A memorable conflagration, the guilt or misfortune of Nero's reign, contimed, though with unequal fury, either six or [&]quot;The upe of the pyramids is remote and unknown, stone Diedorns Siruha (tom. J. L., C. 64, p. 72) is uttable to decide whether they share a material to 60 or $400 years before the 190th Olympial. Sir John Marsham's contracted units of the Egyptian dynamics would for thous above 2000 years before Christ (Canon, Chimbent, or $7).

^{*} See the specific Glassus in the Hint (v. 140). This lattical nine days.\ Innumerable buildings, crowded in close and crooked streets, supplied perpetual fuel for the flames; and when they ceased, four only of the fourteen regions were left entire; three were totally destroyed, and seven were deformed by the relies of smoking and lacerated edifices," In the full meridian of empire, the metropolis arose with fresh beauty from her ashes; yet the memory of the old deployed their irreparable losses; the arts of Greece, the trophies of victory, the monuments of primitive or fabulous In the days of distress and anarchy, antiquity. every wound is mortal, every fall irretrievable; nor can the damage be restored either by the public care of government, or the activity of private interest. Yet two causes may be alleged, which render the calamity of fire more destructive to a flourishing than a decuyed city. 1. The more combustible materials of brick, timber, and metals, are first melted or consumed; but the flames may play without injury or effect on

LXXL

I The tearning and criticism of M. der Vignoles (Histoire Critique du la Reputatique des Lectres, turn with, p. 15-115, in, p. 173-187) dates the arm of Bonni from a m 64, July 19, and the sub-equent personation of the curvature from November 13, of the same year.

[&]quot;Quippe to regione quarant decim Rima dividitor, quotum quatime integra some not, term sale terms dejected septem, subject pours tenterum vivilgia supergrant, bures et ministra. Assess the old relicatibit sera irreprobly bird, Tacitus conquertum the temple of the moon of Service Tailing; the fane and after semecrated by Hammler presenti Reccult; the temple of Jupius States, a vow of Records; the judges of Nume; the temple of Venta con pensition of pull Remark. He then depletes the space at victurity quasitar at firmerous, actions decorn i . . . make que seniores meminerant, was reported coquilment (Annat. Ev. 10, 11).

the maked walls, and massy arches, that have CHAPbeen despailed of their ornaments. It is among LXXI. the common and plebelan labitations that a mischievous spark is most easily blown to a conflagration; but as soon as they are devoured, the greater edifices, which have resisted or escaped, are left as so many islands in a state of solitude and safety. From her situation, Rome inmitis exposed to the danger of frequent inundations. Without excepting the Tyber, the rivers that descend from either side of the Appennine have a short and irregular course; a shallow stream in the semmer heats; un impotuous torrent, when it is swelled in the spring or winter, by the full of rain, and the melting of the snows. When the current is repelled from the sea by adverse winds, when the ordinary bed is inadequate to the weight of waters, they rise above the banks, and overspread, without limits or controul, the plains and cities of the adjacent country. Soon after the triumph of the first Punic war, the Tyber was increased by unusual rains; and the inundation surpassing all former measure of time and place, destroyed all the buildings that were situate below the hills of Rome. According to the variety of ground, the same mischief was produced by different means; and the edifices were either swept away by the sudden impulse, or dissolved and undermined by the long continuance, of the flood." Under the reign of Au-

^{*} a. v. c. 507, repentina subscruio lipsius floras presenti triumphom Remanorum diversa ignium apuarumpa ciades peuabomiere

cnar, gustus, the same calamity was renewed; the lawless river overturned the palaces and temples on its banks;" and, after the labours of the emperor in cleansing and widening the bed that was encumbered with ruins, the vigilance of his successors was exercised by similar dangers and designs. The project of diverting into new channels the Tyber itself, or some of the dependent streams, was long opposed by superstition and local interests; nor did the use compensate the toil and cost of the tardy and imperfect execution. The servitude of rivers is the noblest and most important victory which man has obtained over the licentiousness of na-> absonincte orbem. Sum Thurbs traslitus auctus imbellus et altra optnomen, vel digrature vel magnitudites redundant, sanda Romeestidale la plane pedia delevit. Direcco qualitates focorum ad amunconvenies persients (qualitat et que seguior intendado tenuis midefarts de olive, et que rossis terrente invente impulsa dejecis torosine, that I to, o 11, 16 244, and the erramps. Yet we may of serves, that it as the plan and study of the sheliden apologist to manally the minutes of the pages world.

* Villiams favore Taleron, retarile Litture Extreses violenter mellic Liv dejection resminants very Templague Vesta. (Roset Carm. L.T)-If the palme of Numa, and tample of Verta, were thrown down in biocses's time, what was consumed of those buildings by Nem's free count namely deserve the epithers of vestionlasters or incorrupts.

· Ad concendas intuitablemes chemia Timerie luxust, as separguvir. completum editer reducibus, et additionum prolapolisifias cissecutions Conclusion in Augiters, c. 20%.

a Taritie (Annal, i, '79) repeirts the petitions of the different mens of Italy to the accuse against the measure a and we may applical the progress of remon. On a similar occasions, local interests arould uncountries of a secondary but on Figure house of commune small report with contempt the arguments of experietions, " that nature " had an igned to the rivers their proper course," &r.

ture; and if such were the ravages of the Tyber CHAP. under a firm and active government, what could oppose, or who can enumerate, the injuries of the city after the fall of the western empire? A remedy was at length produced by the evil itself: the accumulation of rubbish, and the earth that has been washed down from the hills, is supposed to have elevated the plain of Rome, fourteen or fifteen feet perhaps, above the ancient level; and the modern city is less accessible to the attacks of the river.

11. The crowd of writers of every nation, who a The land impute the destruction of the Roman monuments of the larto the Goths and the christians, have neglected begins and to inquire how far they were animated by an hostile principle, and how far they possessed the means and the leisure to satiate their entity. In the preceding volumes of this history, I have described the trimmph of barbarism and religion; and I can only resume, in a few words, their real or imaginary connection with the rain of ancient Rome. Our fancy may create, or adopt, a pleasing romance, that the Goths and Vandals sallied from Scandinavia, ardent to avenge the flight of

¹ See the Epoques do to Nature of the sloquent and philosophic Buffon. His picture of Guyana in South America is that of a new and savage look, in which the untary are abandoned as theresalem, without being regulated by human industry in 212, 551, quarts odition).

In his Terrels in finly, Mr. Addison this works, soil II, p. 98, Binderville's elition's has observed this curbon and unquestionable [&]quot; Tet or modern times, the Tyles has cometimes disnaped the city; and in the years 1530, 1557, 1588, the entude of Marators ercord three machievous and mammalife impolations them riv, p. 100. 429, time av. to 29, &c.,

CHAP.

Odin," to break the chains, and to chastise the oppressors, of mankind; that they wished to hurn the records of classic literature, and to found their national architecture on the broken members of the Tuscan and Corinthian orders. But in simple truth, the northern conquerors were neither sufficiently savage, nor sufficiently refined, to entertain such aspiring ideas of destruction and revenge. The shepherds of Scythia and Germany had been educated in the armies of the empire, whose discipline they acquired, and whose weakness they invaded: with the familiar use of the Latin tongue, they had learned to reverence the name and titles of Rome; and, though inespable of emplitting, they were more inclined to admire, than to abolish, the arts and studies of a brighter period. In the transient possession of a rich and unresisting capital, the soldiers of Alaric and Genseric were stimulated by the passions of a victorious army; amidst the wanton indulgence of lust or cruelty, portable wealth was the object of their search; nor could they derive either pride or pleasure from the unprofitable reflection, that they had battered to the ground the works of the con-Their moments were indeed suls and Casars: precious; the Goths evacuated Rome on the sixth," the Vandals on the fifteenth, day;"

[•] I take this opportunity of declaring, that in the sense of twater pure I have forgetten, or resourced, the flight of their form Armyl to worden, which I was a very majority believed (red to miles). The Goths are apparently Germanica but all beyond Cours and Their is darkness or fable in the antiquities of formury.

[&]quot;History of the Deither, &c. oil v, p. 315.

and, though it be far more difficult to build than CHAP. to destroy, their hasty assault would have made a LXXI. slight impression on the solid piles of antiquity. We may remember, that both Alaric and Genseric affected to spare the buildings of the city; that they subsisted in strength and beauty under the auspicious government of Theodorie;" and that the momentary resentment of Totila' was disarmed by his own temper and the advice of his friends and caemies. From these innocent barbarians, the reproach may be transferred to the eatholies of Rome. The statues, alters, and houses; of the demons were an abonimation in their crest and in the absolute command of the city, they might labour with zeal and perseverance to craze the idelatry of their ancestors. The demolition of the temples in the East utilizeds to then an example of conduct, and to as in argument of belief; and it is probable, that a portion of guilt or merit may be imputed with justice to the Roman prosclytes. Yet their althorrence was confined to the monuments of heathen superstition; and the civil structures that were dedicated to the business or pleusure of society might be preserved without injury or semulal. The shange of religion was accomplished, not by a popular tumult, but by the decrees of the emperors, of the senate, and of time. Of the christian hierarchy, the bishops of Rome were commonly the most prudent and least fimatic: nor ^{*} Hinney of the Beelins, &c. end. vil. p. 29-35.

- vol. vil. p. 388, 374.

- vol. v., c. revill, p. 102-108.

LXXX

can any positive charge be opposed to the meri-CHAP torious act of saving and converting the majestic steneture of the pantheon."

tti. The une and atome terials.

iii. The value of any object that supplies the of the me- wants or pleasures of mankind is compounded of its substance and its form, of the materials and the manufacture. Its price must depend on the number of persons by whom it may be acquired and used; on the extent of the market; and consequently on the case or difficulty of remote exportation, according to the nature of the commodity, its local situation, and the temporary circumstances of the world. The harharian conquerors of Rome usurped in a moment the tail and treasure of soccessive ages; but, except the hixuries of immediate consumption, they must view without desire all that could not be removed from the city, in the Gothic waggons or the ficet of the Vandals,2 Gold and silver were the first objects of their avarice; as in every country, and ^{*} Eadem tempora petiit a Phacaia principe templifor quod appellatur Paulius, in 400 feen ecclerian Sanctor Mariar simper virginis, et gunnlien martyrum e in qua eroleste princops multu bone obtulit (Anastarius vei perios Liber Pontificalis in Benificio re, in Muratori Script: Bornm Italicarms, from His p. I. p. 135). According to the specymous writer in Mourfancen, the purchase had been sowed by Apripped to Cybells and Neptons, and was distinated by Bouldier It's on the calemin of Nevember, to the tirgin, que get trutes openhau assegnment (p. 191, 199).

Framounis Vacus typen Mentfatuum, p. 155, 150s. His Memota is likewise pilimed, pp. 21, at the und of the Borns Aftim of Nordiel, and secural Romans, doctors grams, ours permulas that the Godsberied their readilizes at Home, and bequestled the were! marks 6file negatibusque. He relates munt anecdoim to prove that, in his non time, these places mure visited and rifled by the Transfigure effection, the bests of the carthie configurate.

in the smallest compass, they represent the most CHAP. ample command of the industry and possessions LXXL of mankind. A vase or a statue of those precious metals might tempt the vanity of some barbarian chief; but the grosser multitude, regardless of the form, was tenacious only of the substance; and the melted ingots might be readily divided and stamped into the current coin of the empire. The less active, or less fortunate, robbers were reduced to the baser plumler of brass, lead, iron, and copper: whatever had escaped the Goths and Vandals was pillaged by the Greek tyrants; and the emperor Coustans, in his rapacious visit, stripped the bronze tiles from the roof of the puntheon. The edifices of Rome might be considered as a vast and various mine; the first labour of extracting the materials was already performed; the metals were purified and cast; the marbles were hewn and polished; and after foreign and domestic rapine had been satisfied, the remains of the city, could a purchaser have been found, were still venal. The monuments of antiquity had been left naked of their precious or suments. but the Romans would demolish with their own hands the arches and walls, if the hope of profit could surpuse the cost of the labour and exportation. If Charlemagne had fixed in Italy the seat of the Western empire, his genius would have aspired to restore, rather than to violate, the [•] Climble your erant in error ad ornarium civitalls deposite son et sections. B. Marin ad marriyes que de tegnile agrie impresa discopernit (Ansat. in Vitalian, p. 181). The has and marriagina teresk had not even the past pretents of plandering on heather semple; the panthern was already a rathour structs.

cnar, works of the Casars: but policy confined the French monarch to the forests of Germany; his taste could be gratified only by destruction; and the new palace of Aix la Chapelle was decorated with the marbles of Ravenna' and Rome." Five hundred years after Charlemagne, a king of Sicily, Robert, the wisest and most liberal sovereign of the age, was supplied with the same materials by the easy navigation of the Tyber and the sea; and Petrarch sighs an indignant complaint, that the uncient capital of the world should adorn, from her own bowels, the slothful luxury But these examples of plunder or of Nanles,"

> " For the spots of Berrian (murica at on martners) see the original general pope Amian a to Charlemagne (Cakes Caralin, epist. lavil, or Tenden, Series, Ital tour, Di, p. ii, p. 113).

> a I shall quote the millionic testimony of the Samm part G. v. 887 Sidy do Hallon gestle Carall stagut, Ley, 197-140, to the Historians of France Come v. p. 1907 a

Ad mor remains practable Room adappage. Quadini prestpane puteres Rasches delle . He som begringed potenti regione versuttan Illing senatorn Francis ferry tible

And I shall add, from the Chromich of Sig bert Officerrans of France, turn v. p. 378), extrust etian Aqui-grant battleres plurious publicles tunisle, ad enjes errecturum a Huma et Bavenna columnas es maismerz develd first?

A I summer review to transmitte a long purpose of Petrarch (Opti- p. and, and, in Epispoil because is ad Nicolaum Laurenthum, is in seetroop end full to the point a New pulter and plotus conforms quantities impil spelling like temple, sempetus crees, upos publicas regimes urbie; angue homores minglatrerQuine inget or dishora; / Andreas? / perm und in re, turindent) is diduled histories of toline reliques (the combine ex rationibus discodes, bahaman ficuri la superelà sofficiate conveneranta ler pontes et dicentit steine l'intencifes l'apides desaccretts. Desièque pass er ert sente dell'epa policie, que quantan ingentre tennicunt eleli post direptus arens relimpisales jundo sizzieros faccum furcitan sucmorning) de lpefor veturantis ar propries (impletates fragminilles village artification purchase were rare in the darker ages; and the cuar. Romans, alone and unenvied, might have applied to their private or public use the remaining structures of antiquity, if, in their present form and situation, they had not been useless in a great measure to the city and its inhabitants. The walls still described the old circumference, but the city had descended from the seven hills into the campus Martius; and some of the noblest manuments. which had braved the injuries of time, were left in a desert, far remote from the habitations of mankind. The palaces of the senators were no longer adapted to the manners or fortunes of their indigent successors; the use of boths and portions was forgotten; in the sixth century, the games of the theatre, amphitheatre, and circus, had been interrupted; some temples were devoted to the prevailing worship; but the christian churches preferred the holy figure of the cross; and fashion, or reason, had distributed, after a peculinr model, the cells and offices of the cloister. Under the ecclesiastical reign, the number of these pious foundations was enormously multiplied; and the city was crowded with farty monasterns of quarties turpi mercimonia capture sum public. Itaque sures, ficadedor? but artire ladge me? or parets partments estimatic de Bigdydaus rimploremi tad guis unper en erbe taro communica de namesme fiebath, de imaginal de espaichement et egent et patrons e attenues. venerabilia erete (class!) evid, ut ratiques alleum, dentito o Naspelia afferentier. Sie produtme ruften tjeze defenunt. Ver ausgill bert was the friend of Percern.

[&]quot;Yet Charlemagna wanted and even at Aix to Chapelle with an aundered of his concilient (figuresers, o. 22, pt. 100, 101), and Muraturi. Attention, on him to the year $14, the public boths educts were built at Spoleto in Purty (Annully tent. vi. p. 418).

CHAP.

men, twenty of women, and sixty chapters and colleges of canons and priests," who aggravated, instead of relieving, the depopulation of the tenth century. But if the forms of ancient architecture were disregarded by a people insensible of their use and beauty, the plentiful materials were applied to every call of necessity or superstition; till the fairest columns of the Ionic and Corinthinn orders, the richest marbles of Paros and Numidia, were degraded, prchaps, to the support of a convent or a stable. The daily havock which is perpetrated by the Turks in the cities of Greece and Asia may afford a melancholy example; and in the gendual destruction of the monuments of Rome, Sixtus the fifth may alone be excused for employing the stones of the Septizonium in the plerious edifice of St. Peter's. A fragment, a ruin, howsoever mangled or pretaned, may be viewed with pleasure and regret; but the greater part of the marble was deprived of substance, as well as of place and proportion; it was burnt to lime for the purpose of cement. Since the arrival of Poggius, the temple of Concord," and many

^{*} See the Annuls of Staty, a. p. 988. For this and the preceding fur, Muratori himself is indebted to the Boundhitine history of Pere Maintain.

Vita di finte Quinto, da Gregorio Leti, Iran. Hi, p. 56k

Posticus artis Coscordin, quam cam permun ad arbem access out fere integrant space matrix or alexandra specially parties disjectly columnia and demands and entermined particular parties disjectly columnia and demands (p. 13). The tample of Coscord was therefore not destroy at the addition in the thickness theoremy, as I have read in a section dist Governo civile at Riome, income ferminty at Riome, and accident (I between falsely) to the evidence of Greene. Popples there is a firm, that the aquiches of Carilla Metalla was burnt between (p. 12, 20).

capital structures, had vanished from his eyes; CHAR and an epigram of the same age expresses a just LXXI. and pious fear, that the continuance of this practice would finally annihilate all the monuments of antiquity." The smallness of their numbers was the sole check on the demands and depredations of the Romans. The imagination of Petrarch might create the presence of a mighty people; and I hesitate to believe, that even in the fourteenth century, they could be reduced to a contemptible list of thirty-three thousand inhabitants. From that period to the reign of Lee the tenth, if they multiplied to the amount of eight-five thousand, the encrease of citizens was, in some degree, pernicious to the ancient city.

iv. I have reserved for the last, the most potent w. To doand fercible cause of destruction, the domestic quarte of hostilities of the Romans themselves. Under the the Redominion of the Greek and French emperors, the peace of the city was disturbed by accidental, though frequent, seditions; it is from the decline of the latter, from the beginning of the tenth

" Company by Manus Sylvins, afterwards your Plus is, and publiabed by Mahillon from a sea of the speed of Sproten (Marson Iralicum, toma i, p. 971

> Otdertat me, Roma, mins quetare sultion t En cajus lapen gloria prisen paret. Sed take his popular music defease estratio Сабою на обвержение экспектости быти соция: Imply tercentism at all gens eggett annua Nation the indiction not diract will.

^{*} Vagahumur paritur in this arise ware assigned quary offen propose spettum same subsystes, populars habet tiennesium (Copt. p. 103). Physics, Papellineurs, 11, 14).

^{*} These case of the population of Rose, at different periods are shorts of from an ingentious spearing of the physician Lancist, do Romani Carl Qualitations (p. 12f.

LEXE

century, that we may date the licentiousness of private was, which violated with impunity the laws of the code and the gospel; without respecting themajesty of the absent sovereign, or the presence and person of the vicar of Christ. In a dark peried of five hundred years. Rome was perpetually aillicted by the sangainary quarrels of the nobles and the people, the Guelpha and Ghibelines, the Colonna and Ursini; and if much has escaped the knowledge, and much is unworthy of the notice, of history, I have exposed, in the two preceding chapters, the causes and effects of the public disorders. At such a time, when every quarrel was decided by the sword, and none could trust their lives or properties to the impotence of law, the powerful citizens were armed for safety or offence. against the domestic enemies, whom they feared 'or hettal. Except Venice alone; the same dangers and designs were common to all the free republics of leavy and the nobles usurped the prerogative of fortifying their houses, and erecting strong towers? that were enpuble of resisting a sudden attack. The cities were filled with these hostile edifices; and the example of Lucca, which contained three hundred towers; her law which confined their height to the measure of fourscore feet, may be extended with suitable latitude to the more opulent and populous states. The first step of the senstor Brancalcone in the establishment of peace

a All the Cata that relate to the source at Ecoco, and in other free stiles of Imly, may be found in the inheritors and substraining simplication of Magazini, Antiquitates Italia modif &c), discrete, xxvi Com. is, p. 493-400 of the Latin, tem. is, p. 446 of the Italian modifie.

and justice, was to demolish (as we have already CHAP. seen) one hundred and forty of the towers of Rome; and, in the last days of anarchy and discord, as late as the reign of Martin the fifth, forty-four still stood in one of the thirteen or fourteen regions of the city. To this mischievous purpose, the remains of antiquity were most readily adapted: the temples and arches afforded a broad and solid hasis for the new structures of brick and stone; and we can name the modern turrets that were raised on the triumphal monuments of Julius Casar, Titus, and the Antonines. With some slight alterations, a theatre, an amphitheatre, a mansoleum, was transformed into a strong and spacious citadel. I need not repeat, that the mole of Adrian has assumed the title and form of the eastle of St. Angelo: the septizonium of Severus was capable of standing against a royal army;" the sepulchre of Metella has sunk under its out-the sepulchre of Metella has sunk under its outworks: the thentres of Pompey and Marcellus +As for issumer, Tomplons Josi more dictor, towns Could Prompposity at some Jams imposites towns institute to plant hashes tothe imposite the later one Dission Statemen, p. 1881. The arrays more revised up 2013 income cases, areas This, impost Cartalled II arrays fulls Course of Sensiterum, there's de Branes areas Automatic, tours de Coursie, Am.

Hadelani madere - - - - magno en parte Romanerom injuria.
 - - distuntosver quad certe fundime evertilesen, si social materiales previo, abitumpola prandition male, relique moles examinent (Popular de Verirente Frenchen, p. 17)

^{*} Against the emperor Himy is (Murator), Assall Citalia, tom

I must copy an important passage of Montfauron: Turns legent rounds Carries M. a. dis expellebrain sent, cujus mani ann solidi, ut spatime perquan informati into version separaty et Tures de Bres digitur, a Soum capatitus usure inscriptio. Historopie.

CHAP. were occupied by the Savelli and Ursini families;" and the rough fortress had been gradually softened to the spiendour and elegance of an Italian palace, Even the churches were encompassed with arms and bulwarks, and the military engines on the roof of St. Peter's were the terror of the Vutican and the scandal of the christian world. Whatever is fortified will be attacked; and whatever is attacked may be destroyed. Could the Romans have wrested from the popes the castle of St. Angelo, they had resolved, by a public decree, to annihilate that monument of servitude. Every building of defence was exposed to a siege; and in every siege the arts and engines of destruction were laboriously employed. After the death of Nicholas the fourth. Rome, without a sovereign or a senate, was abandoned six months to the fury of civil " The houses," says a cardinal and poet of the times," " were crushed by the weight and > sii wee, bengere intentiennen bellacum, ern urbecula adjuncta fuit, enjus mirata et truces ettaronum viauntur e sta ut sepolehrom Monifiaquest are appointe facrit. For any loss in sate partition, com the los atque Columnation immits risdibus pertileien inferent civitati, in atriusve partis ditionem coderer magni mamenti erat (p. 142).

> * See the testimonies of Donatus, Nardini, and Montfapoon- In the Savelli palace, the runtains of the theutre of Marcellus me still great and convincement.

> I James cardinal of St. George, ad values surrous, in his metrical Life of pope Column & (Muranos, Script, Ital, turn, t. p. 16, p. 631, Li. c 1, sec 137, &c.)

Hor divises sat cut. Remain carriers musto Memolius exactis best sex a bellique vocatum /veratio/ In scelar, in socies featurempts values patters; Tormettia jorinta vicos immenia arxa : Perfediese domne trabilims, foction ruinus Ignibus t invesses forces, alleganing forme Lumina vicino, que sit speliara semelhez.

" velocity of enormous stones;" the walls were CHAP. " perforated by the strokes of the battering-ram; LXXL " the towers were involved in fire and smoke; " and the assailants were stimulated by rapine " and revenge." The work was consummated by the tyranny of the laws; and the factions of Italy afternately exercised a blind and thoughtless vengeance on their adversaries, whose houses andeastles they razed to the ground. In comparing the days of foreign, with the ages of domestic, hostility, we must pronounce, that the latter have been far more ruinous to the city; and our opinion is confirmed by the evidence of Petrarch, " Be-" hold," says the Immeat, " the relies of Rome, " the image of her pristine greatness! neither " time, nor the barbarian, can boast the merit of "this stupendous destruction; it was perpetrated " by her own citizens, by the most illustrious of "her sons; and your ancestors (he writes to a " noble Annibaldi) have done with the battering-" ram, what the Punic hero could not accomplish " with the sword," The influence of the two last principles of decay must in some degree be mul-

^{*} Maratari (Dissertarione sepra le Antiquità Imliane, torn. 1, p. 427-431y finds, that stoos bullets of two or three hundred pounds weight were not incommon ; and they are semantimes computed at twelve or eighteen nexters of Genos, each centers weighting 150 pund-

^{*} The sixth law of the Visconti prohibits this recome and talkphieroms practice; and strictly enjoins, that the houses of business stillered should be preserved pro communicatilitate (Guarciness de la Florence, in Murutori, Script. Berum Indicarum, 10m. all, p. 1041).

[&]quot; Petrarch their addresses his friend, who, with shore and terre, had sitewn film the incenia, larger specimen miserable firms, and de-

CHAP- tiplied by each other; since the houses and towers, which were subverted by civil war, required a new and perpetual supply from the monuments of antiquity.

Tim Colletof Tones.

These general observations may be separately pathetic applied to the amphitheatre of Titus, which has obtained the name of the Coliseum, either from its magnitude, or from Nero's colossal statue; an edifice, had it been left to time and nature, which might perhaps have claimed an eternal duration. The curious antiquaries, who have computed the numbers and seats, are disposed to believe, that above the upper row of stone steps, the amphitheatre was encircled and elevated with several stages of wooden galleries, which were repeatedly consumed by fire, and restored by the Whatever was precious, or portable, emperors. or profane, the statues of gods and heroes, and the costly ornaments of sculpture, which were cast in brass, or overspread with leaves of silver and clared his own intention of restoring them (Carmina Latina, Life spint, Panto Annibalismi, all, p. 97, 98).

Nec to perva manet myretis fame rutals Quanta quad langue fait ofim gloria Roma-Reliquie tretuntur albute i quas longior atas Frangers non valuit 2 mm sis aut ira eruenti Histor, ah egregile françantur civibus, ben i hen ! - Qued ille nequiret (Hanniel)

Perfect ble sties.

The fourth part of the Versez Illustrates of the Marquis Maries, annicountly treats of samplitheatres, particularly those of Riems and Vermet, of their dimensions, wooden galleries, for. It is from many, smade that he derives the name of Colorens or Colorens , since the come appelleries was applied to the amplitheatre of Capun, without the aid of a coloural statue; since that of Nero was creeted in the court (in atrio) of his pulace, and not in the Collisium (p. iv. p. 15-10,21,24) gold, became the first prey of conquest or fana- GHAP ticism, of the avarice of the barbarians or the LXXL christians. In the massy stones of the Coliseum, many holes are decerned; and the two most probable conjectures represent the various accidents of its decay. These stones were connected by solid links of brass or iron; nor had the eye of rapine overlooked the value of the buser metals;" the vacant space was converted into a fair or market : the artisans of the Coliscum are mentioned in an ancient survey; and the chasms were perforated or enlarged to receive the poles that supported the shops or tents of the mechanic trades." Reduced to its naked majesty, the Flavian amphitheatre was contemplated with awe and admiration by the pilgrims of the north; and their rude enthusiasm broke forth in a sublime proverbial expression, which is recorded in the eighth century, in the fragments of the venerable Bede: " As long " as the Coliseum stands, Rome shall stand; when " the Coliseum falls, Rome will fall; when Rome " falls, the world will fall," In the modern sytem of war, a situation commanded by three [&]quot; Joseph Maria Sunds, a hursoid history, and the anchor of an histary of Presents, has compused a separate discretion on the server or eight probable comes of those hairs, which has been since reprinted in the Roman Thomas of Sallengre. Monthmeon (Diarium, p. 233) pressurees the rapide of the barberians to be the amon germanапирае сания потавиния, Donatus, Homa Vetus et Nora, p. 865.

Quemifin stabit Colymus, stabit et Roma ; quanto emiri Culymus, ender Home ; quando cadet Home, calet et mundus (Biede la Escerptis mu Cafferianela anno Ducange Glorur, med. et Indiane Latinitatio, tom, il, p. 407, edit. Basic. This mying must be secribed to the Anglo-Saxon pligrims who visited Rome before the year 733, the era of Bode's douth a for I do not believe that one venerable much ever prosed the ma.

CHAP hills would not be chosen for a fortress; but the strength of the walls and arches could resist the engines of assault; a numerous garrison might be lodged in the inclosure; and while one faction occupied the Vatican and the Capitol, the other was entrenched in the Lateran and the Coli-SCUID.

The abolition at Rome of the ancient games must be understood with some latitude; and the carnival sports of the Testaccan mount and the circus Agonalis," were regulated by the law or custom of the city. The senator presided with dignity and pomp to adjudge and distribute the prizes, the gold ring, or the pallium, as it was styled, of cloth or silk. A tribute on the Jews supplied the nanual expence? and the races, on t I cannot receive, in Musaton's or ginal Lives of the Popes Occupa. Berum Hallescom, thus, the p. it, the presuge that affects this burdle pertition, which must be applied to the spil of the elegants on the beginning of the twelfth contary,

" Alcharets the symptoms of the electro Agentain be destroyed, it will entries be form and many (Agency, Nagara, Naroun) raind the enterior space affects a sufficient breaking the purpose of enting- flux the Monte Testered, that arrange pile of innion pottery, some only adapted for the ennual pentitive of builting from top to bestom some wargen loads of live liens for the diversion of the populars (Statute Urbia Romm, p. 1065.

* See the Statute Ustile Boune, L. iii, c. ST, SS, 89, p. 185, 186. I here already given up tiles of this municipal code. The races of Nagona and Stante Testment are likewise involved in the Dury of Peter Autorios, Dom 1401 to 1417 | Muretari, Script. Ryrum tra'lcurum, tem, any, p. 1735.

. The Pulling, which Manney as footbally deriver from Polarium, is on easy extension of the bien and the words, from the robe or change to the materials, and fees the rests that application as a justice Martin L. dilevi. Sxxdille

" For these expenses, in Jews of these paid each year 1130 Swims, or which the and thurs expressived the stores of allver for Which foot, on borseback, or in chariots, were ennobled CHAP. by a tilt and tournament of seventy-two of the Roman youth. In the year one thousand three hun- A bolldred and thirty-two, a bull-feast, after the fashion colounn, of the Moors and Spaniards, was celebrated in sept. 3. the Coliseum itself; and the living manners are painted in a diary of the times." A convenient order of benches was restored; and a general proclamation, as far-as Rimini and Ravenna, invited the nobles to exercise their skill and courage in this perilous adventure. The Roman ladies were marshalled in three squadrons, and sented in three balconies, which on this day, the third of September, were fined with searlet cloth. The fair Jacova di Rovere, led the matrons from beyond the Tyber, a pure and native race, who still represent the features and character of antiquity. The remainder of the city was divided as usual between the Colonna and Ursini : the two factions were proud of the number and beauty of their female bands: the charms of Savella Ursini are mentioned with praise; and the Colonna regretted the absence of the youngest of their house, who had sprained her ancle in the garden of Nero's tower. The lots of the champions were which Judas had belrayed his mustor to their spectors. There was a footeness of Jewish, as well as of citration youths (Statute Califo, Michael.)

This extraordinary buil-from in the Collection is described, from smaller mether than somety, by Lockettee Bouncaise Should see, is the most success, fragments of Bouncais sometic (Stromari, Scripe, Bornes Hollemma, come mit, p. 235, 550;; and however familied they may seem, they are desply marked with the subsets of truth and mature.

CHAP. drawn by an old and respectable citizen; and they descended into the arena, or pit, to encounter the wild bulls, on foot, as it should seem, with a single spear. Amidst the crowd, our annalist has selected the names, colours, and devices, of twenty of the most conspicuous knights. Several of the names are the most illustrious of Rome and the ecclesiastical state; Malatesta, Polenta, della Valle, Cafarello, Savelli, Capoccio, Conti, Annabaidi, Altieri, Corsi; the colours were adapted to their taste and situation; the devices are expressive of hope or despair, and breathe the spirit of gallantry and arms. " I am alone like " the youngest of the Horatii," the confidence of an intrepid stranger: "I live disconsolate," a weeping widower; "I burn under the ashes," a discreet lover: " I adore Lavinia, or Lucretia," the ambiguous declaration of a modern passion, " My faith is as pure," the motto of a white livery: "Who is stronger than myself?" of a lion's hide: " If I am drowned in blood, what a plea-" sant death," the wish of ferocious courage, The pride or prudence of the Ursini restrained them from the field, which was occupied by three of their hereditary rivals, whose inscriptions denoted the lofty greatness of the Colonna name: "Though sad, I am strong:" "Strong as I am " great :" " If I fall," addressing himself to the spectators, " you fall with me:"-intimating (says the contemporary writer) that while the other families were the subjects of the Vatican, they alone were the supporters of the capitol. The combats of the amphitheatre were dangerous and bloody. Every champion successively en- CHAP. countered a wild built; and the victory may be LXXL ascribed to the quadropeds, since no more than eleven were left on the field, with the loss of nine wounded and eighteen killed on the side of their adversaries Some of the noblest families might mourn, but the pomp of the funerals, in the churches of St. John Lateran and St. Maria Maggiore, afforded a second holiday to the people, Doubtless it was not in such conflicts that the blood of the Romans should have been shed; yet, in blanning their rashness, we are compelled to appland their gullantry; and the noble volunteers, who display their magnificence, and risk their lives, under the balconies of the fair, excite a more generous sympathy than the thousands of captives and malcinctors who were reluctantly dragged to the scene of slaughter."

This use of the amphitheatre was a rare, per-logues, laps a singular, festival; the demand for the materials was a daily and continual want, which the citizens could gratify without restraint or remorse. In the fourteenth century, a scandalous act of concord secured to both factions the privilege of extracting stones from the free and common quarry of the Colineum; and Poggius laments that the greater part of these stones had been burnt to lime by the fully of the Romans." To check this abuse, and to prevent the nocturnal crimes that might be perpetrated in the vast and gloomy recess, Eugenius the fourth surrounded it with a wall; and by a charter long extant, granted both the ground and edifice to the monks of an adjacent convent." After his death, the wall was overthrown in a tumult of the people; and had they themselves respected the noblest monument of their fathers, they might have justified the resolve that it should never be degraded to private property. The inside was damaged; but in the middle of the sixteenth century, an era of taste and learning, the exterior circumference of one thousand six hundred and twelve feet was still entire and inviolate; a triple elevation of fourscore arches, which rose to the height of one handred and eight feet. Of the present ruin, the nephews of Paul the third are the guilty agents; and every traveller who views the Farnese palace may carse the sacrilege and luxury of these apstart princes.' A similar re-

^{*} Maraton has given a represe dissertation (the twenty-sligh) to the games of the Italians in the middle ages.

[&]quot;In a course but autroritive memoir, the short flarthelensy (Memilies de l'Amateurle des Inscriptions, rom. 1211), p. 2850 has membered this agreement of the factions of the fautisenth contary, do Thartine Emirado in the Collegent, from an weighted me in the exchange of Rome.

LXXL

[#] Collisions . . . oh stuffithm Hammorian wakes at pure ast wherein delatum, are the ordigment Popples (p. 17) : but his expression, too strong for the present age, must be very tenderly applied to the setemate contary.

³ Of the Officerum months, Monthagon to 1425 affirms this fact from the monomials of Plantinius Vocas (No. 725. They still begul, on some future occurrency, to reside and stratigue their greats.

After measuring the prise as emphatibular gyrne, Manufaccon quitty, only adds, that it was entire under Paul dis towards clamate. Moratori (Annali C'Italia, tem. tiv. p. 321) may freely reports the guilt of the Farmer pope, and the indigention of the Roman people. Against the nephers of Prina via. I have no other service than the above exploy. "Questions increase because people, was pechage magnetically the rescribing of the words.

preach is applied to the Barberini; and the repetition of isjury might be dreaded from every tition of isjury might be dreaded from every tition of isjury might be dreaded from every reign, till the Coliseum was placed under the and commercion of religion by the most liberal of the entition of safeguard of religion by the most liberal of the the Coliseum pontiffs, Benedict the fourteenth, who consecrntee ed a spot which persecution and fable had stained with the blood of so many christian martyrs.

When Petrarch first gratified his eyes with atgnorance view of those monuments, whose scattered frag-and barbarian of the ments so far surpass the most cloquent descriptions, he was astonished at the supine indifference of the Romans themselves: he was humbled rather than elated by the discovery, that except his friend Rienzi and one of the Colonna, a stranger of the Rhone was more conversant with these antiquities than the nobies and natives of the metropolis. The ignorance and credulity of the Romans are elaborately displayed in the old survey of the city, which was composed about the

^{*} As an antiquarian and a privat, Manifeston than deprecise the rain of the Collector i Quod it not simple ments stage pulchrinding diguan faises quod imposite errors manne, indigna see utique in locus tot many man cruste secrimi interpret as vicini with

^{*}Yet the entities of Rems (I. iii, c. 8), it 1881 topes a ben of 500 serve on who serve shall demolete any one put effice, in white rivings deformant, at ut antique a difficial decorate orbit perpetus representent.

^{*} In his first state of Rome (a) p. 1337. See Memoires our Petrusque, turns i, p. 522, 'Acc., Petrusch' a steuch mater paleacole resum tuntatum, et ethparis mode alegatus.... Presentia sero, unicom dietu, solid imminiali i vere major (uit Monin najoresque sont reliquia quem reliat. Junt com orbers at his urbs domitum, and turn sero domitum, intro (Opp. p. 608. Familiares, il, 14. Journi Collemna).

^{*} He excepts and praises the raw knowledge of Jahn Colorna. Qui eater hadis magis quanti person it masserum, quantificanticives? Insitus decempante minus. Banta cognoscitur quantificance.

CHAP, beginning of the thirteenth century; and without dwelling on the manifold errors of name and place, the legend of the capitol may provoke a smile of contempt and indignation. " The capi-" tol." says the anonymous writer, " is so named "as being the head of the world; where the " consuls and senators formerly resided for the se government of the city and the globe. The strong and lofty walls were covered with glass " and gold, and crowned with a root of the " richest and most curious carving. Below the " citadel stood a palace, of gold for the greatest " part, decorated with precious stones, and whose " value might be esteemed at one third of the "world itself. The statues of all the provinces " were arranged in order; each with a small bell "suspended from its neck; and such was the " contrivance of art magic," that if the province " rebelled against Rome, the statue turned round

After the description of the captter, he ofthe status arent quart and second procuring a tradeburg partition of tradeburg personal to procure the continuency bearing erent its per magirum artum disponir, ut wounde alique regio Romano imperio rebellia crut, statim immed illian provincias vertebet un control lilein; unde thattangentum resonant and pendetne ad collisms tamoque vates capitolii qui erant excitodes secuttii, &c. He menticati as stample of the Saxons and Suevi, who after they had been subdued by Agrique, again rebelleds fintinnabulum samit; seconds qui crat In specula in held-mail; sensioribus suuriss li ; Agrippa marched for h and endoced the Persians (Aucsym. in Mantiascon, p. 297, 298).

^{*} The same writer affirms, that Virgd captus a Romania invisibiliter exit, whom Naspolin. A Roman magician, in the eleventh conturn, is introduced by William of Malmahury (do Gestis Region Angkertim, L. H. to Set 1 and in the time of Planning Voors (No. 11). 103), it was the volgor belief that the strongers (the Carls) layer of the draming for the discovery of hidden transmits.

to that quarter of the heavens, the bell rang, CHAP. " the prophet of the capitol reported the prodigy, " and the senate was admonished of the impend-" ing danger." A second example of less importance, though of equal absurdity, may be drawn from the two marble horses, led by two naked youths, which have since been transported from the baths of Constantine to the Quirinal hill. The groundless application of the name of Phidias and Praxiteles may perhaps be excused; but these Grecian sculptors should not have been removed above four hundred years from the age of Pericles to that of Tiberius : they should not have been transformed into two philosophers or magicians, whose nakedness was the symbol of truth and knowledge, who revealed to the emperor his most secret actions; and, after refusing all pecuniary recompence, solicited the benour of leaving this eternal monument of themselves.4 Thus awake to the power of magic, the Romans were insensible to the beauties of art; no more than five statues were visible to the eyes of Poggius; and of the multitudes which chance or design had buried under the ruins, the resurrection was fortunately delayed till a safer and more enlightened age." The Nile, which now adorns ^{*} Annuym. p. 182. Mantfamore (p. 191) justly observes, that if Alexander to opposement, these sinters enumer to the work of Phidier (Olympical Inxxii) or Prantales (Olympical city), who lived beter that comparer (Plin, Hist, Natur. 2018, 195.

demais

^{*} William of Maintenay C. R. p. 86, 87) reland a margefloor depository (s. c. 1016) of Patter, the one of Evender, who had been stem by Turner: the perpendid light in the separate of a Lathe symmetry, the corpor, yet entire, of a young giant; the summon wound in his

CHEAP. LXX7. the Vatican, had been explored by some labourers, in digging a vineyard near the temple, or convent, of the Minerva; but the impatient proprietor, who was tormented by some visits of cariosity, restored the unprofitable marble to its former grave. The discovery of a statue of Pompey, ten feet in length, was the occasion of a law-suit. It had been found under a partition-wall; the equitable judge had pronounced, that the head should be separated from the body to satisfy the claims of the contiguous owners; and the sentence would have been executed, if the intercession of a cardinal, and the liberality of a pope, had not rescued the Roman bero from the hands of his barbarous countrymen.4

Beston tion and A.C.

But the clouds of barbarism were gradually disstudents pelled; and the peaceful authority of Martin the of the risp. fifth and his successors restored the ornaments of $\star \approx 1400$, the city as well as the order of the ecclesiastical state. The improvements of Rome, since the fifteenth century, have not been the spontaneous produce of freedom and industry. The first and most natural root of a great city is the labour and populousness of the adjacent country, which > beenst (postus perforat improva, for. If the folips reats on the slightad broadstime, we may pity the bodies, so well as the storney, that were exposed to the uty in a backgroun age.

Prope portionis Minurent, mains est reculturais, esqui suput sutegral ufficie anna magnitudinas, un signa cermia excedut. Quident ad plantamine ariscoes acrober furture detegit. All her eisendam complaces to dies megals constituents, screption admittion familiarant pertuente, horti sutrimus congesta bumo realt (Poggina de Varietate Ferrusia, p. 12).

See the Memorials of Plaintells Vaces, No. 51, p. 11, 12, at the and of the Bama Anties of Nantur (1701, in 4to).

supplies the materials of subsistence, of manufac- CHAP. tures, and of foreign trade. But the greater part UXXL of the Campagna of Rome is reduced to a dienry and desolate wilderness: the overgrown estates of the princes and the clergy are cultivated by the lazy hands of indigent and hopeless vassals; and the scanty harvests are confined or exported for the benefit of a monopoly. A second and more artificial cause of the growth of a metropolis is the residence of a monarch, the expence of a luxurious court, and the tributes of dependent provinces. Those provinces and tributes had been lost in the fall of the empire; and if some streams of the silver of Peru and the gold of Brasil have been attracted by the Vatican, the revenues of the cardinals, the fees of office, the oblations of pilgrims and ellents, and the remnant of ecclesinstical taxes, afford a poor and precarious supply, which maintains however the idleness of the court and city. The population of Rome, far below the measure of the great capitals of Europe, does not exceed one hundred and seventy thousand inhabitants;" and within the spacious inclosure of the walls, the largest portion of the seven hills is overspread with vineyards and rains. The beauty and splendour of the modern city may be ascribed to the abuses of the government, to the influence of superstition. Each reign (the exceptions are rare)

[&]quot; In the year 1709, the intultrante of Home without building night or too Homeand Jews's assembled to $25,500 and a (Late), Vayages on Resemble et in Italia, tons. III, p. 217, 2185. In 1740 they had becreved to 146,000; and it 1765, I left them, without the Jess, 101,499. I mit housent whether they have since continued a . In ogressive state

CHAR, has been marked by the rapid elevation of a new family, enriched by the childless pontiff, at the expence of the church and country. The palaces of these fortunate nephews are the most costly monuments of elegance and servitude; the perfect arts of architecture, painting, and sculpture, have been prostituted in their service, and their galleries and gardens are decorated with the most precious works of antiquity, which taste or vanity has prompted them to collect. The ecclesiastical revenues were more decently employed by the popes themselves in the pomp of the eatholic worship; but it is superfluous to enumerate their pious foundations of altars, chapels, and churches, since these lesser stars are eclipsed by the sun of the Vatican, by the dome of St. Peter, the most glorious structure that ever has been applied to the use of religion. The fame of Julius the second, Leo thetenth, and Sixtusthe fifth, is accompanied by the superior merit of Bramante and Fontana, of Raphael and Michael-Angelo; and the same munificence which had been displayed in palaces and temples was directed with equal zeal to revive and emulate the labours of antiquity. Prostrate obelisks were raised from the ground, and erected in the most conspicuous places; of the eleven aqueducts of the Cæsars and consuls, three were restored; the artificial rivers were conducted over a long series of old, or of new arches, to discharge into murble basins a flood of salubrious and refreshing waters; and the spectator, impatient to ascend the steps of St. Peter's, is detained by a column of Egyptian granite, which rises between two lofty and perpetual fountains, Case. to the height of one hundred and twenty feet. The map, the description, the monuments, of ancient Rome have been elucidated by the diligence of the antiquarian and the student ? and the footsteps of heroes, the relies, not of superstition, but of empire, are devoutly visited by a new race of pilgrims from the remote, and once savage, countries of the North.

Of these pilgrims, and of every reader, the at-Finitestention will be excited by an history of the decline and fall of the Roman empire; the greatest, perhaps, and most awful scene, in the history of mankind. The various causes and progressive effects are connected with many of the events

The Pera Montfaucon distributes his own observations line swenty days, he should have styled them weeks, or months, of his vasix to the different parts of the city (Diariom Halleron, & S. W.), p. 104-301). That formed Sensiletine spriess the supperspliers of angings Home ; the ager offers of Blunday, Pairons, Martiness, and Fannus, the superior labours of Pyrelius Ligarius, had his learning been equal to his liberes; the writings of Onuphrim Panviolus, and omme obscuravit, and the secont less imperfect books of Donatus and Mardini. Yet Montfaunen mill sight for a more complete plan and discription of the old city, which must be attained by the three follewing methods: I. The measurement of the space and intervals of the roins. ft. The study of inscriptions, and the places where they were found. 3. The investigation of all the acts, charters, diaries, of the middle ages, which same any spot or building of Rome. The lahorsons work, such as Montiancon desired, must be promoted by princely is public munificance; but the great modern plan of Nalli (4. n. 1746) would furnish a solid and accurate hash for the appears topouraphy of Rome.

CHAP: most interesting in human annals; the artist policy of the Casars, who long maintained the name and image of a free republic; the disorder of military despotism; the rise, establishment, and sects, of christianity; the foundation of Constantinople; the division of the monarchy; the invasion and settlements of the barbarians of Germany and Scythia; the institutions of the civil law; the character and religion of Mahomet; the temporal sovereignty of the popes; the restoration and decay of the Western empire of Charlemagne; the crusades of the Latins in the East: the conquests of the Saracens and Turks; the ruin of the Greek empire; the state and revolutions of Rome in the middle age. The historian may applaud the importance and variety of his subject: but, while he is conscious of his own imperfections, he must often accuse the deficiency of his materials. It was among the ruins of the capitol, that I first conceived the idea of a work which has amused and exercised near twenty years of my life; and which, however inadequate to my own wishes, I finally deliver to the curiosity and candour of the public.

> LAURANNE, June 27, 1781.

GENERAL INDEX.

N. R. The Roman Numerals refer to the Volume, and the Figures to the Page.

å

A H.AN, the Saracen, herolan of his widow, ir, 393, Abharmer, elevation of the house of, to the office of caliph of the Saracent, x, 28.

Abdallah, the Saracon, his excursion to plunder the fair of Abyla, ix, 400. His African expedition, 401.

Abdalantlek, caliple of the Saracens, refuses tribute to the emperor of Constantinople, and establishes a national mint, x, 7.

the direction of the Sorneen, establishes his throne at Cordovn in Spain, 2, 34. Splendour of his court, 37. His estimate of his happiness, 59.

Abdelaura, the Saracen, his treaty with Theodemir the Gothic prince of Spain, ix, 481, 482. His death, 485.

Abderance, his expedition to France, and victories there, x, 21. His death, 26.

Abdol Motalieb, the grandfather of the prophet Mahomet, his history, in, 253.

Abgaras, inquiry into the suthenticity of his correspondence with Is-un Christ, ix, 117.

Abgarus, the last king of Edeus, sent in chains to Rome, i, 335.

ablavius, the confidential prefect under Commanine the Great, a conspiracy formed against him on that emperor's death, iii, 130. Is put to death, 132.

Abu Ayuh, his history, and the veneration paid to his memory by the Mahumetane, x, 5; xii, 344.

Absolver, the friend of Mahomet, is one of his first converts, ix, 283.

Files from Mecca with him, 438. Succeeds Mahomet as callph of the Surgeons, 339. His character, 358.

Abs Coab commands the Andalusian Moors who subthied the island of Crete, x, 58.

Also Sophian, prince of Meeca, compilers the death of Mahamet, ix, 288. Battles of Beder and Ohod, 298-501. Besieges Medina without success, 301. Surrenders Meeca to Mahamet, and receives him as a prophet, 307.

VOL XII.

Ff

archhishop of Milan, 28. Opposes the Arian worship of the enpress Justina, 39. Refuses abedience to the imperial power, 43. Controls the conjector Theodosius, 68, 69. Imposes persons on Theodosius for his small treatment of Theodosius, 71. Employed his influence over Gratian and Theodosius, to inspire them with maxius of persecution, 91. Opposes Symmachus, the advocate for the old pages religiou, 99. Comforts the citizens of Florence with a draim, when besieged by Radagaian, 218.

dwide, nege of, by favor king of Persia, iii, 205. Receives the fugitive inhabitants of Nishbi, iv, 220. Is besieged and taken by Caba-des king of Pernis, vii. 138.

Assir, prince of Ionia, his character, and pussage into Europe, xi, Americans the historian, his religious character of the emperor Constantius, iii, 552. His sensure on the mainty of Christians towards each other, 403. His account of the fiery obstructions to restoring the temple of Jerusalem, iv, 108. His account of the hostile contest of Danmerus and Ursinus for the historic of Home, iv, 274. Testimony in favour of his historical merit, 427. His character of the nobles of Home, v, 267.

Avenueux, the mathematician, his measurement of the circuit of Rome, v. 287.

Formulas, the monk of Alexandria, his martyrdom, viii, 280.

(morium, slege and destruction of, by the caliph Motassem, x, 69.

Jackhildrer, histop of Iconium, gains the favour of the emperor Theodonius by an orthodox for mot, v, 16.

Association at Rome, a description of, ii, 103; xii, 418.

4mree, his birth and character, ix, 425. His invasion and conquest of Egypt, 425. His administration theor, 445. His description of the country, 445.

quarted 1, sultan of the Turks, his reign, si, 444. (marted 11, sultan, his reign and character, sii, 150. (nacherer, in markish history, described, vi, 263. (carleine, pope, his Jewith extraction, xii, 315.

Anatherius I, marries the empress Ariadne, vii, 6. His war with The-odotic, the Ostrogoth king of Italy, 24. His economy celebrated, 161. His long wall from the Propositis to the Euxine, 129. Is bumbled by the catholic clergy, viii, 316.

Increasing II, emperor of Constantinople, ix, 24. His preparations of defence unalist the Saracens, x, 8, teazenine, St., his brief history and martyrdom, vin, 223, more.

duction, the city of, on the bunks of the Euphrates, described, iv,

Andalusia, ilerivation of the name of that province, in, 467, note.

Andrewicze, purishent of Libya, excommunicated by Synesius history of Prolemais, ill, 299, 300.

Andronicus Commenus, his character, and first adventures, in 92.
Seizes the empire of Constantinople, 104. His unhappy fate, 107.
Andronicus the elder, emperor of Constantinople, his appendition. 21.

358. His war with his grandon, and abdication, 366.

Andronicas the younger, emperar of Constantinople, his licentions character, xi, 363. His civil war against his grandfather, 365. His relyo, 369. Is vanquished and wounded by Sultan Orchan, 496. His private application to Pope Renedict of Rome, xii, 66.

Angoral builth of, between Tamerlane and Bainret, xii, 66.
Anianar, bishop of Orleans, his pions anxiety for the relief of that city, when besieged by Attila the Hun, vi, 108.

Anician family at Rome, brief history of, v, 259.

Anne Commente, character of her history of her father, Alexius I, emperor of Constantinuple, ix, 85. Her conspiracy against her brother John, 86.

Anthonius, emperor of the West, his descent and investiture by Leo the Great, vi, 199. His election confirmed at Home, 194. Is killed in the mck of Rome by Ricimer, 217, 218.

Anthemias, prefect of the East, character of his administration, in the minority of the emperor Theodonus the younger, v, 414, 415.

dathemias the architect, instances of his great knowledge in mechanics, vii, 114. Forms the design of the church of St. Sophia at Constantinople, 117.

Authory, St., father of the Egyptian munics, his history, vi, 241.

Anthropermorphites, among the early Christians, personifiers of the Deity, viii, 269.

Antioch, taken and destroyed by Sapor king of Persia, 1, 428. Flourishing state of the Christian church there, in the seign of Theodorishing state of the Christian church there, in the seign of Theodorishing sins, ii, 361.

history of the body of St. Robyles, bishop of, iv, 192. The cathedral of, shut up, and its wealth confiscated, by the emperor Julian, 129. Licentistus manners of the citizens, 144. Popular discontents during the residence of Julian there, 146.

sedition there, against the emperor Theodosius, v. 59. The city pardoned, 64.

Great destruction there by an earthquake, $17. Is again seized by Charces II, siii, 220.

is reduced by the Sarnems, and renseared, it, 457. Is men-vered by the Greeks, a. 140.

belieged and taken by the first crusaders, al, 64.

Intening, the wife of Belimmus, her character, vii, 164. Examines and convicts Pope Sylverius of temchery, 238. Her activity during the siege of Rome, 241. Her secret history, 261. Founds a convent for her entreat, 406.

forevenue, a Reman pringer at the court of Super king of Persis, and mulates him to an invasion of the Russen protries, iii, 203.

famming Pier, his character, and that of Hallrian, compared; i, 12:

Is adopted by Hadrine, 122.

the instance of Hadriso, 123. His character, 135. His erar against the united Germans, 381. Suspicions story of his effect in stayour of the Christians, is, 445.

Aper, Arrive, preterior prefect, and fether-indice to the imperer under the walls of that city, 255. Accepts a reason, and the the siege, 295. His negotiation with the emperor Harris. 297. His second siege of Rome, 303. Places Again the imperial throne, 305. Degrades him, 309. Spring the compared with the His second compared with the His second Churlis V, 323. Retires from Bone, and come. That 325. His death and burial, 329.

Marie 11, king of the Gutto, his sverthrow by Chield king of the Franks, vi., 330.

Afterie, the son of Marozia, his myodt, and government of Rome, iv., 201.

Allegrous of France, persecution of, z. 187.

Album, king of the Lombards, his history, viii, 117. His alliance with the Avars against the Gepides, 119, 120. Reduces the Gepides, 121. He undermakes the computer of Italy, 122. Overruns other is law called Lombardy, 126. Assumes the regal title there, 127, 128. Takes Pavis, and makes it his capital city, 129, 129. Is marriered at the instigation of his queen Resamond, 129.

Alchemy, the books of, in Egypt, destroyed by Diocletian, ii, 187.

Alemanni, the origin and warlike spirit of, i, 417. Are driven out of Italy by the senate and people, 418. Invade the empire under Aurelian, ii, 21. Are retally motest, 24. Gaul delivered from their depredations by Constantius Chlores, 131.

invade and establish themelves in Gaul, iii, 214. Are defeated a Strachurgh by Johan, 225. Are reduced by Julian in his expensitions beyond the Illine, 220. Invade Gaul under the emperor Voluminian, iv, 277. Are council by Joseph 379. And charised by Velentinian, 282.

are added by Clove king of the Frunkt, vi. 316.

Alippo, singe said employ of, by the Saracona, ix. 415. Is recovered by the Greeks, 8, 80. Is taken and eached by Tamerime, ali, 21:

Alexander III, page, establishes the papal election in the cellege of cuminuis, nir, 200.

Alexander, architectup of Alexandria, excommunicates Arms for his berry, iii, 528.

Alexander Appears, is declared Court by the emperor Elegabetes, i. 238. Is raised to the theoret, 240. Examination into his pre-tended victory over Autosenses, 237. Showed a regard for the Christian religion, it, 450.

effectation, a general movement there, by order of the emperor Caracella, i, 219. The city described, 45%. Is ruined by ridicallous intesting commotions, 45%. By famine and pertilence, 45%. Is besieged and taken by Diocletian, n, 134. The Christian theology induced to a systematical form in the school of, 36%. Number of marrys who suffered there in the persecution by Decise, 42%.

the theological system of Plato taught in the school of, and received by the Jews there, iii, 316. Questions concerning the of the Trinity, agitated in the philosophical and Christian of, 321, 327. History of the archbishop St. Athanseius, Chitrages attending his expulsion and the emblishment of the George of Cappadocia, 380. The city distracted to the control of the Measure is, milery of the temple of Sempis there, v. 108. This temple, and the tumous library, destroyed by Rishop Thoughilles, 111.

is taken by Amron the Saracen, in, 485. The famous B-brary destroyed, 489.

Alexius Angelus, his usurpation of the Greek empire, and character, 11, 185. Flies before the crusaders, 213.

Mexico I, Commonus, emperor of Constantinuple, ix, 83. New titles of dignity invented by him, 121. Buttle of Duraneo, 294. Soli-cits the aid of the emperor Henry 111, 380.

6. His supicious policy on the strival of the crusalers, 45, 46. Exacts humage from them, 43. Profits by the success of the crusalers, 101, 102.

Alexius II, Comments, surperor of Constantinople, ix, 92.

Mexius Strategosulus, the Greak general, retakes Constantinople from the Latins, at, 284.

Alexans, the son of Israe Angelus, his escape from his unale, who had deposed his father, xi, 180. His treaty with the crusalers for his restoration, 202. Restoration of his father, 217. His death, 225.

Affect sends an embassy to the shrine of St. Thomas in India, will, 345.

Algebra, by whom invented, s. 47.

All joins Mahomet in his prophetical intesion, 1v, 284. His larosom, 303. His character, 329, is chosen caliph of the Saracem, 333. Devotion past at his louds, 341. His posterity, 342.

Augers defends Camer, for his brother Tries, king of the Goths, vii, 390. Is reduced, 392.

Allerras murders Caramina, and murps his station, ii. 127.

Ale strains, suban of the Turks, his reign, s. 252.

elignus, governor of Britain, is commissioned by the emperor Julian to rebuild the temple of Jerusalem, iv, 105.

Amala, king of the Goths, his high credit man og them, i, 594.

Amalamanta, queen of Italy, her history and character, vii. 206. Her death, 210.

Amalohi, description of the city, and its commerce, a, 279.

fractions, improbability of any society of, ii, 46, socs.

Ambition, reflections on the violence, and various operations or that purion, iz, 109.

emperur Gratian, v. 4, sore. His birth, and promotion to the the Taker, the Carmathlan, pillages Mecca, x, 77.

2.53

Abulfeda, his account of the splendour of the callph Mostudes, and Abulpharaguer, primute of the cattern Jucobites, some accountrof, viii,

His encomium on windom and learning, x, 42.

Shindanting, peneral of the East, and patron of the empiric Entropius, is diagraced and exilted by him, v. 351.

Abola, the fair of, plandered by the Suracena, ix, 402.

Abysemia, the inhabitrate of, described, vii, 540. Their alliance with the emperor Justinian, 343. Exclesisation history of, viii, 567.

descens, history of Amids, at an opening hutsing of episcopal benevolence, v. 427-

Achen, its extent, i, 58.

Acre, the memorable steps of, by the crumiters, xi, 142. Final loss of, 166.

Among institute of Justinian respecting, viii, 82.

Action, a review of florian affairs after the battle of, i, 95.

Adoperar, the only marrys of distinction during the pursecution under Diocletian, it, 480.

Adolphur, the brother of Alaric, brings him a remiorcement of troops, v, 396. Is made count of the domestics to the new emperor Attalus, 505. Succeeds his brother as king of the Goths, and concludea peace with Honorius, $30.

Advetton, the two kinds of, under the Greek empire, zi, 49, aute.

deliveries of the Roman emperer, custom of, and derivation of the lerm, x, 124.

Advent, the Genness governor of Photons, conveys Assurath II from Asia to Europe, xit, 52.

Adrian I, Pope, his alliance with Charlemagne against the Launlards, in, 150. His reception of Charlemagne at Rume, 154. Asserts the fictitions donation of Consumits the Great, 1551 159.

Adultory, distinctions of, and how punished by Augustus, viii, 99. Be the Christian emperors, 102.

Alia Capitaline founded on Mount Sion, by Hadrian, il, 279.

Mins Petus, his Tripartite, the oldest work of Roman jurisprudence, viii, 25.

Amilianus, governor of Pannonia and Maria, routs the harbstons invaders of the empire, and is declared emperor by his troops, i.

Anear of Gara, his attestation of the miraculous gift of speech to the cutholic confestors of Tipass, whose tongues had been cut out, vi-

204.

Amer Service, his account of the impracticulality of an European crosade against the Turks, xii, 253. His enigram on the destruction of ancient buildings in Home, 415, aute.

Ære of the world, remarkable epochas in, painted out, vii, 154-

- Gelalman of the Turks, when settled, x, 367.

Arriel tribute, in the eastern empire, what, vii, 109.

Lines, surmained the Atheirs, his character and adventures, Ill, 209, 954, 376, note.

the Roman general under Valentinian III, his character, vi. 9 4 Ha treacherous scheme to min Count Boniface, 11: Is forced to retire into Pannonia, 26: His invitation of the Huminto the empire, 39. Seizes the administration of the western empire, 89. His character, as given by Ranatas a cotemporary historian, 90. Employs the Huma and Alani in the defence of Gaul, 322. Countieles a peace with Theodoric, 97. Raises the slege of Orleans, 110. Battle of Chalons, 112. His prodence on the invasion of Italy by Attila, 129. Is mandered by Valentinian, 159.

Africa, its situation and revolutions, i, 41. Great revenue mixed from by the Romans, 258. Progress of Christianity there, ii, 966.

is distracted with religious discord in the time of Constantine the Great, iii, 509. Character and result of the Communcellions, 598. Oppressions of, under the government of Count Romanus, iv, 501. General state of Africa, 508.

revolt of Count Boniface there, vi, 11. Agrival of Generic king of the Vandala, 14. Persecution of the Donatius, 16. Devastations of, by the Vandala, 20. Carthage surprised by Genseric, 28. Persecution of the Catholics, 280.

expedition of Belinarius to, vii, 188. In recovered by the flumans, 186. The government of, extled by Justinian, 187. Revolt of the troops there, under Stozu, 349. Devastation of the war, 355.

invasion of, by the Saracens, in, 449. Conquest of, by Ak-voit and independence of the Saranens there, x, 79.

Aglabites, the Sameen dynasty of, x, 79.

Agine, a Roman lady, patronises St. Boniface, ii, 482.

Agricola, review of his conduct in Britain, i. 7-

-fireulture, great improvement of, in the western countries of the Roman conpire, i, 84. State of, in the wastern coupire, under Justinian, iv. 70.

Ajan, the sepulchre of, how distinguished, iii, 11.

chiganaim, battle of, between the Saraceus and the Greeks, in, 388.

Akbah, the Sareem, his exploits in Africa, ix, 455.

Alani, occasion of these people invading Asia, ii, 68. Conquest of, by the Hum, iv, 371. Join the Goths who had emigrated into Thrace, 400. See Gothe and Fundale.

there, the Goth, learns the art of war under Theodosius the Great, v. 80. He-comes the leader of the Gothic revolt, and savages Greeze, 178. Escapes from Stillicho, 186. Is appointed master-general of the emtern Illyricum, 188. His invasion of traly, 190. Is defeated by Stillicho at Pallentia, 199. Is driven out of Italy, 203. Is, by treaty with Hamarina, declared master-general of the Roman armies throughout the prefecture of Illyricum, 234. It is pleas and matters for marching to Rome, 252. Encamps

+19

Numerical is killed by Diocletian as the presumptive manifect of that prince, it, 108.

Aphareton, the Persian, his embacy from Narca king of the 13-15-16-16-emperor Galerius, it, 149.

specialypse, why new admitted into the canon of its and and Aperateur, admiral of Constantinopia, his confederary a met John Cantacurrene, in 374. His death, 280.

spellingers, bishop of Landiers, his hypothesis of the givine incarnation of Jens Christ, vin, 271. Apalliances, patriarch of Alexandria, butchers his flock in defence of the cutholic doctrine of the incarnation, viii, 862.

Applicature of Tyuna, his doubtful character, B, S7, ante.

"post, our of the Haman emperors, bow this custom was introduced, i.

Agricus dethomas Leontins emperor of Constantinople, and marya hir . place, ix, 19

Spulia is conquered by the Normans, z, 262. Is confirmed to them by papal grant, 270.

aguileia, besieged by the corperor Maximin, i, 2006. Is taken and de-strayed by Artila king of the Flum, vi. 124. Against it satisfably the Guths, under their king Wallis, v. 358. In conquered by Clovis king of the Franks, vi. 336.

Arabic, its situation, soil, and climate, is, 219. Its division into the Sandy, the Sansy, and the Happy, 222. The pastural Arabi, 223. Their horses and councils, 224, 225. Cities of, 226. Man-tures and austome of the Arabs, 228. Their binguage, 239. Their benevolunce, 242. History and description of the Curba of Merca, 245. Religious, 249. Life and doctrine of Mahamet, 253. Compact of, by Mahamet, 309. Character of the caliphs, 357. Rapid compacts of, 361. Limits of their compacts, s. 1. Three caliphs enablished, 34. Introduction of learnling among the Arabians, 41. Their progress in the sciences, 44. Their literary deficiencies, 50. Decline and fall of the calipha, 77. 78.

Arbeno, a veteran under Constantine the Great, leaves his retirement to appose the sourper Procopius, iv, 2498.

Arbagantes, the Frank, his military promotion under Theodostan in Gunt, and containey against Valentinian the younger, v. 77. It defeated by Theodosius, and kills himself, v. 84, 85.

Arcadius, son of the emperor Theodonias, soccoeds to the empire of the East, v. 137. His magnificence, 373. Extent of his dominimo, 574. Administration of his favourite esmuch Emroprint, 370. His crael law against treasure, 383. Signs the condemunition of Entropius, 391. His Interview with the revolted Tribigild and Grinna, 393, 394. His death, and supposed testament, 412.

Architecture, Roman, the general magnificence of, indicated by the existing ruint, i. 76.

Ardibarias, his expedition to Italy, to reduce the number John, vs. 4.

the object of their expedition to Colchon vii, 821.

of the emperor Lev, and wife of Zeno, her charac-

the Eppairs, their terrific mode of waging war, it,

Armineur is upposited general of the house by the emperor Julian on his Persian expedition, iv. 162. Dillinguishes himself against the usurper Processin, 240.

Accounter scient two-thirds of the lands of the Sequani in Guil, for himself and his German followers, vi. 854.

Arithfulus, principal minister of the house of Curus, is received into confidence by the emperor Dioclatian, ii, 114.

drintetle, his logic better adapted to the direction of error, then for the discovery of truth, x, 45% from its excommunicated for heretical nations concerning the Trinity, iii, 328. Strength of his party, ibid. His opinions examined in the council of Nice, 528. Account of Arian sects, 338. Council of Rimini, 343. His limistanent and estal, 347, 248. His applicated death, 548.

- the Arians persecute the Cacholics in Africa, vi. 280.

Armonic is seized by Sapor king of Persia, 1, 435. Thiddees restored, ii, 159. He is again expelled by the Persians, 144. Is resigned to Tiridates by tracty between the Romans and Persians, 154.

is rendered tributary to Presia, on the death of Tiridates, iii, 137. Character of Arastes Tiranue, king of, and his conduct toward the emperor Julian, iv, 137, 158. Is reduced by Super to a Persian province, 318.

____ its distructions and division between the Percons and the Romans, v. 428.

history of Christianity there, viii, 857, 958.

dronies of the sustern empire, state of, under the supprior Maurice, viii, 203.

fraction, the provinces of, form a free government independent on the Romans, v. 363. Saloulis to Chicis king of the Franks, vl., 322. Settlement of Briton in, 200.

Armour, defensive, is laid with by the Homens, and intented by the burbarians, v. 89.

denied of Brescia, his heresy and history, all, 271.

Arragam, derivation of the name of that province, 1, 51, may.

Arrian, his visit to, and description of, Colobos, vii, 827.

Arraces Tiranus, king of Armenia, his character, and distillution to the emperor Julian, iv, 157, 158. Withdraws his traces treacheresult from the Roman service, 185. His diseases and, 312.

Arrevine, parriarch of Constantinople, excommunicates the emperor Michael Palmologus, al, 327. Faction of the America, 528.

france, king of Parthia, is defeated and claim by Artaxerxon king of Person, i. 318.

Arezban, his complexey against the empaner Justinian, vil. 374. Is intrasted with the conduct of the armament sent to Italy, 578.

Basiors, its foundation and mustion, is, 388. Backs, public, of Rome, described, c, 282.

Batter, reception of the emperor Julian there, iv, 154-

Bearts, wild, the surrety of, introduced in the circus, for the public games at Rome, ii, 101.

Beaurebre, M. de, chaencter of his Histoire Critique du Manicheitme, villa, 250, mary.

Beder, bettle of, between Mahomet and the Koreish of Mecca, ix, 290.

Bedeuerer of Arabia, their mosts of life, ix, 29th-

Beer, remarks on the structure of their combs and cells, x, 42, note.

Belitarius, his birth and military promotion, vii, 161. Is appointed by Justinian to conduct the African war, 161. Embarkation of his troops, 167. Lands in Africa, 171. Defents Gelimer, 176. Is received into Carthage, 177. Second defeat of Gelimer, 184. Reduction of Africa, 186. Surrender of Gelimer, 191, His triumphant teturn to Constantinople, 194. Is declared sole consul, 195. He menses the Ostroguths of Italy, 205. He seizes Sicily, 212. Invades Italy, 217. Takes Naples, 220. He enters Rome, He is besieged in Rume by the Goths, think. The siege raised, 246. Causes Constantine, one of his generals, to be killed, 247. Siege of Ravenna, 253. Takes Ravenna by stratagem, 256. Returns to Comtantinople, 258. His character and behaviour, 259. Scandalous life of his wife Antonina, 261. His diagrace and submission, 26%. Is sent into the East to oppose Charroes king of Persia, 315. His politic reception of the Persian ambumatters, 316. His second campaign in Italy, 360. His ineffectual attempt to raise the siege of Rome, 364. Disquades Totito from destroying Rome, 369. Hecovers the city, 370. His firml recal from Italy, 372. Rescoes Constantinople from the Bulgarians, 404. His disgrace and death, 407.

Benefice, in feudal language, explained, vi. 357.

Beneviento, battle of, between Charles of Anjou, and Mainfroy the Sicilim mentper, xi, 339.

Beartwalum, unecdotes relating to the siege of, x, 258.

Benjames of Tudels, his account of the riches of Constantinopic, x-112

Benes, of Aleppa, reception of the emperor Julian there, iv. 153.

Bernard, St., his character and influence in promoting the second crasade, vi. 117. His character of the Romato, vi. 270.

Bergiue, account of the law-school established there, lii, 53. Is destroyed by an earthquake, vii. $17.

Bernier, his account of the camp of Aurengarbs, i, 333, aute.

Berearow, Cardinal, his character, an, 129.

Bereat, governor of flome for Justimina, his rapacity during the siege of that city by Totils the Goth, vii, 362. Occasions the less of Home, 366:

Benalde is taken and garrisoned by Sapor king of Penia, iii, 210. Is ineffectually benieged by Constantion, 212.

Binders, a Sammun prince, deposes Hormour king of Penia, vin, 184.

the less invisious of all human distinctions, i. 271.

among the primitive Christians, the affice of, explained, it, Amount of an appropriate authority, 535. Amount dignity of if or all at the time of Countaining the Great, iii, 28%. Mode of the section, 284. Their power of ordination, 287. The coolesiastical revenue of each diocess how divided, 294. Their civil jurisdiction, 295. Their spiritual censures, 297. Their legulative amenihirs, 303.

Bisheet, rural, their runk and duties, ill, 284,

Birrextile, superstitious regard to this year by the Romans, iv, 238.

Bittipnia, the cities of, plundered by the Goths, i, 426.

Blommyer, their revolt against the emperor Diocletian, II, 134.

Borner, his literary character, xii, 123.

Boothus, the learned senutor of Home, his history, vii, 43. His imprisonment and death, 48.

Robertond, the sun of Robert Guiscand, his character and military explaits, x, 298; xi, 35. His roots to Constantinuple on the crumbe, 45. His flattering reception by the emperor Alexius Compenns, 49. Takes Autinch, and obtains the principality of it, 68. His subsequent transactions and death, 10%.

Boniface, St., his History, U. 483.

Ronifere, Count, the Roman general under Valentinian III, his chasuctes, vi. 0. Is betrayed into a sevolt by Ætius, 11. His repentmer, 18. Is besirged in Hippo Regims by Genseric king of the Vandala, 21. Beturns to Italy, and is killed by Ætias, 24.

Baniface VIII, Pope, his violent contest with Philip the Pair, king of France, and his character, sii, 306. Institutes the Julilee, 310.

Boniface, margois of Montserrat, is chosen general of the fourth crusaile to the Holy Land, at, 198. Is made king of Maccionia, 249. Is killed by the Bulgarians, 204.

Basiliarus, sevulutions of that kingdom, i, with Is setted by the Gotha, 423. The strait of, described, ii, 4.

Burg, nege of, by the Samoeni, in, 283,

Botherie, the imperial general in Thesalimica, murdered in a redition, v. 65.

Bouricault, Marshal, defends Constantinople against Bajaret, xi, 458. Baulogne, the port of, recovered from Carsusius, by Constantius Chiexm, n, 197.

Bowides, the Persian dynasty of, x, 85,

Bruncalesno, senator of Rome, his character, all, 286.

Bronigne, the province of, in France, settled by Britana, vi, 389, eate. Britain, reflections on the conquests of, by the Romans, i. 5. Description of, 33. Colonies planted in, 59, now. A colony of Vandals settled there by Probas, ii, 89. Iteval; of Caraudia, 123.

- how first peopled, iv, 191. Invarious of, by the Scots, and Picts, 295. Is restored to peace by Theodosius, 298, revolt of Maximus there, v. 8. Revolt of the troops there against Honorius, 228. Is abundesed by the Romans, 363. State of until the arrival of the Saxons, Mir. Devent of the Saxons on, vi. cignity, 98. Division of the provinces between him and the sensity. 102. Is allowed his military command and guards in the city of frome, 103. Obrains the consular and tribunitian offices for life, 104. His character and policy, 114. Adopts Therips, 119. Formed an accurate register of the revenues and expences of the empire, 257. Taxes instituted by him, 260. His naval establishments at Havenna, v. 208.

Augustus and Cover, those titles explained and discriminated, i, frience, his character and embussy from Valentinian III to Attila king of the Him, vi, 130.

115.

August, the holy see how transferred from Rome to that city, xii, 307.

Return of Pape Uction V to Rome, $65.

Avatur, his embassy from Fitting to Theodoric, king of the Vingoths, vi, 110. Anumes the empire, 157. His deposition and death, 166, 167.

darwhen, emperor, his birth and services, ii, 15. His expedition aguinst Palmyra, S7. His trimmph, 45. His cruelty, and death, 54, 55,

Auresymple, succent of his immense camp, i, 333, mate-

Aurestus is invested with the purple on the Upper Danube, it, 2, dammar, the tutor of the emperor Gratian, his promotions, v. 5, mile.

Authorit, king of the Lumbards in Italy, his wars with the Franks. viii, 144. His adventurous gallantry, 153.

datus, the city of stormed and plundered by the legions in Gaul, ii, 32. Astergar, province and city of, in Caul, revolution of, vi. 362.

Assirance, bartarian, fatal consequences of their admission into the Roman armin, ill, t.d.

Acach, a Turkish class, his generous friendship to the princess Anne Commens, ix, 57. And to Manuel Company, SB. Azimunium, the citizens of, defend their privileges against Peter, inc-ther of the eastern emperor Maurice, viii, 201, 202.

Azimus, remarkable spirit shown by the citizans of, against Attela and his Huns, vi. 63.

1135

Baulber, description of the runn of, ix, 404.

Babylar, St., bishop of Autoch, his posthermous history, iv, 121;

Baganda, in Gual, revolt of, its accusion, and suppression by Maximinn, ti, 120, Bagded becomes the royal residence of the Abbassides, 1, 35. Derivation of the name, So, more. The fallen state of the calipha of, SS. The city of, stormed and sacked by the Mogule, xi, 418.

Rabram, the Persian general, his character and exploits, viii, 181. Is provoked to rebellion, 183. Dethrones Chorroes, 188. His usurpation and death, 190.

Battar, chagan of the Avars, his pride, policy, and power, vill, 194. His perfedience sension of Similar and Singidimum, 197. His connuest, 199. His tiracherous attempt so seize the emperor He28. Invests Constantinople in conjunction with the Per-4 m. 215 Beines, 245.

the Turk, his reign, ci, 321. His correspondand ameriate, xii, 17. Is defeated and captured by Tathe loquity into the story of the iron cage, 30. His tons, 47

Ballinus elected joint emperor with Maximus, by the senate, on the deaths of the two Gentlam, i, 201.

Baldwin, count of Flanders, engages in the fourth cruside, si, 190. Is chosen emposer of Constantinople, 216. Is taken prisoner by Calo John, king of the Bulgarians, 260. His death, 262.

Baldway II, emperor of Comtantinople, xi, 275. His districts and expedients, 276. His expulsion from that city, 287-

Bahruin, brother of Godiney of Bouillan, accompanies him on the first crurade, xi, 81. Founds the principality of Edesia, 63:

Ralic Sea, progressive subsidence of the water of, i. 346, mor. How the Romans acquired a kimwledge of the name powers of, iv. 288.

Baytism, theory and practice of, among the primitive Christians, iv,

STE

Barbary, the name of that country, whence derived, ix, 165, nate. The Moors of, converted to the Mahouwtan faith, 363.

Barbario, general of infantsy in Gaul under Julian, his misconduct, in, Bachechibas, his rebellion against the corperor Hadring, I., 1885.

Bards, Celtic, their power of exciting a mortial enthusiant in the peo-

Bards, British, their peculiar office and daties, vi., 396. Randas, Casur, one of the restorers of learning, x, 457.

Barris taken from the Saracens by the joint efforts of the Latin and Greek empiren, z. 248.

Hardana, a Calabrian munk, his dispute with the Greek theologians shout the light of mount Thabor, si, 289. His ambasy to Rome, from Andronical the younger, xii, 6%. His literary character, 120.

Baril I, the Macedonian, emperar of Constantinople, 1s, 4%. Reduces the Pauliciam, x, 181.

Bard II, emperor of Communiciple, ix, 67. His great wealth, z, 215.

His inhuman treatment of the Bulgariana, 202.

Band, architishap of Cesarea, no evidence of his having been peeses cuted by the emperor Valena, iv, 269. Invalve his friend Gregory Nazianzen, under the appearance of promotion, v, 19. The father of the manks of Ponton, vi. 244, 245.

Barilings, brother of the empress Verina, is introduced with the counmand of the semament and against the Vandals in Africa, vi. 201. His flext destroyed by Genteric, 205. His promotion to the empire, and death, vil. 5.

Barrianus, high priest of the sun, his parentage, i, 239. Is proclaimed emperor at Emesa, ford. See Elagabalus.

Bastianus, heother-in-law to Constantine, revolts against him, ii, 214.

detailers, king of Armenia, is deposed by the Pennians at the instiga-Arrangeder, his result against the Greek emperor Constantine V, at Constantinople, ix, 128.

Arrangement restores the Persian monarchy, i, 318. Prohibits tweey worship but that of Zorozster, 528. His war with the Romans, 387. His character and maxim, 341.

Arrentar, duke of Egypt under Constantint, it condemned to death under fullan, for cruelty and corruption, iv, 49.

Arther, king of the Britons, his history obscured by monkish fictions, vt. 350.

depender, pretorish prefect of Gaul, his trial and condemnation by the Roman senate, vi, 208.

Arrator, battle of, heaven Godfrey king of Jerusalem and the sultan of Egypt, 30, 87.

foretier, in ecclesization history, account of, vi. 259.

Acceptorates reduces and kills the British usurper Allectus, ii, 198.

Aid, minimity view of the revolutions in that quarter of the world, i., 316.

Alia Misor described, l. 38. Amount of its tribute to Rome, 257.

Is compared by the Turks, x, 870.

faired, the nature of this office among the ancient pagans, ii, 354,

Again is commissioned by Theodosius the younger to conduct Valentinian III to Italy, vi. 4. Places his steward Leo on the throne of the eastern empire, 191. He and his sons murdered by Leo, vii. 4.

Assessme, the principality of, destroyed by the Mogule, xi, 417.

derenthies of the people abolished under the Roman emperors, 1, 105. The name of, manage the arcient Germans, 202.

Arryria, the province of, described, iv. 166. Is liveded by the empu-ror Julian, 169, His retreut, 193.

Atterte, her image brought from Catthage to Rome, as a sponse for Elagabalus, i. 235.

Analyskur, king of the Lumbards, takes the city of Ravenno, and attacks Rome, ix, 146. Is repelled by Pepin king of France, 148.

Attrology, why cultivared by the Arabian astronomers, x, 48.

Athelians, the sen of Amalesonth's queen of Italy, his education and character, vii, 208.

defences the Coutie chief, his war against the emperor Valers, iv, elthanierer, St., conferes his understanding bewildered by meditating on the divinity of the Logos, III, 522. General view of his apprious, 325. Is banished, 349. His character and adventures, 356; iv, 191, 228, 367. Was not the author of the famous croed under his name, si, 291, nore.

Abanarur, pateinrik of Constantinople, his contests with the Greek apprent Ademicar the elder, 11, 359.

defense, slaughter of the philosopher Leontint. See Enderic.

Cheer, the abraries in that city, why said to have been spared by the Goths, i. 434. Naval strength of the republic of, during its prosperity, li, 257, note.

is laid under contribution by Alarie the Goth, v, 180.

strice of the philo ophical history of, vii, 143. The schools of, tilenced by the emperor Justinian, 150.

- revolutions of, after the cruisdes, and its present state, ai-852

Atker, mount, heatific visions of the monks of, si, 387.

Atlantic Ocean, derivation of its name, 1, 42.

Attorneti, a Caledonian tribe of cannibals, account of, iv, 298.

Amains, preject of Rome, is chosen emperor by the senate, under the influence of Alaric, v. 305. Is publicly degraded, 309. His future fortune, 348.

Attence, a noble youth of Auvergne, his adventures, vi. 365.

Attild, the Hun, vi. 40. Description of his person and character, 41. His conquests, 45. His treatment of his captives, 55. Imposes terms of peace on Theodorius the younger, 51. Oppresses Theodoties by his universalers, 65. Description of his royal residence, 72. His reception of the amhaemilon of Theodosius, 75. His behaviour on discovering the stheme of Theodosius to get him assessmated, 82. His haughty messages to the emperors of the East and Wost, SS. His invesion of Ganl, 107. His oration to his traces on the apparent of Aries and Theodoric, 115. Buttle of Chalon, 116. His invasion of Italy, 122. His retrest purchased by Valentinian, 131. Hir denta, 134.

Atter and Cobels, the fable of, allegonized by the pen of Julian, iv.

71.

Acure are discomfitted by the Turks, vii, 289. Their embersy to the emperor Justinian, 291. Their conquests in Poland and Germany. 280. Their embassy to Justin II, viii, 115. They jain the Lomburds against the Gepalie, 179. Pride, policy, mid power, of their chagan Baint, 191. Their compasts, 199. Invest Constantinople, 243.

Angerous, his religious infidelity, how far junifiable, a, 51, note.

Aversa, a town near Naples, built as a settlement for the Normans, s. 259.

Augurs, Homan, their number and poruliar office, v. 92.

Augustin, his account of the mirrales arought by the body of St. Stephen, v. 129. Celebrates the piety of the Gothe in the sacking of Burne, 313. Approves the persecution of the Donatists of Africu, vi. 17. His death, character, and writings, 22. History of his relicis, vit, 185, mer.

Augustulus, not of the patrician Orestes, is chosen emperor of the West, vi, 202. Is deposed by Odoucer, 224. His bunkhaneut to the Lu-cullan villa in Campania, 228.

Augustus, emperor, his moderate exercise of power, i, 2. Is imitated by his successors, 4. His naval regulations, 29. His division of Cani, 32. His situation after the battle of Actium, 95. He reforms the senate, 97. Procums a scustness! grant of the imperiod 581. Establishment of the Saxon haptarchy, 384. Warning Saxon devastation of the country, 392. Manners of the independent of the Procopius, 402.

Britain, conversion of the Britain by a mission from Pope Gregory the Great, viii, 167. The doctrine of the incarnation received there,

8340

Results the Trojan, his colonization of Britain, now given up by intelligent historiam, iv. 291, note.

Buffer, M., his extraordinary burning mirrors, vii, 114, sore, Bulgarians, their character, vii, 277, 278. Their inroads on the eastern empire, 251. Invariou of, under Zahergan, 401. Repulsed by Belisarius, 403.

- the kingdom of, destroyed by Bani II, the Greek emperur, ix; 68; x, 20%.

of Rome, si, 183. War with the Greeks under Calo John, 257.

Bull feast, in the Collection at Bune, described, xii, 421.

Hergundians, their settlement on the Elbs, and maxims of government, iv. 284. Their settlement in Gaul, v. 359. Limits of the kingdom of under Gundobald, vi. 324. Are subdued by the Franks, 829.

Burnet, couracter of his Sucred Theory of the Earth, il, 306, mir.

Burampower, wante of that river, vil. 15, mar.

Busic, in Egypt, four several places known under this name, x, 32, Bawarg, the philosophical preceptor of Harmonz king of Persia; his high reputation; viii, 178, were.

Byranime historians, but and character of, sli, 255, were.

Maximin, ii, 132 mag, of, by the emperur Severai, i, 1973. Is taken by Maximin, ii, 132 mag, of, by Camatantine the Great, 260. Its situation described, iii, 5. By whom founded, 4, ecc.. See Constantinostr.

r

Canta, or temple of Merca, described, is, 245. The idols in, destroyed by Malcomet, 208.

Cabador, king of Persia, besieger and takes Amida, viii, 138. Seires the usuate of Cancreus, 141. Vicinitudes of his reign, 208.

Caderia, bottle of, between the Suracess and the Persians, ix, 265.

Cadigal, her marriage with Mahamet, ix, 255. Is converted by him to his new religion, 282. Her doubt, 288. Mahamet's veneration.

for her memory, 328,

Cavilian, the prace of the church in Africa disturbed by him and his, party, iii, 200.

Cecilius, the authority of his account of the famous vision of Communtine the Great, inquired into, iii, 200.

Carletian, senator of Carthage, his distress on the taking of that city by Generic, vi. 81.

Carry, Juliar, his inducement to the compact of Britain, 1, 5. Degrades the senatorial dignity, 66, water. Assumes a place mineral the atteins decisies of Rome, in his lifetime, 111. His address to appearing a military scalificate, 2252, mag. His product application of the conveyey scalif presented to him, iii, 96.

Court, will degreens, the titles explained and discriminated, i, 118.

Imented, iv, 139.

Course, capital of Cappulocia, taken by Sapar king of Persis, i, 439.

Is reduced by the Saracess, in, 420.

Califor, queen of the Moors of Africa, her policy to drive the Arabe und of the country, ix, 464.

Carrier, the city of, founded in the kingdom of Tonis, ix, 459.

Caled, deserts from the idolatrone Arabs to the purty of Mahamet, iv, 507. His gallant conduct at the battle of Mara, 514. His victories under the caliph Ababetar, 364. Attends the Saratea army on the Syram experiment, 582. His valuer at the siege of Damascus, 586. Distinguishes himself at the battle of Airmains, 591. His capel tourinant of the refugees from Damascus, 582, tokin in plandering the fair of Ahyia, 402. Commands the Saracus at the battle of Vermuk, 408. His death, 422.

Caledonia, and its succent inhabitants, described, iv. 283.

Collebarus war, under the emperor Severus, an account of, i. 207.

Coliples of the Saracens, character of, ix, 857. Their capit conquests, 361. Extent and power of, 500. Triple division of the office, x, 34. They patronise leaving, 41. Decline and fall of their ampire, 78; xi, 417.

Calialeum, the punishment of a raligious secition in that city, opposed by St. Ambruse, v. 68.

Gailineur, of Heliopolis, assists in defending Constantinoule against the Saracous, by his chymical inflammable compositions, v. 14.

Colourks, black, recent emigration of, from the commes of Russia to those in China, iv. 370.

Call-Jakes, the Bulgarian chief, his war with Buldwin, the Latin emperor of the Geocks, si, 257. Defeats, and takes him primmer, 260.

His savage character and death, 386.

Calacerus, a camel-driver, excites an incurrection in the island of Cypms, in, 119.

Calleturetur, the machinery of his exlogue on the accession of the em-

Calvin, the reformer, his doctrine of the Euclidiation, v., 189. Exemination of his constact to Servetna, 1911.

Canal, of Arabia, described, in 22%

Compared of Languedoc, their enthuliarm compared with that of the Circumsellions of Numidia, iii, 401.

Companie, the province of, desolated by the III validy of the Roman congeners, in, 87. Description of the Laguillan wills in, vi., 229, Connais, the present elimate and chromycaners of compared with those of sucient Germany, 5, 348.

Gas Se, enormous env of the other Maliamet II described, sin, 197. Bursts, 211.

WILL NIT.

Gauser, Russian, a description of, x, 220.

Centurement, John, character of his Greek History, n. 381. His good fortime under the yearner Amitonicus, 372. Is driven to assume the purple, 376. His lively distinction between foreign and civil year, 379. His entry into Constantinople, and reign, 382. Abdicates, and turns mask, 386. His war with the Genoese factory at Pera, 391. Marries his daughter to a Turk, nii, 69. His negotiation with Pope Clement VI, find,

Cantenue's History of the Ottoman empire, a character of, xi, 434, note. Capelianue, governor of Mauritania, defeats the younger Gordian, and Titles Carrings, 1, 290.

Capitation-law, imiler the Roman empirors, an account of, iii, $8.

Capity, Atenus, the civilian, his character, viii, 30.
Capital of Passes, burning and re-mountains of, ii, 412.
Capparation, latenus for its fine breed of horses, iii, 76.
Capparatio, ide of, character of the monks there, v., 168.
Captarine, how treated by the bacharians, vi., 55, 362.

Generalls, son of the superor Severus, his fixed antipathy to his brother Gers, i, 2005. Succeeds to the empire jointly with him, 211. Tendency of his edict to extend the privileges of Romai sitizem to all the free inhabitants of his empire, 255. His view in this transaction, 240. Doubles the tax on legacies and inheritances, 267.

Generalized, the Tartar stillement of, described, 11, 425.

Caratoune, Sogdian, their roune to and from China, for silk, to unpply the Roman ampire, vii, 04.

Germaniar, his recolt in Britain, ii, 193. Is acknowledged by Dioeletian and his colleague, 126.

Carbon, the Paulinian, his revolt from the Greek emperor to the Saracens, s., 178.

Cardinals, the election of a pope vested in them, xii, 200. Institution of the conclave, 301.

Cardiene, situation and history of that territory, ii, 154.

Carrience, the son of Curns, succeeds his father in the empire jointly with his brother Numerian, ii, 97, Carfamana, their invasion of Syria, at, 158.

Gardening on mee of kings, commencement of, in France, Ir. 151.

Cormand, the Archian reformer, his character, x, 73. His military exploits, 76.

Cormelier, from whom they during their pedigree, vi. 210, mee.

Corpothics community, their situation, i, 345.

Carthage, the birbopric of, bought for Mujorimus, ii, 463, note.

- religious discord degenerated there by the fections of Cariffan and Denatus, iii, 510.

v, 107. Is surprised by Generic king of the Vandals, vi, 28.

the gates of, opened to Belisarius, vii, 177. Natural alterations produced by time in the situation of this city, 179, sace. The walls of, repaired by Belisarius, 181. Immrection of the Ramas triops there, 348. Carriage is reduced and pillaged by Hamm the Saracen, in, 161. Subsequent history of, 462.

Carringense, an extraordinary rink silver mine worked there for the Romans, j. 958.

Caree, emperor, his election and character, ii, 91.

Corpora and Iberian gares of mount Cancasos, distinguished, vii,

Currians, the party of, among the Roman civillans, explained, villa, Carriedorius, his Ciothic history, i, 587. His account of the infant mare of the republic of Venice, vi, 127. His long and prosperous life, vii, 29.

Gentriot, George: See Sounderberg.

Catalans, their service and war in the Greek empire, zi, 346.

Carbolic church, the doctrines of, how discriminated from the openions of the Phatonic school, iii, 522. The authority of, extended to the minds of markind, 526. Fash of the western or Lutin s burch, 542. Is distracted by factions in the cause of Athanamas, 3.52. The doxology, how introduced, and how pervented, 388. The revenue of, transferred to the heather priests, by Julian, iv, 110.

edict of Theodorius for the establishment of the cuthelic faith, v, 14. The progressive steps of idulater in, 125. Persecution of the cutholics in Africa, vi, 280. Pious frauds of the cutholic chergy, 230.

bow bewildered by the doctrine of the incarnation, viii, 275.

schism of the Greek church, at, 169.

Celerine, Pope, expouses the party of Cyril against Nestorine, and pronounces the degradation of the latter from his episcopal dignity, elli, 987

Celuic language, driven to the mountains by the Latin, 1, 60, 61,

Center, the office of, revived under the emperor Decim, i, 400. But without effect, 402.

Coor, the manufacture of silk first introduced to Europe from that island, vii, 50.

Cores, the principal queen of Artils king of the Frunt, her reception of Maximum the Roman archamater, vi. 74.

Geriathus, his opinion of the twofold nature of Jenis Christ, vill,

Ceyles, ancient names given to that island, and the imperfect knowladge of, by the Romans, iv. 142, note:

Galization, the injudicious situation of this city stigmetized by provertial contempt, iii, 7. A tribunal control there by the emperor Julian, to try and punish the cell ministers of his predecesses. Constanting, iv. 46.

a stately church built there by Bullmu, the infamous minisis taken by Chearoes II, king of Perin, you, 270.

Cast engles, the Greek histories, his semarks on the several nations of Forme, all, 82.

Canten, battle of, between the Rounts and Artik king of the Ham,

11.119

Chamariens reduced and generously treated by Julian, iii, 297.

Chancellar, the original and western application of this word compared, ii. 99, 2016.

Characters, national, the distinctions of, how harmed, iv. 341.

Characte of the . .. mans described, v. 269, mar-

Charlemagns conquers the Lingdom of Lordardy, ir, 150. His reexplain at Home, 154. Edules fabiliting the proteins of Pepis and himself to the Ruman pentiff, 159. His coronation at Rome by the pape Leo III, 173. His reign and character, 174. Extent of his cruping, 180: His reignbours and exemies, 185. His discussed, 187. His negotiation and treaty with the eastern enpire, 191. State of his family and dominious in the tenth century, 4, 148.

Coarles the Eat, emperer of the Romans, in, 189.

Charles of Anjon subdies Naples and Sicily, xi, 339. The Sicilian Vapore, 554. His character as a senator of Rome, xii, 288.

Charles IV, emperor of Germany, his waskness and poverty, ix, 21%. His public estrutation, 21%. Content between him and Augusto, 21%.

Charles V, emperor, parallel between him and Diocletian, ii, 171.

And between the each of Rosso by him, and that by Alarie the Goth, v, 922, 323.

Glanting, its high esterm among the ancient German, 1, 367. And the primitive Glaintians, it, milk

Chrestop, the set of from whom derived, z. 49.

Chronica, Thrmbis, how facilied by the empirer Justinian, vii., 128.

Chernalize usual Constantine the Great against the Goths, iii, 124.

Are cruelly personated by the Greek amperor Justinian II, ix, 21.

Chief, the object of the game of, by whom invented, vii, 307.

Children, the exposing of, a prescribing vice of antiquity, viii, 56. Natural, according to the Homan laws, what, 67.

Glina, how distinguished in ancient history, is, 141, note. Great muni-

- bers of children annually exposed there, 547, more.

turiant of, ibid. The great wall of, when erected, 261. Was twice consqueed by the southern tribes, 304.

Chronivy, origin of the order of, m, St.,

Chardener, prints of the Alemanni, taken prisoner by Julian at the buttle of Strasburgh, iii, 224.

Cherrors, king of Armenia, associated by the emissaries of Saper king of Pennia, i. 435.

Chartner, son as Thidate, king of Armenia, his changer, in-138

Charges I, king of Peris, protects the last surviving philosophers or Atheny, is his trusty with the emperar Justinian, vii, 151. Review of his history, 130; Sells a peare to fastinian, 307. His investor of Syria, 311. His regotiations with Justinian, 337. His prosperity, 359. Battle of Melitene, 176. His death, 177.

Charges II, king at Perna, is raised to the throne on the deparition of his father Hormona, viii, 186. Is reduced to implore the assistance of the emperor Maurice, 188. His restoration and policy, 190. Conquers Syris, 219. Palestine, 221. Egrept and Asia Minor, 1722. His reign and magnificence, 223. Rejects the Mahametan religion, 226. Imposes an ignominious peace an the emparur Heracijus, 229, 250. His fight, deposition, and death, 251.

Champe, the hard of sent by the Turks to the militance of the compafor Herardin, viil, 246.

Closer, the festival of his hirth, why fixed by the Romans is the ten-ter solution, iv. 22, more.

Christians, primitive, the various seets into which they branched out, ii, 277. Ascribed the pagan idubitey to the agency of demons, 988. Believed the end of the world to be usur at hand, 200. The miniculous powers steribed to the primitive church, 30%, Their faith stronger than in modern times, $14. Their supreisvictue and australty, 316. Repentance, a virtue in high estrent among them, ifee. Their notions of murriage and charlety, 32% They dis laim was and government, 526. Werr active, luwever, in the internal government of their own society, 329. Bishops, 331. Synods, 334. Metropolitans and primates, 237. htmpof Rome, 339. Their probable proportion to the pagan subjects of the empire before the convenion of Community the Great, 271. Inquiry into their persecutions, S81. Why more offens to the governing powers than the Jews, 587. Their utilipines meeting suspected, S91. Are persecuted by New, as the meandation of Rome, 405. Instructions of the conjector Teating in Pliny the Younger for the regulation of his combact towards them, $19. Remained expected to popular restribuent on public festivities, 420. Legal made of proceeding against them, 122. The arriver with which they courted matterday, $17. When allowed to erect place for public worship, $18. Their projection under Development and his associates, 467. An edier of reliefation for them indicited by Galerius just before his death, 45th. Some confiderations neasserty to be attended to in reading the sufficiency of the marryrs, 491. Ediet of Alilan published by Community the Greet, ill. 246. Palifical recommendations at the Christian morality to Constantine, 247. Theory and practice of punits of edience, 248. Their loyalty and real, 253. The sucrament of toptom, how admi-outered in early times, 278. Extraordicare responsibile of Christianity after it obtained the imperial concline, $76, 277. Becomes the established resignor of the Roman empire, 287, Sail must and temporal powers, distinguished, 232. Review at the episcopal center in the church, 283. The ecclusiation revenue of each diocras, how divided, 294. Their legislative assemblies, 303. Edict of Constantine the Great against heaties, 307. Mysterious doctrine of the Trinity, 220. The doctrines of the restable church, how discriminated from the opinions of the Platonia school, 322. General character of the Christian sects, 403. Christian schools prohibited by the empour Julian, iv, 111. They are removed from all offices of trust, 114. Are obliged to reinstate the pagen temples, 115. Their improducts and irregular real against idolatry, 135.

Christian, disputtion of, into enter and ancetic, vi, 238. Conversion of the bactarous nations, 268.

Christmania, inquiry into the progress and establishment of, ii, 265.
Religiou and character of the Jone, 267. The Jonesh religiou the bose of Christmanity, 273. It offered to all manhind, ibid. The sects into which the Christman divided, 277. The theology of, redived to a systematical form in the school of Alexandria, 969. Injudicious conduct of its early advocates, 377. Its persecutions, 381.
First erretion of character, 448.

the system of, famul in Place's doctrine of the Lague, iii.

318

berow nations, vi. 275.

- its progress in the north of Europe, a, 24%.

Chry and are the simuch suggest Educar to anomitize his king Attile, vi, 80. It put to death by the coppress Pulcheris, 84. Assisted at the second amount of Epheson, viii, 300.

Cleanwhere, greated of the revolted Paulicines, over runs and pillages

Aus Minor, z. 1798 Tio denth, 181.

Chrystient, Manuel, the Greek envoy, his character, xii, 126. His admiration of Rome and Constantinopie, 142.

Chrysopolis, buttle of, between Constantine the Great and Licinius, ill

969

Chrysters, St., his account of the positions luxury of the emperor Arcadian, v, 373. Protects his fagitive patron, the cannot Entropian, 301. History of his promotion to the exchispicopal see of Constantinophe, 398. His character and admirestration, 399, 400. His protecution, 402. His death, 410. His relief removed to Constanticople, ideal. His remaining on the measuric life, vi. 247, 247.

Charefre, Christian, the first erreinm of, ii, 448. Demolition of, under Dioclerian, 474. Splendoor of, under Constantine the Great, iii, 297. Seven, of Asia, the fate of, ii, 437.

Givalia, buttle of, between Constanting the Great and Licinian, it, 296.

City o, his view of the philosophical opinions as to the immortality of the sal. ii. 994. His encomium on the study of the law, wip, 9r Systems of his republic, 27.

Commercian darkness, the expression of, whence derived, v, 271, note.

Circumcellion of Africa, Dunarist schimmatics, bistory of their revolt, iii, 198. Their religious sociedes, 401. Persecution of, by the emperor Honorius, vi. 16.

Circumcining of both sexes, a physical metom in effiliopia, unconnected with religion, via, 575.

Cirrur, Roman, the four factions in, described, vii, 76. Constantinople, and the entern empire, distracted by these factions, 77.

Cains in the Roman empire enumerated, i. 77.

- commercial of Italy, rise and government of, ir, 205, 206.

Greecer of Rome, motive of Carne alla for extending the privileges of, to all the free inhabitants of the empire, i, 255, 267. Political tendency of this grant, 269.

City, the birth of a new one, how celebrated by the Homeso, Hi, 15.

mote-

Civilians of Rome, origin of the profession, and the three periods in the history of, viii, 23.

Carolia, the Batavian, his successful revolt against the Bossans, i.

377

Claudion the poet, and panegyrist of Stilicho, his works supply the deficiencies of history, v., 151. Celebrates the marder of history, 160, His death and character, 247. His character of the numeh Entropins, 579.

Chindres, emperor, chosen by the posterior guards, without the com-correcce of the senate, i, 116.

Clemiter, emperor, successor to Gallienus, his character and elevation to the throne, ii. 4.

Cleander, minister of the emperer Commodus, his lustory, i, 145.

Clemens, Flavius, and his wife Domitfills, only distinguished as Christian murtyrs, ii, 416.

Climest III, Pope, and the emperor Henry III, manually confirm each other's roversign characters, s., 302

Chement V, Pope, transfers the holy over from Brane in Assignme, all.

305, Clergo, when first distinguished from the lairs, ii, 540; iii, 590.

the reaks and numbers of, how imitialism, ill, 200. Their property, Mod. Their offences only cognitable by their own color, 200 Valentinian's edict to restrain the availer of, iv, 270.

Cledien, the first of the Merovingian mee of kings of the Franks in Gaul, his reign, vi. 100.

Cladius Albians, governor of Britain, his steady fidelity during the sevolutions at Rome, i. 176. Declares himself against infinites. 177.

Childs, nince of the king of Riegundy, is immeded to Clovic king of the Franks, and converts her pages hashand, vi. 318. Exhans her husband to the Gothic war, $31.

Clover, king of the Franks, his descent and reign, vi. 310.

Chevrier, his account of the objects of aduration among the assert Gelineal, importance of the discovery of, in the net of dying, vil. 50.

Gray of Justinian, how formed, viii, 57. New edition of, 46.

Collects, how far admitted by the Roman law respecting testaments,

Communication municiph history, described, vi. 263.

Corner, how regulated by the Housen emperors, sin, 2015.

Colors, the madern Mingrais, described, vii, 319. Montane of the matters, 327. Recent of, from the Boatans to the Proximal and rependance, 330. Colching war, in consequence, 334.

Clierate of the emperor Titus, observations on, all, 418. E. Libition, at a buil front in, 621.

Collyridian litterics, an account or, iv, 264.

Gunier, Buman, how planted, i, 3%.

General, himney of the Roman family of, xii, 11%.

Getarra, of libedes, some my some of, iv, 1977. Comme of Hercules, their signation, i, 42.

Course, the rich temple of, suppressed, and the neverture configuration, y the emperors of the East, in, 76.

Const. judicial, origin of, in the Salie laws, vi. 951. The laws of, according to the scarce of Jerusalem, vi. 96. Apology for the practice of, S19, area.

Go to, account of these which appeared in the trigo of Justinian, via, 12:

Comments by, his dispressful warfare against the Avara, vili, 202.

Greenest, neighbor she family of, on the threete of Constantinople, ix, 7t. In extination, xii, 946.

Compairs, immediate, of the Virgin Mary, the ductime of, from whether derived, in, Soil.

Courseling to the Roman civil law, auplitud, sui, 67.

Conformation, general, likes of the primitive Christians concerning, it, Gargens, the aunity of, not so justifiable as the desire of spail, iv. 297. Is rather achieved by art, than personal valuar, vi. 42.

Goward III, emperor, engages in the second ensure, xi, 105. His disastron expedition, 113.

Course of Mainterrat, defends Tyra against Saladin, at, 140. Is a second-total, 146.

Considered, Spenty of the Co.

Continue, the third sim of Canadanine the Great, is sen to govern the evening programs of the empire, iii, 118. Deviain of the empire among him and his lenthers, on the death of their lather, 188. I invaded by his brother Canadanine, 146. Is killed, on the nearpotion of Magnantine, 149. Especied the mass of Albanaian significal his brother Constantine, 268.

Courtes: II, emperar of Consuminople, is, Ill.

Constantia, princest, grand-daughter of Constantine the Great, is carried by her mather to the camp of the murper Prompting is, 247.

Narrowin compas folling into the hands of the Quadi, 229. Marries the gasperor Greatian, 255.

Continues, display of Constantine the Great, and widow of Hanulballame, places the diadem on the head of the general Vetonio, 55, 150. Is married to Gallas, 172. Her character, 173. Dies, 179.

Constanting, widow of the contern emperor Maurice, the cruci fate or,

and fler daughters, vin. 218

Constraints the Grant, the several opinions as to the place of his hirth, ii, 190. His history, 191. He is subsed suspense by the British legions on the death of his father, 195. Marries Fancts, the daughter of Maximian, 205. Put Maximian to death, 212. General review of his administration in Goal, 215. Undertakes to deliver Rume from the tyronny of Maxentius, 220. Defeats Maximian, and enters Rome, 231. His alliance with Lionius, 257. Defeats Lichnius, 246, 248. Prace concluded with Lichnius, 249. His laws, 250. Charlies the Goths, 254. Second civil was with Licinius, 255.

- Motives which induced him to make Byzantiam the capital of his empire, iii, 3. Declares his distormination to storing from divino command, 18. Dequils other cities at their ornaments to decorate his new capital, 19. Commany as disdistring his new city, 29. Form of civil and military administration emblished there, 30. Separates the civil from the military administration, 77. Corrupted military discipline, 59. His character, 199. Account or his family, 104. His jenhory of his son Crispus, 168, Mysterious deaths of Cempus and Lichniss, 114. His repeateurs and acts of atmosmous implaced into, 112. His most and nephest, 115. Sends them to superintend the several provinces of the empare, 118. Amino the Sarmatians, and provokes the Goths, 193. Seluces the Goths to peace, 195. His donli, 727. Attempts. to ascertain the date of his convenient to Christianity, 239. His pages superstition, 542. Protects the Christians in Gaid, 848. Publisher the edies of Milan, 204. Motions which recommended the Christians to his favour, 247. Exhauts his subjects to emigran the Carritian protessing, 259. His farmus standard the Laborym Sewitted, 257, the releighted man premous to his hattle with Maxenting 200. Story of the miraculans care in the air, 265 If is conversion accounted for, from natural and probable causes, 207. His theological discourses, 200. His devenion and privileger, 271: The delay of his baptims accounted for, 172. Is commemorated as a mint by the Court's, also. His edict against heretics, 30%. Favours the cause of Cacillian agricus Dennis, Hill. His smalle letter to the histoprof Alexandria, 345. How provided on to cattly the Nicone creed, 347. His being in religion, $49. Grant d'a teleration to his pages a leura, 10%. His return of pages above, that. Was associated with the beathers delities after the death, by a draw of the samete, 100. His discovery of the boly sepulchre, iv. 100.

Home, iz, 159. Fabrica intention of marriage with stangers, ascended to him, x, 199.

Constanting II, the con of Constanting the Great, is sent to prend;

mer Gaul, in. 118. Division of the empire among him and his brothers, on the death of their father, 133. Javades his brother Camerons, and is killed, 146.

Contained III, enqueror of Constantinopie, ix, 10.

Constantinople, iv, Poposalus, ampecor of Constantinople, iv, 15.

Constanting V, Copranyone, emperor of Constantinople, is, 22. Fates of his fire one, 30. Result of Artavardes, and troubles on account of image worship, 128, 120. Abolishes the mankish order, 130.

Consummer VI, emperor of Constantinopie, in, SL

Commentee VII, Porphyrogenitus, emperor of Constantinople, is, 67. His cautions against discovering the secret of the Greek fire, a, 17. Account of his works, 94. Their imperiections pointed out, 94. His account of the communics of the Byzantine court, 127. Justilies the marriage of his son with the princess Bertha at France, 136.

Contactive VIII, emperor of Constantinople, is, 59.

Constanting X, Monomorphy, emperor of Constantinople, in, 72

Constantine XI, Ducas, emperor of Constantinople, ix, 77.

Continuous Palmologio, the Last of the Greek corperors, his reign, xia, 175.

Consummer Stream, founder of the Paulicians, his death, x, 175.

Contravilse, a private soldier in Britain, elected emperor for the take of his come, v, 279. He enhances Gual and Spain, 231, 342. His reduction and death, 343.

Genetative, gament under Belianius in Italy, his death, vii, 247.

Contemporal, to abustics described, with the metive which indocal Constantian the Great to make this city the capital of his empire, 15, 2. Its local advantages, 12. Its extent, 15. Progreen of the work, 18. Principal edifices, 20. How formished with inhabitants, 24. Privileges granted to it, 26. Its dedication, 28. Review of the new form of civil and military administration established there, 30. It allocated to Constantine the Younger in the division of the empire, on the emperor's death, 132. Violent a secret their between the tival hishops, Paul and Miccolanius, 502. Blands engagement between the Athanations and Axism on the resonant of the body of Constantine, 395.
Triumphant entry of the emperor Julian, iv, 26. The sense of, allowed the same passes and homeons at that at Bone, 58. Arrival of Valoue, as emperor of the East, 242. Hevels of Proceptin, 245.

ing the ranges of Constantine and Valence, v. 17. Is purged from Acianian by the emprore Theodosius, 22. Council of, 26. Is entirched by the bodies of mints and marryes, 125. Invariation angline Colors and his Arism Goths, $45. Personation of the archhishor, St. Chrysonton, 405. Personation on his account, 406 Earthquake there, vi. 63.

the city and eastern surpline distracted by the factions of the circus, vii. 77. Foundation of the church of St. Sophia, 116. Other churches exected those by Justinian, 122. Triumph of Helisance over the Vandals, 194. The walls of, injured by an earth-quake, 494. State of the armin under the appear Maurice, 203. The larmies and tity trivoit against him, 207. Deliverance of the city from the Persians and Avar., 243. Religious was about the Commentument, Prospectus of the remaining history of the entern empire, ix, 1. Summary review of the five dynamics to the Greek empire, 100. Translate in the city to oppose the destruction of images, 100. Abdiding of the mankinh order by Commune, 130. First stage of, by the Surveys, 2. Second stage by the Surveys, 8. Review of the protinces of the Greek empire in the tenth century, 50. Bishes of the city of Communicipal, 112. The imperial polace of, 113. Others of and, 121. Milliony character of the Greeks, 140. The many and character of Romans, appeared to the last, 155. Decline and certical of literature, 150. The city measured by the Purise, 241. Account of the Viringians, 112.

val expeditions of the Remans against the city, 203.

Crigin of the engaration of the Greek and Latin churches, vi. 169. Measure of the Latins, 180. Invasion of the Greek empire, and compact of Constantinopic by the crusalers, 208. The city taken, and Latin Angelus restoral, 217. Part of the city burns by the Latins, 122. Second dege of the city by the Latins, 226. Is pillaged, 231. Account of the datum destroyed, 238. Partition of the Greek supple by the French and Venciums, 245. The Greeks side against their Latin conquerors, 258. The city retaken by the Greeks, 284. The unturb of Galaxa arriped to the Genouse, 290. Howelikes totalers the Genouse and the empire. 238. How the city escaped the Mogain, 428. In besieged by the militan America II, will, 56. Is compared with Runn, 141. In besieged by Mahamet II, saltan of the Turke, 200. Is dorred and taken, 231. Recomes the capital of the Turke, 200.

Commerciae Chlorur, governor of Delimitia, was introduct to be adopted by the emperier Christ, in the room of his victims son Carrious, it, 100. It associated or Camer by Disciplina in his administration, 118.

Assumes the title of Augustus, on the abdiration of Discleting, 186. His death, 190. Granted a teleration to the Christians.

479.

Gentantias, the second see of Constantine the Great, his education, iii, 116. Is sent to govern the eastern provinces of the empire, 118. Seizer Constantinople on the death of his father, 13). Conspires the deaths of his kinamen, 132. Division of the empire among him and his brothers, stad. Restores Charroes king of Armenia, 138. Battle of Singara with Sapar king of Persis, 140. Rejects the offers of Magnettins and Vetrania, on the plea of a vision, 152. His continu to the Illyrian troops at the interview with Verrania, 154. Defeat Magnettins at the limite of Marra, 160. His councils governed by canache, 168. Education of the comine Gallus and Julium, 171. Diagrams and death of Gallin, 179. Sends for Julian to court, 186. Invests him with the title of Caser, 188. Visits Rome, 191. Presents an obelisk to that sity, the The Quadran and Sermation wars, this Persian negotiation, 200. Minimage vent of uffairs in the East, 211. Favours the Ariana, 551. His religious character by Ammianus fly historian, $62.0 His resiles endeavours to establish as uniformly of Christian doctring, 354. Athanseins driven into exile by the remail of Actioch, 564. Is intimideted by his brother Constant, and invites Athanasias back again, 368. His severe treatment of those history who refused to censur in deposing. Athanasias, S74. His scrupulous orthodoxy, 377. His cautious southert in expelling Athanarius from Ainzandeis, 378. His strennous efforts to seize his person, 382. Athonosius writes inventives to expuse his character, 387. Is commained to restore Liberius, history of Rome-201. bupports Macadonins, histop of Constantinople, and comterrances his personations of the Catholics and Novatians, 396, 397. His conduct towards his pagent subjects, 407. Envirs the fame of Julian, 10, 3. Recali the legions from Guil, 4. Negotiations between him and Julion, 19. His proporation to appear Julian, SS. His death and character, Dt, So.

Companies, general, relieves the British emperor Constanting when beslegged in Arlen, v. 343. His character and victories, 344. His marriage with Plucidia, and doub, vi. 2.

Constantially secretary to Attila king of the Hors, his marrimonial ne-gotintion at the court of Contaminople, vi. 66.

Green', the entire of explained, i. 10%. Alterations this office and execute that the emperors, and when Constantinople became the est of empire, iii, 65. The office of, impressed by the empires duringen, iii, 15%. Is now such to a commercial agent, aii, 279.

Contracts, the Roman laws respecting, viii, 84.

faring a reviving as a Roman colony, celebrates the Isthmian games under the emperor Julian, iv. 55. The Inthmos of fortifical by the emperor Justician, cii, 129.

Corntial, reduction of, by the Sexon, vi. 358.

Corretty gold, patiers of those offerings to the froman emperors, iii,

Contract, Matthion, king of Hungary, his character, vii. 167.

Cormae Indiconfinates, account of his Christian topography, vil, 100,

Corns of Minlieir, his chameter, xii, 136:

Controls and syntals of Anthoch, III, 2014.

Arler, III, 371.
Hadl, all, 92.
Constron, III, 961.
Carthago, al, 983. all, 187.

Comeils and Synody of Chalcedon, v, 4615; viii, 303.

Ciermont, xi, 8,

Constance, vil. 80, 52, 875.

Constantinople, v. 26 j viii, 827, 855 ; is, 125 j vi, 175. Epheno, viii, 888, 901.

kemara, aii, 103,

Florence, 27, 103,

Frankfut, ix, 168.

Lyons, vi, 525; zi, 276, 234;

Milm, III, 872.

Nice, 61, 332; b. 164.

Pim, ai, 92.

Placentia, xi, 57

Rimini, ili, 343.

Sardicz, III, 805, Toledo, vi. 300, 304, 375,

Tyre, iii, 561.

Gennt, great difference between the ancient and numbers application of this title, iii, 58. By whom first invented, Md. Of the secred largence under Constantine the Great, his office, 78. Of the domentics in the eastern empire, his office, 77.

Courteway, history of the family of, xi, 294.

Crescentiar, cosmil of Hosne, his vicinitades, and diagnoceful death, in Oct.

Creer, the isle of, subdued by the Samoena, x, 58. Is recovered by Nicophasus Places, 86. Is purchased by the Venetians, xi, 249.

Crimes, how distinguished by the penal laws of the Romms, vill, 98.

Gripar, son of Constantine the Great, is declared Court, ii, 240.

Distinguishes his valour against the Franks and Alemanni, 253.

Forces the passage of the Hellemann, and defrait the fleet of Li chinas, 260. His character, iii, 106. His mysterious death, 111.

Critical, the patricism, merries the drughter of Phoens, and contributes to depose him, viii, 214. Is obliged to turn mook, 217.

Creatia, account of the kingdom of, x, 198.

Groot, the different sentiments entermined of this instrument of punishment, by the pages and Christian Romans, iii, 256. The issmoot standard of, in the army of Constantine the Great, described, 258. His visious of, 260, 205. The body sepalches and cross of Christ discovered, iv, 101. The cross of Christ undiminished by distribution to pilgring, 102.

Grouns of thurse, its transfer from Constantinaple to Paris, si, 278, Grouns, mural and obnidional, the distinction between, iv. 176,

note

Granule, the first resolved on at the council of Clerman, si, 10. Inquiry into the justice of the holy war, 12. Examination into the private motives of the crumders, 20. Departure of the crumders, 26. Account of the chiefs, 30. Their murch to Constantin ople, 41. Review of their numbers, 53. They take Nice, 53. Buttle of Dorylaum, 60. They take Anticet, 64. Their distresses, 69. Are relieved by the discovery of the holy lance, 73. Slege and compact of fermalem, 84. Godfrey of Bouillon chosen king of fermalem, 86. The second cratain, 105. The crawaders ill treated by the Greek emperors, 109. The third crawade, 140. Siege of Acra, 142. Fourth and fifth crawades, 135. Seath crawade, 158. Seventh crawade, 163. Recapitalisms of the fourth crawade, 197. General consequences of the crawades, 288.

Greenshin, the city of, physicised by the Romans, I, 234. Its situation discribed, iv. 178. Julius declines the siege of that city, 185. Is sacked by the Saracua, ix, 868.

Cubloi, emperor of China, his character, xi, 436.

Cornectività, his ornice under the Greek emperors, 2, 121.

Constant, disting of, imposed by Augustus, 1, 261.

Cycle of indictions, the origin of traced, and how now employed, iii, 83, mate.

Copenity, bishop of Carthage, his history and manyedom, il. $28.

Cuprus, the kingdom of bestoved on the house of Linggram, by Richard I of England, st. 183.

Cyrene, the Greek colonies there finally extreminated by Choroes II, king of Persia, viii, 222.

Cyrisder, an obscure fugitive, is set up by Super the Persian monarch, as emperor of Rome, 1, 487.

Cyril, histop of Jerussiam, his pompous relation of a mirzenbus uppersons of a celevial emas, his 351. His ambiguous character, iv. 104.

Corri, parietch of Alexandria, his life and character, viii, 276. Condecine the heresy of Nestocius, 287. Procuses the decision of the council of Ephesus against Nestocius, 280. His coart intrigues, 274.

Cycleur, how it escaped destruction from the Gothe, i, 428. Is at length mixed by them, $20. The island and city of, seized by the marrier Processes, iv, 247.

D

Decid, compact of, by the conperce Trajan, i. S. Its situation, 97-Is over-our by the Gotha, 397. Is resigned to them by Aurelian, ii, 19.

Degisters, general of the emperor Justinian, besinger Petra, vii, 931.
Commands the Huns in Italy under Names, 582.

Disaber, rechibitop of Pins, installed patriarch of Fernialem, 31, Dalmaria described, i. 36 Produce of a lilver mine there, 259, 200-Dalmariar, nephew of Constantine the Great, is created Constr., iii, 116. Is sent to govern the Goghic frontier, 118. Is emelly described by Constantina, 132.

Demargur, sings of, by the Sarserm, ix, 385. The city reduced both by storm and by trusty, 394. Remarks on Hogher's tragedly of this siege, 397, nute. Taken and destroyed by Tamerlane, art, 93

Damascus, bishop of Rome, edict of Valentian addressed to him, to restrain the crafty awarine of the Homan clergy, iv, 271. His blendy contest with Uranus for the episcopal digmay, 274.

Dames, the Arab, his gallant enterprize against the castle of Aleppo, ix, 416.

Domitta is taken by Louis IX of France, al. 160.

Dar ophiles, archbishop of Constantinopic, resigns his see, rather than subscribe the Nicene creed, v. 23, Dandalo, Henry, doge of Venice, his character, si, 195. Is made despot of Romania, 248.

Daniel, first bishop of Winchester, his matructions to St. Boniface, for the conversion of infidels, vi, 275.

Danielir, a Grecian matron, her presents to the emperor Basil, x, 108. Her visit to him at Constantinople, 117. Her testament, 118. Danules, course of the river, and the provinces of, described, i. 15.

Daphas, the sacred grove and temple of, at Amioch, decribed, iv, 118. Is converted to Christian purposes by Gallus, and restored to the pagess by Julius, 121, 122. The temple immed, 123,

Dara, the fortification of, by Justinian, described, vii, 189. The demolition of, by the Persians, prevented by peace, 308. Is taken by Churces king of Perna, viii, 178.

Darius, his scheme for esanceting the continents of Europe and Asia, iii, 6, Darkness, preternatural, at the time of the pusion, is unnoticed by the heathen philosophers and historiaus, ii, 579.

Durragord, the Persian royal seat of, plundered by the emperor Heraclim, viii, 250.

Datianus, governor of Spain, yields ready obedience to the imperial edicts against the Christians, ii, 478.

Daties, histop of Milin, insegnies the revolt of the Ligurian to Justinian, vii., 242, 245. Hampes to Communicable on the mixing of Milan by the Bargundians, 280.

Debtars, involvent, cruel punishment at, by the law of the twelve tables, viii, 92.

December, review of the laws of their twelve tables, vin. 6. These laws supersected by the perpetual edict, 16. Severity of, 90.

Derius, his exalization to the empire, i, 324, 385. Was a persecutor of the Christians, 452

Desurrous, in the floman empire, are severely treated by the imperial hates, 224, 5-1.

Deffection of the Roman emperors, how this species of ideatry was introduced, i, 111.

Delators, are encouraged by the emperor Commodus, to gratify his hatred of the senate, i, 141. Are suppressed by Pertinex, 162.

Delast, the moved ornaments of the temple of, removed to Constantinople by Constantine the Great, iii, 92, seec.

Delinarrary, a form of government unfavocrable to freedom in a large state, i, 54.

Descent, supposed to be the authors and objects of pages idelatry, by the primitive Christians, ii, 288, Demostherer, governor of Conurce, his gallant defence against, and his-mic compe from Seper king of Peris, i, 439.

Begraties, history of Carthage, humanely succours the captives brought from Reme by Generic King of the Vandais, vi, 154, Derar, the Suranen, his character, is, 289.

Deviderur, the last king of the Lombards, conquered by Charlemagne, ix. 150.

Deeper, nature of that title in the Greek empire, x, 191.

Despetiem originates in superstition, i, 262, sole,

Diadem assumed by Diocictium, what, ii, 186.

Diamonds, the art of catting them, unknown to the ancients, i, 262, moto.

Dietus Jaharens purchases the imperial dignity at a public auction, ii.

172

Discrete of the Homan empire, their number and government, III, 49. Discletian, the manner of his military election to the empire, ii, 109. His birth and character, 112. Takes Maximum for his culterque, Associates as Carsars, Gulerius and Constantina Chloris. 118. His triumph in conjunction with Maximian, 156. Exes in court at the city of Nicomedia, 159. Aisficates the empire, 170. Parallel between him and the emperor Charles V. 171. Pusses his life in settrement at Salous, 174. His impartial behaviour towards the Christian, 458. Causes that produced the persecution of the Christians under his xxigo, 460.

Door Garrier, the historian, screened from the may of the soldiers, by the emperor Alexander Severus, 4 250,

Binnerer, patriageth of Alexandria, his outrageous behaviour at the &coul council of Ephrens, viii, 201. Is deposed by the council of Chaiceion, 306.

Desabul, great khan of the Furks, his reception of the amburadors of Justinian, vii, 295.

Dieserse, the liberty and abuse of, by the Roman laws, will, 60. Limilations of, 63.

Daceter, their peculiar tenets, iii, 319; viii, 265. Derivation of their name, iii, 520, acce.

Dominic, St. Lucicatus, his fortitude in flagellation, xi, 17.

Discourt, when this epither was applied to the Roman emperies, it, Demilier, emperor, his teratment of his kimmon Claylus Sabirus and Flavini Clemento, ii, 415.

Humaran, the oriental prefect, is sent by the emperor Constantian to percent the state of the East, then oppressed by Gallan, iii, 176, is put to death there, 177.

Denstur, his centest with Carillian for the see of Carthage, iii, 500. History of the achiem of the Donatists, 311, 305. Persecution of the Donatists by the emperor Honorits, vi. 16.

Dorpham, bottle ef, between Sultan Soliman and the first contrades, at. 60.

GENERAL DIDEX.

Dansleys, how introduced in the church service, and how percented, iii, 388.

Deamatic representations at Bone, a character of, v. 285.

Dreams, the popular opinion of the preternatural origin of, favourable to this of Constantine previous to his buttle with Maxentine, iii, 262.

Decomology, extraordinary speed of this onimal, ii, 42, sore-

Drawouer of the Greek empire, described, at, 137, 188.

Denote, their power in Gaul suppressed by the emperors Tiberius and Claudius, i, 52.

Druies of mount Libumus, a character of, s. 380, water

Duke, derivation of that title, and great change in the modern, from the ancient application of it, iii, 58.

Durezzo, siege of, by Robert Guiscard, x, 288. Bettle of, between him and the Greek emperor Alexius, 294.

E

Earthquake, in entransilinary one over great part of the Roman empire, iv, 838. Account of these that happened in the reign of Justinian, vii, 417.

East India, the Roman commercial intercourse with that region, i, 88.

Commodities of, taxed by Alexander Severus, 282.

Ebassiles, account of that sert, ii, 279.

a confination of their errors, supposed by the primitive father to be a particular object to the writings of St. John the Evangelist, iii, 318.

their ideas of the person of Jesus Christ, vill, 261.

Ecclerator, the book of, why not likely to be the production of King Solomon, vii, 195, note.

Esclerianical and civil powers, distinguished by the fathers of the Christian church, iii, 292.

Ecclician, son of the emperor Aviton, his gallant conductin Ganl, vi. 207. Ecclician of the emperor Heraclina, viii, B51.

Edda, of Iceland, the system of mythology in, 7, 390.

Edward is sent from Attilla king of the Huns, as his ambuscular to the emperor Theodosius the Younger, vi. 68. Engages in a proposal to assausinate Attilla, 80. His sen Oldsmer, the first barbarian king of Italy, 224.

Edward, the purest dialect of the Syriac language spoken there, i. 835, sate. The property of the Christians there, confiscated by the emperor Julian, for the discaledly conduct of the Arlam, iv, 129. Revult of the Roman troops there, viii, 20%. Account of the school of, 839. History of the famous image there, is, 118. The city and principality of, sexed by Baldwin the crusader, si, 63. Is retaken by Zenghi, 122. The stormts of, 295.

Nation of Milan, published by Constantine the Great, III, 244.

Edicts of the pretoner, Rome, under the republic, their nature and tendency, viii, 18.

E.S. why that name was applied to the Roman empire by the Jews, 5, 897, note.

VOL XII.

hiermer, the Sararan dynasty of, a, 80.

Edward I of England, his crusade to the Holy Land, at, 165.

Egidine, his character and revolt in Gunl, vi, 185. His son Syagnine, Eggar, general description of, i, 40. The superstitions of, with difficulty tolerated at Home, 52. Amount of its revenues, 257. Public works executed there by Probus, ii, 89. Conduct of Dioclesian there, 184. Progress of Chrotianity there, 363.

edict of the emperor Valent, to restrain the number of recluse monks there, iv, 270.

the worship of Scrapis, how introduced there, iv, 108. His temple, and the Alexandrian library, destroyed by Bishop Theophilis, 111, 112. Origin of monkish institutions in, vi. 241.

 great supplies of wheat furnished by, for the city of Constantinople, in the time of Justinian, vii, 88. Ecclesiastical history of, viii, SIGO.

- reduced by the Sameera, v. 427. Cupture of Alexandria, 435.

Administration of, 443. Description of, by Atmou, 445.

the Egyptime take Jerussiem from the Turks, xi, 77. Egypt compared by the Turks, 125. Government of the Mamahakes there, 104.

Elagonelas is declared emperor by the troops at Emesa, i. 229. Was the first Roman who were garments of pure silk, vii, 92.

Elighters, liquiry lists the number of, brought into the field by the ancient princes of the East, i, 257, nore. With what view introduced to the circus at Rame in the first Punic war, ii, 103.

Eleminian mysteries, why tulerated by the emperor Valentinian, iv.

m,

Efficient, queen of England, the political use the made of the national pulpirs, in, 231, nate.

Emigration of the ancient methren rations, the nature and metives of, examined, 1, 300.

Emperoru of Rome, a review of their constitutions, viii, 16. Their legislative power, 18. Their Rescripts, 19.

of Germany, their limited powers, ix, 208: Of Constantinople, their pomp and loxury, x, 113. Officers of the palace, state, and army, 121. Admission of the emperor, mode of, 124. Their public appearance, 145. Their despotic power, 134. Their navy, 126. They retain the name of Romans to the last, 155.

Empere, Honson, division of, into the East and West empires by Vulentinian, iv. 242. Extinction of the western empire, vi. 224.

Faramament, Homan, described, 1, 25.

Executive, the service flatterer of Theodoric the Ostrogoth king of Italy, is made hishop of Pavis, vii, 16, note.

Epagethie, leader of the minimum pretorians, who mardeted their prefect Ulpian, punished by the emperic Alexander Severus, is 250.

Ephona, the famous emple of Diana at, destroyed by the Gaths, is 432. Council at his 288. Episcopal riots there, 291.

Locarne, his legacy to his philosophical disciples at Athens, vii, 146-

Epicas, desputs of, on the diamemberment of the Greek empire, xi, 255.

Equitors, master-general of the Hiyrian frontier, is defeated by the Sarmations, in 33ct.

Erazmur, his merit at a reformer, x, 192.

Essemans, their distinguishing tenets and practices, is, 362.

Eschorist, a known subject to the first reformers, s., 189.

Esseler, duite of Aquitam, repels the first Surscen invasion of France, x, 20. Implores the sid of Charles Martel, 24. Recovers his dukadom, 27.

Enderer, her birth, character, and marriage with the emperor Theodosius the Younger, v. 421. Her disgrace and death, 425.

Endurer, her marriage with the emperor Arcadas, iii, 148. Stimulates him to give up his favourite Entropies, 390. Personates St.

Chrysostom, 405. Her death and character, 411.

Kndown, the doughter of Theodosius the Younger, is betrothed to the young emperor Walentinian fill of the West, vi. 7. Her character, 140. Is married to the emperor Maximus, 149. Invites Genseric king of the Vanatals to Italy, 150.

Endergy, hishny of Constantinople, baptises the emperor Valens, iv, 265.

Experies, the rheturician, is made emperor of the West by Arbegantes the Frank, v. 78. Is defeated and killed by Theodonius, 84.

Eugenize IV, Pope, his contest with the council of Baril, xii, 125. Procures a remion of the Latin and Greek chareles, 111, 112. Farms a league against the Turks, 154. Revolt of the Reman citizens against him, 378.

Eumenius, the orang, some account of, B, 182, note.

Europeur, the suphist, his character of monks, and of the objects of their worship, v, 123, 124.

Kanamians, punishment of, by the edict of the emperor Theodorius against hereties, v. 33,

Exercise, enumerated in the list of autom commodities imported and taxed in the time of Alexander Severis, i, 262. They infest the palace of the third Gardian, 307.

their accommency in the court of Constantine, iii, 168. Why they favoured the Ariana, 350, each. Procure the bunishment of a consuprate of, disappoint the schemes of Rafima, and marry the emperor Arcadina to Eudoxia, v., 147. They distract the court of the emperor Honorius, 201. And govern that of Arcadius, 272. Scheme of Chrysophius to assasinate Attilaking of the Hons, vi. 80.

Liberus berhop of Hame, Stat.

the bishop of Sees and his whole chapter vastrated, all, 265, Korar, king of the Vhigoths in Gaul, his conquests in Spain, vi. 206. Is vested with all the Homas compacts beyond the Alps by Odoscor king of Italy, 208.

harper, evidences that the climate of, was much enider in mount than

E-ope, final division of between the western and eratern employ to It ravaged by Artila king of the Huse, vi. 22. Is now one 137. great republic, 411.

Enterior, suspense, wife of Constantion, her steady friendshin to Julian, in, 183, 185. Is accused of arts to deprive Julian of children, HO.

Eursten, his character of the followers of Astemon, ii, 373. His own character, 490. His every of the mirscalous appearance of the cross in the My to Constantine the Gurat, iii, 264, 265.

Europeier, the canach, great chamberlain to the emperer Ascadius, concerts his marriage with Endraia, in opposition to the views of Rufinm, v. 147. Succeeds Rutinus in the empartr's comfidence, 100. His character and administration, 376. Provides for his own pourity, in a new law against treasur, 585. Takes uncertary with 5r. Chrystatom, 391. His death, 393.

Largemer, his opinion on the subject of the incurration supported by the record council at Ephesus, vill, 300. And adhered to by the Armenium, 338.

Eurine Sea, description of the venela used in navigating, 1, 493. Evaluation of the cross, origin of the annual festival of, viii, 255.

Exarch, under the Greek empire, the office and rank of, ix, 135. Rayenna, the government of Italy settled in, and administered by, vii, 598; viii, 146, Excise doties imposed by Augustus, i, 262.

Excommunication from Christian communion, the origin of, ii, $48; HL 208

Exely, voluntary, under accuration and constious guilt, its advantages among the Romana, viii. 107.

Fairs, and its operations, defined, ii, 315.

Falcandus, Hugo, character of his Historia Sicula, v., 525, note. His lamentation on the transfer of the sovertigaty of the island to the emperor Henry VI, 526.

Fathers of the Christian church, come of their amters morality, it,

319k

Faults, empress, wife of Constantine the Great, cames of his being put 10 death, 11, 118.

Faureira, wife of Marcus Antonium, her character, I, 185.

Fausting, the widow of the emperor Constanting, complemented the revalt of Procopins against the susperor Valers, iv, 247.

Feetwale, Pagen, great offerer taken at, by the primitive Christians, it, 22930

Femilif government, the entiment of, to be found among the Sevilinus, iv. 1154, 355.

Figures, nameral, occasion of their first public and familiar use, x, 8. Figurees of the Someo empire, when the seat of it was removed to Conductionale, reviewed, in. Br.

logal, his quintionable history, whether to be connected with the in-resident Calgorium by the emperor octorus, i, 209,

Fire, Gentle, the Same in fleet destroyed by, in the harbour of Consumtimople, x, 14. Is long preserved as a secret, 17. Its affects not to be compared with gunpowder, 14th Firmur, an Egyptian merchant, his ceruit against the emperor Aute-

linn, ir, 45

Firmer, the Moor, history of his revolt against the emperor Valentinham, Florellation, its efficacy in penance, and how proportioned, sr, 18.

Flament, Rimmy, their number, and possible office, v. 93.

Flamman way, its course described, vil, 384, wire.

Flavour, archbishop of Constantinople, is killed at the second carnell of Ephesus, viii, 302.

Florer, golden, probable origin of the fable of, vir. $21.

Florence, the foundation of that wity, v. 210, seec. Is besieved by Ba-deguises, and relieved by Stilicho, 217, 218,

Florenting, preserving prefect of Gant under Constanting, his character, in, 233; iv. 7. Is condemned by the tribunal of Chalcedon, but suffered to escape by Julian, 48.

Flarmann, trother of the emperor Teritor, his erger nourration of the Imperial dignity, il, 70.

Fally is consecuted histor of Rome, to operade Liberies, who was exiled, iii, 390. He is violently expelled, and his salterents daughtered, 592.

Felix, un African bisliop, las martyrdem, ii, 475.

Formention, a doubtful plan for divorce, by gaspel milliority, vill, 65, mate.

France, modern, computation of the number of its inhabitants, and the average of their taxation, iii, 91.

- the name of, whence derived, vi, 262. Derivation of the French language, $72, acte.

- Childeric deposed, and Pepin appointed king, by papal sanction, ix, 152. Reign and character of Charlemagne, 174. Luvanion of by the Saracens, x, 18.

Franciscuii, Cemin, his profuse violation of the persons of Pope Gelasins II and his college of carminals, xii, 267. Derivation of his family nume, 316.

Franks, their origin and confederacy, i, 412. They invade Gard, and ravage Spain, 414, 415. They pass over into Africa, 413. Bold and successful return of a columy of, from the sex of Ponton, by sex, ii. 85.

- they over-run and establish themselves at Toxumhig in Germany, iii, 214.

- their fidelity to the Homm government, v. 223. Origin of the Merovingian race of their kings, vi., isk. How converted to Christianity, 272. Reign of their king Clovis, 310. Final establishment of the French monarchy in Gual, 539. Their hove, 543. Give the name of France to their conquests in Gaul, 262. They degenerate into a state of quarchy, 572.

- they invade Italy, vii, 240, 393.

Frankta, the Goth, his character, and deadly quarrel with his countryman Printf, iv, 442. His operation against Gaines, v, 3535.

France I, emperor of Germany, his tyranny in Italy, ix, 207. Engages in the third crushde, xi, 105. His disastrons expedition, 118, 141. Sacrifices Arnold of Brescia to the pope, xii, 273. His reply to the Bousan ambassadors, 293.

Frederic II is driven out of Italy, ix, 2008. His disputes with the paper, and reluctant crossele, at, 155. Exharts the European primes to unite in opposing the Tartars, 423.

Frederic HI, the sist emperor covered at Bome, sii, 579.
Freedown, among the Romans, their rank in society, vill, 50.

Freemen of Laconia, account of, x, 107.

Fragers, the Gothic chief, estricates himself from the hards of Laparinus, governor of Thrace, i.e. 289. Defints him, 300. Buttle of Schees, 337. His strength recruited by the screening of new tribes, 299. Negotiates with Valent, 406. Bertle of Hadrimople, 406. The union of the Gothic tribes broken by his death, 431.

Framewing was the first Christian missionery in Abysalain, iii, 279.
Fulls of Neullly, his andour in prouching the fourth crussele, xt, 158.

G

Gabriers, king of the Quart, is truncherously murdered by Marcellinus governor of Valeria, w. 236.

Gaillard, M. character of his Hiemire de Charlemogne, 12, 175, mots.

Gainer, the Goth, is commissioned by Stilleho to execute his sevenge on Rushno, prefert of the Ener, v. 116. His conduct in the war against the revoluer Tribigild, 589. John him, 593. His flight and death, 596.

Gala, probable derivation of the term, x, 196, sace.

Galain, the saburb of, at Constantinople, assigned to the Genoese, at,

Galerine is associated in the administration, as Cusar, by the emperor Diocletian, ii. U.S. Is defeated by the Persians, 144. Surprises and menthrows Names, 147. Assumes the title of Augustus, on the abdication of Diocletian, 186. His jualousy of Constantine, 192. Discuss it product to acknowledge him Casar, 195. His unsuccessful invasion of Italy, 202. Invests Licinius with the purple on the death of Saverus, 206. His death, 212. From what causes be extension an aversion to the Christians, 463. Obtains the countenance of Diocletian for persecuting them, 465. Publishes an edict of toleration just before his death, 484.

Galifewar, two-fold application of that name in the infancy of Christianity, ii. $11. Way the empurer Julian applied this name to the Christians, iv, 109.

Gallierur, son of the emperor Valetian, is associated by him in the imperial throne, i. 411. Prohibits the senators from exercising military employments, 419. Character of his administration after the captivity of his father, 442. Names Chardins for his successor, ii, 4. Favoured the Christians, 453.

Galleys of the Greek ampire described, x, 138.

Gallus elected emperor, on the minerity of Hestillians, the son of De-cins, 1, 405.

Gallur, nephow of Constantine the Great, his education, iii, 171.

Is invested with the title of Casar, 172. His study and improduce, 178. His disgrace and douth, 179. Embraced the doctrins, but neglected the precepts, of Christianity, iv. 66. Converts the grove of Dapline at Autioch to a Christian burial-place, 121.

Games, public, of the Romans, described, i, 312, 415; v, 284. Account of the factions of the circus, vii, 75.

Ganger, source of that river, xii, 15, note.

Gaudentius, the notary, is condemned to death under the emperer Julian, iv. 49.

Ganl, the province of, described, i. 31. The power of the draids suppressed there by Tiberius and Claudius, 52. Cities in, 78. Amount of the tribute paid by that province to flowe, 257. Is defended against the Franks by Posthumus, 414. Succession of manyers there, ii, 29. Invasion of, by the Lygians, 78. Revolt of the Bagnada suppressed by Maximian, 120. Progress of Christianity there, 367.

propertion of the capitation fax levisit there by the Roman empenns, iii, 88. Is invaled by the Germans, 219. The government of, anigned to Julian, 215. His civil administration, 232. Is invaded by the Alemand, under the emperor Valentinian, iv, 277.

And under Gratian, 401.

- destruction of idule and temples there, by Martin, bishop of Tours, v. 105. Is over-run by the harriarous troom of Radagains, after his defeat by atiliaho, 274. Is autiled by the Goths, Burgumilians, and Franks, 550. Assembly of the seven pro-vinces is, 369. Reign of Theodoric king of the Vingarha in, vi. 95. Chigin of the Merovingian race of the kines of the Franks it, 98. Invasion of, by Attile king of the Huns, 107. Battle of Chalune, 112. Revolutions of, on the death of the emperor Majorian, 20%. Conversion of, to Christianity by the Franks, 293. Representation of the advantages it enjoyed under the Roman government, 306. Coppered and prospertry of Euric king of the Visiguths, 208. Character and reign of Clovin, 310. The Alemanni conquered, 517. Submission of the Armoricans, and the Roman troops, 522. Final establishment of the French momerchy in Gual, 359. History of the Salle laws, 545. The lands of, how claimed and divided by the barbarian conqueroes of, 55%. Domain and beariers of the Merovingian princet, 356. Unappations of the Sexuer, 258. Privileges of the Romans in, 559.

Geleieres, revolutions of the sea count of, i, 321, 221.

Gelaieres era of the Turks, when satisf, v, 367.

Gelevier, Pope, his real against the celebration of the feast of Laperca-Gelevia: II, Pope, his rough treatment by Censia Francisconi, vii, 267.

Gelimer depoins Hilderic the Vandal king of Africa, and unity the government, vii, 157. Is defeated by Belisarins, 176. His final defeat, 184. His distressful flight, 189. Surrenders himself to Belicarins, 192. Graces his triumph, 194. His peaceful retirement, 156.

General of the Roman army, his extensive power, i, 29.

Generosity, Arabian, striking instances of, ix, 242.

Geometics the monk, his denunciation against a Greek union with the Latin church, xii, 207.

Gegwerid, the Roman general, under the emperor Homorius, his character, v. 300.

General, their mercantile establishment in the suburb of Pers at Constantinopie, xi, 590. Their war with the emperor Cantingarma, 365.

Generic, king of the Vandale in Spain, his character, vi, 13. Goes over to Africa on the institution of Count Benifice, 14. His successes there by the assistance of the Donatists, 18. Devastation of Africa by his troops, 20. Benieges Boniface in Hippo Bagins, 21. His treatherns surroised of Carthage, 23. Strengthens himself by an alliance with Attile king of the Hams, 49. His brutal treatment of his and wife, thughter of Theodoric, 97. Raises a naval force, and invales Italy, 147. His sack of Rome, 151. Destroys the fact of Majorian, 181, 182. His naval depreciations on Italy, 187. His claims on the eastern coupin, 186. Destroys the Roman fleet under Basillons, 203. Was an Arian, and persecuted his catholic subjects, 250.

Gentlemm, stymology of the term, at 16, aute.

George of the emperor Constantine Porphyrogenitis, account of, x, 96.

George of Cappadocia supersedes Athanaems in the see of Alexandria, iii, 390. His scandalous history, and tragical death, iv, 125. Becomes the totelar saint of England, 129.

Geside, their encountiments on the eastern empire checked by the Lunhards, vii, 273. Are reduced by them, virt. 121.

Germanus, pephew of the emperor Justinian, his character and promotion in the command of the semy sent to Italy, vii, 379. His death, 580.

Germany, the rude institutions of that country, the original principles of European laws and manners, t. 245. Its ancient extent, 345. How peopled, 349. The autiest unsequainted with letters in the time of Turitus, 352. Had no cities, 354. Manners of the ancient Germans, 257. Population, 359. State of liberty among them, 361. Authority of their magistrates, 364. Conjugal faith and charity, 367. Their religion, 370. Arms and discipline, 375. Their leads, 330. General idea of the German tribes, 389. Propus carries the Roman arms into Germany, il, 79. A frontier wall built by Probas, from the Rhims to the Danube, 84.

- invasions of Geal by the German, ill, 213 ; iv, 273.

Germany, state of, under the emperor Charlestonne, iv. 183. The imperiod crown established in the name and action of Germany, by the first Othe, 191, Division of, among independent princes, 268. Formatigs of the Germanic constitution, CP1. State assumed by the emperor, 215.

Germine, Count, sets up Maximus as emperor in Spain, and love his life in the attempt, v. 349, 543.

Grea and Caracalla, som of the emperor Severus, their fixed intinathy to each other, i, 206.

Globers of Persia, history of, v. 883.

Gibratian, derivation of the name of, v. 568.

Gilds the Moor, his revolt in Africa, v. 162. His defeat and death, Gladiators, desperate enterprise and fate of a party of, reserved for the triumph of Probus, ii, 88. The combuts of, abolished by the emneror Honorius, v. 203.

Glacerius is livet emperor of Burne, and then bishop of Salara, vi. 219, 220. Morden Julius Nepo), and is made archibithop of Mi-tan, 921.

Guarties, character and account of the sect of H. 282. Principal sects into which they divided, 286. Their peculiar teners, iii, 519; vin, 266.

Godfrey of Bouillon, his character, and engagement in the first crurade, xi, 30. His route to Constantinople, 41, 46. Is elected king of Jerusalem, 86. Compiles the swine of Jerusalem, 93. Form of his administration, 95.

Gog and Magog, the famous campart of, described, vii, 149.

Geireratha, wife of Leavigild king of Spain, her passa cruelty to the princess Ingundia, vi. 296.

Gold of affliction, the tax to denominated in the eastern empire, about lished by the emperor Amasusius, vii, 101.

Galden harn, why the Borphorus obtained this appellation in remote minuty, all, i.

Gurdianus, processed of Africa, his character and elevation to the empire of Rome, i, 28th. His son respectived with him in the insperial dignity, 284, Gordian, the third and youngest, shelpred Court, 1, 291. Is domated emperor by the army, on the munder of Maximus and Balbinus, 306.

Gaths of Scandinavia, their origin, i, 587; Their religion, 589. The Goths and Vandais supposed to be originally one great people, 392. Their emigrations to Praisia and the Ukraine, 393. They invade the Roman provinces, 397. They receive tribute from the Romans, 406. They exhabs the Beophorus, 429. Plander the cities. of Bithyeis, 426. They eavage Greece, 430. Conclude a trenty with the emperor Aurelian, ii, 18. They ravage Illyticum, and am charited by Constauting the Great, 254.

- their was with the Surmations, in, 193. Am again rooted by Constanting 12k. Gothic war under the emperors Valentimin and Valent, iv, 322. Are defeated by the Huns, 374. They implore the protection of the emperor Valena, 579. They are received into the empire, 582. They are opposed by the Roman governors of Thirses, 3.5. Are provoked to bouildies, and defeat Lapteinus, 590. They ravage Thirses, 551. Battle of Salices, 297. They are strongthened by fresh swarms of their countryment, 308. Battle of Hadrianople, 408. Senar the country from Hadrianople to Contantinople, 419. Manage of the Gothic youth in Asia, 418. Their formidable union broken by the death of Frittigers, 431. Death and funeral of Athanaric, 492. Invasion and defeat of the Ostrogotha, 435. Are settled in Thirace, by Throdosius, 438. Their hostile austiments, 440.

Gards, revolt of, under Honorius, v. 176. They ravage Greece, major the command of Alaric, 179. They invade italy, 190. The sack of Rome by, 310. Death of Alaric, 329. Victorius of Wallia in Spain, 557. They are settled in Aquitain, 558. See Gard and Thomser. Conquest of the Visigoths in Gard and Spain, vi. 206. How the Goths were converted to the Christian religion.

258, 200

- reign of Theodoric king of the Ostrogoths, vii, 2. The Goths in Italy, extinguished, 209.

Government, civil, the origin of, i, 362.

Governors of provinces, under the emperors, their great power and inflummer, id, 56.

Graties was the first emperor who refused the postifical robe, iii, 409, wire. Marries the princes Constantia, and succeeds to the empire, iv, 355. Defeats the Alemanni in Gaul, 402. Invests Theodorius with the empire of the East, 420.

his character and conduct, v. I. His flight from Maximus, and death, 8. Overthrow the exclusionized establishment of pagan-lam, 95.

Greece is ravaged by the Goths i, 430. Is over-run by Alaric, the Goth, v, 179. Is reduced by the Turks, xii, 240.

Greek church, origin of the schion of, al, 169; all, 111, 145.

Greek empire. See Constantinople.

Greek, why averse to the Roman language and manners, i, 161. The Greek becomes a scientific language among the Romans, 63. Character of the Greek language of Constantinople, xii, 115. When first taught in Iraly, 126.

Greek learning, revival of, in Italy, ali, 119.

Gregory the Great, Pope, his pieus presents to Recared king of Spain, vi, 301. Exherts Theodelinda queen of the Lombonds to propagate the Nicese faith, thid. His cannity to the venerable buildings and learning of Rome, viii, 160. His birth and early profession, 162. His elevation to the positificate, 164. Sends a mission to convert the Bestons, 167. Sanctifies the usurpation of the emperor Phoens, 211.

Gregory II, Pope, his epistles to Leo III, emperor of Constantinople, in, 184. Revolts against the Greek emperor, 138.

Gregory VII, Pope, his ambitious schemes, ix, 199. His confist with the emperor Henry III, z, 50r. His cetrest to Salema, 304 L xII, 250.

Gregory, preleut of Africa, history of him and his daughter, in, 450, Gregory Meniamure, his Immentation on the disgraceful discord among Christians, iii, 408. Loads the memory of the emperor Julius with invective, iv, 63. Centures Counterties for having spored his life, 79, mite.

- is presented to the wretched are of Sasima, by his friend Archbishop Bosil, v. 19, 20. His mission to Constantinopie, 20. Is placed on the archieoscopal throne by Throdwin, 24. His resignation and character, 50.

Granchater, king of the Chumites, attends Sapor king of Perris, in his invasion of Manopotamia, iii, 204. Lows his son at the sarge of Amida, 205. Returns home in grief, 209.

Geardinaston, how we dod and exercised, according to the Homan civil luws, viii, 68.

Guhanes, king of Colches, his alliance with Chesroes king of Penns, vii, 330. Returns to his former connection with the emperor Jatiniah, 331. Is trencherously killed, $36.

Gurlphs and Ghibelians, the parties of, in Haly, ix, 208; an, 322. Gant, the degrees of, in the penal laws of the Romans, viii, 98.

Guiceard, Robert, his barth and character, z, 270. Acquires the dukedons of Apulla, 274. His Hallon companie, 277. Beninges Directo, 287. Deputs the Greek superor Alexina these, 204, 295. Engages in the cause of Pope Gargory VII, 302. His sccond expedition to Cirrere, and death, 20%.

Gundebald, king of the Burgundians, is reduced by Clovis king of the Franks, v. 325. His mode of justifying the judicial combat,

352

Guspowder, the invention and new of, an, 62,

Guy of Lusignan, king of Jermalem, his character, 11, 134. Is defested and taken presumer by Sainday, 135, Gyarus, a small island in the Argent set, an leatures of its powerty, i. 239.

Hadrian, emperor, relimpulates the castern conquest of Trajan, i, 11. Their characters compared, 12. His character contrasted with that of Antoniaus Pan, Bul. His several adoptions of successors, 121. Formula the city of Ælia Capitolina on mount Sion,

1, 278, petirms the last of Kome in the perpetual edict, wit, 15. Hadrianople, battle of, between Constantine the Great and Liesnies, i, 238. Is inefficiently besieged by Fritigers the Gotte, iv, 390. Buttle of, between the conperer Valens and the Gorle,

Halem, callph of the Serreces, assumes a divine character to suppliest a the Makemetan faith, s. 379.

Hamadanter, the Saraian dynasty of, in Mesopotenia, s. 82.

Househol, review of the state of Rome when he besieged that city, v. 955.

Hamilationer, nephew of Constantine the Great, it dignised with the title of king, iii. 116. Provinces assigned to him for a kingdom, 118. Is cruelly destroyed by Constantin, 192.

Hoppiners, instance how little it depends on power and magnificence,

H. 89.

Harmonan, the Persian entrap, his interview with the caliph Omer, ix, 374.

Harpier, an ancient mythologic history, Le Clerc's conjecture concern-mg, m, 5, mate,

Harar at Rashid, caliph, his friendly correspondence with the emperor Charlemagne, is, 186. His wars with the Greek empire, v, 52.

Harran, the Saracen; conquers Carthage, ix, 461

Hombing, the art and sport of, introduced into Italy by the Lemburdi, viii, 152.

Heyira, the era of, how fixed, ix, 289.

Helena, the mother of Constantine, her parentage accertained, ii, 190.

Was converted to Christianity by her son, in, 24st, note.

Heless, exter of the emperor Constantius, married to Julian, iii, 186.
Is reported to be deprived of children by the arts of the empress Essetia, 190. Her death, iv, 19.

Heliopolar taken by the Saracens, iv. 405.

Hell, according to Muhonart, described, ix, 280.

Hellegsent described, iii, 9.

Helectic, amount of its population in the time of Count, i, 559, Hosgirt, hit arrival in Britain, with succours for Vortigern, against the Caledonians, vi. 382. His establishment in Kent, 383, 387.

Henomeon of the emperor Zeno, character of, viii, 311.

Heavy succeeds his brother flaldwin as emperor of Constantinople, al. 263. His character and administration, 265.

Henry III, emperor, his contest with Pope Gregory VII, x, 301. Takes Bonne, and sets up Pope Clement III, 302.

Heavy VI, emperor, conquers and pillages the island of Sirily, x, 329:

Henry the Fowler, emperor of Germany, defeats the Turkish invaders, x, 315.

Heptarchy, Saxon, establishment of, in Britain, vi, 38%. Review of the state of, 39%.

Heraction, count of Africa, retains that province in obedience to Homorius, v. 308. His cruel usage of the refugees from the sack of Rome, by Alaric, 321. His revult and death, 339, 240.

Herachevas, emperor of Constantinople, ix, 10.

Heracliur, depoies the castern usurper Phoens, and is chosen emperor, viii, 216. Companies of Chornes II, king of Persia, 219. His distressful situation, 227. Accepts an ignominious peace from Chorces, 230. His first expedition against the Persians, 233. His second Persian expedition, 236. Strengthens himself by an alliams with the Turks, 246. His flurd Persian expedition, 218. His treaty of peace with Perior, 255. His triamph and pilgrimage to Jerusalem 255. His theological inquiries, 330.

Herachus marries his niece Martina, in 9. Leaves his two sons long successors to the empire, 10. Instantan of his provinces by the Saracem, 388. Files from Syria, 490.

Herseline the prefect, his expedition against the Vamin's in Africa, vi. 199.

Herociae the canach, instigates the emperor Valentinian III, to the murder of the patrician Ætins, vi. 158. His death, 141.

Herbelst, character of his Ribliotheone Orientale, ix, 803, note.

Herryman forest, the extent of, unknown in the time of Casar, i, 347, mutr.

Hereay in religion, the origin of, traced, B. 284. Edict of Constantine the Great, against, iii, 807.

Hermanie, king of the Ostrogoths, his conquests, by, 319. His death, 376.

Hernemegild, prince of Botics, his murriage with Ingundis princess of Austrain, and conversion to the Nierie faith, vi. 297. Revolt and deuth, 298.

Hermits of the East, their mortified course of life, vi, 261, Micacles performed by them and their relics, 266.

Hermudorus, the Ephesian, saists the Romans in compiling their twelve tables of laws, van, 6.

Hermogenee, matter-general of the cavalry, is killed in the attempt to hanish Paul bishop of Constantinople, iii, 294.

Here and Leander, the story of by whom controverted and defended, ni, 9, mote.

Herodian, his life of Alexander Severus, why preferable to that in the Augustan history, i, 254, aute.

Herodes Attieur, his extraordinary fortune and munificence, i, 72.

Herodome, his character of the Persian worthin, s. 322. Herwie, of Germany and Poland, their character, vii, 21. Hilaron, the mank of Palestine, account of vi, 244.

Hilary, history of Painters, his remarkable observations on the diverary of Christian doctrines, Hi, 338. His expension of the term Hammoranim, 341.

Hilary, Pope, commer the carpeter Authorius for his tolerating principles, vi. 196.

Hildreic, the Vandal king of Africa, his indulgence to his cetholic subjects displeases both the Arians and Athanashan, vii, 106, 157. Is deposed by Gelimor, 137. Is put to death, 177.

Hindear of the East, not the disciples of Zoresster, ix, 492, mite.

Himmeton, conquest of, by Tamerline, vii, 13.

Hose Regue, siege of, by Generic king of the Vancals, vi, 21.

Huney, the principal subjects of, i, 289,

Hely war, the justice of it inquired into, at, 12. Homseids, how commuted by the Salic laws, vi. 346.

Demonstrate, origin, and use of that term at the esemble of Nice, in. 333. And Humaionnian, the distinction between, 541, Fignair, war or, in, 309.

Hometatur, architeltop of Milan, is, with his clergy, driven from his nee, by the Lomburds, viii, 147.

Honoria, princess, enter of the emperor Valentinian III, her history,

45 IOS

Honoritat, son of Theodosius the Great, is declared emperor of the West, by his dying father, v., ith. Marries Maria, the daughter of Stillicho, 172, 173. His character, 174. Flies from Milan on the investor of Italy by Alane, 196. His triumphant entry into Rome, 204. Abolishes the combatt of gardinors, 207. Fixes his residence at llaveum, 210. Orders the dauth of Stillicho, 242. His impolitic measures and cruelty unite his barbarian soldiers against him under Alaria, 252. His councils distracted by the emarks, 301. His abject overtures to Attalus and Alaria, 307. Ha last acrt, and death, 340. His triumph for the reduction of Spain by Wallia the Goth, 258. Is unsected of incert with his sister Placidia, vi, 2, 3. His persecution of the Donatists in Africa, 16.

Manuar, the new ranks of, introduced in the city of Constantinople, iii, 54: z, 119.

Harmindar, a fugitive Persian prince, in the court of the emperor Constanting, his remarks on the city of Rome, III, 190, seer. His history, and station under Julian, ev. 162.

Harman, the see of Chiscope, king of Persia, his accession, viii, 178. His character, 179. Is deposed, and at length killed, 184-186.

House, of Arabia, their persian qualities, in, 224. Hassin, the son of Ali, his tragical death, in, 348.

Hospitalters, kingline, of St. John of Jerusalem, popularity and climracter of the order of, si, 92.

Hamiltonia, the minor sim of the emperor Dogius, elected emperor, under the guardianship of Gallas, 1, 405.

Hagh, king of Burgundy, his marriage with Marozia, and expulsion from Rome by Alberio, ix, 201.

High, count of Vermandois, engages in the first errorde, xi, 32. Is shipwreaked and made emption by the Greek emperor Alexis Compenns, 45. His return, 72.

Flamme nature, its natural resemblies, 9, 920.

Hear, Mr. his natural history of religion, the best commentary on the polythelem of the encients, i, 46, sure. His difficulty as to the extent of the imperial palace at flows, tradved, 212, and Charges the most refined and philosophic sects with intolerancy, 328, age.

Hangary, establishment of the Huns in, vi. 38. State of, under the emperor Glissiemagne, ix, 184. Ferms excited by their first ap-prouch to Europe, v. 203. Their character, 209.

Haninder, John, his cuptoits against the Turks, all, 157. His defences of Belgrade, and death, 167.

Hannaric, the sim of Generic, king of the Vandals, persecutes his catholic subjects, vi. 280. His crucky to the catholics of Tipane, 263.

Many, these original seat, and their conquests, iv. 359. Their elecline, 364. Their emigrations, 367. Their victories over the Gothe, 374, 377.

they drive other burbarous tribes before them, upon the Reman provinces, v. 212. Their establishment in Hungary, vi. 38. Character of their king Attila, 41. Their invasion of Persia, 47. The empire of, examposited by the death of Attila, 135.

Finning of wild bears, when a virtue, and when a vice, i, 151. Is the school of war, iv, 350.

Hypario, the female philosopher, murdered in the cimred at Alexandria, vill, 281.

Hyperius, sedition of, at Constantinople, viii, 85.

I and J.

January, St., his begendary explains in Spain, U, 368.
January, St., his begendary explains in Spain, U, 368.
January, J., first institution of those troops, al. 146.

therian and Caspian gates of mount Curcaus, distinguished, vii, 110.
The Iberian gates occupied by Cabades king of Persia, 141.

Idatius, his account of the minforcares of Spain by an irruption of the bariayous nations, v. 352.

Idolary atcribed to the agency of demons, by the primitive Christians, ii. 288. Derivation of the term, and its successive applications, iii. 410, succ.

Jerum, his extravagant representation of the devaration of Panasnia by the Goths, iv, 417. His influence over the widow Panis, wi. 245.

Jerusaless, its situation, destruction, and profanation, iv, 99. Palgrimages to, and envious celles preceived there, 100. Abortion attempts or the emperor bulian to estante the temple, 103.

by Jentinian, vii, 123. The vessels of the temple brought from Africa to Communiciple by Belleurin, 186. It composed by Charries II king of Petris, 220. Insurrection of the manks there, viii, 310.

the city conquered by the Sarreuro, in, 411. Great reis raken from the Turks by the Egyptians, vi. 77. In taken by the crumders, 84. Is exceeded into a kingdom under Gordfrey of Benillon, 87. Succession of its Christian process, 134. It pillaged by the Caricmina, 158.

Jerusalem, New, described according to the bless of the primitive Christians, II, 2012.

Jernite, Portuguese, persecute the matern Christians, viii, 949. Their labours in, and expulsion from Abyodnia, 573.

Jour, an obscure, insecial, obstitute trace of men, ii, 1938. Review of their history, 270. Their religion the lasts of Christianity, 274. The premiers of divine favour extended by Christianity to all munkind, thid. The humonality of the coul not inculeated in the law of Moses, 200. Why there are no Hebren gospels extant, 357. Provoked the persecutions of the Roman empowers, 384.

Jesus, those of a more liberal spirit adopted the theological system of Plato, III, 316. Their condition under the emperors Constantine and Constanties, iv, 97. Absenive attempt of Julian to rebuild the temple of Jerusalem, 100.

- miraculous conversion of a mumber of, at Minorea, v. 152, some

Persecution of, in Spain, vi, 50th

- me processed by the catholics in Italy, vii, 40. And by Cyvil at Alexandera, viii, 279. How playmed by the emperor Justinian, NOTE:

- those in Arabic sundeed by Maisomet, in, 202. Anist the Saences in the reduction of Spain, ic, 476.

musacres of, by the first crimaders, xi, 25, 26.

Jendegard, King of Persia, is said to be left guardian to Theodonian the Younger, by the emperor Arcadian, v. 413. His war with Throdams, 498.

Igilium, the until idend of serves as a place of refuge for Romans who ties from the sick of Bone by Alaric, v. 320.

Lynnius, bishop of Antioch, the Christian fortitude displayed in his cpotien, it, 437.

Including, the Saracon dynasty of, a, 82.

Marteione, the title of, how limited in the times of Roman simplicity, and how estended when Constantinople became the seat of empire, ii. 51.

Myricam described, i, 25.

Imager, introduction of, into the Christian church, in, 113. The worship of, derived from pagarism, 115. Are condemned by the council of Constantinople, 126s. The adoration of, institled by Pope Gregory II, 134. And unctified by the second council of Nice, 105.

Imperator, in the Roman history, explained, i, 99, rate. The imperial prerogatives, 100. The court, 110. The sense of this appellation ultered by long toe, ii, 163.

Incornation, theological history of the doctrine of, viii, 261.

Incert, natural, and urbitrary, distinguished, viol, 664

Infla, account of the Christians of St. Thomas in, viii, 956. Persecution of, by the Partuguese, 347.

Inductions, the memorable era of, whence dated, il. 220, note. The mine and use of, in the middle ages, whence derived, iti, Incolgracies, in the Rominh church, the nature of, explained, so, 16, 17.

Jegundic, princers of Americans, is married to Hermenegild prince of Burica, and cruelly treated by his mother Goswintha, wa 297

Inderdames, naternal, subject to parental discretion among the Romans, 1, 264. The Bossan law of, viii, 74. Testamentary dispositions of property, 77. The Vocomian law, how evaded, $1.

Injuries, review of the Roman law for the redress of, viii, 87.

Laure out HIAPope, enjoyed the plenitude of papal power, xi, 172, Inquivition, the first erection of that tribunal, al, 152.

Inscirutes of Justinian, an analysis of, vill, 47.

Interest of money, how regulated by the Roman law, viii, 86.

Jage, Pope, the story of, actitions, ix, 197, note.

Jahn, principal secretary to the emperor Honorius, usurps the empire

John, the almogiver, archhisbop of Alexandria, relieves the Jeruila erfugees when larmalem was taken by the Persians, viil, 221. His extenordinary liberality of the church treasure, 363.

John, bishop of Antiech, arrives at Ephreus after the meeting of the council, and, with his histops, decides against Cyril, viii, 201. Co-alition between him and Cyril, 293.

John of Apri, parciarch of Constantinopie, his prich, and confederacy against John Cantacurene, 11, 573.

John of Brienne, emperor of Constantinopie, xl. 27%

John of Cappadicia, pretorian prefect of the East, under the emperor Justinian, his character, vii. 109. Is disgraced by the supress Theodora, and becomes a histop, 110. Opposes the African war, 159. His fraud in supplying the army with head, 169.

Jaka Commente, emperor of Constantinople, is, 86.
Jaka Damarcenar, St. his history, is, 129, note.

John of Lycopolis, the hermit, his character, and aracular premise to the emperor Theodosius the Great, v. 79.

John, the Monophysite bishop of Aua, is employed by the susperm Justinian to root out pages and heretics, viii, 321.

John XII, Pope, his flagitious character, in, 198.
John XXIII, Pope, his profigate character, an, 575.

John, St. the Evengelist, reveals the true sense of Plain's doctrine of the Layer, iii, 318

Jobs the Sangumery seizes the Gothic trassures in Picasum, and obliges Vitiges to raise the nego of Bome, vii, 244.

John Zimires murders the Greek empyror Nicephana, and succeeds him, ix, 65. His essera victories, x, 88. Defeats Sautaslam, crar of Russis, 236.

Loss, one of the Hebride islands, its mainst mountain emission, vi-

Junar, reneguals of Dannacus, story of, in, 897.

Jerden, churacter of his work, Do Originbur Sciences, 2, 197,

Joseph, the Cariemian, governor of Beerem, kills the sultan Alp At-Jurgalius, the mention of Jesus Christ in his history, a forgery, ii, 408, moste. His opinion, that Plato derived knowledge from the Jams, controverted, iii, 314, sare.

COL THE

1:1

Januar is elected suspense by the troops of Julian, on their retreat from Assyria, iv. 205. His treaty with Super king of Perias, 209. His death, 253.

Journal and Herculius, new boiles of guards instituted to supersode the putorism hands, it, 161.

Toronan of Verona, his punishment by a Roman syrod, for hereby, va.

Journal reduces the Alemanni, who had invaded Gml, iv, 279, ____ secount of his revolt against the emperor Honorius in Germany, v. 347-

Journ; pretorian prefect under the emperor Honorius, succeeds Olympios as his confidential minister, v. 209. His negotiations with Alaric obstructed, 201. Descrit Honorius, and goes over to Alaric, and the new emperor Attalus, 307.

trees, her marriage with the Greek emperor Lee, ix, 31. Her amhition, and burbarity to her son Constantine, 32. Restores images to unlike devotion, 164.

Ireland was first colonized from Scotland, iv, 294. Derivation of the name of its unteler saint, Patrick, vi, 299, note.

Lean L. Commerces, emperor of Constantinople, ix, 74-Lene II, Augusta, emperor of Constantinople, ix, 108. His character and regge, xi, 181. Is deposed by his brother Alexius, 185. Is restored by the crumders, 217. His death, 225.

Long, wechbishop of Armonia, his apology has the vices of king Acta-same, v. AUC.

Lauria, the rebellion there against the emperor Galianto, i, $5%.

Luarrans, raincion of, by the castern empeater, vii, 129.

Talaber, Cardinal, his ill treatment in Rustia, xii, 148. Receives an act of minn from the Greek chargy at Communication, 206.

Increase, his price for the tunion of his pupils, vii, 1401.

Traly, the dominion of, nodes Chioscer, necessarthe extinction of the western empire, vi, 224. Its miserable state at this era, 234. Conversion of the Lombards of, to the Nicene futh, 301.

- is reduced by Theodoric the Outropoth, vii, 15. His administration, 17. Government of, according to the Roman law, by Theodoric, 26. Its floweshing state at this time, 38. How supplies with said from China, 91. History of Annalasonaha, queen of Italy, 200. Invalue of, by Belistros, 217. Begs of Rome by the Goths, 224. Invalion of Italy, by the Franks, 240. Bevolt of the Goths, 353. Expedicion of the Franks, 240. Bevolt of the Goths, 353. Expedicion of the emach Narres, 381. Invalion of, by the Franks and Alemand, 393. Government of, under the anarchs of Ravenna, 398. Compacts of Albein king of the Lombards, viii, 126. Distress of, 142. Haw divided between the Lumbards, and the exarchs of Bavenna, 145.
- —— growth of the papel power in, it, 151. Hexalt of, against the Greek emperors, 138. The exactance of flavenus granted to the pape, 156. Extent of the dominious of Charlemagne there, 188. The power of the German Cesars destroyed by the rise of the commercial cities there, 204. Factions of the Guelphis and Chilelins, 208. Comflet of the Sameure, Latine, and Greeks in, x; 247.

lindy, revival of Greek learning in, air, 11th. Authors consulted for the history of, 194, note.

Jabiles, popull, a revival of the socular games, i, 312, mar; aii, 510.

The return of occalerated, 312.

Jude, St. examination of his grandsons before the tribanal of the procurator of Judan, ii, 414.

Judgments of God, in the Salic Laws, how determined, vi, 840.

Judgments, popular, of the Bonurs, displayed, viii, 104,

Julia Dortus, wife of the emperor Servers, but character, I, 205. Her death, 228.

Julian, the neshest of Constantine the Great, his editention, ill. 171. His dangerous chuation on the death of his brother Gallia, 181. Is sent in Athena, where he cultivates philosophy, 183, 1s recalled by Constanting 186, for invested with the ticks of Cassir, 188. Is appointed to the government of Guil, 21%. His nest campaign, 217. Battle of Straiburg, 222. Reduces the Franks at Toxandria, 226. His three expellitions beyond the Ithing, 228. Hostores the ciries of Gaul, 250. His civil administration, His account of the theological calamities of the surpline umler Constanting, 2981. Communities grows jealors of him, iv, 5. The Cantish logious are ordered into the East, 4. Is minted emperce by the troops, 11, His embroy and epiths to Constanting, 15. His frauth and fifth expeditions beyond the fifting, 17. Declares war against Constantine, and absures the Christian religion, 22. His march from the Illian into Illyricum, 25. Enters Sirminus, 28. Publishes apalogies for his conduct, 29. His triamphand entry into Constantinopic on the death of Constantina, 35. His private life and civil government, 37. His reformations in the importal calare, Mr. Becomes a sloven to avoid toppers, 45. Errors a promuse for the trust or the cell manisters of Constanting 46. Districes the usics and informers employed by his predicaser, 50. His larg of freehoor and the republic, 52. His kindnones to the Greens elties, 55. His abilities as an mater, 58, And as a judge, 39. His character, ibad. His speatney accounted for, 6%. Adopts the pages mythology, 67. His theological system, 72. His antitudion into the Elevanian mysteries, and his famalicism, 75. His hypocritical deplicaty, 78, Wines a windlecution of his spostancy, St. His reliet for a general teleration, SS, 64. His pogus expenditions and, 85. His circular letters for the reformation of the pages religion, 88. His industry in galaing protelytes, Dt. His address to the Jews, 97: History of his attempt to refuild the temple at Jerusdam, 100. Transfers the revenues of the Christian church to the heather prints, 110. Prohibits Christian schools, 111. Onlines the Christians to reindate the pages temples, 115. Restores the sacred prove and tempts of Dapline, 12t. Punishes the Christians of Anticola for burning that temple, 129. His treatment of the cities of Edesca 112 and Alexamiria, 129, Ranishes Athansena, 188, The philosophical fable of his Casars delineated, 139. Meditates the comparate of Perils, 143. Popular discontents during his residence at Antioch, 146. Occasion of westing his Minpogon, 150. His march to the Emphrates, 154. He enters the Person territories, 461. Invades Assyria, 169. His permual conduct in this enterprise, 174. His address to his discontented troops, 176. His successful pumps over the Tigris, 180. Burns his fleet, 183. His retreat and distress, 193. His death, 202. His fameral, 223.

Julian, count, offers to betray Spain into the hands of the Arabs, ix, 467. His advice to the victorious Turks, 475.

Inlian, the papal legate, exharts Ladislaus king of Hungary and Poland, to breach of faith with the Turks, xii, 159. His death and character, 165.

Julius, master-general of the troops in the eastern empire, concerts a general massacre of the Gothic youth in Asia, iv, 419.

incupradence, Roman, a review of, viii, 1. Was polished by Grecian philosophy, 26. Almes of, 109.

Justin the Elder, his military promotion, vii, 54. His elevation to the empire, and character, 56. His death, 62.

Justin II, emperor, succeeds his uncle Justinian, viii, 113. His firm behaviour to the ambassadors of the Avars, 116, His abdicution, and investiture of Tiberius, as his successor, 185.

Justin Marrye, his decision in the case of the Ebamites, ii, 280. His extravagant account of the progress of Christianity, 369. Occasion of his own conversion, 272.

Justina, the popular story of her marriage with the emperor Valentinina examined, iv, 334. Her infant am Valentinian II invested with the imperial ensigns, on the death of his father, $36. Her contest with Ambrose, archbishop of Milan, v, 40, Flies from the in-varion of Munimus, with her sun, 48.

Justinian, emperor of the East, his birth and premotion, vii, 54. His orthodoxy, 59. Is invested with the diadem by his uncle Justin, 60. Marries Throdoxa, 70. Patronises the blue faction of the circus, 78. State of agriculture and manufacture in his provinces, 88. Introduces the culture of the cilk worm, and manufacture of silk, into Greece, 97. State of his revenue, 100. His avarine and probation, 102. Taxes and monopolies, 105, 106. His mininers, 109. His public buildings, 112. Founds the church of St. Sophia at Constantinophe, 117. His other public works, 123, His European fortifications, 125 Her Austin fortifications, 3 192 He suppreses the schools of Athens, 143. And the consular digmity, 152. Purchases a peace from the Persons, 156, 507. Underrakes to restore Hildene king of Cardinge, 158. Reduction of Africa, 186. His instructions for the government of, 187. His acquisitions in pain, 203. His describal negotiations in Italy, 210. Weakness of his empire, 270. Receives as embassy from the Avers 291. And from the Turks, 203. Pening sear, 315. His negociations with Charren, 837. His alliance with the Abyminiam, 343. Neglocts the Italian was under Bellsarim, 362.

Settles the government of Italy maler the exarch of Haveness, 398. Disgrace and death of Belianion, 407. His doubt and chavacuer, 409. Comets and calamities in his orign, 412. His code, pundents, and institutes, viii, 1. His theological character and gosemment, $17. His persecuting spirit, 320. His orthodoxy, 324. Died a buretic, 328.

Justinian II, superor of Constantinople, ix, 17.

Justinian, the son of Germanus, his conspiracy with the empress Sophia, and successes against the Persians, viii, 137, 138.

Janeral, his remarks on the crowded state of the inhabitants of Rome, V. 208.

Khao, import of this title in the northern parts of Asia, iv, $53; v. 212.

King, the title of, conferred by Constantine the Great on his nephest Hannibalianna, ili, 116.

Aindred, degrees of, according to the Ramon civil law, vili, 75. Anyerosca, how originally conferred, and its obligations, xi, 57.

Koran of Mahomet, account and character of, in, 267.

Koratik, the tribe of, acquire the custody of the Casta at Mecca, ix, 246. Pedigree of Mahomet, 253. They oppose his pretensions to a prophetical character, 286. Flight of Mahomet, 288. Battle of . Beder, 200. Battle of Chad, 301. Merca surrendered to Makemet, 307.

Labarum, or standard of the cross, in the army of Constanting the Great, described, iii, 258.

Labor, the civilian, his diligence in business and composition, viii, 25.

His professional character, 30.

Lacrantius, difficulties in excertaining the date of his Divine Institutions, iii, 298, aue. His fattering prediction of the milnence of Christionity among mankind, 248, Inculeates the divine right of Constanting to the supper, 250.

Ladislans, king of Hungury and Poland, hade on army against the Turks, xii, 157. His breach of faith with them, 158.

Ladirlans, king of Naples, harasses Rome during the schirm of the papacy, all, 374. Letter, protosian profect, complete the death of Commodus, and confers the empire on Pertinan, i, 156, 157.

Long, when first distinguished from the classes, H, 340. I supadiar, a Roman scunter, boldly condemns the leasty with Alui the Goth, v. 238.

Lance, bale, corrective of the mirroralpus discovery of, st. 75.

Land, how meeted by the Roman emperoes, in, 85. How divided by the barbarians, vi. 883. Alledish, and Salie, distinguished, 857. Of Italy, how paritiment by Themkern the Ostrogath, vil

Laudiew, its socient splendour, i, 80,

Laborat, Thember, catablishes an empire at Nice, st, 253. His elistences, 508.

Larcatir, Thesiare II, his character, ai, 312

Laurarie, James, the Greek grammurian, his character, all, 180.

Latin March, occasion of its separation from the Greek chumb, ti, 169. Corruption and schirm of, an, 92. Remain of, with the Greek alargeb, 111. The advectural Greek achiem, 145.

Laries, the right of, explained, 1, 58.

Laura, in mention timory, explained, vi, 268.

Late, series of the profession of, under the emperors, iii, 53.

Lengt of Rome, review of, viii, t. Those of the kings, 4. Of the twelve tables, 5. Of the people, 11. Decrees of the scarte, and educts of the preciors, 13. Committations of the emperors, 16. Their rescripts, 19. The three codes of, 20. The forms of, slid. Soccording of civil however, 22. Reformation of, by Justinian, 33. A builtion and revisal of the penal hows, 64.

Laren, the tribe of in Colches, account of, vii, 327.

Le Glere, alteracter of his acclesiastical history, viii, 260, notes.

Legacies and inheritances taxed by Augustus, i, 2003. How regulated by the Roman law, vin, 70.

Legion, in the Breams army make the emperors, described, i. 18. General distribution of the legions, ±7. The size of, reduced by Constraining the Great, iii, 62.

Les of Thrace is unde conjurer of the East, by his moster Aspar, vi.
191. Was the first Christian potentiale who was crowned by a priest, 192. Confers the couples of the West on Anthemics, 192. His atmeasurest against the Vandals in Africa, 199. Marden Aspar and his some, vii. 4.

Les III, converse of Constantinople, ix, 23, His edicts against imager in churches, 124. Revolt of Italy, 138,

Les IV, emperor of Constantinople, iv, 29. Les V, emperor of Constantinople, iv, 37.

Lee VI, the philosopher, imperor of Constantinople, ix, 55. Estimate guides the power of the semile, a, 134.

Las, bishop of flowe, his character and embassy from Valoutinius 111 to Artila king of the Huas, vi. 151. Intercedes with Genseric king of the Vandals for clematry to the city of Huaz, 151. Calls the council of Chalcedon, vill, 303.

Lee III, Pope, his miraculous recovery from the assault of assausing, in, 172. Crosso Chrismagus supress of the Roman, 173.

Les IV, Pope, his seign, v. 64. Founds the Leonine city, 60-

Let IX, Pope, his expedition against the Norman of Apelia, s. 287. His treaty with them, 270.

Les, architished of Thesalonica, one of the restorers of Greek learning, z, 157.

Leo, general of the East, under the emperor Arcuffin, his character, Les Pilatos, first Greek professor at Florence, and in the West, his character, xii, 124.

Lee, the Jew preselyte, history of his family, xii, $15,

Lesser, the questor, his emissey from Constantin to Julian, iv, A. Leanur city at Nome impried, a 66 a Leonius is taken from prison, and enous emperor of Constantinople, on the deposition of Justinism II, in, 18.

Leowigeld, Gothic king of Spain, his character, vi, 206. Hevalt and death of his son Hermanegrid, 1988.

Letters, a knowledge of, the test of civilization in a people, i, 532.

Lower the Pions, emperor of the Romans, es, 184.

Lawre II, emperer of the Romans, ix, 189. His emails to the Greek conperer Basil I, a, 248.

Labourne, his account of the private life of the emperor Julian, iv, 58. And of his dayine visions, 77. Applicals the distimulation of Julien, 79, 80. His character, 151. His cologium on the suspense Valens, $11.

Labertur, history of Rome, is builded by the emperor Comtantins, for refining to custur in deposing Athansine, in, 575, 580.

Liberty; public, the only ture guardians of, against in aspiring prince,

1, 195

Licenses is invested with the purple by the emperor Galerius, ii. 208. His alliance with Constantine the Great, 297. Detrate Maximin, His cruelty, 239. Is defeated by Constantina at Challe, And at Murdia, 247. Pence concluded with Constanting, 249. Second civil war with Communities, 255. His humiliation, and death, 269.

- fate of his son, iir, 111. Concerred with Constantine in publishing the edict of Milas, 244. Violated this engagement by oppressing the Christians, 252. Caerdina's account of his video, 261.

Lieutewant, imperial, his office and rank, i, 101.

Lightness, superstition of the Romans with reference to persons and places struck with, ii, 97.

Languages, Sagmatian slaves, expel their masters, and usary posession of their country, in, 19tt. Extinction of, by Countaining, Literature, reviral of, in Italy, 161, 1949. Ameient use and above of, 198.

Lichnania, its line emperation to Christianity, x, 24%.

Licerus, Count, is defeated and taken captive in Gant by Themborie, Listprand, king of the Lumburds, attacks the city of Bonn, ir,

Listpeand, history of Cremons, ambamadar to Contantinoph, commony or his audience with the emperor, x, 125,

Light, Plato's doctrine of, iii, 345. Is expounded by St. John the Evengeher, 21%. Athurwius confesses himself utuble to comprehend it, 322. Conreversits on the eternity of, 525

Laguabete, great, his office under the Greek emperors, 2, 199.

Landardy, statums, described, 1, 35. Complete of, by Charlemague, in, 1900

Londards, derivation of their name, and review of their history, vii, 274. Are employed by the emperor Justinium to check the Gepide, 276. Actions of their king Albein, viii, 117. They reduce the Gepide, 121. They over-run that part of Italy now called Lamburdy, 126. Extent of their kingdom, 147, Language and manners of the Lombards, 148. Government and laws, 155, 156.

Lesgianr, his representation of the degeneracy of his age, i, 94. Is put to death by Aurelian, li, 43.

is sent to supersede Names, as exarch of Rayenur, viii, 125.

Receives Rossmand the fugitive queen of the Lombands, 132.

Lorantee L emperor of the Romans, ix, 189.

Lumi VII, of France, is rescund from the trunchery of the Greeks by Roger king of Sicily, s. 316. Undertakes the second crusule, xi, 105. His disastrons expedition, US.

Louis IX, of France, his crimules to the Holy Land, si, 158, His death, 163. Procured a valuable stock of relics from Constantinople, 278.

Lucium, the secreity of his satire against the heathen mythology, accounted for, i, 49.

Lucian, count of the East, under the emperor Arcadius, his cruel frestment by the prefect Rafines, v. 146.

Lucian, presbyter of Jerusalem, his miraculous discovery of the body.

of St. Stephen, the first Christian martyr, v. 128.

Lucilian, governor of Illyricans, is carprised, and kindly treated by Jolian, iv, 28. His death, 932.

Lardle, sitter of the emperor Commodus, her attempt to get him accessingled, i, 140, 141.

Lucius II and III, Paper, their disastrous reigns, xii, 269.

Lucrine take described, with its late destruction, v. 970, 971, neer.

Lucuitan villa in Camputia, its destruction and bistory, vi. 970.

Lapercalia, the frust of, described, and continued under the Christian Emperors, xt. 197.

Lupicinus, the Roman governor of Thrace, oppresses the Gothic emigrants there, iv. 285. Hashiy provokes them to instilities, 389. Is defented by them, 190.

Larral contribution in the Roman empire, explained, ili, 94.

Luther, Martin, his character, as a reformer, a, 189.

Lawry, the only means of correcting the anaqual distribution of property, i, 87.

Lyganne, a formidable German nation, account of, ii, 78.

Lyon, battle of, between the competitors Severus and Albinus, i, 192.

27

Macronnur, the Arian fushop of Constantinopie, his contests with his competitor Paul, in, 893. Fatal consequences on his removing the body of the emperer Constantine to the church of St. Acadha, 395. His cruel persecutions of the catholics and novations, 597. His exile, viii, 316.

Macrianur, preturian prefect under the emperor Valerian, his oldingster. i. 436.

Macrianue, a prince of the Alemanni, his steady alliance with the emperor Valentinian, iv. 296.

Marrinus, his succession to the empire predicted by an African, 1, 400. Accelerates the completion of the prophecy, ibid. Purchases a peace with Partitio, 339.

Madayn, the capital of Perna, sacked by the Saragem, ix, 968. Moramus of Palmyra assessmates his uncle Odenathus, ii, 35.

Marrie, its situation, i, 37.

Mags, the worship of, in Persia, reformed by Artexerxes, i. 318. Abridgment of the Parsian thorongy, $20. Simplicity of their worship, 622. Ceremonics and moral precepts, 528. Their power, 325.

Alogo, severe prosecution of persons for the crime of, at Rome and Antioch, iv. 252.

Magnesinus summer the empire to Goal, III, 148. Death of Constant, 140. Sends an embary to Commutatur, 151. Makes was significa-Constanting, 157. Is defeated at the battle of Muna, 159. Kills himself, 166.

Makend, the Gernevid, his tweive expolitions into Hindustan, s. 935

His character, 338.

Malouret, the peoplet, his embusy to Cheerees II, king of Persia, vill, 226

his genulogy, birth, and education, is, 259. His person and character, 256. Assumes his prophetical mission, 260. Inculcoted the unity of God, 2012. His reversatial marchine of Jesus Christ, 265. His Koran, 267. His miracles, 270. His precepts, 278. His hell, and paradist, 279. The best authorities for his history, 282, sett. Converts his swn family, 283. Presches publiely at Merca, 255. Escapes from the Koreishites there, 296. Is received as prince of Alestina, 2012. His regal dignity, and source dotal office, deal. Declare was against inlidely, 236. Battle or Beder, 200. Battle of Olust, 801. Sobdim the Jaws of Arabis, 302. Submission of Merry to him, 307. He comparis Arabis, 309. His sickness and death, 317, 518. His character, 320, His priving life, 824. His given, 325. His children, 328. His posterity, 146. Hemarks on the girst spread and permanency of his religion, 349

Madoway the non of Bujaret, his crigo, air, 30.

Manager II, cultan of the Turks, his character, xii, 182. His reign, 185. Indications of his hostile intentions against the Greeks, 187. He hesinger Constantinople, 210, Takes the city by storm, 232. His entry into the city, 239. Makes it his capital, 243. His death, 254.

Makeoneism, by what means propagated, in, 489. Teleration of Christianity under, 388.

Majorson, his history, character, and elevation to the western empire, vi, 167. His epistle to the sensic, 169. His salutary laws, 171 He preparations to invade Africa, 177. His fleet destroyed by Generic, 181. His death, 183.

Malaterra, his character of the Normous, v. 264.

Molek Size, sultan of the Turks, his prespension reign, x, 563. Referns the casters calcular, 566. His death, 567.

Mulius Therefores, the gerat civil humans to which he estamul, iii, 54, more.

Manufakes, their origin and character, si, 162. Their establishment in Egypt, 164.

Manufac, mother of the young amparor Alexander Severas, acre as regent of the emphe, i, 141. In put to death with him, 277. Her conference with Origon, ii, 549.

Mongs, att Arminism mble, his history, ii, 141.

Man, the only animal that the accommodate himself to all elimates, i, 349, see-

Managiam, in the Bantan law, explained, viii, 72.

Manichicans are devoted to death, by the edier of Theodosius against heretics, v. 33.

Manuel December, emperor of Conductionale, is, SS. He camber the Normana, z, S17. But fail in his arhome of additing the western empire, 2221. His iii treatment of the crusiders, zi, 100.

Many mulche, a city of Assyria, reduced and destroyed by the emperor dulias, iv. 171

Michle, the fair spicies of, most extended by the Buttain, i, 285, Maryellium, cross of the secret largester units the emperor Countries in Good, solder the interpretion of Idagoration, III, 148. His embedding to Community, ISI Was killed in the buttle of Munn, 160.

Marcellans, his excell in Dalmaria, and chiracter, ci. 185. Joins the emperor Anthonius, and expels the Vandals from Sardinia, 200, His diadh, 205.

Marcellinus, one of the prefect Maximin, his trenchesous number of Gabinius king of the Oundid're, 828.

Marcellus, the centurion, martyred for desertion, ii, 464.

Marrellar, bishop of Rome, exiled to restore peace to the city, it. 481.

Marrellus, hishop of Apames in Syris, less his life in destroying the pagen temples, v. 106, 107.

Mercia, the conculine of the emperor Commodu, a patrones of the Christian, ii. 416.

Marcian, someter of Communitorphe, sturries the empress Pulcherle, and is acknowledged emperor, vi. 115. It is suspense refusal of the demands of Artilla the Hum, 87.

Mars compalie, the city of, taken by the Gotha, i, 398.

Marcomanni are subdued and punished by Marcon Antoninus, it 581.
Alliance made with, by the emperor Gallianus, $20.

Marray elected hishop of the Nazurenes, ii, 279.

Marsha, bottle of, between Constantine the Great and Licindia, ii. 947.

Aforgar, burtle of, between Direcletian and Carimor, ii, 110.

Margaz, biship of, betrays his episcopal city into the hands of the Hima, Ai, Gl.

Marin, daughter of Endamon of Carthage, her congliable adventures, 24, 31.

Mariene, his necessar of the misfortunes of Spain, by an irregion of the burharms matient, v., 352,

Marines, a subaltern officer, chosen emperor by the legions of Marin,

1, 385,

Moreis the armourer, a candidate for the purple among the competiturs against Galliema, his character, 1, 446.

Mark, hislang of Arethmo, is exactly treated by the emperor Julian, iv, 116.

Marsaga, engagement there between the suspense Julian, and Saper, king of Person, iv, 194, Marweller, of the East, character and hotory of, vin. 351.

Mirrories, a Ruman promittate, the mother, quantimether, stal greatgraduother, of three pages, Ix, 198.

Marriage, regulations of, by the Ruman laws, viii, 57. Of Roman citizens with strangers, proveribed by their juriquadence, x, 1929.

Martel, Charles, duke of the Franks, his character, v., 23. His politic conduct on the Sameet invarian of Ferrum, 24, 25. It was the Saracem, 26. Why he was consigned over to hell-flames by the cherry, 27-

Martin, bishop of Tours, dostroys the idole and pages temples in Goul, v. 106. His monkish butitudion there, vi. 245.

Martins, matries her uncle, the emperor Heracian, ev. 0. Endenyours to there the imperial dignity with her some, 10. Her fate,

Martinianus, centities the title of Court, from the emperor Licinian,

11, 11/13

Morters, primitive, so inquiry into the true history of, in 381. The several industrates to martyratum, 435. Three methods of exceping it, 440. Marks by which learned catholics distinguish the relies of the martyre, 497, sate: The worship of, and their relies introduced, v. 125.

Mary, Virgin, her immiculate concention, borrowed from the Koran, in, 200.

Marressel, the presecuted brother of Gilde the Moor, takes refine in the impactal court of Honorine, v. 166. Is introded with Propos to reduce Gildo, 167. Defeats him, 170. His apparious death, 172.

Master of the officers under Constantine the Great, his functions, in,

Maracone, his revolt and committee against the emperor Commission,

Matthew, St. his geopeluriginally compand in Fishers, ii, 3.67, may a viii, 265, -ir.

Manche, his birth, character, and promotion to the eastern empire, viii, 140. Restness Chorross II, king of Persia, 189. His war against the Avare, 900. State of his armies, 200. His abdication and death, 209, 210.

Mauritania, antient, its situation and extent, i, +1. Character of the Butive Moon of, vz, 15.

Mercentiar, the son of Maximian, declared emperor at Rome, ii, 200.
His tyrangy in Italy and Africa, 216. The military force he had to oppose Constantine, 221. His defeat and death, 232. His politic businests to the Christians, 481.

Maximin, speciate in the empire with Diocletian, his character, ii, 115. Triumphs with Diocletian, 156. Holds his court at Milan, 158. Abdicates the empire along with Discletian, 174. He resumes the purple, 200. Reduces Severus, and puts him to death, 202. His second resignation, and unfortunate end, 210, 212. His averaion to the Christians accounted for, 468.

Maximilianus, the African, a Christian martyr, it, 164.

Mouse, his birth, forture, and sevation to the empire of Home, i.

2711. Why deemed a persecutor of the Christians 450.

Maximir is declared Carrie, on the abdication of Discietian, ii, 189.

Oursing the early of Augustus from Galerius, 208. His defeat and death, 209, 239. Renewed the personation of the Christians after the teleration granted by Galerius, 487.

Maximum the cruel minister of the emperor Valentinian, promoted to the professor of Gaul, iv. 258.

Marierio, his emissey from Throdnins the Younger, to Attils king of the Hans, vi. 68.

Marietas and Balbinus elected joint emperous by the senate, on the deaths of the two Gordinas, i, 250.

Manistar, his character and escalt in Britain, v. 8. His treaty with the emperor Theodosins, 12. Personnes the Priscillianists, 34.

His invarion of Italy, 47. His defeat and death, 52.

Maximus, the pagan preceptor of the emperor Julian, initiates him into the Eleminian mysteries, iv. 76. Is honourably invited to Constantinople by his imperial pupil, 92. Is corrupted by his residence at court, 98.

Marriess, Petronius, his wife ravished by Valentian III, emperur of the West, vi. 140. His character and elevation to the empere,

147

Mediader, the Persian general, ungratufully treated by Chourses, sii, am.

Mero, its situation and description, iz, 297. The Casha or temple of, 245. Its deliverance from Altribah, 254. The detrine of Mihomet opposed there, 286. His e-cape, 288. The city of, surrendered to Mahomet, 207. Is pallaged by Abu Taher, 3, 77.

Medina, reception of Mahomet there, on his flight from Meren, 12.

25/1/

Megaleria, the festival of, at Rome, described, i, 145, setc. Meletians, an Egyptian sect, persecuted by Athanasius, iii, 860. Melitene, battle of, between the eastern emperor Tiberius and Class. roes king of Persia, vill, 176.

Mile, citizen or Barl, invites the Normans into Italy, v. 958. Mempher, its situation and reduction by the Sameros, ix, 409;

Meranin has kings of the Franks in Gunl, origin of, vi, 98. Their domain and benefices, 356.

Movem, caliph of the Saraceus, and the last of the louve of Omnivals, his defeat and death, x, S1, S2, Maraparamia, invasion of, by the emperar Julian, iv, 169. Described by Xenophon, 165, 164.

Mersale, Valerins, the first prefere of finme, his high character, iii, 46, wete.

Mernal, under what character he was expected by the Jews, ii; 275. His birth-day, how fixed by the Romans, iv, 22, and,

Metals and money, their operation in improving the human mind, i.

Metelites Numiticus, the cemer, his investion against warmen, 1, 241, mitte.

Meting Falconing his attful speech to the emperor Tucitus in the mnate on his election, ii, 64.

Mercaphanes of Cyzicus, is made patriarch of Constantinople, vii, 187.

Mets, cruel treatment of, by Attils king of the Hew, vi., 108. Mardard 1, Rhumpalse, emperor of Constantinople, ix, flo.

Michael II, the Stammerer, emperor of Constantinople, is, 40.

Michael III, emperor of Canataminople, ix, 45. It defeated by the Paulicians, x, 179.

Michael IV, the Paphleponian, empemy of Constantinople, it, 71.

Mirbard V, Calaphates, emperor of Communitiopie, ix, 72. Michael VI, Stratisticus, emperor of Constantinople, ix, 78. Michael VII, Parapinaces, emperor of Constantinople, ix, 78.

Milan, how the impetial court of the western empire came to be templered from Rume to that city, ii, 158.

- famous which of Combinating the Count in faccur of the Christings, published there, ill, 24 h.

- St Ambrose elected archithop of that sity, v. S7. Tuninitis acceptanted by his refusing a church for the Arian worship of the stuppess Justina and her son, 40;

- revolt of to Justinian, vii, 242, 243. Is taken and destroyed by the Burgundiana, 250.

- is again destroyed by Frederic I, in, 207.

Alichary futes, its strength and elfoncy dependent on a this projection to the number of the purple, i, 167.

Military officers of the Roman curpins at the finne of Constanting the Great, a reason of, in, 56.

Millenorm, the doctrine of, explained, ii, 301.

Mingretut. See Courter.

Mineray, two distinctions of, in the Romm law, v. 154, ware

Mirarlys, those of Christ and his spontier, exceed the nation of the heather philosophers and historicus, S. 378, 379. Account of those wrought by the body of St. Stephen, v. 128.

Mirateless, chief minister and father in-law of the third Gordian, his character, 5, 207.

Missper or of the emperor Johan, on what occasion written, iv, 150.

Missperson, or great golden dish of Adolphus king of the Wingoths, history of, v. 536.

Mornigan animes the title of calliph, and makes was against All, ix, 338. His character and reign, 341. Lays dege to Constantinople,
3, 3.

Moder, prince of the Amali, seduced by the emperor Theodosius, turns his arms against his own countrymen, iv, 432.

Magair, primitive, their method of treating their conquered commes, vi. 54. Reign and compress of Zingis, vi. 402. Compacts of his successor, 41%. See Transland.

Moreniams, the city of, meprised by the Alemanni, iv, 281.

Moderator the Egyptian, his treaty with the Sarzeen Amont, it, Algebraichy defined, i, 95. Heredienry, ridiculous in theory, but saluture in fact, 270. The peculiar objects of crucky and of avertor under, iii, 82.

Menattic institutions, the seeds of, sown by the primitive Christians, ii,

323. Origin, progress, and consequence of, vi, 238,

Makey, the standard and computation of, under Constantine the Great, and his uncessure, iii, 89, nees.

Marke have embellished the sufferings of the primitive marty by fig-tions, ii, 428.

character of, by Eunapine, v. (23, 124. By Rutilias, 168.

Oilgle and bistory of, vi. 230. Their industry in making proselytes, 248. Their obedience, 25th. Their dress and habitations, 253. Their dat, 244. Their semuel labour, 25th. Their riches,
258. Their solitade, 260. Their devotion and singus, 261.

Their diction into the classes of Caracters and January, 263.

- rupprenion of at Constantinople, by Constantine V, ix, 190.

Monophysines of the East, history of the sect of, viii, 250.

Maniethelite controversy, account of, viii, 330.

Montagailee, his description of the military government of the Roman empire, i, 310. His opinion that the degrees of fraction in a state are measured by taxation, controversed, iii, 82,

Mentius, questor of the palace, is sent by the emperor Constantius, with Domitian, to correct the administration of Gallas in the East,

His 176. Is put to death there, 177.

Maer of Barbary, their integrable poverty, vii, 190. Their invasion of the Roman province posithed by Solomon the connech, 203.

Mirra is reduced by the Turks, all, 248.

Marvaine, Thomas, elected paymerch of Constantinople by the Venetians, si, 236.

Marcilona, an Arabian chief, endeavours to rival Maliamet in his prophetical character, in, 226.

Above, the doctrine of the immurality of the scal not inculcated in his law, ii, 239. His amountary laws compared with those of Malumen, ix, 235.

Morkeyn, character of the work De robus Christianis ante Constantionen, viii, 260a may,

Marleman by Sameen besieger Constantinople, x, 10.

Matazzers, the last callph of the Sarmens, his was with the Greek empence Theophilas, 8, 67. Is killed by the Megula, 11, 418.

Macrangle marge the Greek empire, and destroys base Angeles, and his son Alexius, xi, 925. Is driven from Constantinople by the Latin, 230. His death, 252.

Minera, the use of Bajaner, invested with the kingdom of Anatolia by Tumerlene, sii, $1. His reign, 49.

Monarabee, in the hittory of Smin, explained, in, 407.

Municipal cities, their advantages, 1, 58.

Marazori, his literary character, sii, 394, wete.

Marca, bettle of, between the emperor Constanting, and the marryey Magnenting life 150.

Many the Surneen, his empored of Spain, in, 47%. His diagrace, 483.

frie drath, $86.

Manapha, the supposed on of Bajuset, his story, sei, 47.

Man, buttle of, between the forces of the emperor Heratine and there of Mahamet, in, 313.

Mygdonier, river, the course of, stopped by Super, king of Persia, at the sleep of Nithis, iii, 144.

N

Northware is businged by Threadmic, and relieved by Court Litterius, vi. 95.

Naturages, the Persian general, his defeat by the Riemans, and stuck fate, vil. 355.

Natural, buttle of between the emperor Claudine and the Goth, Nandy is besieged and taken by Belimrian, vii, 21%. Extent of the ducky of, under the examin of Havenna, vill, 140.

Norvez, his embasy from that king of Persia to the empere Con-stanting, in, 201.

Narrot, king of Persia, prevails over the pretessions of his brother, Humanz, and expels Thirdres king of Armenia, ii, 163. Overthrona Galerina, 144. In surprised and rended by Gelerius, 167. Articles of peace between him wall the Hammon, 1858.

Narras, the Persian grimmal of the emperor Manufret, restores Chomme 11, king of Persia, viii, 159. His result against Phoese, and excel druth, 219.

Names, the ennuch, his military premotion, and direction with Beil pariso, vii, 247. His character and expedition to Italy, 301. Rottle of Tayina, 383. Takes Rome, 388. Reduced and kills Teles, the last king of the Gotte, 591. Defects the Franks and Alemani, 205. Governs Italy in the expensity of manch, 306. His dispute.

and death, vill, 124,

Nantherms, a chief of the Hemil, enters into the Roman Mexics, and is made consul, i, 431.

Name of the Roman empire described, i, 28.

Naturear church at Jenestlem, account of, ii, 277.

Memories, the pages orator, his account of mirroulous appearances in the sky in favour of Constantine the Great, iii, 264.

Nebrodiar, pretorize prefect in Gual, is mainted and superseded, by his indiament opposition to the troops of Julian, iv, 24.

Negroca of Africa, evidences of their intellectual inferiority to the great of munking, is, 311.

Necturius is chosen wichbishop of Constantinople, v. 30.

Nemairs, his account of the arrival of the Second in Britain, edifferent from that of Gildan Bede, and Witkind, vi. 581, mars.

Noper, Julius, is made emperor of the West by Leo the Great, vi, 219.

Neparistr, account of his revolt in Italy, iii, 162.

Ners pursecutes the Christians as the locendiaries of Rome, if, 40.5.

Nerva, emperor, his character, and prodent adoption of Trajan, i, 120.

Nervorse, archhishop of Commantemple, his character, viii, 283. His heresy concerning the incumation, 285. His dispute with Cyril of Alexandria, 285. Is condemned, and degraded from his opiscopal diguity, by the council of Ephene, 291. Is exiled, 297. His death, 299. His opinions still retained in Persia, 539. Missions of his disciples in the East Indies, 345.

Nevers, John count of, disasterous fate of him and his party at the battle of Nicopolis, xi, $61.

New becomes the applied residence of Sultun Soliman, x, 273, Siege of, by the first crusaders, xi, 57.

Nicephorus I, emperor of Constantinople, in, 35. His wars with the Suraneus, x, 54. His death, 200.

Airentorus II, Phocus, emperor of Constantinople, ix, 62. His military enterprises, v. 86.

Warphous III, Bornnites, emperor of Constantinople, 12, 80. Was raised to the throne by Sultan Soliman, r. S71.

Mercar, senator of Constantinople, his dight on the capture of the city by the Lutina, xi, 23.5. His brind history, 238, mare. His account of the stances destroyed at Constantinople, 238.

National, partition of Constantisople, opposes the fearth marriage of the emperor Les the philosopher, in, a7.

Michales V. Pope, his character, sii, 134. How interested in the fall of Constantinople, 200.

Airmedia, the court of Diocletian held there, and the city embellished by birn, ii, 159. The church of demalished by Diocletian, 467.
His palace fired, 472.

Navyolie, bettle of, between Sultan Bajazet, and Siginmond king of Hungary, 11, 450.

Notes, the sudition of, at Constantinople, vii, 84.

Amend, buttle of, between the emperor Heraclius, and the Persons, viii, 248, Nuibis, the city of, described, and its obstinate defence against the Persiam, iii, 142. Is yielded to Sapor by treaty, iv, 211

Notices, the Decima visit, his illustrators character, and unhappy for a ,

None, his ark very convenient for resolving the difficulties of Mousic antiquities, 1, 930.

Natifications, a title invented by Constantine the Great to distinguish the nephrey Hamiltonian, ill, 110.

Nevicase described, i. 5th.

Normans, their settlement in the province of Normandy in France, a, 257. Their introduction to Italy, 258. They serve in Sicily, 261. They conquer Apalia, 262. Their character, 264. Their treaty with the pape, 269.

Novations are exempted by Constantine the Great, in a particular ediet, from the general pegalties of buresy, iii, 308. Are cauchly perseented by Maredoohn bishop of Constantinople, 397.

Novels of Justinian, how formed, and their character, viii, 46.

Nouvedine, miltan, his exalted character, si, 192 Natur, conversion of, to Christianity, viii, 568

Numerican, the was of Caras, succeeds his father in the empire, in expjunction with his tarother Carinos, ii, 97.

Numerica, its extent at different eras of the Roman history, i, 41.

O

Oams, in the deserts of Lyons, described, v. 582, sair. Three places under this name pointed out, vill, 200, autr.

Obsdieses, pusive, theory and practice of the Christian doctains of, in,

Ghelisher, Egyptian, the purpose of their erection, iii, 194.

Oblations to the church, origin of, ii, Sal.

Obligations, human, the sources of, vill, 82. Laws of the Remains me-specting, 85.

Oderation, the Palmyrene, his successful opposition to Sapar king of Persis, t, $40. Is successed in the ampire by Gallenia, $49. Character and fate of his queen Zembin, ii, $2.

Odin, the ling reign of his family in Sweden, i, 350, nece. His history, 390.

Colourer, the first burbarian king of Italy, vi, 224. His character and reign, 232. Resigns all the Roman conquests beyond the Alps, to Earle king of the Visigoths, 208. It reduced and killed by Theodoric the Ostrapoth, vii, 13.

Glad, battle of, between Mahamet and Ahn Sophian prince of Meeca.

is, 301.

Olyn, princess of Russia, her boptism, x, 236.

Olive, its introduction into the western world, i. 85.

Olympic games compared with the tournaments of the Gaths, si, 59.

Olympian our, his account of the magniferance of the city of Rome, v. 262. His account of the marriage of Adolphus king of the Vingoths with the princess Placidia, 384.

Stymptor, favorative of the emperor Hurocius, alarma him with unfavourable conficious of the designs of Sulfabo, v, 259. Camille to age to be put to death, 24%. His diagrace, and ignorance death, 29%.

VOL. XII.

Gener, callph of the Saranens, in, 832. His character, 859. His jour

" say to Jamuslam, 412.

Oscillation of the house of the cities of callph of the Sarzcens, in, 361. Why not the objects of public favour, v. 28. Destruction of, 24.

Ornicles, Heather, are silenced by Constantine the Great, ili, 406. Orrhan, emir of the Ottomans, his reign, xi, 454. Marries the dough-ter of the Greek emperor Contacurenc, 440.

Ordination of the clergy in the carry ages of the church, an account of Orange is and ambounded from Atilla king of the Hurs, to the empetor Theodolius the Younger, vi. 68. His history and promotion under the western emperors, 221. His our Augmentus the last empense of the West, 222.

Overter, pretor of Egypt, is insulted by a monkish mob in Alexandria,

VIII, 290.

Origin declares the number of primitive martyrs to be very inconsideruble, ii, 427. His conference with the empress Mamman, 449. His memory persecuted by the emperor Justinian and his chergy, vill, 525.

Orient belieged by Attile king of the Huns, and relieved by Ætins and Theodoric, vi. 108.

Orner, hishop of Cordova, his great influence with Constantine the Great, in, 253. Propails on Constantine to railly the Nicons creed, 347. Is with difficulty premiled on to consur in deposing Athansvine, 376.

Orranges, the small kingdom of reduced by the Romans, i, 254.

Quant, his prems, whether to be connected with the invasion of Caledonia by the emperor Severos, i, 900: Is min to have disputed with a Christian minimum, ii, 370, ears.

Great, the port of, described, v. 503.

Orames, caliple of the Saraceus, is, 333.

Othman, the father of the Ottomans, his reign, si, 430.

Orfo I, king of Germany, autotes and appropriates the vestion ampire, in, 190. Claims by treaty the nomination of the pape of Rome, 196. Hefrate the Turke, A, 216.

Otho II deposes Pope John XII, and chastiles his party at Rome, iv.

200

Otto, bishop of Fridagen, his character as an historian, xii, 290, sate. Octobers, origin and history of, xi, 431. They obtain an establishment in Europe, 443.

Oscal is buildhed to the banks of the Danube, iii, 121.

Oxycinetist, in Egypt, monifish picty of that city, vi, 243.

В

Pacarar, his encomian on the emperor Theodosian the Great, v. 58.

Professor, how punished by the Scatinian law, will, 100. By Justiceian, 102.

Pagan, derivation and ravolutions of the term, bit, 410, other. Paganism, the ruin of, suspended by the divisions among the Christians, in, 410. Theological system of the emperor Julian, iv, 72.

- y neral series of the eccleus-rical strablishment and jurisdiction of hefore it was subverted by Chunciminy, v. 52. is renounced by the Roman senate, 100. The payer sacrifican puchibited, 109. The temples demolished, 105. The ruin of, deplored by the appliets, 123. Pagan corresumes revived in Christian clariches, Palantegers, Communities, Greek emperor, his reign, and 175. Is killed in the storm of Constantinople by the Turks, 280.

Palaclogue, John, emperor of Constantinople, xi, 272. Marries the daughter of John Contacorene, 382. Takes up arms against Camacurene, and is reduced to flight, 585. His contration, 886. Discord between him and his som, 451. His treaty with Pope Innocent VI, vii, 7th. His visit to Pope Uram V at Rome, Paleologue, John II, Greek emperor, his zeal, xii, 90. His voyage to Italy, 95.

Paleshqua, Manuel, associated with his father John, in the Greek empire, at, 454. Tribute exacted from him by Sultan Bajanet, 457. His treaties with Soliman and Mahemet, the sone of Bajaart VI, xii, Sk. His visits to the course of Europe, 77. Private motives of his European negotiations explained, 88. His death, Palenlogue, Michael, emperor of Nice, his brief replies to the urgous tions of Baldwin II, emperor of Constantinopie, 31, 288. His family and character, 315. His elevation to the throne, 318: His return to Constantinople, 324. Hinds and hamshes his young manmate John Laxum, 325. He is excommunicated by the patriarch America, 327. Associates his son Andrewicas in the currier, 530, His union with the Latin church, 351. Imnigates the revolt of St.

Palatiers and Bomberers, origin and nature of these distinctions in the rioman troops, in, 60.

Palermo taken by Belleurius be strategem, vii, 212.

Palestine, a churacter of, i, 39.

Pallatium of Rome, described, v. 95, mer.

Pollectur, the neary, sent by Valentinian to Africa to inquire into the government of Count Rumanus, countries with him in opposeining the province, iv, 500 +

Palegra, description of, but its destruction by the emperor Aureline,

11, 390,

Persons was the first teacher of the Stoic philosophy at Bene, will,

Panciett of Justinian, how formed, viii, 37,

Pawagper relation, import of that title in the Greek empire, v. 140.

Paramoa described, I, 56.

Pareters at Rome, by whom erroted, i. 71, mir. Is converted into a Christian church, v. 107. 五年2

Panispumer, Homen, described, v. 285.

Passer, where and when the manufacture of, was first friend our, it. 379

Papialian, the calchitated lawyer, cornied prevenion perfect, by the empener Sereme, i. 201. His death, 217.

Panelus, Cains, resions for concluding that he could not by the author of the Jac Papariannes, vin, 5, mare. Patients, proportion their number bore to that of the protestants in Englend, at the beginning of the last century, in, 255, note.

Para, king of Armenia, his history, iv, 316. Is treacherously killed by the Romans, 319.

Perubolosi of Alexandria, account of, viil, 278, and Paradon, Mahamet's, describal, in, 282.

Paris, description of that city, under the government of Julian, iii,

236. Situation of his palace, IV, 10, nate.

Parties substant by Artaveram king of Persiz, i, 2021. Incounting tion of government similar to the feedal system of Europe, Had. Recapitalistics of the over with Roses, 831.

Parekal II, Pope, his trouble one positifente, vii, 267.

Partieral manners, much better adapted to the fierceness of sear, thus to procedul impocones, iv. 544.

Paternal authority, extent of, by the Roman laws, viii, $1. Successive limitathms of, 53.

Parray, extraordinary deliverance of, from the Schwonian will San-America, 103.

Petricians, the order of, under the Homen republic, and under the emperson, compared, iii, 29. Under the Greek empire, their rank explaned, ix, 133.

Patrick, the infeter mint of braind, driveness of his name, vi. 220.

Parin; manager of the friends of Stilleho there, by the imagazina m Otympian, v. 240. Is calon by Alboin king of the Lombards, who fixes his residence there, viti, 128.

Poul of Samosata, bishop of Antiock, his character and history, it.

4.53

Paul, archbishop of Constantinople, his fatal control with his competitor Macedonio, iii, 393.

Peale, a Roman widow, her illustrious descent, v. 237, Wes owner of the city of Nicopolis, 26th. Her monatte and, vi, 2480

Paulitaine, origin and character of, x, 168. Are persented by the Greak emperor, 175. They revult, 177. They are reduced, amb tempoliment to Thruce, 181. Their present state, 184.

Paulite, wife of the tyring Minimin, wittens his ferority by guille countile; 1, 280, Auto.

Paulinur, master of the offices to Throdonus the Vounger, his crime, and execution, v. 424.

Paulinus, bishop of Nola, his history, v. 326.

Paulinus, patriarch of Aquilleia, tiles from the Lombards with his trescare, into the bland of Grado, viii, 127.

Paymens, the party of, among the Ruman civilians, explained will, 82.

Pollin, the city of, taken by Zingis the Mogal emperar, zi, 409.

Polygon controvers appraint by the Latin chergy, v, 226. And in Britain, 169.

Pella, the Journal of the Nazarenes actiled there on the destruction of Jerumlant, H. 278.

Proposesses, state of, under the Greek empire, v., 105. Manufectures, 108.

Penal Jawa of Rome, the abolition and revival of, viii, 94. Pendragon, his office and power in Heitrin, v. 569.

Penirentials, of the Greek and Latin churches, history of, xi, 16.

Pepis, king of France, mains the pope of Rome against the Londonts, in, 148. Hereiver the title of king by papal smetion, 152. Grants the exarchate to the pope, 156.

Pepus, John, count of Alinorhino, reduces the tribune Rienzi, and re-

Pepper, its high estimation and price at Hann, v, 2015, mate.

Percents, minutes of the emperor Commodos, his great caultuling and downfal, i. 142.

Pericabor, a city of Asyria, reduced and burned by the emperor to-

linn, iv, 170;

Person, king of Persis, his fatal expedition against the Nepthalites, vii, 126.

Percentions, ten, of the primitive Christian, a review of, B, 443.

Percent, amount of the frequence taken from that primer, I, 256.

Forum, the monurchy of, restored by Ariaxerars, i, 318. The religious of the Magi reformed, shid. Abridgment of the Persian theology, 220. Simplicity of their worship, 324. Ceremonics and moral precepts, 323. Every other mode of worship prohibited hat that of Zoroaster, 328. Extent and population of the country, 830. It military power, 352. Account of the audience given by the empire Cartie to the ambian does of Various, ii, 94. The thouse of liquited by the hintbern Nation and Hormon, 143. Galeria defeated by the Persian, 144. Napes overthrown in his turn by Galeria, 146. Articles of prace agreed so between the Persians and the Hormon, 153.

war between Saper king of, and the emporer Communias, iii, 130. Battle of Singura, 140. Saper invades Mempotamia, 204. The Persian territories invaded by the emperce Julian, iv, 181. Persage of the Theris, 180. Julian hazared in his reservit, 194. Treasy of peace between Saper and the emperer lowers, 200. Reduction of Armenia, and death of Sapor, 313, 515.

the silk trade, how carried on from China through Persis, for the supply of the Roman coupin, vii, 54. Death of Persist in an especialist against the white Ham, 156. Review of the origin of Cabacha, and his am Choroca, 398. Annaly of, after the death of Chouses H, viii, 154. Exclavisated brooks of, 550.

invasion of by the callul Almbuker, in, 566. Battle of Coopin, 265. Sack of Ctempton, 268. Conquest of, by the Saracon, 272. The Magian religion imprimited by Mahamattan, 493. The power of the Araba crushed by the dynasty of the Bowides, x, 82. Persia subdued by the Turks, 844.

Person, comquest of, by the Mogule, xi, 416. By Tamerland, xii,

171

Previous, his character and evaluation to the imperial throne, i, 167.
His funeral and apotheous, 167.

Percental Niger, governor of Syria, assumes the imperial dignity on the death of Pertinax, i, 178.

Petavius, cirrecter of his Digmass Theologica, viii, 260, ante-

Peter, brother of the eastern emperor Maurice, his injurious treatment of the citizens of Azimustians, and flight from theace, viii, 201.

P.rev I, exar of Russia, his conduct toward his sun, contrasted with this of Constanting the Great, iii, 112.

Poter of Arragon, assumes the kingdom of Sicily, xi, 844.

Peter, Burthstemy, his miraculous discovery of the Holy Lauce, si, 75. His stronge death, 76.

Piter of Courtenay, emperor of Constantinople, xi, 268.

Peter the Hermit, his character and scheme to recover the Haly Land from the infidels, vi. 1. Leads the first crossders, 24. Failure of his real, 72.

Petra, the city of, taken by the Persians, vii, 390. Is beneged by the Bomain, 331. Is demolished, 333.

Petrarch, his audies and literary character, xii, 121. And history, 324. His account of the rule of the ancient buildings of Rome, 417.

Pfeffel, character of his history of Carmany, iv. 212, note.
Phalina, Greelan, compared with the Roman legion, i. 21.

Planament, the actions, and finandation of the French monarchy by him, of doubtful authority, v. 360.

Pharar commands the Herull; in the African war, under Beliarius, wil, 163. Purmer Gelimes, 189. His letter to Gelimer, 191.

Pharisees, account of that seet among the Jews, it, 299.

Phasis, river, its course described, vii, 319.

Phonone, derivation of the name of that bird, vii, 321.

Philelphia, Prancis, his character of the Greek language of Courtantinople, xii; 115.

Philip 1 of France, his limited dignity and power, xi, 8.

Philip Augustus, of France, engages in the third crusade, xi, 145.

Philip, protonian prefect order the third Gordin, raised to the one

Philips, pretorian prefect order the third Gordian, raised to the empire on his death, i, 300. Was a favourite of the Christians, n, 451.

Philip, pretorian prefect of Constantinople, conveys the hishop Paul into bunishment clandestinely, iii, 394.

Philippicar, emperor of Constantinople, ix, 23.

Philopopelis taken and sucked by the Goths, 1, 399.

Philo, a character of his works, iii, 317.

Philosophy, Gucian, review of the various sects of, 1, 48.

Phineur, the situation of his pulsee, ill, 5.

Places is settled by Genouse, who trade in slum, xii, 5%

Placer, a centurion, is shown emperor by the disaffected troops of the entern cuspire, vill, 206. Murden the emperor Manrice, and his shildren, 209. His character, 212. His fall and death, 216.

Physicia decribed, 1, 39.

Photies, the see of Antonian, distinguishes himself at the siege of Naples, vii, 261. Is exilled, 263. Bettags his mother's vices to Belliurius, 264. Turns monk, 267.

Photiar, the patrician, kills himself to escape the persecution of Justi-

hian, viii, 522

Pharine, patriarch of Constantinople, character of his Library, x, 158.

His quarrel with the pope of Rome, si, 173.

Phramas, George, the Greek historian, some account of, all, 88, 200c. His embassies, 176. His fate on the taking of Constantinople by the Turks, 205.

Parredy, derivation of the name of that province, 31, 1, more.

Pigmies of Africa, ancient fabulous account of iv, 310.

Printe, Pourine, his testimony in favour of Jean Christ, much improved by the primitive fathers, ii, 445.

Polacy's fables, history and character of, vin. 306.

Pinns marins, a kind of silk manufactured from the threads spon by ahis fish, by the Romans, vii, 92.

Paper, a princess of the Moreomanni, repound by the emperor Gallie min, i., 420.

Pire, Calpharnias, one of the competitors against Gallienus, his illustrious family and character, i, 447.

Payar, the city of, destroyed by the Goths, i, 124.

Plexidia, doughter of Theodosins the Great, her history and marriage with Adolphus king of the Goths, v. 334. Is iniuriously treated by the nearper Singeric, after the death of her lamband, 555. Her marriage with Constantino, and retreat to Constantinople, vi. 2. Her administration in the West, as guardian of her am the support Valentinian III, 8. History of her daughter Homeria, 103. Her death and burial, 138, note.

Playue, origin and nature of this discusp, vii, 418. Great extent and long duration of that is the reign of Justinian, 425.

Plate, his theological system, 51, 204. Is received by the Alexandrian Inva., 316. And expounded by St. John the Evangelist, 318. The theological system of the emperor Julian, iv., 72.

Planese philosophy introduced into Italy, xii, 131.

Platasitti, new, an account of, ii, 182. Units with the heather prierts to oppose the Christians, 452.

Plantianus, pretorian prefect under the amperor Severm, his history, s.,

Plebeians of Rome, state and character of, v, 978.

Plies the Younger, examination of his conduct toward the Christians, 5 n, 417.

Pest burest, a tidiculous appointment, xii, 1926, min

Pograss, his reflections on the runs of marine figure, vii. 803:

Pointre, buttle of, between Clavis king of the Franks, and Afanc aing of the Coths, vi. 1835.

Pollectic, buttle of, between Stiffelio the Roman general, and Alarle

the Goth, v. 198.

Polyclains of the Romans, its origin and effects, 1,46. How acceptant for by the primitive Christian, ii, 288, Scepticism of the grouple at the time of the published of Christianity, 355. The Christians "why more edians to the pagette than the Jews, 287.

the ruin of assended by the divisions among Consultant, in, 410. Theological system of the emperor Johan, iv, 72. - texters of the pagen societisatical establishment, v, 192. He vival of, by the Christian mode, 130. Pemperatur, project of Rome, proposes to drive Alaric from the walls by spells, v. 292.

Possperance Revision, general under Managins, defeated and killed by Contantine the Great, ii, 227.

Pompey, his discretional exercise of power during his command in the East, i, 100. Increase of the tributes of Asia by his conquests, 257. Pontiffy, pagun, their jurisdiction, v. 92.

Pearifer Mexicus, in pagan Rome, by whom that office was exercised. iii, 281.

Popes of finne, the growth of their power, is, 181. Revolt of from the Greek emperers, 137. Origin of their temporal dominion, 150. Publication of the decretals, and of the fertitions douation of Communities the Great, 150. Authority of the Gramma emperors in their circulus, 195. Violent distractions in their election, 197.

modeling of their authority is Home, xin, 260s. Their mode of election sentred, 2003. Schlam in the popular, 5477. They are quire the absolute dominion of Home S87. The ecclesistical go-

vermment, 991

Population of Home, a compatition of, v. 286.

Porcars, Stylice, in complexey at Rome, xii, 388.

Posthamus, the Homan general under the emperor Gaillienus, defends Coul against the incursions of the Franks, i, 415. Is killed by his musicomi troops, ii, 229.

Power, absolute, the caurein of how alreshed, at 135.

Profest of the success bed chamber, under Constanting the Great, Inc.

office, III, Got.

Prefects of Reme and Constantingle, under the emperors, the nature of their offices, iii, 45%. The office revived at Rome, all, 28%

Presentation, present of Rome under Valentinian, his character, iv,

Protected hands in the Homan sumy, an account of, 1, 168. They sell the empire of Rome by public mexico, 171. Are disgraced by the emperor Severin, 1860. A new establishment of them, 130. Authority of the posterion prefect, 200. Are reduced; mele spiritoges abolished, and their place supplied, by the Joyours and Herculeum, it, 161. Their desposate courage durcher Marganine, 252. Are totally impressed by Constantion the Great, STEED, Personally prefect, revolutions of this office under the emperors, iii.

4.1. Turir functions when it became a civil office, 44-

Pretars of June, the nature and tendency of their edicts explained, Villa, Lilla Prescions, a form of decention unknown in the temples of paganism, ili, Sor. Use and abuse of, 300.

Presignation, influence of the discreme of, on the Samoons and Turks, Personner, among the primitive Christian, the vilice explained, il. 233 ...

Prester John, origin of the remartic stories concerning, viii, 244. Printer, no destinct order of men among the ancient poguin, it, 550 Hi, 281, Pricitly, Dr. the ultimate teminary of his spinious pointed out, a.

IBB, woth,

Printigeniture, the morngative of unknown to the Roman law, viii.

Peince of the waters in Persia, his office, via, 503, noce.

Pencellian, bishop of Avila in Spain, is, with his followers, put to death for heresy, v. Sh.

Princes, the historian, his convertation with a captive tench, in the comp of Attile, vi, 59. His character, 67, note.

Prizens, the Greek general, his successes against the Avars, viii, 203. Proba, widow of the prefect Petrosius, her flight from the mck of Rome by Alaric, v. S21.

Probat assumes the imperial dignity in opposition to Florianus, H. 70.

His character and history. 72.

Probat, pretorian predict of Illyricum, preserves Similars from the Quali, iv. 330.

Product Secount, his emits sy from the empens Disclation to Numer king of Persia, is, 131, Precide, John of, instigates the revolt of Sittly from John of Arion, xi, 544.

Proclus, stury of his extraordinary brazen mirror, vii, 115.

Product, the Platonic philosopher of Athens, his superstition, vii. 140.

Procumels of Asia, Achein, and Africa, their office, in, 48.

Processe, wife of the Greek emperor Michael I, her martial imiting tions, iv. 36.

Processon, his history and revolt against Valera empena of the Emt. iv, 243. Is reduced, and put to death, 250. His account of the tentament of the emperor Accading, v. 412. His account of Baitain, vi. 401. Character of his histories, vii, 61. Accepts the ofnce of secretary smiler Belimmins, 162. His defence of the Roman archers, 163. His account of the devolution of the Armen province by war, 35%, Providen, origin of the sers of, in the Roman civil law, viii, 80. Proceeding, his extraordinary character, and his rebellion against Propin in Ciuni, II, 87.

Pradictor is encient history, a philosophical encolution of, iii, 203. Promuter, under what circumstances the Roman law enforced the fulfilment of vnit, 83.

Prometys, inasterogeneral of the infantry under Thresholds, in mined by the comity of Ruffrus, v., 140.

Property, personal, the origin of, viii, 70. How ascertained by the Roman laws, 71. Testamentary dispositions of, how introduced,

Problem, their office among the primitive Christians, ii, 330.

Propount described, III. &.

Proterior, patriarch of Alexandria, his martial episcopacy, and violent death, ville, 310.

Protestante, their resistance of oppression, and committed with the practice of the primitive Christians, iii, 249. Proportion of their number to that of the catholics, in Franco, at the beginning of the hast century, 253, note. Estimate of their reformation of popery.

Protosebastor, Import of that title in the Greek empire, x, 120.

Protects, the book of, why not likely to be the production of King Solomon, vip. 195, non.

Propinces of the Roman empire described, i, 30. Distinction between Latin and Greek provinces, 60. Account of the tributes recrived from, 257. There number and government after the sest of empire was removed to Constantinople, iti, 50.

Praise, compared of, by the Cutomans, 27, 484.
Praises, emigration of the Goths to, 3, 362.

Pulctoria, litter of the emperor Pheodolius the Younger, her character and administration, v. +16: His lessons to her brother, 419. Her contests with the ampress Eurocia, 424. Is proclaimed empress of the East, on the death of Throdesius, vi, 84. Her death and commitation, 190.

Purple, the royal colour of, among the ancients, for surpassed by the madern discovery of cochineal, vii, 90, maz,

Quality the inroads of, punished by the emperer Constantine, it. 1901. Revenge the treachamos marder of their king Gabinius, Iv.

Question, evitimal, how exercised under the Bourse emperior, iii. 79

Corner, historical review of this office, ili, 71,

Countilian brothers, Maximus and Condisons, their history, 1, 142. Swintillier, brother of the emperor Chrudiur, his ineffectual effort to impeed him, ii, 15.

Quintus Corrier, an attempt to decide the age in which he wrate, it 306, aute.

Quirily, the effect of that went when opposed to coldiers, it 252, more Radegamer, king of the Gothe, his formidable in come of halv, v. 213. His savage character, 217. Is reduced by Sillicho, and out to death, 220.

Radger, king of the Varni, compelled to failed his matrix social also Hyatinas, Dy a British Incoins, vi. 402.

Rammalay, the mouth of, now observed by the Turks, in, 474.

Rands, a chieftain of the Alemanni, his unprovoked attack at Mostan timmin, iv., 281.

Surveyed, the ancient city of, described, v. S07. The emperor Hamarins fixes his residence there, 210. Invasion of, by a Greek fleet, ls, 110. Is taken by the Lambards, and recovered by the Venstians, 146. Final conquest of, by the Lumbards, 147. The exur-hate of, bestowed by Pepin on the pope, 156.

Resident of Theologie, the character, his character, at, 33. His route to Constantinople, 4S. His ball behaviour there, 51.

Research, count of Tripoli, betrays Jerusalem into the hands of Salanm, 21, 135.

Royal, Abbe, mistaken in asserting that Constanting the Great sunpressed pagen worship, iii, 404.

Robels; who the most investerate of, x, 177.

Secured, the first catholic king of Spain, converts his Gothic schools, vi. 299.

Referenties from populy, the amount of, estimated, z, 188. A tecret reformation will working in the entormed churches, 1972.

Rein-deer, this animal driven morthward by the improvement of elimate from cultivation, I, 3471

Relies, the wordin of, introduced by the munks, v, 124. A valuable cargo of imported from Constantinuple by Laure IX of France, al.

Romigian, history of Rheims, converts Clevis king of the Franks, vi.

Resentance, its high esteem, shif extensive operation, among the primitive Cirrettant, n. 316.

Recurrection, general, the Mahometan doctrine of, in, 177.

Retieves, the made of his combat with the secutor, in the florian amphithestre, i, 154.

Accorner of the primitive church, how distributed, ii, 910; iii, 991. Of the Remail empire, when removed to Constantinopic, a review of, ni, 82.

Rangem, city of, in situation, in, 11-

Rherin discribed, a 35.

Rhanaus, the Persian general, defeated and killed by the emperer Henelin, vili, 249.

Riveric, the study of compenial to a popular state, vii, 144.

Rhor, the banks of, factified by the corporar Valentinian, iv, 293.

Rinder, account of the colores of it; 425. The knights of it, * 458

Rushard 1, of England, engages in the third counse, si, 145. B.

thus the island of Cyprus on the house of Lutigina, 183, His unity to the exhautations of Fulk of Namilly, 188.

Richard, munk of Connerster, his literary character, v. 365, sate.

Riciner, Count, by history, vi, 165. Permits Majorian to somme the imperial dignity in the western entain, 169. Enjoys supreme power lander cover of the name of the emperor Libras Severe, Marges the danging of the emperor Ambendus, 195. Sucks Home, and kills Anthonius, 217. His death, 215.

Monres, Norholas di, his berth, character, and history, ali, 531. Reads, Roman, the construction and great extent of 1, 81. Robert of Courtenny, emperor of Constantinoute, 11, 270.

Reders, count of Franciers, his character and engagement to the first crumde, ri, 32.

Robert, dake of Normandy, his character and angagement in the first cannole, at, 52. Heralind by the commes of the church, 31. Rederic, the Gothic king of Sprin, his delet and death by Tank the Aran, in, 473;

Reduçans, probable origin of her character, to Rose's Royal Convert, vi, 40%, 40%, mile.

Reger, count of Socily, his exploits, and conquest of that island, a. 281

Rayer, son of the farmer, the first king of Sicily, v. 368. military schiesements in Africa and Greece, 311.

Refer de Flor, sugare in in auxiliary in the service of the Greek emperor Andronicus, ai, 847. His assessionion, 550.

Romanas I, Lecapanna, emperer of Canatantinople, in, 58. Rememer II, suspence of Constantinopie, ic, 61.

Remanus III, Augurat, emperor of Contembranie, ic., 69.

Semana IV. Diegenes, emperor of Communicopie, in, 78. In defresed and taken prisoner by the Turkish miles. Alp Aralan, a.

556. His treatment, deliverance, and death, SSS. Remanue, Count, governor of Africa, his courset administration, iv. 501.

Rosensur, gurernor of Bosrs, beings it to the Saratens, iv. 354.

Remy, the three periods of its decline pointed out, it, Perfect. Its. prospercies elecarritances in the second century, 1. The princigal conquests of achieved under the espublic, 2. Companie under the emperor, 5. Military establishment of the emperors, 19. Navel force of the empire, 28. View of the proteinness of the empire, 30. Its gracual extent, 41. The minor and internal prosperity of the empire, in the age of the Antonious, accounted for, 45. Treatment of the provinces, 50. Benefits included in the freedain of the city, 5%. Distinction between the Lutin and Greek provinces, 60. Prevalence of the Greek, m a scient the language 63. Numbers and condition of the Rosson states, rid Populacines of the empire, 68. Unity and power of the concernment, 69. Morroments of Rossus prehiterrane, 70. The Roman magnificance chiefly displayed in public buildings, 557 Petral pull affine in the serger, 77, Public roads, 811 Great suprovements of agriculture in the welliam committee of the empire, 84. Arts of history, 87. Commerce with the East, 88. Contemporary representation of the presidently of the corples, 90. Decline of courage and gonius, 61; 512. Beriow of public affairs after the bartle of Action, 93. The imperial power and digmity configured to Augustus by the muste, fish. The various characters and powers vested in the emperier, 103. General idea of the imperial system, 109. Abortive attempt of the senate to resome its rights after the murder of Caliguia, 116. The emperies associate their intended successes to pamer, 119. The most hapmy period in the Roman history pointed out, 126. Their pecuin merry under their tyrants, 129. The empire publicly sold by american by the preturben guards, 171. Civil were of the Remans, how generally decided, 192. When the army first rectives negative pay, 256. How the citizens were relieved from usuation, bid. General extinute of the Roman revenue from the provinces, 200. Alientes flowing from the mocession to the empire being elective, 27% A summary seview of the Bourse hislary, 313. Recapitalistics of the war with Parthin, 381. Invation of the provinces by the Goths, 397. The office of armor revived by the emperor Denius, 400. Peace purchased of the Goths, 406. The emperor Valeries taken prisoner by Super, fring of Persia, 40to. The popular conceit of the thirty tyrants of Rome investigated, 414; Familie and pestilence throughout the empire, 485: The city terrified against the inecade of the Alemania, ii, 27. Hemarks as the alleged sedifies of the efficient of the unit under Amelian, 50. Observations on the penceful interrograms after the death of Aurelian, 5%, Colonies of harbarrane introduced into the provinces by Proton, 82 East. lattice of the public games by Carlinus, 100. Teesty of peace between the Persons and the Romani, 153. The last triumph velelexied at flore, 158. How the importal courts same in he transferred to Milan and Natomedia, 158. The protorion bands superseded by the Jovian and Plentalein grands, 163. The potent of the seemte annihilated, 162. Four divisions of the empire under four conjunct princes, 168. Their expensive entablishments call for more fundamental tures, 169. Disclettan and Maximian abdicate the empire, 170. Six emperors existing at our time, 208. The senare and people apply to Constantine to deliver them from the symmy of Masswiller, 220, Constanting enters the city victories, 233. Laws of Comtantine, 250. Constantine remains sale emperor, 2004. History of the progress and establishment of Christianity, 265. Protections of the bitling of Barne, whence dedicted, 539. State of the church of Rome at the time of the persecution by Naro, So4. Narrative of the fire of Rome, in the reign of Nero, 403. The Christians persecuted at the incendiaties, 405. The memorable effects of Dioxierian and his ampriates against the Christians, 4690

Ye are account of the imilding and establishment of the rival city of Constantinople, iii, 4. New form of administration or thinks there, 30. Division of the empire among the som of Communities, 135. Establishment of Christianity at the national religion, 290. Tunnelst exclude by the rival history. Liberius and Falls, 830. Paganius restored by Indian, iv, 84. And Christianity by Jovian, 227. The empire divided into the East and West, by the emperor Valestinian, 242. Civil indianties of Valentinian, 259. The entity avaines of the charge restrained by Valentinian, 470. History contest of Damasus and Unions for the historic of Rome, 274 Great earthquake, 838. Hame, the emperor Theodosius visits the city, v. 55. Inquiry into the same of the corruption of morals in his teign, 87. Heview of the pagen establishment, 92. The pagen religion renounced by the senare, 100. Sacrifices prohibited, 103. The pagen religion prohibital, 116. Triumph of Henorius and Stifichin over Alaric the Goth, 201. Alaric encurry males the walls of the city, 255. Retrospect of the state of the city when besieged by Hannibal, ibid. Wealth of the subles and magnifecture of the city, 262. Character of the nubles of, by Ammianus Marcel firms, 287. State and character of the common people, 278. Public distributions of bread, &c. 280. Public baths, 282. Games and spectacles, 284. Attempts to sicertain the population of the city, 28d. The citizens suffer by famine, 290. Playue, 292. The estreat of Alasto purchased by a runsom, 295. Is again beneged by Alaric, 303. The senate unites with him in electing Attalns emperor, 305. The city mired by Alanc, and plantered, 311. Comparison between this event and the sack of Rome by the emperor Charles V, 322, Alano quits Rome and rutages Italy, Sun. Laws passed for the cellef of Rome, and Italy, 357. Trimmps of Homen's for the induction of Spain by Wallis, 35%. Is preserved from the hands of Attila by a cancon, vi. 191. Indication of the rois of the empire, at the death of Valentinian III, 172. Sank of the city by Genseric king of the Vandals, 151. The public buildings of, protected from depredation by the lens of Majorian, 174. Is sucked again by the patricism Birimer, 217. Augustulus, the but corperer of the West, 222. The decay of the Roman spirit remarked, 231. History of mountie meditations in, 244. General observations on the history of the Roman empire, 405.

Italy compared by Theodoric the Ostrogoth, vii, 13. Properly of the city under his government, 29. Account of the four factions in the civens, 76. First introduction of silk among the Romans, 91. The office of count suppressed by Instinsion, 152. The city tective Belliarius, 294. Siege of, by the Godin, 154. Distremini siege of, by Totila the Goth, 362. Is taken, 366. In recovered by Belliarius, 370. In again taken by Totila, 376. In taken by the cannot Narses, 388. Extinction of the smale, 380. The city degraded to the second rank under the cannot of flavours, 400. A caview of the Boson laws, viii, 1. Extent of the datchy of, under the cannot of Ravenns, 146. Missistent of the city, 158. Postificate of Gregory the Great, 164.

store the government of the city new modelless under the pyperature their revolt from the Greek emperous, is, 142. In attacked by the Lombards, and delivered by King Papin, 146. The office and mark of exarchs and patricians explained, 153. Recombin of Charlemagne by Pope Adrian I, 154, 135. Origin of the temperal power of the popes, 156. Mode of electing a pone, 195. Is adenated by the francess, s. 61. Prosperous positions of Los IV, 64. Is besieged and taken by the emperor Henry III, 302. Great part of the city barnt by flobert Guiscard, or the cause of Pope Gregory VII, 201.

the history of resound, after the capture of Constantinousle by the Terks, xii, 256. Ferrich and German emperors of, 258. Authority of the popes, 200. Resteration of the regulation form of government, 277. Office of smator, 285. Wars against the neighboaring cities, 297. Institution of the jubiles, 310. Revolution in the city, by the tribune Rimai, 291. Calcuminationing from the school of the papacy, 369. Statutes and government of the city, 380. Porcaro's complexey, 383. The ecclesiantical government of, 39tt. Reflections of Poggius on the rain of the city, 395. Four principal causes of its min specified, 400. The Colineum of Titus, 418. Restoration and ornaments of the city, 425.

Remilds, the hetrayer of Femilian the Avan, her small treatment by them, vin, 227.

Réamond, daughter of Curimont king of the Gepide, her muriage with Alison king of the Lombards, vil. 119. Complex his number, 1994. Her flight and death, 181.

Rosse, the Scijnking kingdom of, farmed, x, 372.

Rudbeck, Olans, summary abridgment of the argument in his deleaster, $, 351.

Rafinar, the confidential minister of the superor Throdonias the Great, stimulates his cruelty against Thesalonica, v. 68. His this successed administration, 180. His death, 187, 188.

Rapider the Hun, his actilement in Hungary, vi. 28, Ranic characters, the satisfacty of, traced, i. 252, mare, Receis, seigh of the momenthy of, a. 219. Geography and trade of, 228. Navel expeditions of the Resister against Constantinople, 228. Heigh of the case Swatsalms, 233. The Resister converted to Cirishanity, 238. Is conquered by the Mogule, si, 429.

Ruccoe, a Persian nobleman, a saying of his, expressive of the danger of living under despute, $120.

Randas, his character of the monks of Capmia, v. 167, 168;

S

Saledlier the hereineth, his opinions afterward adopted by his antogenist, iii, 257. His doctrine of the Trinity, 331. The Habellians pute with the Tritheists at the council of Nice to everyoner the Arisms, 254.

Tables, their astronomical mythology, iv. 249.

Sahingas obtains the command of the eastern provinces from Constantins, iii, 211, Sublatar, general of the East, is defeated by Theodoric the Octografia, kine of Italy, vii, St.

Sabjanear, origin of the sect of, in the Remm civil law, viir, 30.

Simblures, account of that sect among the Jews, II, 299.

Selectis, his birth, promotion, and character, hi, 1998. Conquery the hingdom of Jeruralem, 196. His ineffectual single of Tyre, 140. Siege of Acre, 142. His negatiations with Richard I of England. 149. His death, 151.

Salarar, precent of the medical school of, z. 278.

Salie laws, history of, vi. 343.

Saliner, the prefect, and friend of the emperor Julian, declines the offer of the distlem on his death, iv, 204. Declines it again on the death of Juvius, 935. Is retained in his amployment by the emperor Valentinian, 241.

Sallast, the historian, by what finds he raised his palice on the Quirinal hill, w, 1518; mure.

Salanz, the retreat of the emperor Diocletian, described, ii, 177.

Selecter, his account of the distress and rebellion of the Bagandas, vi. 144, marc.

Sampaides, the Saucen slynning of, x, 81.

Samericant, persecution and extinction of, by the emperor Justinian, viii, 323.

Someof the prophet, his ashes conveyed to Constantinople, v, 125,

Armenia, and seizes the country, i, 43i. Defeats the emperer Valentin, and takes him prisoner, 43th Sets up Cyclades as successur to Valentin in the Roman carpins, 437. Overruns Syrin, Cilicia, and Cappadocia, 488. His death, ii, 41.

Sper, the son of Hormony, is crowned king of Parsis before his birth, iii, 1835. His character and early heroism, 1965. Haracter the centern provinces of the Roman empire, 189. Eastle of Singara, spains the empeter Constantins, 140. His son heroidly killed by Constantins, 142. His averal attempts on Nisites, that. Concludes a truck with Constantin, 145. His haughty propositions to Constantins, 200. Invades Mesopotantia, 200. Relates home, 210. His parafel overtures to the conpenter Julian, iv, 143. His constantine at the successes of Julian, 186. Haraces the retreat of the Romans, 186. His treaty with the emperor Juvian, 200. His reduction of Atmonia, and death, 511, 315.

Sarana, various definitions of that appellation, ix, 258, once.

Surarens, successions of the caliphs of, is, 382. Their rapid conquests, 361. Conquest of Persia, 872. Siege of Damuscun, 385. Battle of Yermak, and conquest of Syrin, 406. Of Egypt, 425. Invesions of Africa, 448. Their military character, x, 144.

Sardar, the Persian general, joins the Avars in besieging Countantiople, viii, 243. Revolts to the emperge Herarlius, 247. .

Sections, expulsion of the Vaudals from, by Marchiller, vi. 200x. Is conquered by Zano, the heather of Gelimer king of the Vaudals, vii, 181. Is surrendered to Relianue, 186.

Semultians, memorable defeat of, by the conjume Cares, ii, 53. Their numbers described, iii, 116. Brief history of, 122. They apply to Constantise the Great for constant a against the Goria, 126. Am expelled their country by the Limigantos, 126. An estimal by Constantins, 200.

Savage manners, a brief view of, i, 300. Are more uniform than those of civilized nations, iii, 341.

Serge, the Goth, plimaters the comp of Stifiction and driven him into the hands of the empower at Raymers, v. 232. Insults Alarie, and occasions the seeking of Rome, 210: Is killed by Adalphins him of the Visignitia, 238, 340.

Saturninus, our of the competities for ampire against Galllerus, his observation on his involution, 1, 445.

National and I had been a similar the emperor Probat, in the East, is driven mto exhellen by his troops, il, 56.

Sarrows, assisted, an accuming of viv. 200. Their piratical confidence distribute, 2008. Their investions of Gaul charlend by the Bourson, 200. How converted to Christianity, vi. 272. Descrit of the Saxons on Britain, 381. Their bental decolution of the country, 892.

Semiderber, prince of Albania, his history, xii, 168. Sestimon law of the Rimons, account of, viii, 100.

Scopers, the patrician family of, how reduced under the emperate, ill, 40, nor.

Solim in trilgion, the crigis of traced, ii, 934.

Server guincinie to fone change, a, $5.

Selections, their national character, vii, 278. Their furburous inroads to the statery empire, 28th. Of Dalamitic, security of, a., 1986.

Source and Pierr, the nations of, lime mixtu printed, ir, 1992, 2002. Incarious of Beiting Ly, 1994.

Regilians, this many regordy applied to policed traines or furtherium, 1, 432. Their particularities of 17, 841. Enters and hamilarities of Scythia, 853. Revolutions of v. 210. There made all star, vi, 53.

Schartist, another countried the infantry shales she experies Valence, his successful expenditure against the Gotto, iv. 405. Is killed in the buttle of Hadricounts, 411.

Solution, the highest of the usaryer Jovinson, is associated with blin in this resumed imperial dignities, v. 348.

Schastewerster, Impact of that title in the Greak employ, x, 119.

Seen, in Normands, the histop and chapter of, all contrated, aid, 265,

September, the pitterns of, septent their independency continuely against Actual rate, is 0.00, mate.

Figure , empared of Ally visits, is with his while court converted by the localts, will, 373

VOL. RIL.

Solder, his scatterious character of transchstantiation, ix, 112, care.

Selectus Nature, number of cities founded by him, i, 329, Selbet, Turkish dynasty of the house of, x, 314. Division of their enpire: 868.

Source of Rame is reform. I by Augustus, i, 97. Its legislative and judicial powers, 100. Abortive attempt of, to resume its rights after the convict of Catagala, 116. Its legal jurisdiction over the convers, 160. Its subjected to military despotent, by Severus, 201. Women crecladed from this assembly by a solomn law, 242. The form of a course arcting, 287. Measures taken to support the arctionity of the two Gerdians, 288. The senate elect Maximus and Balbims emperors on the deaths of the Gordian, 290. They drive the Alamanni out at Italy, 448. The senates forlist to exercise williary employments by Galbierne, 410. Elect Taking, the father of the senate, support, it, 63. Prengative primed to the senate, by the election, 65. Their powers and authority annihilated by Diocletlan, 160.

- amount of the commer gold, or anciomery fere gift of, to the pritime of, to the emperors, for the restoration of the alter of victors, v. 95. The pages religious renounced, 100. Debates of, so the promule of Alarin the Goth, 205. Genealogy of the tensions, 207. Pages a decree for patting to death Serena the wislow of Billioho, 200. Under the influence of Alarie, elects Attalus emperors, 20%. Trial of Arrandus, a pretoring profess of Goal, vi., 20%. Sermoders the source of power of Italy to the emperor of the East, 207.

Sta

extinction of that illustrious aroundly, vii, 589.

restoration of, in the to-elfili century, all, 277, The mormhly resolved into single magistrates, 535

Servering, his tementation for the last of a personified delty, with Security, listory of his worship, and of his temple at Alexandeia, v, 109. The temple destroyed, 111.

Server, nince of the empires Theodorius, married to bis general Stillelto, v. 152. Is smally strangled by order of the Roman small, Newtonit, legal and military import of that term, ai, 211, 4000.

Never September, general of the Panamina September, assumes the people on the duath of Pertinex, J. 181. His conduct toward the Chairtians, 5, 447.

Severance 54 menurages Officers to comme the dominion of Italy, vi, 223 His bady, how alsowed of, 231, sale.

Several is declared Corner on the abdication of Disciplian and Maximian, ii, 189. His defeat and death, 202.

Secure is appointed general of the sacalty in Gual under Julian, ill." 320. Shipherds and warriors, their respective moder of life compared, iv,

Steiner, a set of Mahameters, their distinction from the Sumites, xi,

334

Sibreta, extreme coldness of the climate, and miserable state of the natives at, iv, 330. Is seized and exempted by the Tuttaes, at, 42ft.

Sirily, reflections on the distractions in that island, i, 451. Is callquered by the Saragem, a, 5th Introduction of the silk manufacture there, 140. Explorts of the Normany there, 200. It conquened by Count Roger, 281: Roger, son of the former, made king of 308. Reign of William the Bad, B34. Reign of William the Good, 326. Conquest of by the emperor Henry VI. 329. Is subdued by Charles of Aujou, si, 338. The Zeulien Vispers. 344

Sidential Apollimites, the part, his humogroup treatment of the coulttion-tax, iii, 90). His simperter of Thousantic king of the Vinigothe in Gaul, vi. 138. His panegyric on the emperor Avitus, 164. His panegyme on the emperor Anthemics, 195.

Signerand, king of the Burgundians, murders his one, and is emonized, vi. 328. Is overwhelmed by an army of Franks, 329.

differencers, Paul, his account of the various species of storm and marble employed in the church of St. Sophia at Constantinople, vii. LEU, mic-bills, first manufactured in China, and then in the small Greeken laland of Cons, vii. 90. A peculiar kind of all procured from the pinns marms, 92. The silk-worm, how introduced to Greece, 17. Progress of the manufacture of, in the tenth contary, a. DIO.

complete, persecutor of the Paulicians, becomes a procelyte to their only more, a, 17th

Similar, king of Bulgaria, his exploits, 8, 200.

Sepren Matter, the hermat, his extraord may made of life, vi. 905.

Name and and a material of the light mater.

Simplicites, one of the hist surviving paper philosophers of Athens, his wittings, and character, sii, 154, 150

Singura, battle or between the emperor Countention, and Sapor king of Perin, ili, 160. The city of, unload by Super, 210. In yielded to him by loving it, 211.

Singerin, licetter of Sants, is made sing at the Goths, v. 554.

Singulation a permittenily taken by Haran chargen of the Avera, vin. 1377-

Drawing is perfidiously taken by Haim chagen of the Avara, viii,

Stragg depows and musters his father Changes II, king of Penia, elli, 253. His treaty of proce with the empeter Herschip, Sindult, a Gathle king of figure, personnes the Jews there, will Sivery V. Page, character of his also nintration, xii, 392.

3,14

butto, custing percention of the original sense of that appellation, y,

Stores, among the Romans, who, and their condition described, i.

diagram, present, imposed on captives by the harbarous nations, vi-

Morgers, some, corrative of the begunder, tale of, vi. 32.

Swarza, explore of, by Tamerlane, vo. 20,

Shellery, differentiated, refrections on the involutions of, vi, 417.

Maffernia, the mores extractly of a, 80.

Salery, Roman, their obligations and machine, i, 15. When they first received regular pay, 25th,

S. freson, Saltion, computers Asia Minor, v. 374. Fixen his residence at Nice, 373. New taken by the first emouters, 21, 58. Buttle of Dorylaum, 600

His allionce with Lille on the son of Baltiter, his character, air, 40.

the Greek emperor Manuel Palsologus, 54.

Solomon, king of the Jons, not the stubur of the book which bear. the same of his Window, His 21th Ressons for supposing he did not write nither the book of Ecclements of the Property, ch, 195, Solomes, the camick, relatives the Roman province in Africa from the depredations of the Moore, vii, 200. Revolt of his troops at Carthage, Mar. I defeated and holled by Amulus the Moor, SELE.

Esigman, caliple of the Surgery, analestakes the siege of Constantinus le, x. H. His enurmous appetite, and death, 11.

Somme, in the Malsometro milgion, their tenms, in, 254.

Superture . Spring emilosopher, believeded by Constanting the Critical, or a charge of kinding the wind by mugic, iii, 364, sale.

Sachia, the widow of Junio II, her amountary against the emperer Tibernis, vin. 137.

South's, St. finindiation of the climich of, at Constantinopie, va. 116. In description, 118. Is converted into a month, vii, 230. Service, the Arab, commands the first slepe of Constantinople, 2, Sophramia, a Roman mutuo, Libe horself to escape the violence of Maximum, in 217, mic.

Sories Severarmen, a mode of Chairman distriction, enjoying from the par-gum, vi. 525, and.

Shell, uncertain opinions of the ancient philosophurs - to the introcets. lity of, ii, 20%. This doctrine more generally received among the implerous uniform, and for what return, 20%. Was an taught by Move, ibid. Four different prevailing discremes as to the edicio of, willing Stiffig meter Competer destroyed by the Greek empeter The philos, 1, 67.

Sours, the province of, describer, i, 30. Great revenues mind from - 415.

Spain, review of the history of, v., 330. It invaded by the harmaner mathem, 352. The invenders compared by Wallia long and the Goths, 557. Successes of the Vandala diere, vi., 12. Expedition of Theodoric king of the Visigoths into, 161. The Christian seligion received there, 296. Hevelt and martyrdem of Hermansgial, 197, 198. Persecution of the Jews in, 201. Legislative asremillion of, 375

- acquintions of Justinian there, vii, 203,

- state of, under the emparor Charlemagne, Ir. 181. First introduction of the Arabe into the country, 467. Defint and death of Hoderie the Gothic king of, 174. Company of, by Mars, 178. Its prosperity under the Saraceus, 480. The Chronica faith there, supplanted by that of Mahamet, 387. The thrown of Carners filled by Abdalmhnan, 34.

Studium, Olympic, the races of, communed with those in the Roman circus, vii. 75.

State mest, carperer of Constantinustr, in, 35.

Stocker, a freedum of Dominilla, manufactes the enquire Dominion, n. 410.

Stephen, count of Chartres, his character, and organization the first crurade, si; 52. Deserts his mannard, 72.

Steplen, St. the first Christian unresy, mirroralous discovery of his body, mid the minutes worked by it, v. 128.

Suplies the evenge, sent by the Greek corporer Justinian II to aster-minute the Chemuniter, is, 22, Stephen III, Pope, solicits the sid of Pepin king of France, against the Lombards, under the character of St. Peter, is, 48. Crosm Klos-

Pepin, 192

Sallisto, the great general of the western empire under the emperor Honories, his character, v. 150. Puts to death Ruham the tyrappiral perfect of the East, 157. His expensions against Alaric in Greece, 184. His diligent nadravant in thick his progress m Imly, 194. Befinite Africa er Polleula, 190. Davin him out of Italy, 201. His primuple of Boone, 2016. His preparations. to oppose the investion of Madegrapus, 23%. Bedoors and pure him to death, 420. Suggests the claim of Alirie in the Removements. 206. Is put to dritte at Havanna, $35. Her meanur personned, 254:

Street heads the residual troops of the emporee Junicianing Africa, on,

Steading, buttle or, been con Jalien and the Alemania, sit, 1923. Successions, defends the Roman finition against the Gotto, v. 454.

Sarti, the origin and renown at, i, 410, stopole application and pilled by the Human , city 107, 108;

Sulprice, Service, was the highest improved of the Ramon purispen-PHINCE, THE U.S.

Solone, origin and Import of alls; this of entern covernmenty, or, numer, description of the popolis of, in Guerrat, and by distriction by Silter Malmond, 4, 207. Tall to the Saw, the worship of, introduced at Bosse by the emproor Edegabation, i, 2005. Was the peculiar object of the devotion of Constantion the Great, before his conversion, iii, 232. And of Julian after his spostacy, iv, S5.

Sare, the city of taken by Constanting the Great, ii, 224.

Summifour, can of Russia, his reign, x, 298,

Suring continue, the confederacy of, have for similar to that of the as-Sured of Mars, the second weapon of the Hans, history of, vi, 48.

Sporrow, king of the Franks and Bargundians, his character, vi, 312.
It conquered by Crovis, 814.

Solls the dictator, his legislative character, vin, 56.

Syllamo the essent, his special to the senate, recommuning the election of the two Cordany to their approximation, 1, 2574

Sylvania, inter of the profess Bullions, Landson in security, v. 135,

BULLOW

Sylvanian, general in Gant under Communities, is raised by frenchery,

iii, 190,

Sylverius, Pope, is degraded and sent into calle by Bellinsino for an attempt to being the city of finme to the Golda, vii, 130. Life death, 357, note.

Symmether, his secount of the pagen conformity of the emperor Constantias, sharing his visit to Rome, iii, 600. Pheads in behalf of the encion pagen religion of Rome, to the emperor Valentinian, v., 96.

Zynesius, bibbop of Ptolemeis, recommunicates the president Andronicus, iii, 200. His extraordinary character, dust cont. His mivide to the extrem emporer Arcadius, v, 167.

Symolo, previousal, in the primitive churches, institution of, E, 284.

Nature of those assemblies, iii, 503. See Conseile.

Syrio, its revolutions and except, i, 39. Is reduced by Chartees II, king of Persia, viii, 219. General description of, iz, 402. Is compared by the Saracens, 476. Invasion of, by Pumerlane, all, 20.

Syriar language, where spoken in the greatest purity, I, 335, max.

Syriams, dake of Egypt, surprises the viry of Alexandria, and expels

Athematic the primate of Egypt, iii, 279,

В

Tahari, the Arahian historian, account of his work, in, 502, sore. Taharas, the island of, in Upper Thebais, is satiled with monks, by Pachamius, vi. 245.

Table of emerald, in the Gothic training in Spain, account of, v. 557.

Turker, empiror, his election and character, by 6th.

Taratas the historius, his character of the principles of the partico, i, 125, see. The mountain of the episades, 313. His character as a historius, 314. His account of the ancies German, 352. His history, how preserved and transmitted down to 10, ii, 62, see.

His account of the persecution of the Christians at the necessitiaries of Rome, 404, 405.

Tarries of Lee and Constantine, character of x, 98. Military charactur of the Greeks, 140.

Taying, battin of between the summh Norws, att. Tails king of the Crouns in Italy, vii, 385.

Takerier, The Saturen dynasty of, 2, 80,

Tameriane, his birth, reign, and compuests, all, S. His hoter to Enjuzze, 17. His conference with the docture of the law, at Aleppo, 22. Defeats and takes Bajuset promote, 26. How kept out of Europe, 57. His triemph at Samarcand, 40. Dies un a journ't to Chinn, 12. His character, illid.

Toerral the crusuler, his character, ti, 35. His bold behaviour at Constantinople, 51.

Termine, secretary to the empress frene, made entrince of Communities opin, ix, 164. Presides at, and frames the decrees of, the second council of Nice, 105.

Taril, the Arab, his descent on Spann, in, $72. Defruit and kills Roderic the Gothic king of, 474. Fin disgreez, 480, 486.

Torragona, the city of almost destroyed by the Franks, i. 415.

Lartner, See Sentinant.

Tarrary, contem, compact of, by Tamorlane, xii, D.

Parine, and his son Proculms, destroyed by the base are of Ruffara, the confidential minister of the emperor Throdusius, v. 141.

Fourse the central, is busished by the tribumal of Chalcedon, iv, 180

Lever, how the Roman citizens were exemetated from the burden of, i, 256. Account of these instituted by Augustus, 261. How raised under Constanting the Great, and his mecessus, iii, 89.

Layer, stage of, by Malomet, ix, 310.

Terar, the last king of the Goths, defeated and killed by the exemple Nation, vit. 589.

Triemzebut, an Abatic moule, loses his life at Rome, in on attempt to prevent the combit of the gladiators, v, 200s.

Temple of Jerusalum, lummo, 3, 412. History of the emperor Julian's aftempt to restore it, iv, 103.

Tempon. See Zingu.

Lighters is occupied and fortified by the Participm, s. [78.]

Terrollian, his pleas explication in the expected grammation of all the pagent wiirld, ii, 507. Suggests desettion to Christian soldlers, 527. more. The approximate account of two silicts of Tiberius and Alarens Amonitus, in farme of the Cheatiers, 444.

Transmissing the Boman laws for regulating, vin. 27. Codfelly, 80. Foreign assumes the empire in Gual, at the hatigettem of Victoria, it, 30. Berrays his legious into the hands of Authins, 41. Is led in trium in by Aurgian, 47.

Jeason, smant, dispute concerning the light of, at, 287,

Planer, the island of, granted by Verrigero, at a sentennat for his Samm mustlinnien, vi., 240.

James and estimated and the Romans described, v. 24-

The our legion, the martyrium of sporryphal, ii, 463, 464, White.

Theft, the House laws relating to, viii, 88, 94, 98.

Themes, or military governments of the Greek empire, account of, a, 101.

Themisties, the urster, his excamium on origines teleration, iv, 231. Throdoner, his birth and elevation to the throne of Italy, vin 210. His disgrapful treatise with the corperor Justinian, and recold against them, 214. His deposition and double, 222.

Thendeberr, king of the Franks in Australia, joins the Goths in the siege and destruction of Alitan, vii, 249. Invades Baly, 231 His death; 152.

To leave, a Gothic mines of Spain; copy of his treaty of submission to the Sameent, in, 451.

Thorstory, empress, her hirth, and carle history, vii, 64. Her rearriege with Judiman, 68. Her tyromy, 71. Her wirnes, 73. Her death, 7d. Her forthude during the Niks sedition, 86: Account of her palmer and gardens of Hermann, 13th. Her mous concern for the conversion of Nuhis, sin, 567, Thenders, wife of the Greek empowe Thoughilm, her binary, in, 41. Restored the warning of images, 166. Provokes the Publichies to robellion, s. 178.

The stray daughter of the Greek emperor Constantion IX, her bestury, Physica, widow of Baldwin III, Ling of Jerosalem, her adventure as the concurred of Andronicus Compenis, is, 90.

Threaties Angeles, desput al Epiron, seizus Peter of Courternay, emperor of Constantinople, triangle, si, 960. Posters himself of The official, 271.

Physical acquires the Gothic sceptus by the marger of his brother Totimumd, vi. 158. His character by Sidenia, 250. His exp-dition into Spain, 161.

Physicarie, the am of Alaric, his prospectors rough over the Valgotha in Grail, vi. 198. Underppy fates of his daughters, 97. Is prevailed on he Alina to join his lovers against Attilla, LUL. Is killed at the nattle of Chalon, 117,

Thealers the Ostrogath, his birth and education, vii, 2. Is forced by his troup intera revolt against the surperor Zeno, 7. He undertakes the compact of Italy, 11. Reduces and kills Chineer, 15. Is acknowledged king of Italy, 16. Review of his administration, 17. His visit to Rome, and care of the public buildings, 30. His celigion, 36. His remover, and death, 50.

Thereforepolie, the city of, in Arminia, built, v. 129.

Phenomias the Great, his Historian between a Roman prince and a Parthian manarch, iii, 98, were. The province of Marin preserved by his valente, iv, 551. Is associated by Gration as empress of the East, 492. His birth and character, ibid. His prodent and succonfai conduct of the Gothie war, 429. Defeats an invasion of the Ourogoths, 457.

his treaty with Musimus, v, vil. His baption and effect.

to establish esthodes with, 14. Purges the city of Contractinools from Ariamon, 23. Enforces the Nicens docting throughout the East, 24. Convenes a council at Constructionple, 29. File edicis against here y, St. Receives the fugitive family of Valentinian. and marries his owner Galla, 51. Defents Maximus, and visits Rome, 55, His observer, 55. His limity to the city of Anticch. 62. Historical treatment of Thesa lunics, 65. Suprime to the penance imposed by St. Ambrides in his severity to The saleshin. 70. Resture Valentinian, 73. Counts John of Lycopolis, the hermit, in the intended war against Eugenios, 70. Defeate Eugenius, 84. His death, 85. Procued a smatural renunciation of the pay as wilgion, 100. Abolishes pagen sites, 103, Prohibits the pirguo religion, 11th

Torredorne the Younger, his birth, v. $11. Is mid to be left by his faither Areminis, to the cure of Jendegerd king of Persia, 113 His education and character, $16, His marriage with Endochs. 421. His was with Persia, 626. His pious loy on the death of John, the number of the West, vi, 2. His treaty with the Hum. 10. His armies deficated by Attisla, 22. Is reduced to accept a peace dictated by Artila, 60. Is opposed by the embosies of Artila, 65. Emissisy of Maximia to Artila, 68. Is prive to a scheme for the estationarium of Attila, 61. Attila's embasiv ta him us that occasion, 89. His death, 84.

his peoplexity at the miligious fends between Cycli stal Nestorius, vii, 2005. Banisher Nesborne, 267.

Thembriar III, emperor of Canatzationpic, in 24.

Threedorms, the father of the ampeter, his successful expedition to Britain, iv. 209; Suppreses the revolt of Firmus the Moor, in Africa, 306. In beliesded at Carthage, 308.

Thendenian patriarch of Alexandria, his competition with Grian, how decided, viti, 561. His asymmetries at the court of Recomment, 364.

Threateries, the dearon, grantism of the surjector Henefitte, smirdered by his brother Constant H, ix, 14.

Thendering, the lover of Antonina, detected by Bellisting vil 260. Turns mank to escape her, 261. His death, 268.

The drains, president of the council of Hierapolis under Communities, his ridiculous flattery to that emperer, iv, 32.

Thereform, wife of the Greek consent Romanus II, poisons heelt him and his father, by, 69. Her connection with Nicophurus Phoen, 63. His murder and her saile, 63, 66.

Theophilar, emperor of Communicapie, in 41, His America was with the caliph Momento, z, 67,

Thosphilar, sechbinder of Alexandria, destroys the temple of Serapis, and the Alexandrian library, v. 111; Assits the projection of co. Chrysostom, 401: His invective as nine him, 409, male,

Thoughtfully his prime with many from the emperor Constitution to the East Indies, ili, 279.

They deliver, the Persian, his unfortunate history, iv. 13. Thereprese, or Edward, some second of, U. 50%

The company, the strain of fortified by the emperor Justinian, vii.

Threatmen, relition and manners there, v, 64 Cruel treatment of the ritizens, 85. Persons of Theodorius for ble wivers, 70.

Physiolizade, princers or Bayeria, married to Authoris sing of the Lambards, vii, 354, 155.

Tibbut, count of Champagne, engages in the fourth croside, si, 189. The way the Cappudoctan, his revolt against the Greek emperer Michart II, and cruel punishment, as, 40.

Thomas of Dannichs, his exploits against the Saranens when besieg-

- ing that cire, ir, 892,

Thomas, St. account of the Christians of, in India, viii, $46. Persona-tim of, by the Portuguese, 3 17.

There is colonised by the Russianer, in the reign of Probus, ii, 84. The finguine Gotha permitted to settle there by the emperne Valence in, 391. In rayages by them, 591. The Goths settled there by Theologies, 438.

Targermand, king of the Vandals, his character, vi. 281. Three Chapters, the famous dispute concerning, vill, 825.

Thundering Legins, the story convertainty, of suspicious veracity, in, 445.

Therite is adopted by Augustus, i. 149. Reduces the Pannonium, 180. Herbares Computeria, Mid, ears, Suspicions story of his edica in favour of the Christian, it, 444s.

Tiberar is invested by smitin II, as his successor in the empire of the East, viii 135. His character and death, 138, 129.

Timerian, marrier general of the army under the emperor Thendollar, is dispraced and extend unity states in, v. 581.

Tiwally the tint compiler the municipal Protection architecher of Alexauthin, and morands him, will, 22th,

Dates, mirroralines offe of speech becomed on the estimites, whose tengum had been ent out there, ef, 200, 204.

Tiendates, Ling of Acceptals, his mineracter, and history, ii, 138. Is restored to his kingdom by Diocirtim, 140. Is expelled by the Personn, 144. It restored again by treaty between the Romons and Persons, 15th. His conversion to Christianity, and death, this 137

Thus admitted to chare the imperial dignity with his father, Vespurian, Japan Boy, milton of the Turky, his reign and character, 2, 345. Ha rescues the caliph of Bagdad from his memira $49.

Telefo taken by the Arabs under Turik, ix, 478.

Teleration, universal, its happy effects in the Russas surpire, is 4th. What wets the most intolerant, 328, sans.

Telling, objections to his account of the vision of Antigones, in, 2017, mary.

Termond, and of Threstoric king of the Visignatio, attends for father against Attila king of the Huns, vi. 111. Battle of Challens, 116. Is acknowledged king on the death of his father in the field, 1925. to killed by his brother Theodoric, 158.

Testure, how admitted in the criminal law of the Romans under the emperous, nit, 716.

Totals is elected king of Italy by the Goths, vii, 255. The instice sufmoderation, 359. Beneger and takes the city of floor, 262. In induced to some Rome from destruction, at the instance of Belieu rus, 189. Takes Rome again, 178. Planders Sicily, 277. Battle of Pagina, 585. His death, 387.

Teciunides, the Smaren Jynesty at, a, 82.

Toursuments preferable exhibitions to the Chympic games, at, 501-Tours, battle of, between Charley Marcel and the Streaming s. 25.

Teamders, in Germany, is over-you, and occupied by the Tempty, pe-

Traditions, in the primitive church, who, it, 474.

Project, emperier, his constant of Darie, i. S. His conquests up the East, 9. Contrast between the characters of him and Hadring 19. His piller described, 76. Why adopted by the emperor Natur. 123. His instructions to Pliny the Yaquiger for his conduct towards the Chintians, ii, 418. Degription of his firmes bridge over the Dundle, vii. 125, sett-

Trayer, Count, his trutherous murder on Pers king of Assemir, iv.

Programmentation, the doctrine of, when established, vi. 482.

Trebraced, the city of taken and plandered by the Goths, i. 425. The daker of, become independent on the Greek empire, 21, 250. Is wishled to the Turks, all, 249.

Tribigile the Ostrogoth, his rebellion in Phrygia against the seasons

Accadina, v. 886.

Tr. Sour, the office of, explained, i. 103.

Tellmann, his perim and character, said, 51. Is employed by Justiman to reform the code of Rouma laws, 37.

Lyandy, the ingolexious doctrine of, in, 152). Is unlently agitated in the schools of Alexandria, 327. Three systems of, 529, Decritims of the coursel of Nice concerning, 354. Different farms of the dischory, 888. Frame need to support the doctrine of vi-9900

Triple, the confederacy of, cruelly appreciad males the government of Count Romanus, iv, 301.

Tringion, religious war conserning, viii, 314.

Troops, Homes, their discipline, 1, 15. When they first excernil pays 250. Came of the difficulty in leaving them, it, 64. See Lewise Palatines, and Preseries bands,

From the situation of that city, and of the Greens stamp of honogers, described, iii, 10.

Turin, battle of, between Constantian the Great and the Hentenness of Mecentus, ii, 225.

Tursums, king of the Gepula, his hosemable reception of Allain the Lomband, who had alone his sen in battle, with $117, 118.

The La, their origin, vii, 284. Their primitive ordinations, 487. Their company, 288, Their alliance with the copy to Latinian, 1998. Send musiliaries to Heraclina, citi, 246.

Tartor excited by their menacing Europe, 203. Their military character, 208. They extend themselves over Asia, 233. Beign of Malmud the Germeride, 294. Their manners and emprassion, 540. They subdue Perus, 344. Dynasty of the Schlakians, 356. They investe the provinces of the Greek empire, 351. Reformation of the extern calendar, 266. They of the partial Miner, 370.

their empiral city. Nice, taken by the considers, xi, 37. The seat of government removed to Leanium, 104. Valous and consquere of Zenghi, 121. Character of Salian Nonrediio, 192. Compared of Egypt, 125. Origin and history of the Ottomans, 431. Their time pureaga into Europe, 436. Their time pureaga into Europe, 436.

Take the city of Communicatele, 232

Largest, the remainer of, by whom, and when written, at, 7, more. Twelve Tables, review of the laws of, will, 6. Their severity, 90.

How the esiminal code of, and into disuse, 93.

Firmula of Bone, the popular conceit of the thirty investigated, i.

Tyre is believed by Saladin, at 140,

Tyrder assigned to the clerge as well by Zoroaster as by Moses, i. 326, was. Were first granted to the church by Charlemagne, iv. 178.

V

Valuator, primer of the Alemanni, is sent prisoner to Spain by the couperer lution, iv. 18. His sen mandered by the Romana, 281, Palent, general of the fillythe freezier, receives the title of Casar from Limino, i, 247. Lowe his new title and his life, 249.

Falon, the brother of the authorse Valentinian, is mercialed with him in the empire, (v., 240). Obtains from his limiter the centers portion of the empire, 242. His timidity on the revolt of Processin, 248. His character, 255, 256. Is baselized by Endarm, and patronners the Ariana, 265. Is viadicated from the charge of parametries, 267. His select against the Egyptian monks, 277. His war with the Goths, 323. Receives the supplient Goths into the Roman territories, 581. His sear with them, 394. Is defeated and killed at the battle of Hadrianople, 403, 410. His calegous, by Libanius, 411.

Falcur, the Arian bashop of Murea, his crafty pretermen to divine ecvelation, iti, 351.

Valenties, a brie province in Britain, actical by Phesoheims, iv, 200.

Valentieses I, his election to the empire, and character, iv, 230.

Associates his bestier Valent with him, 240. Divides the sample into the East and West, and retains the latter, 242. His excelly, 256. His civil institutions, 259. His edicts to restrain the avarice of the charge, 270. Christian the Alemanni, and fortifies the Rhine, 282, 283. His expedition to Illerieum, and death, 231. Is visualizated from the charge of polygamy, 384.

followings II is invested with the imperial transments in his mution's arms, on the death of his futher, ly, 1996. Is refused by 18, 'Ambione the privilege of a clouch for him and his mather Institute, on account of their Aties principles, v. to. His slight from the invasion of Michigan, 48. Is restored by the emperer Theodorin, 78. His character, 74. His death, 76.

Falcattains 111 is established emperes of the West, by his country Theologies the Younger, vi, 6: Is committed to the gundlamhip of his mother Placiain, 8. Flies, on the invasion of Indy by Attilla-130. Siends an embassy to Attilla to purchase his retirest, 131. Murders the patricism Attins, 130. Revides the come of Petronius Maximus, 180. His death, and character, 141.

Valentinians, their confund there of the divinity of Jones Christ, vin, 270, mote.

Falteria, empress, widow of Galerins, the unfortunite fates of her and her mother, ii. 240.

Valorima is elected separa under the emperor Decito, i. 400. His abreation to the entities, and his character, 110. Is defrated and taken prisoner by Sapar king of Percia, 436: The reculment, 441. His incomintent behaviour agrees the Christians, il, 4,78.

Vandair, See Crather,

Africa under Gernerio, 14. They raise a neval force and invade thaly, 147. Sark of Home, 151. Their mayal depredations on the coasts of the Mediterranean, 187. Their conversion to the Christian religion, 271. Persecution of the catholics, 280.

- expedition of Bellacina equint Gelimes, vii, 167. Comquest of, 186. Their name and distinction last in Africa, 490. Re-many of their ratios will found in Germany, 198.

Paramer. See Hobrany.

Farungians of the North, origin and history of a, 201.

Vary nion, the infant on of the course device, his history, by 214. Value , John, his long and prosperime reago at New, 11, 271, 284. ctic character, 30%

Vegetrer, his sumarks on the discussive of the Human discipline - the time of Theodorius the Great, v. 18.

For, the singe of that city, the era of the Homes army first receiving regular pay, I, unit.

France, filameterior of that republic, vs. 195. In larger state under the examine of Revenue, viii, 146. Its grounds and princepter at the line of the fourth crimide, xi, '19). Allower with Feater, 194. Divides the Green empire with the French, 24th,

Perstine, his made of steering the law of the twelve tables respecting personal lendle, vill, 89.

French, company, the restors of Lee, descript Zeno, set, 5: Her meta-lent life, U. Person, single of, by Communities the Great, H. 226. Hartle of, between Stiliche the Human general, and Alarie the Geffi, v. 200. Verres, why his panishment was findequate to his offences, vin, bu.

Verperion, his printence in sharing the imperial dignity with his an Titue i, 119.

Verials, Roman, their number and peculiar office, v. 95.

Forkare, the Hamma general in Illyricans, essents the purple, and surers have an alliance with the Gautish unaper Magnessina, ill, 150. Is reduced to abilicate his new augusty, 155.

Furnishments the government over the legions and province of Gand, H. 30.

Figure, her stance and altar, in the senate-house at Robe, alcombed, v. 95. The same peritions the Universe emperors to have it researed, 96.

Figilianius, the presbytes, is almost by Jerum for opposing monkish supertition, v. 12%, aute.

Figures, interpreter to the embany from Theodoniae tim Vounger to Antile, is privy to a scheme for the assessmation of Artile, vs. 68. Is detected by Artile, 81.

Figure purchases the papel chair of Religions and his wife, 230.

Intigates the emperor fauthries to evenue the compact Haly, 578.

Pine, its progress, from the time of Homer, i. 85.

Feyld, his fourth sciogue interpreted into a prophecy of the coming of the Missiak, iii, 270. Is the most ancient writer who mentions the manufacture of silk, vii, 91.

Finding, the Cothic chief, is treatherously mustered at Community

Belle, 95, 58.

Whilehold profess profess under the emperor Maximin, put to death by order of the wrate, i, 256.

Fetellius, emperus, his character, i, 129.

Friley, general of the barbarrans under Theodatas king of Italy, is by his troops declared hing of Italy, via, 222. He healings Belliarins in Bone, 224. It berest to raise the siege, 246. He is beinged by Belliarins in Havenna, 250. It taken prisoner in Revenue, 257. Conforms to the Atlantasian faith, and is homogrably settled in Asia, 258. His embary to Charoes king of Perin, 222.

Pittungs, the architect, his senurits on the buildings of Rome, v. 287.

Pener, derivation of that accellation, in, 288, mas.

Uk wire description of that country, is 30%.

I'lldie, king of the Hang, reduces and kills Gaines the Goth, v. 197. In driver back by the vigilance of the imperial misibless, 415.

Uphilas, the specific of the Goths, the phoes labours, vi. 289. Propogated Arismen, 278.

Opens, the lawyer, placed at the head of the council of state, under the suspense Alexander Severno, i. 243. Is mardered by the pretoriou grands, 249.

Unreales have abolished the right of female inhesitance, viii, 76. How evaded, 82.

Politice prefer the laborum of Constanting to the ungel of Licinius, 16, 281, etc., His reflections on the expenses of a siege, vi., 416, aste. Foreigness, king of South Refula, his limitation of the masses for assistance against his greaters, vi., 351.

France, empered of China, his exploits against the Huro, iv. 964.

Canal, antiently famous for its Gethic temple, 1, 289.

Urban II, Pors, petrotises Peter the harmit in his project for recovering the hely land, xi, it. Exhants the people to a crusule, at the council of Clermont, 10.

Urban V. Pops, remarks the papel court from Avignos to Rome, 8ii, 565-

"Urbas VI, Pope, his disputed election, xii, 568.

Ursaciar, master of the offices under the emperor Valentician, occusions a revolt of the Alemanni by his partimony, iv, 277.

Urnesser, a Roman general, his treacherms conduct to Salvames in Gaul, iii, 191. Is appereded in his communical over the epitera provinces, $11. Is sent back again to conduct the war with Persia under Sabinius, iiid. Is again disgraced, 219.

Urami, history of the Roman family of, xii, 320.

Process, treasures of the empire under Constantino, unjustly put to death, by the tributal of Chalcedon, iv. 48.

thrung. See Interest of memory,

w

Walardiane, the present, descendants from the Roman settlers in us., clear Daris, ii, 20, sote.

Water is settled by British refugers from Saam tyrotony, vi. 585, 303.

The burds of, 398.

Walls is chosen king of the Gotta, v. 355. He refuses the harbarous invaders of Spain, 257. Is settled in Aquinain, 258.

War and robbery, their difference, is, 25th. Evolutions and military exercise of the Greeks, 151. Military character of the Sameun, 154. Of the Franks and Latios, 157.

Warharton, hishop of Gloucester, his literary character, iv. 104, east.

Its labours to establish the mireculous interruption to Julian's building the temple of Jerussian, 106, 107, may.

Warne, hattle of, between the selten Amerith II, and Ludisland king of Hungary and Poland, vo. 161.

Worker, the Greek general, defeated by the Surmeton at Alixandia, in Sast.

What, the average price of, under the mecanion of Constantino the Great, ic, 146, were.

Whitaker, Mr. remarks on his account of the Irich descret of the Scottish nation, iv, 200, sare.

White, Mr. Arabic profesor at Oxford, character of his econom at Banquois's lecture, x, 22, sace.

Wilfrid, the spoule at Sunsy, his benevolent establishment at School, vi. 596.

William I, the Bad, king of Sicily, v, 729.

William H, the Good, king of hirty, x, 726.

Wendendle, the use of, from whence derived, xi, 200.

Were, the use of, expressly probabiled by Malsonier, in, 276.

Window of Salamon, when, and by others that book was written, in, 216.

*Folkering, great prioce of Hassis, marries Auto, designifier of the *emperor Romanns, 2, 135. His convenient to Unitalizate, 257.

Wasner, in hereditary minimization, allowed to evertise an origina, though incapable of subordinate state of e.g. 1, 247. How content by the Remain civil face, will, 57. The Voconium law, however link, 82. Are not reclaided from paradise by Maltomet, ix, 281.

х

Armston, his description of the descript of Mesopotamia, ie, 16st.

Xeenes, the situation of his bridge of bours for passing over to Europe, pointed out, iii, 9:

v

Termak, hattle of, between the Greeks and the Saracens, in, 403.

Tendegree, king of Persis, his reign the era of the full of the Samurlan dynasty, and of the religion of Zorozster, in, 200.

Tenal, callph of the Surreers, in, 342.

7

Zabergan invades the eastern empire with an army of Bulgarians, vii, 402. Is repulsed by Bellimina, 403.

Zarberg, Pope, pronunces the deposition of Childeric king of France, and the appointment of Pepin to succeed him, is, 152.

Zanz, brother of Gelimer the Vandal murper, conquere Sardinia, vii, 181. Is recalled to emits his brother, 182. Is killed, 184.

Zane, a city on the Schwonish court, reduced by the considers for the republic of Venice, at, 200.

Zongdo, Salten, his valoue and emequests, et. 121,

Zeno, emperor of the East, receives a surrender of the imperial government of the western empire, from the senate of Rome, vi, 227.

The ricinitudes of his life and reign, vir, 4. His Hematicon, viii, 311.

Zender, spren of Palmyra, her character and listory, ii, 32.

Ziern, first emperor of the Mogule and Tarines, parallel between him and Arilla, king of the Hone, et, $2. His proposal for improving his compacts in China, 54. His high and early military exploits, 21, 402. His laws, 406. His investor of China, 408. Carines, Transactions, and Persia, 416. His death, 415.

Zirani, a suble Sarmitian, is made king of that nation by the emperor

Constantion, iii, 200,

Zober, the Sameo, his bravery in the invasion of Africa, is, 451.

Zee, first the consulting, becomes the fourth wife of the emperor Lee the philosopher, ix, 57.

Zar, wife of Romanna H1 and Miconel IV, emperor, ix, 70.

Zarcenter, the Persian prophet, his high unliquity, i, $10, note. Abridgment of his thenlugy, $20, 321. Provides for the succeragement of agriculture, $25. Amigus vythes to the pricess, $25, mars.

Zareras, his representation of the oppression of the Entral contribution, EL 98.

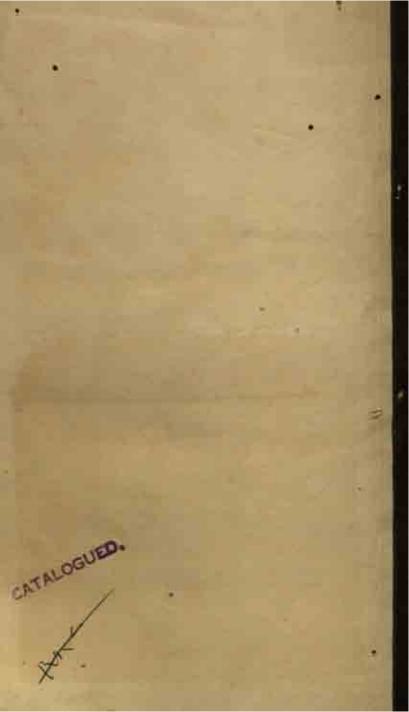

Zurngling, the subsemer, his conceptions of the Eucharist, a, 189.

THE SEL. (3.8) Co. Polishers, Edinbergs.

CATALOGUED

GOVT. OF INDIA
Department of Archaeology
Department of Archaeology

Please help us to keep the book clean and moving.

5-8-148, N. SELM.